An adult sweetheart banquet sponsored by the Training Union was held in the fellowship hall of New Hope church Friday evening Feb. 15 with 69 in attendance. Bill Thompson was emcee. Music was furnished by Lou Halloway at the piano, and love songs were sung by Priscilla Beegley, Bill Thompson, Jean Nobinger, Cecilia Clement and Linda Christian.

Billy and LInda Christian were chosen as King and Queen. Jerry and Mary Kay Bishop had the pleasure of placing the crowns on their heads and presenting the gifts.

Norman Beegly, speaker for the evening, chose "Love and Marriage go together like Horse and Carriage" as the theme for his talk. He had several ideas on how to keep the love light burning, and he challenged each couple to put as much effort into being a good sweetheart now as they did before marriage.

While Priscilla Beegly sang "Bless This House" Mr. Beegly did a chalk drawing.

Youth of the church served the food and kept the nursery.

The newest addition to the Sunday Worship Services at New Hope, is the church for pre-school children, led by Doug and Elaine Burnett.

Builders plan parade of homes

Shelby County is the major site in the plans for the Birmingham Association of Home Builders' annual "Parade of Homes." A village of twelve lots in northern Shelby County will begun within the next 45 days, according to chairman Thurman Wilson.

Plans for the 1974 edition of the Parade of Homes got underway this week, with another village of six lots to be built in Center Point. The opening date for the event has been set for late summer.

The Shelby County Commission

District Two

There are four Commission Districts in Shelby County. Each district elects a man to represent them.

The four Commissioners and the Chairman (Probate Judge) allocate Millions of Dollars of the Tax-Payers Money. The operation of this County is a BIG Business and should be treated like a big business. For this reason you should want Honest and responsible people who know how to operate a successful business of this mangitude.

If the people of District Two have the confidence and trust to elect me to this office I will see that every one of your dollars is spent like it came out of my own pocket.

THIS IS ONE CAMPAIGN PROMISE THAT WILL BE FULL—FILLED!

A NEW VOLKSWAGEN ALWAYS SEEMS TO COME ALONG WHEN YOU NEED IT.

Volkswagen has thrown away the book again.

The result is Dasher, an amazing new car that's going to take them years to imitate.

Dasher is both economical (about 25 miles per gallon) and powerful (0-50 in 8.5 seconds). It holds five comfortably. It has front-wheel drive that gives you more control and traction than any conventional car you've ever driven. It's equipped with Skidbreaker, which prevents most skidding under adverse conditions. It's designed for low maintenance and easy repair. And it's covered by the VW Owner's Security Blanket.

The new Volkswagen Dasher. Throw away your old ideas about what to expect from a car.

VMS WINNERS - - Kim Middleton (center) was named Miss Valentine 1974 at Vincent Middle School's first Miss Valentine Pageant. Runners-up are Tammy Acker and Donnie Weldon.

Valentine pageant names beauties

A new tradition was begun at Vincent Middle School with its first Miss Valentine Pageant. For the twenty- three contestants, the day began at nine with a tea in the school's library. Each girl also participated in a five minute interview with the judges who were Merrill Mullins, Miss Smith, Mrs. Arnold, Mrs. Tom Stoker, and Jim Strickland.

At 12 the contestants and judges were presented to the faculty and student body in a special assembly. Misstress of Ceremonies for the occasion was Mrs. George Holcombe, Jr. Selection of the top ten was made after all the contestants appeared in sportswear fashions. The semi- finalists were then presented in evening gowns. Entertainment during the pageant was provided by students - Delaine Isbell, Connie Cox, Susan Lewis, and the Black and Gold Diggers - and by special guest Tom Stoker, Minister of Youth and Music at First Baptist Church in Columbiana.

An excited and surprised Kimberly Middleton was crowned Miss Valentine 1974. Kim is thirteen years old, an eighth grader, and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaish Middleton. First runner-up was petite Tammy Acker, an eighth grader and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Acker. Donnie Weldon, a sixth grader and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Weldon, was second runner--up.

Drunk program cuts death rate

"Response by State Troopers to "Find The Drunk", the Department of Public Safety's newly- initiated enforcement program to rid Alabama's highway of the drinking driver, has resulted in 795 arrests during its first month of operation", according to Colonel E.C. Dothard, Director.

The Director said that in the "Find The Drunk" program, each patrol district commander surveys his respective district on a continuing basis and assigns Troopers to areas where drinking drivers are likely to be present.

"We know that drinking and driving is and has been one of the State's most serious highway safety problems, and we are gooing to take whatever action is necessary to combat it. When we find a drinking driver, we are going to arrest and prosecute him to the letter of the law, and leniency will not be extended to anyone", Colonel Dothard said.

"Our records show that accidents and injuries are down, and deaths have declined twenty-five percent since the program was started", the Director said, "and we are happy about it. However, we must not let this give us a false sense of security and relax our guard. We are going to continue our enforcement effort, and ask for each highway user to cooperate with us."

Will curb shortages--

Mayors discuss water

Water today, water tomorrow and water a half century from now was considered by 14 municipal, county and state officials meeting in Clanton last week.

Mayors from Montevallo, Pelham, Wilton, Jemison, and Thorsby discussed potential sources of water for their respective communities with Probate Judges Conrad M. Fowler of Shelby County and George D. Smith of Chilton County and with representatives of the State Health Department, the Farm and Home Administration, the Soil Conservation Service, Planning Directors, sanitarians and Tax Assessors.

Discussions centered around solving immediate water shortage problems in Calera, Jemison and Thorsby. An equal amount of time was devoted to proposals for bringing in large quantities of water for the entire U.S. 31 - Interstate 65 corridor.

Wilton's Mayor Troy Mims and Montevallo's Mayor Ralph Sears indicated their respective cities had an abundant supply of water, adequately meeting current needs.

Mayor Mims reported that Wilton's water system is already supplying water to homes in three counties, Shelby, Bibb and Chilton. Mims noted that the Wilton system is only a short distance from the Mars Hill area near Jemison.

Montevallo's Mayor Sears reported that Montevallo's newly expanded system is bringing water to an area in Dry Valley that is close to the Jemison system and also is supplying water to a part of the Spring Creek region that is near the Calera system.

The possibility of joining the four systems, Montevallo, Calera, Jemison and Wilton was discussed, but no agreement was reached.

Possible long term methods of supplying large quantities of water to the entire region included pumping water from either the Cahaba River or the Coosa River and the installation of a bi-county purification plant.

Technicians attending the meeting indicated that a plant punping 100 million gallons of water a day would be required to supply the area within a few years, if the present rate of population growth continues.

Officials attending the meeting were not optimistic about federal grant money. They did indicate that relatively low cost loans might be available with a probable interest rate of five percent.

Other mayors attending the afternoon meeting were Paul Yeager, Pelham; Charles Bennett, Jemison; S.T. Bentley, Thorsby.

Officials from Chilton County included Olin Fields, Clanton, Soil Conservation Service; Guy McKee, Clanton, Chilton County Tax Assessor and Terry Collier, Sanitarian.

W. Paul Yeager, Shelby County Planning Director; Ed Waldrup, Farm and Home Administration; and Joe Downey, the State Helath Department also were present.

TORNADO SCENE - - One of more than 75 friends and neighbors who aided in clean up operations cuts up a fallen tree at the Harold Miller dairy last Friday. The dairy was heavily damaged by a tornado Thursday night when high winds struck the Vincent area.

Architects meet fuel crisis with innovative buildings

The fuel shortage is forcing architects into some fresh thinking on how to design buildings which use energy more efficiently.

This is reported in an article in the current edition of Petroleum Today, by Architect Richard G. Stein, who says:

"The growing shortage of fossil fuels has forced a reexamination of many attitudes and architectural forms we have formerly accepted unthinkingly."

Stein says many building methods and designs not only waste energy, but also lead to "monotonous standardization."

"Countless buildings of all types," he says, "have the characteristic sealed glass skin on all sides -- apartments, colleges, high rise office buildings, for example. Two and four story suburban office buildings are truncated versions of their taller city cousins. Merchandise centers, shops, department stores and supermarkets -- the same buildings spring up in New Mexico, Vermont and Florida with little thought given to energy needs and external conditions that vary from one location to another."

"We're looking with renewed interest at the ingenious ways ancient builders used natural forces," Stein writes. "The thick walls of an adobe pueblo soak up the heat from the sun during the day while keeping the interior cool. During the evening when the temperature drops, the walls release the heat, warming the inside. By sunrise, the walls have cooled, and the whole cycle begins again. This is an effective and subtle form of solar heating."

He contrasts this with the design of many modern buildings where there is no difference between the northern, southern, eastern and western exposures.

"The rooms on the south or west sides can be extremely uncomfortable when the sun is on them, summer or winter," Stein points out. Characteristically, there isn't a window that can be opened. Massive use of air conditioning has been the only way out."

Here is what Stein recommends:

"The outer covering of 'skin' of a building should be able to maintain the difference in temperature between inside and outside with a minimum of heating or cooling. It should allow light to enter in the amount and location desired. It should allow outside air in the amount and location desired. It should allow outside air in when it is desired and keep it out when it isn't.

"When the sun, wind, rain or snow bear down on the surface, the skin should admit only the desirable elements and convert the others into a form of energy that can be used, possible as heat."

Mrs. McDaniel funeral held

Funeral services were held from Bolton Funeral Home February 21 at 2 p.m. for Mrs. Don McDaniel (Jane Moon) a former resident of Columbiana, and the daughter of Henry Moon and the late Vonzell Goodwin Moon. The Rev. Charles Stroud, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Columbiana, officiated.

Mrs. McDaniel died February 19 following a brief illness.

Survivors are: husband Don McDaniel, of Alabaster; one daughter, Donna McDaniel, one son, William McDaniel and one step-son, Jim McDaniel; father, Henry Moon of Columbiana, three sisters: Mrs. Anne Haff of Atlanta, Mrs. Nan Brown of Birmingham, and Mrs. Patricia Talton of Columbiana; one brother James Henry Moov Jr.

Pall bearers were Tommy and Oliver Milstead, Wayne Rasco, Joe Mooney, Billy Bob Ray and Wayne Blankenship.

Interment in Columbiana Cemetery.

MINNIE PEARL - - Country and western singer-comedienne Minnie Pearl of Nashville, Tenn., chats with Tommy Snowden of Columbiana at the National Crusade Society held recently in Atlanta, Ga. Both participated in the two-day meeting of key volunteers of the Society representing all 50 states. Minnie Pearl was National Crusade Co-Chairman, for 1973, a top volunteer post she shared with Chairman Lawrence Welk. She is a member of the cancer- fighting agency's Board of Directors. The inspirational meeting was climaxed by a dinner for the 1,000 persons attending the meeting. Mr. Snowden is President of the Shelby County Unit of the American Cancer Society.

AT CANCER MEET - - Marvella Bayh, wife of U.S. Senator Birch Bayh of Indiana, meets Dr. Sarah Morgan of Montevallo at the National Crusade Kickoff meeting of the American Cancer Society held recently in Atlanta, Georgia. Mrs. Bayh, who with actor Peter Graves, is National Crusade Co-Chairman of the Society, returned to a full, productive life following surgery for breast cancer in 1971. She has become a symbol of hope for many American women and brings commitment and personal Dedication to her key volunteer role with the cancer- fighting agency. Some 1,000 physicians, scientists and lay leaders in cancer control attended the inspirational two-day meeting. Dr. Morgan is 1974 Cancer Crusade Chairman for Shelby County.

In Shelby County--

Public water serves 82% of homes

Better than 82 per cent of Shelby County homes are now supplied with public water service, according to Frank Sloan of the county health department.

In a telephone interview with the Reporter, Sloan indicated that this is a significant rise over the 51 per cent rate of 1969.

"By all indications, the county may soon realize a goal of supplying public water to every home in Shelby County," Sloan said. Due to efforts by the county government and the various municipalities, the past five years has been one of the most expansive periods in extending water lines.

Sloan said this is especially good news since private wells are continually subject to contamination. With mining, quarrying, and excavation in progress, the underground structure is constantly changing. Sloan stated that out of every 360 wells tested, 216 are so contaminated that they have to be condemned. And a well that is pure one day can become polluted the next.

The large number of septic tanks used instead of sewer systems has a great effect on the purity of ground water. Though septic tanks must be inspected by the health department, the sheer numbers of them make chances of leaks very likely. Tank seepages and overflow so contaminate the ground water with coliform bacteria that wells some distance away can become pools of disease.

Such pollution makes streams and rivers generally unfit for use as a supply of public drinking water. Most county creeks and rivers are so full of waste, germs, and other pollutants Sloan stated, that the health department cannot even recommend swimming in any open body of water in the county.

Although the source of the water may not be so pure, Sloan points out that each water system in the county makes sure that its water supply is properly treated to kill harmful bacteria. Samples of water must be sent to Montgomery for testing at intervals to guarantee that Shelby County's water remains within safe limits by killing dangerous germs. The mineral content of the water is not affected, though Sloan states that there is no dangerous compounds such as mercury or arsenic found near any municipal water supplies.

With the new increase in homes with public water, Shelby County is receiving better water service than ever, according to Sloan.

Communities in some parts of the state are almost without water, and Shelby County could someday face the same crisis. But as for now, Sloan stated that Shelby County can be grateful for high quality water in plentiful supply.

Former resident succumbs in Birmingham

Mr. Walter Garnett Boaz, 74, of Birmingham died Wednesday, February 20 in a Birmingham hospital. He was a longtime resident of Shelby County before moving to Birmingham 20 years ago. He was a member of Maple Street Baptist Church.

Funeral service was held at 3:30 p.m. Thursday at Bolton - Brown Service Chapel in Columbiana, with burial at Williams Cemetery.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Irene Boaz, three daughters; Mrs. Harry Smith, Chelsea, Mrs. Clinton Carden, Birmingham, Mrs. James Brantley, Leesville La., one son, Thomas L. Boaz, Louisville, Ky.; six grandchildren, five great-grandchildren; one sister, Mrs. Luther Curlee; one brother C.M. Boaz, Columbiana.

Fire ants attacking cottontails

Seen any cottontail rabbits lately? Probably not, since rabbit population is down in recent years. One of the main reasons they are fewer is because fire ants are eating them, according to Edward P. Hill, Assistant Leader of the Alabama Cooperative Wildlife Research Unit.

This is what concludes in "The Cottontail Rabbit in Alabama," a bulletin published by Auburn's Agricultural Experiment Station. He concluded that the predatory imported ants kill and consumer baby rabbits when the letters are one to three days old. After four days the rabbits have grown hair to prevent fire ants from stinging them.

Basing his conclusions on field observation and experimental conditions, Hill found the ants capable of killing the baby rabbits. The fire ants first sting the hairless babies to death, and then eat the skin and muscular tissues while they leave the eyeballs, internal organs, and small bones for last.

At the agricultural experiment station, Hill and his associates found that out of 81 litters of baby cottontails observed, over 41 whole litters were destroyed by fire ants.

A number of similar studies have shown that ants prey on various species of wildlife and fish, and ants have had detrimental effects on bird nesting activities. With the introduction of the imported fire ant and its spread through the southeast in the 1940's and 1950's, studies showed that a program of fire ant eradication could not be justified just to protect the cottontails, especially since such programs have not appeared to be very effective. He feels that the only time such a program of ant eradication could be justified is in cases of "intensively managed rabbit enclosures where rabbits are the prime consideration."

Baxley qualifies for race

Attorney General Bill Baxley has announced that he will be a candidate for re-election to the State's highest legal post.

"I am deeply grateful for the opportunity I have had to serve as Attorney General and humbly ask the people of Alabama to return me to this important office for another four years", Baxley said.

In announcing that he will seek re-election as Attorney General, Baxley quoted from the pledge he made when he took the oath of office in 1971: "There will not be a single Alabamaian regardless of his or her wealth, influence or position who will not be subject to prosecution if they break the laws of this State. In like manner, every citizen of the State is entitled to the fullest protection and benefit of its laws without regard to their age, race or station in life." Baxley stated, "Over the past three years, this pledge has been the guide by which I have conducted this office. In asking the people of Alabama to elect me to a second four year term as their Attorney General, I reaffirm that pledge."

Area games set this week for basketball play-offs

Shelby County High Schools will be playing in area tournaments this week. Winners will then proceed to the various divisional and state championships.

Three county high school are participating in the Area seven, District four 2-A tournament. The first round of the tournament was played at West Blocton high school on Tuesday, February 26. Shelby County High School went up against Vincent High School in first round action at 5 o'clock Tuesday.

Montevallo High School was awarded a bye in the tournament and will play the winner of a first round game against TalladegaTraining and Winterboro in the semi finals. Montevallo High School's first game will be held at 7 p.m., Thursday, February 28.

The winner of this tournament will then play the winner of the 2-A area 8, region 4 tournament on March 2 at Gadsden State Junior College. The winner will advance to the state 2-A championship.

In 3-A basketball, Thompson and Indian Springs will play in the area eight meet at Clanton. The Warriors will face B.B. Comer at 8 p.m. on Tuesday, Feb. 26. Indian Springs plays Pell City at 6:30 on the same night.

The 3-A area 8 champion will face the Area 7 champion on Saturday night at Clanton for the REgion 4 title and state berth.

The Chelsea High School backetball team will play in the 1-A area 13 tournament held in Hayden. The Hornets will face Birmingham University School at 8 p.m. on Wednesday night.

Calera High School will not be participating in an area tournament. The majority of the Calera basketball team is out of action due to illness.

It's east vs. west in coaches' benefit

Thursday, March 21, will be the date for a benefit basketball game sponsored by the Shelby County Coaches Association. The charity basketball game will raise money for the Shelby County cancer crusade.

The two teams playing in the contest will be made up of coaches from the east side of county playing those of the west side. The coaches of Calera, Montevallo and Thompson High Schools will face a squad of coaches from Chelsea, Shelby County, Indian Springs and Vincent schools.

This game, billed to be the biggest county sporting event to take place on March 21, will be played at the Thompson High school gym at 7:30 p.m. An admission will be charged at the gate.

To further heighten spectators' thrills, the coaches association promises that two beautiful (?) male cheerleaders will be furnished from each county high school to encourage the two teams on to victory.

Falcons finish season

The University of Montevallo Falcons advanced to the semi finals of the Southern States Conference before finishing their 1973-74 season last week.

In the first round of the tournament the Falcons defeated William Carey College of Hattiesburg, MIss. by the score of 100-86. Gerald Douglass, Montevallo's star forward led the scoring and rebound departments in the game with 22 points and 18 grabs off the backboard. Forward Charles Averhart was the second highest scorer with 19 points. Averhart also had eleven rebounds.

The University team shot 50 percent from the floor and made 38 or 45 free throws in the William Carey game.

The Falcons then fell to Athens College in the semi finals after leading 53-47 at the half. The final score was Athens 96 and Montevallo 82.

Gerald Douglass scored 34 points against Athens while Charles Averhart and Dale Hughey both scored 16 points.

The Falcons ended the season this year with a 17-12 won/loss talley. Falcon coach Bill JOnes descirbes this winning record as his team's worst season since he has been coaching at the school.

The University of Montevallo team will have all but three of its starters returning next year.

UM team will play thirty-five games

University of Montevallo baseball players boast a 35 game schedule this year. The Falcons will open their season, Tuesday afternoon, March 5, with a double header at Tuscaloosa againt the University of Alabama.

The UM team belongs to the Southern States Conference and will play member teams such as Athens, St. Barnard, Spring Hill, William Carey and Huntingdon.

Other teams on the UM schedule are the University of Alabama in Tuscaloosa, Kalamazoo, St. Zavier, Livingston, Troy State, and Jefferson State.

The Falcon's new baseball coach, Bob Riesner, was voted the '68, '69, '70 and '71 Alabama Collegiate Conference coach of the year while at Livingston State University. Riesner commented, "We're trying to build a strong baseball tradition at Montevallo. I feel the program is definitely on the way up."

Heading up the Falcon eight man pitching staff against these opponents will be Steve Wald and Tommy Patterson, both of Birmingham, along with Billy Morrison of Trussville.

Hitters who, according to Coach Riesener, will be expected to help the Montevallo cause this season are David Williams, Birmingham; Lee Bragam, Powderly; and Terry Brasseale and Sammy Dunn, both of Fairfield. Bragan led the team last year with a 336 batting average.

The first home Falcon game will be a doubleheader against Livingston at 1:00 Thursday, March 7.

Helena man invents water purifiers

by Willard Harrison

A budding industry in Helena is on the verge of blooming into a successful manufacturing company. J and B Enterprises is about to go into full production of a miniature water purifier which inventor Josh B. Jones predicts will revolutionize camping and world travel.

The Aquacell Traveler is the company's new item which will be on the market within months. The portable water purifier enables a person to drink water from lakes, rivers, or even Mexico. Jones says that the Traveler removes disagreeable tastes, odors, and solid matter from water as it kills disease- causing bacteria.

There are many types of water purifiers on the market, but the unique feature of the Traveler is its portability. The purifier is sixteen inches long and two-and- a-half inches in diameter, weighing only one pound. It is so small that Jones says campers and backpackers can carry it with ease, and travelers will find it small enough to slip into a suitcase.

Josh Jones, founder and president of J and B Enterprises, feels that the new invention will open a new phase for the company. When he began the company a little more than three years ago, he was tinkering with water purifiers at home in his basement. Having given up insurance sales, he turned to the area of pollution control, since it appeared to be a lucrative and almost unexplored area. He first joined a water- purifying firm based in New York, where he first learned some of the physical principles of water filters.

At the time, most purifiers using a principle called "reverse osmosis" were clumsy items with at least seventeen working parts. When Jones struck out on his own, he came up with a reverse osmosis unit using only two parts. Thus was born J and B Enterprises, which Josh named after himself and his wife Becky.

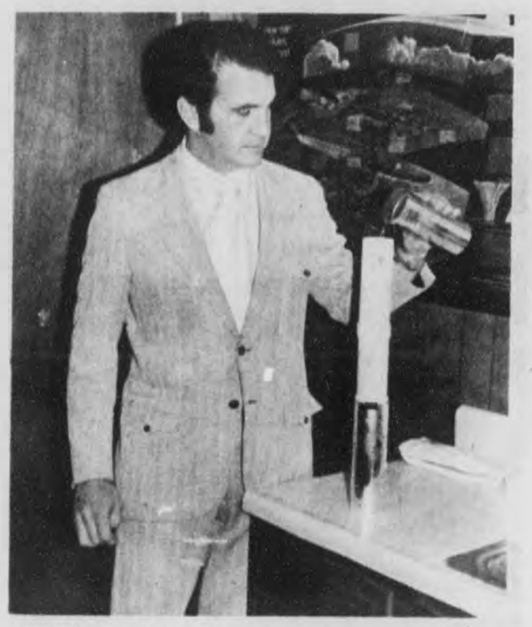
The fledgling company set up shop in a rented building in Helena on Highway 52. Jones first did research on the need for an efficient water purifier, finding that the bottled water industry makes $130 million annually in the United States, with prices ranging from 60 cents to a dollar per gallon.

Jones decided that his first invention, the Aquacell, could do will financially, since it purifies six gallons of water a day for less than a penny a gallon.

Finding that in Florida and many western states depend largely upon bottled water, the newly incorporated company began production of Aquacell units for retailing in localities in those states. Their first patented product, the Aquacell is still their biggest seller. This eight-pound unit -- measuring 19 inches by eight inches by 12 inches -- presently retails for around $150, though Jones hopes to reduce the price to under $100.

The newer Traveler will retail at $19.95, according to Jones. He is negotiating with several major department store chains who want to sell the unit around the country. Jones says he anticipates large sales in sporting goods stores, health food shops, and bait shops as well. He adds that the Traveler will purify at least 2,000 gallons of water, and that a replacement filter module can then be bought for eight dollars to make the unit to work as good as new.

Jones adds that the company manufacturers two other models of purifiers in addition to the home unit and the portable traveler. One model is installed under the sink for permanent purification of tap water, unlike the Aquacell which is easily detached and relocated. Another model purifies water for automatic ice makers and coffee machines.



These two models work by reverse osmosis like the Aquacell. Under this system a cellulose acetate membrane. Germs, minerals, and virtually all other contaminants are unable to penetrate the cellulose acetate barrier. Jones says that even pyrogen, the smallest virus known to man, is removed by the osmotic membrane.

The new Traveler purifying unit, patent pending, works on a totally different process. Essentially it is a sophisticated version of the activated-charcoal water filter already on the market. Silver ions on sponge silver metal is deposited on activated carbon granules in the filter module. Not only does this process filter the water and remove taste, odor, and color, but the silver destroys the bacteria in the water. Jones says that the Aquacell Traveler "will purify any water which is bacteriologically accepted for treatment, as defined by the United States Public Health Service."

Jones demonstrated how the Traveler works, pouring stained, smelly polluted water into the top of the small cylinder. Within seconds the water filtered down, draining into a drinking glass. He said that fishermen could use the unit, making drinking water by dipping lake or river water and pouring it into the unit.

What will these new anti-pollution purifiers mean to Shelby County? Initially, it will mean thirty new jobs when J and B Enterprises goes into full production of the Aquacell Traveler next month. Jones adds that when these units go on sale on the retail market, he expects the company to be able to employ more workers. At present the company is housed in a rented building, but he says that they hope to build their own building in the Helena area in about two years.

Already the company is receiving widespread attention, with enquiries from importers and governmental offices in Japan, Korea, Canada, Puerto Rico, and various private and public officials in the United States. Five hundred reverse osmosis units were ordered for a federal project in Tulsa, Oklahoma, stated Josh Jones. And as his company grows, Shelby County may gain some attention as well.

THE TRAVELER - - Josh Jones demonstrates his new portable water purifier which makes polluted water drinkable.

THE OLD RELIABLE - - Lynn Nobles, secretary and J and B Enterprises, demonstrates the company's original home model Aquacell purifier. The Helena manufacturing company plans to hire additional help when they go into full production of the newer portable Aquacell traveler. The Aquacell line, invented by Josh Jones, is already beginning to receive widespread attention.

Little League seeks players at Helena's Tucker Park

The new baseball diamond at Helena's Joe Tucker park will see action for the first time this year as the little league season gets underway.

Youngsters in Helena between the ages of five and twelve who wish to participate in Helena's little league program are invited to sign up for the team.

Little leaguers may register for the program on the following dates: March 2, 9,16 and 23. Time and place for regrstration on these dates is at Joe Tucker Park between the hours of 9 a.m. and 12 noon.

Coach Billy G. Hinds, Jimmy Jordan and Coach Gamble are in charge of the program.

March 23 is the last date to register.

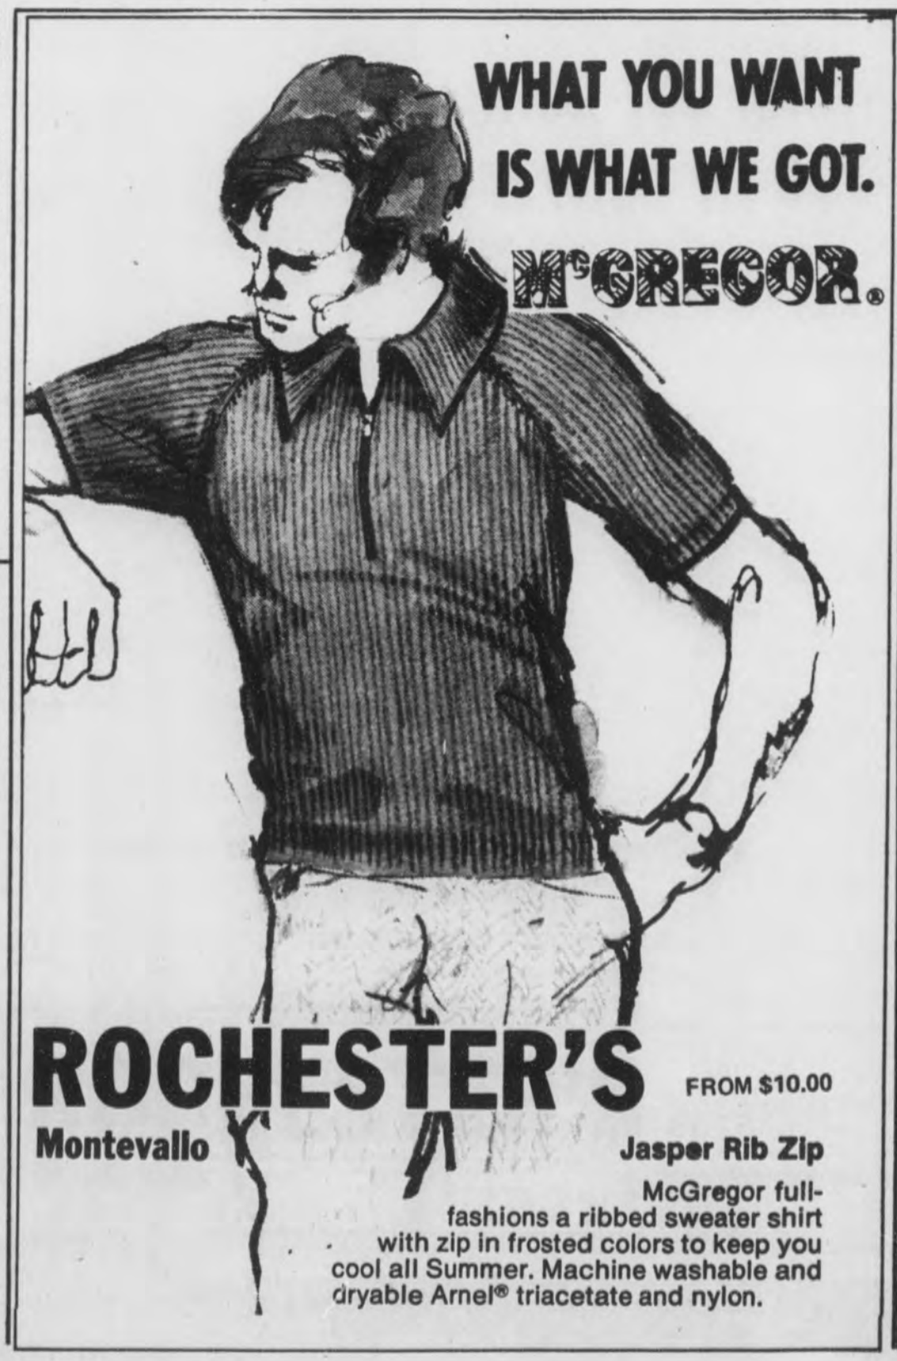
Food stamp program needs account clerk

Staffing is complete for the Food Stamp program which will go into effect in the county soon; except for a position as account clerk.

According to Nell Fulton, director of the county department of Pensions and Securities, the program is seeking an account clerk who must be qualified under the state merit system.

Mrs. Fulton encourages persons interested in the position to call her immediately for information. To hold the position, a person must have a combination of training and experience equal to high school graduation, some office experience involving bookkeeping and accounting, and must be able to handle double entry bookkeeping. It will also be necessary to pass the state merit examination.



Mrs. Fulton may be reached during office hours at 669-2111.

No job lure in Alaska oil

Alaska job hunters should best forget it. Although the Trans Alaska Pipeline Act was passed, that state has the highest unemployment rate in the nation.

As many as 600 persons a month come to Alaska in search of non-existent jobs on the Alaska Pipeline, which will not even begin construction for months. Many families drop everything to go to Alaska, only to find themselves stranded there.

Alaska recommends that no one come to Alaska in search of a job. Job seekers should be certain before coming that jobs are available for them. They point out that besides the amount of time before construction and the state's high unemployment rate, there is even an Alaskan law giving job preference to state residents there.

Eufaula opens eleven homes for pilgrimage

Eleven beautiful antebellum mansions will be featured during the ninth annual Eufaula Pilgrimage to be held April 4-7. The Russell Home, built in 1905, will return to the tour for the first time since 1967. It is a treasure house of genuine antiques and magnificent accessories. Another newcomer to the pilgrimage will be the newly restored Conner-Taylor Home presently owned by a young family. This beautiful mansion is one of pure Greek revival architecture.

In addition to the eleven homes, the Shorter Mansion, a Greek revival masterpiece; the Sheppard Cottage, built in 1837; and the Tavern, where riverboat travelers spent many nights, will all be open during the four-day tour.

Gracious hostesses gowned in period costumes will be on hand to escort you through some of the South's most magnificent mansions during this annual spring festival which honors Eufaula's heritage. Thirteen of the Bluff City's historically significant homes are listed in the National Register of Historic Places.

Although the central attraction of the famed Eufaula Pilgrimage is the tour of homes, a variety of activities is in store for visitors of all ages and interests.

The Pilgrimage Antique Show and Sale, which again features twenty dealers from through out the Southeast, will present a stunning display of antique items ranging from home furnishings to small pieces of memorabilia. Many beautiful antiques will be listed for sale to collectors, and all visitors will delight in seeing museum pieces.

A 19th Century Crafts Show will feature skilled craftsmen and their work, and the Camerata Club will present a concert for Eufaulians and visitors alike April 6 at the Eufaula High School auditorium.

Returning to the festival this year is the popular Candlelight Tour on April 4th and April 6th. Visitors participating in this event will view the splendor of several of the antebellum homes by flickering candlelight.

While visiting Eufaula, you will want to take a trip to Westville Village, the reconstructed Georgia Village where it is always 1850, in nearby Lumpkin, Georgia. Tour Bedingfield Inn, a stagecoach inn, and an authentic 1890 drug store containing the original pharmaceutical supplies.

Visitors to previous Eufaula Pilgrimages are conscious of the pride Eufaulians have in their Bluff City overlooking the Chattahoochee River, and visitors to the ninth annual Eufaula Pilgrimage will come away with this same feeling of pride.

Charter a bus, round up friends and family, take advantage of group rates and save gasoline, too, in planning your jaunt to Eufaula. Two important routes, U.S. Highways 431 and 82, crisscross in the heart of Eufaula. Modern motel facilities and Old South hospitality will make your visit a memorable one. Welcome spring with a change of pace -- in historic Eufaula.

Silliest story of the week: Mama Mouse and Baby Mouse are out for a walk and are cornered by a huge cat. Mama pushes Baby behind her, looks the cat squarely in the eye and barks "Woof! Woof! Woof!" The cat turns and scampers off. Mama turns to Baby and says: "Now you see why I keep telling you to learn a second language." (Bob Sylvester)

Farmers rate high praise

by Mildred White Wallace

One morning recently, we met some of our farmer friends in town. It was a dark and rainy day and we found them a bit discouraged over the dreary outlook. They were none too pleased with the old Weather Man and the unusual amount of rainfall they had experienced recently. Fact is - they were at a dead standstill as far as gathering the water-soaked cotton still in the muddy fields was concerned. They also feared a freeze later on which would kill the fruit etc. There seemed to be a "what's- the-use- it" attitude among these vitally important people.

We wondered after they left the coffee table on their way to answer a jury call in the courthouse, if these farmers really knew just how important a part in our lives they played -- and lest they become too discouraged and develop an inferiority complex we want to share with them an article written some years ago by a fellow- craftsman who, I believe now resides in Michigan.

The article - a penpoint tribute to the Farmer, runs like this: "I am the farmer. I am the provider for all mankind. Upon me every human being constantly depends. A world itself is built upon my toil -- my products - - my honesty.

Because of my industry, my country - - America - - leads the world. Her prosperity is maintained by me; her great commerce is the work of my good hand; her balance of trade springs from the furrows of my farm.

My reaper brings food for today; my plow holds promise for tomorrow. In war I am absolute; in peace, I am indispensable; my country's surest defense and circumstance.

I am the very soul of America. The hope of a race, the balance wheel of civilization.

When I prosper, men are happy; when I fail, all the world suffers; I live with nature, walk in the green fields under the sunlight, out in the great alone where brains and brawn and toil supply mankind's preliminary need. And I try to do my part to carry out the great plan of God.

Even the birds are my companions. They greet me with a symphony at the new day's dawn and chum with me 'til evening prayer is said. If it were not for me the treasures of the earth would remain securely locked; the graineries would be doomed speedily to extinction of decay.

Through me is produced the energy that maintains the apark of life. I rise with the early dawn and retire when the "chores are done.

I am your friend - - I am the Farmer!"

Now, "Mr. Farmer" - or shall I more correctly say -- Mr. VIP, place the above penpoint tribute to you and your avocation in your note books and when a "blue Monday" again comes your way, read it over and realize just how essential a fellow you really are and how many folk depend upon your for their very existence -- then powder your nose with sunshine and get going! For, who can say what Tomorrow holds in store? It just might be -- in the not too distant future that your light bulb may bloom, your early egg plant lay; the weather may count its changes and get settle down to stay, the wagons may take their tongues in, the corn ears may tend the phone, the cherries may quit throwing stones, the ants may do all the mending; and the bees wax all the floors. Who can tell?

CORDELIA ANN ENGLISH
. . . engaged to William Ronald Shaw

Miss English to wed Shaw in Westover

Mrs. Donald Patz announces the engagement of her daughter Cordelia Ann English to William Ronald Shaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. C.H. Shaw Jr. of Chelsea. Miss English's father is Jack G. Brown of Ashville, N.C.

Her grandparents are Mrs. Elanor Crowley of Bessemer and the late Dennis Crowley and the late Mr. and Mrs. James Brown.

Mr. Shaw is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel E. Burns and the late Mr. and Mrs. Cecil H. Shaw Sr.

The wedding will be solemnized March 1st at 7:30 p.m. at Union United Methodist Church in Westover.

The families and all friends are invited to be present.

Yo-yo fad returns for new go-round

by Mildred White Wallace

If you should see young Americans jiggling a small round piece of wood on a string and "cake walking" along the Main Stem just know that the Yo-Yo is back in town and that it will take its place in amusing the boys and girls during spring vacation days which are just around the corner.

You really have to be adept at jiggling or juggling this little gadget to get it to do the various things it is capable of performing. If you are not skilled in the art, you will come out with only a tangled bit of string wrapped around the wooden doughnut.

If the Yo-Yo does not appeal to you, try balancing yourself on a pair of skates. Many kiddoes are circulating around and around the walks of the courthouse, the cement parking area at the Baptist Church and along the sidewalks as they dodge bikes - now becoming more numerous every day. We saw several narrowly averted accidents this very day.

Of course, if you haven't the three requisites - vim, vigor and vitality and you still want to keep in touch with young Americans - - better just get a Kennedy Rocker and a piece of Bubble Gum and watch 'em go whizz by!

NC dance theatre appears at UM

The North Carolina Dance Theatre will appear in concert at theUniversity of Montevallo tonight.

The noted group includes fifteen professional dancers from the North Carolina School of the Arts in Winston-Salem, N.C. Now in its third season and touring primarily in the southeastern states, the Dance Theatre presents both ballet and modern works in concert.

The repertory this season includes works created especially for the company by choreographers Norbert Vesak, Robert Barnett, Duncan Noble and Richard Kuch. Program selections cover a broad range of moods projecting a contemporary image.

In addition to their concert performance, members of the company will conduct master and intermediate dance classes for U.M. students Thursday morning.

The Dance Theatre's appearance at U.M. is a feature of the university's 1973-74 Concert and Lecture Series.

Program time is 8:15 p.m. in Palmer Auditorium on the Montevallo campus, and the public is invited to attend. Tickets may be obtained at the Palmer Hall box office prior to the performance Thursday evening.

In talking with a prominent insurance company representative this morning we found that the recent tornadic invasion of this area of Alabama was more severe than we had heard about. At the time we talked with them, there had been filed 30 claims and more were expected.

Dixie Tinney, a familiar figure on Main, says, "we have never had this many tornadoes" - and she believes the astraunauts visit to the moon is having something to do with it. Could be!

We had the pleasure of a chat with our good friends Mr. and Mrs. Paul Crenshaw of Aldrich this morning. Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Lawley– recently observed the passing of their 60th wedding anniversary.

The Lawleys have receipts of their first grocery bill and their first furniture bill when they set up housekeeping together near Montevallo. It runs like this : wood stove-$16.00; 1 sack Roller Champion Flour .95 cts.; groceries for one week $6.40; bedstead $6.00.

How about that in camparision with prices we are coping with today?

CINDY RASCO

Cindy Rasco to serve as Chamber Belle

Cindy Rasco, pretty daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Welby Rasco of Columbiana, currently employed as a secretary in the Electronic Data Processing Department of Liberty National Life Insurance Company, has been chosen to represent the Company in the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce as a Chamber Belle for 1974.

Miss Rasco as a Chamber Belle will serve, along with eleven other women from their respective business sponsors, as official hostess and receptionist for the Chamber of Commerce in all civic events forthcoming during the year.

Miss Rasco says: "It is an honor and a privilege to have been chosen to represent my company and to serve Birmingham in this way. I deeply appreciate it."

Benson carries on Samaritan tradition

We were attracted to an article in Birmingham News Feb. 18 issue in the Voice of the People - - titled - "Thanks to a Good Samaritan". It was an expression of gratitude to Ted Benson of Columbiana for the courtesy he had extended a stranded auto couple driving from Montgomery to Birmingham on their way to be with a relative undergoing surgery in a hospital there.

The couple, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dees, of Montgomery, state they had been sitting on the side of the road in a rain with auto lights blinking for over two hours while many motorists passed them by. Finally, Mr. Benson stopped and drove ten miles out of his way to render the assistance they required to complete their trip and reach their destination.

Such thoughtfulness of others is but another typical example of Columbiana people -- We are glad Ted - - - carried out this long recognized tradition. That's good public relations for our town!

Fuller tires help save gas

Properly inflated tires not only mean better car control, they mean better gas mileage, says the Tire Industry Safety Council. Underinflated tires squirm, causing increased roll resistance, which makes the engine work harder and use more fuel.

Properly balanced tires improve steering control. Uneven weight distribution can cause tires to hop or shimmy.

Beauty tips for you from Carlene Barefoot

Brenda is coming back to work on Fridays and Saturdays.

No one's looks are improved by shadowy down over the upper lip. To take away the shadow, try a good wax remover or facial creme bleach. Have a look around the jaw line, too. People who tend toward facial hair usually have peach fuzz around the jaw and up to the hairline as well as a moustache. We have the wax at Carlene's Coiffures.

Carlene's is open dialy Monday through Saturday and Thursday and Friday nights until 9 p.m. by appointment.

Lawleys hold open house on 60th anniversary

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE LAWLEY
. . . celebrate 60th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. George Lawley of Route 1 Montevallo, (Aldrich) celebrated their 60th Wedding Anniversity with open house at their home on February 22.

They were honored by their daughter Mrs. Paul E. Crenshaw and grand daughter Mrs. Kennith Bailey.

The Lawleys have two grandsons Kenny Bailey and Keith Bailey. They have lived most of their 60 years at Aldrich.

Mr. Lawley is retired from Pullman Standard.

Knowles speaks to DKG

The Alpha Nu Chapter of the Delta Kappa Gamma Society met at the Shelby County Vocational Education Center in Columbiana on the evening of February 14 with Charles Knowles, Director of Vocational Education for Shelby County and also Director of the Vocational Center as guest speaker.

Mr. Knowles in speaking of the activities of this school reviewed facts of public interest. He said funds for this facility were made available from 80 percent Appalachian money and a one mill county tax. There are 14 vocational areas included in the four buildings on the campus and each area is partially self-sustaining.

The students of the 11th and 12th grades, choosing to take advantage of this training, take their required course on the high school campuses and busses transport them to spend the other half day on the Vocational Center campus for the specialized education.

Each student, he said, is responsible for his or her behavior. The courses he or she receives prepares them for full time employment and their work is followed for five years after leaving the school.

Adult Extension courses are also available as a service to business and industry throughout the county.

Knowles stressed the fact that this was not a Trade School but was controlled and operated under the supervision of the Shelby County Board of Education.

Hostesses for the event included Hildred Nichols, Esther Upchurch, Inez Bird, Margaret Youngblood and Mary Curtis.

Gormley's bird talk entertains club

The February meeting of the Montevallo Garden Club was opened by Mrs. A.C. Anderson, program chairman, who introduced Dr. and Mrs. Charles L. Gormley to the members.

Dr. Gormley, professor of Education at the University of Montevallo, regaled the group with a discourse on the characteristics and habits of the birds in this area.

He illustrated his talk with outstandingly beautiful slides, that he made, of birds that frequent the grounds around his home.

At the conclusion of the program Miss Vinnie Lee Walker, club president, presided at the business session.

The hostess for the meeting was Mrs. S. C. Jones, Jr.

Churches to observe Day of Prayer

Methodist Churches of the Shelby County area will join with the Columbiana Baptist Church and the Church of the Nazarene this Friday, to celebrate the World Day of Prayer.

Representatives of the various churches will meet at the Columbiana United Methodist Church at 10:00 a.m. Friday, March 1 for the observance.

Tomorrow's World Day of Prayer marks the 88th annual observance of the day.

This annual event is now held on the first Friday of March. It has developed into an ecumenical and international celebration, and is observed in 168 lands.

The Columbiana observance will feature the Reverend Lamar Davis as speaker. A nursery will be open for the convenience of parents of young children.

Sandra Steele weds in home ceremony

The marriage of Sandra Steele, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C.E. Steele of Montevallo, and Cecil Mathis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mathis of Centreville was solemnized at the home of the bride at seven in the evening of Feb. 15. Tom Davis, minister of the Church of Christ, officiated using the double ring ceremony.

The bride, gowned in a long white formal with shoulder length veil was attended by Pam Steel as maid of honor.

The groom chose Phil Thomas for best man.

A reception followed the ceremony hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Steele.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Mathis are employees of Mathis Motor company. in Centreville where they will make their future home.

Friday fire takes Montevallo house

Fire destroyed a familiar Montevallo landmark Friday afternoon but firemen were successful in preventing the flames from spreading to the nearby Montevallo Baptist Church.

The two story frame residence, known as the Dr. J.I. Reid home on Middle street was not occupied at the time of the fire.

Harvey Rochester, who owns a department store directly across the street investigated when he saw smoke rising from the rear of the old house.

Rochester told the Reporter he thought someone was burning trash in the backyard of the house. When he arrived, however, he discovered that smoke was billowing from rooms on the backside of the building. He immediately returned to his store and turned in the fire alarm.

Three fire departments responded to the alarm, Montevallo's fire department, Shelco Unit One and Calera's fire department.

By the time the alarm was turned in flames were gaining headway throughout the entire rear section of the frame building.

Opened doors, according to Montevallo Fire Chief Mike Mahan, provided an unusual ventilation for the flames and soon the entire building was engulfed in fire and smoke.

The fire was eventually extinguished leaving only the four outer walls.

The property on which the house was built was purchased in 1897 by one of Montevallo's pioneer medical doctors, Dr. David L. Wilkinson. Wilkinson built the house from heart of pine lumber around the turn of the century. He and his family lived in the house until he moved to Birmingham in 1961.

The house was then purchased by another doctor, Dr. J. I. Reid. It has remained in the Reid family until it was given to the Baptist Church several years ago.

Dr. Reid's widow occupied the house until recently. Mrs. Reid is now living in a nursing home in the Birmingham area.

ONLY A SHELL REMAINS - - Firefighters from Shelco Unit One and the Montevallo Fire Department are shown pouring water into the second floor front bedrooms of the doomed house. The building is a total loss with only an outer shell still standing. Firemen are credited with keeping the fire from spreading to the adjacent Baptist Church or other nearby buildings.

Campaign boosts area Boy Scouts

Shelby County's Boy Scouts will be getting a boost from local businessmen and public officials. A fund- raising drive began with a breakfast on Monday, March 4th in Alabaster. According to Judge Conrad Fowler, who presided at the meeting, the men present pledged $2,085 toward the goal of five thousand dollars.

The charity breakfast was organized by Probate Judge Fowler, University of Montevallo president Dr. Kermit Johnson, and Alabaster physician Dr. Frank Abernathy. Speakers at the meeting were invited from the Vulcan District of the Boy Scouts, an area which also includes Shelby County.

The story of scouting was related by Carey Hollingsworth of Vulcan District, and by district finance director Frnak Rains. Rains stated that of the district's annual budget of $381,000, more than half is supplied by the United Appeal. Most of the rest of it is contributed by the 3,000 registered scouts in the district.

District executive Mike Powell stated that in order to maintain good quality programs in this county, $5,000 is needed. The businessmen present were asked to pledge money for the fund, and to distribute pledge cards to absent businessmen invited to the dutch breakfast.

Finance director Rains stated that after the kickoff of more than $2,000, the goal should be reached by the end of this month. He added that if the goal is gained quickly, the council will be able to hire another paid employee in the district. The new man would be in charge of Shelby County and give professional help to county scoutmasters.

WAYNE ARCHER

Archer qualifies for District 4 race

Wayne Archer added his name to the list of candidates for County Commissioner from District 4 just before qualifying deadline Friday.

Archer was raised in Westover and is a graduate of Vincent High School. He is a self employed beef cattle farmer and cattle hauler.

He is president of the Shelby County Cattlemen's Association, and is active in the county Farm Bureau and Soil Conservation Service.

He believes that District 4 should be represented by a young businessman and pledges that if elected he will represent the district well, and keep voters informed of all important matters concerning the district.

He says that because he is self employed he will have the time to attend all commission meetings and serve as a commissioner.

Archer is married to the former Becky Stephens of Vincent, and they have two sons. They are members of Mt. Tabor Methodist Church of Westover.

New motel proposed at I-65 airport exit

A new one hundred unit motel is proposed for construction here in Shelby County. Called the Airline Inn, the new facility will be located on the southeastern interchange of the I-65 exit at the Shelby County Airport.

At its last meeting the Calera city council voted to give mayor George Roy the authority to approve a contract to float a $1.5 million bond issue for the construction of the motel. This move will not represent any expense to the city of Calera, Roy said.

LISTER H. PROCTOR

Lister Proctor runs for senate seat

Promising to be an active, aggressive senator for the people in district 18, Lister Hill Proctor has filed as a candidate for the State Senate.

Proctor, a new face in politics, says he wants to bring honesty and integrity back to State government through work, dedication and service to all the people of District 18.

He has held the position as Talladega County's deputy district attorney for two and a half years, is a graduate of Jacksonville State University and holds his law degree from the University of Alabama. In addition to his work with the district attorney's office, he has a private law practice in Sylacauga.

A member of the executive board of the Sylacauga Beautification Council which recently won the national "Keep America Beautiful" award, Proctor is active in many civic affairs. He is vice president of the Talladega Bar Association, Board of Directors Alabama Society for Crippled Children and Adults in Talladega County, president of the Sylacauga Quarterback Club and past president of the Rotary Club. He served in the U.S. Navy.

He is married to the former Janice Crews, also a graduate of the University of Alabama, with a masters degree in special education. She currently teaches at Sylacauga High School. They live in Sylacauga with their two children, Brad, 4 and Elizabeth, 18 months. They are members of the First Baptist Church.

District 18 includes the southern half of Talladega County, most of Shelby County, all of Chilton and Coosa Counties and the Leeds area of Jefferson County.

County YMCA concludes member drive

A successful membership campaign has reached its goal for the Shelby County YMCA, according to J. P. Graham and Don Murphy, co-chairmen of the drive.

The YM now boasts 117 members. In addition, 75 companies, organizations and

Politicos hit road in local contests

Interest in county politics is gathering momentum now that all candidates who intend to run for office have qualified.

In county offices, the final qualifying period brought out more candidates for the office of county commissioner from district 4, but produced few other surprises.

District Attorney Harold E. Walden and Superintendent Elvin Hill are the only office holders who are unchallenged in the Democratic primary.

A late qualifier for the state senate, district 18, is Lister Hill Proctor of Sylacauga, who will run against Obie Littleton of Clanton. A Republican, D. E. Plier of Thorsby, also qualified.

In the senate race of district 17, Tom Stubbs of Helena will run against Doug Cook and Eddie Gilmore, both of Jefferson County.

No Shelby County resident qualified to run for the district 51 seat in the House of Representatives. Charles Beavers, Jake Vaughn and "Jabo" Waggoner , all of Birmingham are the Democratic candidates. J. Lester Alexander has filed as a Republican.

For the house seat of district 52, Calvin Smith of Vincent and Sonny Moore of Sterrett will be the contenders.

Lewis Headley and Curtis Smith, both of Clanton, are seeking the house seat for district 53.

Alberta Murphy of Tuscaloosa has filed to run against incumbent Walter Flowers for the U.S. Congress - 7th district.

In the race for county commission, district 2 - which includes Montevallo Calera and most of Alabaster, there were no late filing candidates. Doug Ballard, L. C. Payne, Billy G. Rockco and Victor Scott are the contenders.

It was district 4 for the commission - which includes the northeast section of the county, that drew the biggest number of candidates. A total of seven men are running. The list shows Wayne Archer, E. B. Brasher, J. Alpha Lowe, Curtis B. Lynn, Alton Parker, Bill

Red Walker seeks fourth term

C. P. "Red" Walker of Alabaster filed qualifying papers to seek a fourth term as sheriff of Shelby County last Thursday.

Walker points to his record in seeking re-election. He states that under him the department initiated 24 hour patrol, and has grown from a four man force to a 17 man force.

He states that the department has the finest communication system in the state with a mobile crime lab, crime information computer, night viewing devices, photographic equipment and video tape equipment.

Walker is a graduate of the Alabama police academy, holds a degree from the Birmingham School of Law and has sponsored and attended many local schools on law enforcement training.

He is a past president of the Alabama Sheriffs" Association and of the Peace Officers Association.

He sponsored legislation for the minimum standard law for law enforcement personnel and for removing state sheriffs from the fee system.

He promoted the Shelby County Youth Aid Bureau.

Sheriff Walker is a member of the Siluria Baptist Church. He is married to the former Ann Lucas and they have two children.

School undergoes accreditation study

The Vincent Elementary School is undergoing a study program conducted by the Southern Association of Secondary and Elementary Schools this week.

Vincent was the first elementary school in Shelby County to receive accreditation from the State Department of Education and now is hoping to achieve accreditation by the prestigious Southern Association.

The week's study began with a steak dinner served late Sunday afternoon to invited guests at the school cafeteria.

Members of the accrediting committee, the county board of education, and public officials were among those invited.

Calvin Smith, principal of the school told the Reporter, that one of the most valuable things about the accrediting process is that school leaders learn whan they need to do to improve. He said that the prestige does not compare with the great value the teachers and principal gain from the self study process.

The faculty committee headed by Mrs. Eddie McGuire and Mrs. Arleta Eastis produced a book which went into depth in describing the Vincent school and its policies and practices. The county vocational school printed the book.

Members of the Accrediting Committee are Dr. Sara Davis, University of Alabama, Chairman; Mrs. Nancy Hughes, Madison County; Mrs. June Spooner, Auburn University; Mrs. Catherine Owens, Valley School; Mr. Orbie Mays, principal of Pinecrest School, Sylacauga; Mrs. Cora McCauley, Madison County; Mrs. Nikki Saddler, Valley School; Johnny Wright, State Dept. of Ed.; Odell Grady, State Dept. of Ed. Lorene Strickland, Main Ave. School, Sylacauga; Dr. Gaile Lambright, Univ. of Ala. Birmingham.

Men rob Calera store

Two out of state men were charged with grand larceny after they reportedly took $100 from Calera's Dixie Super Store shortly after 1:00 Saturday afternoon.

The two are identified as Harry Fulks, 42, who gave a West Virginia address and Jack Lee Saunders, 39, from California.

According to Calera Police Chief Cecil Harris, Saunders came in the Dixie Super Store and asked for some pipe tobacco. Then he offered a large denomination bill for his purchase. Saunders then engaged the cashier in confusing requests and conversation and apparently took five twenty-dollar bills from the cash register.

The cashier noticed the missing money in time to see the man run to a waiting red Mustang bearing out of state license tags.

Store personnel watched the car drive toward the nearby Abex plant and disappear.

Calera's police described the incident over the county police radio.

A short time later, Shelby County Deputy Sheriff Charles Shaw stopped a red Mustang carrying West Virginia license plates. Shaw stopped the car on U.S. Highway 31 just north of Shelby Memorial Hospital in Alabaster. He placed the men under arrest and took them to the county jail in Columbiana.

Saunders was put in a lineup and was identified as the man who was in the Dixie Super Store.

The two men had more than $300 in their possession at the time of arrest. Both are charged with grand larceny.

Career sanitarian dies

Lewis H. King, career officer with the State Health Department and Shelby County Sanitarian from 1940 until his retirement two years ago, died at the age of 65 in Shelby Memorial Hospital on March 5. He had been ill for several weeks.

King was widely known throughout the county and highly respected for the high standards he applied in enforcing state health regulations in the county.

Services will be held at Bolton-Brown Chapel in Columbiana Thursday morning at 11 a.m. with burial in Pine Lawn Gardens.

He is survived by his wife, Mozelle King; sons, L. Hilry King, Jr., Tommy King and Charles King, and three grandchildren.

Hospital honors employees

Shelby Memorial Hospital held its Third Annual Awards Banquet on February 28, honoring employees who have had five or ten years of continuous service at the hospital.

Employees receiving ten year pins were: Peggy LeSeur, Jewel Pardue and Justina Weaver.

Those receiving five year pins were: Betty Rutledge, Catherine Powell, Christine Nichols, Lillie Parker, Para Lee Edwards, Annie Bell Rhine, Evelyn Thomas, Mary Honea, Elizabeth Hughes, Jerline Scott, Sue Russell, Annie Kuzmicki, Patricia Parrish, Maudeen Gaddis, Billie Glasgow and Shirley Pilgreen.

Mr. Jim Moon, Administrator of University Hospital was the guest speaker for the occasion. Several of the Board members attended along with Chester Black, Administrator and other department heads of the hospital.

handling the bond issue. He told the Reporter last Friday that the new Airline Inn will be owned by C.K. Thompson. Thompson owns the Rodeway Inn in Homewood and is also developing another 432 room motel near the Birmingham airport.

Donze and Williams, a Birmingham architectural firm, designed the new Airline Inn, and R.H. Parsons and Sons, another Birmingham firm, will the the contractors.

Morrow also predicted that if construction goes according to schedule, the new motel should be ready for occupancy by early 1975.

The new Airline Inn will have a restaurant and meeting rooms in addition to lodging facilities.

Shaw and I. D. Stone.

The race for sheriff promises to be a campaign that will draw an unusual amount of interest. The incumbent for 15 years, C. P. "Red" Walker, has drawn two strong opponents, Billy Thompson and Allen Wilson, who have both been active in laying ground work for some time.

Candidates are now beginning to make appearances at public gatherings and are busy on the streets seeing people and shaking hands. Veteran political observers believe the local campaigns promise to be more exciting than many of the statewide contests.

Helena Corp. manufactures German pollution-control equipment

INSIDE OUT - - The inner mechanisms of the electrostatic precipatator are quite complex. The Helena Corporation makes transformers (such as this one) to install in the hugh air-cleaning machines. The actual size of the unit pictured is about five foot high when completed, as compared to the entire precipator's height of fifty to seventy. feet.

by Willard Harrison

You think of German technocracy and you think of . . . the Helena Corporation?

That's what the company is involved with in its operation under its parent corporation, Pollution Control- Walther, Inc. The Birmingham- based company is engaged in the manufacture, design, engineering, and supplying of an anti- pollution device called an "electrostatic precipatators" under a licensing agreement with Walther and Cie., A.G. of Cologne, West Germany.

The Helena Corporation was created in October of 1972 when POW of Birmingham entered into a new license agreement with W. Rick and Cie., A.G. of Urefeld, Germany. Since February 1973, the Helena Corporation has been manufacturing and selling transformer- recitifier units and controls for use in all types of electrostatic precipatators. The first electrical energizing control units were completed in Helena for shipment in August, 1973.

The newest improvement at the year-old facility is an expansion of operations into a new building, financed through the sale of Industrial Development Bonds issued by the town of Helena's Industrial Development board. At present research and model test engineering is being carried out in the company's new building, while additional construction is to be added between the two buildings in Helena's industrial park.

According to Karl A. Thallner, general manager of the facility, the company also makes discharge electrodes as well as the transformer rectifiers and controls. He explained that the total precipatator unit can be an enormous complex which purifies smoke and dust that would otherwise be pumped into the atmosphere for smokestacks. While many of the complexes measure approximately fifty feet to a side, one precipatator will resemble a seventy-foot cube.

Thallner stated that the Helena Corporation makes units for the total product, which are tiny by comparison. They make a three-part unit which consists of a five-foot cylindrical transformer, a smaller rectifier, and control panel about the size of a refrigerator. The transformer is placed atop the huge precipitators, with the rest of the Helena equipment making up the power supply of the total comples.

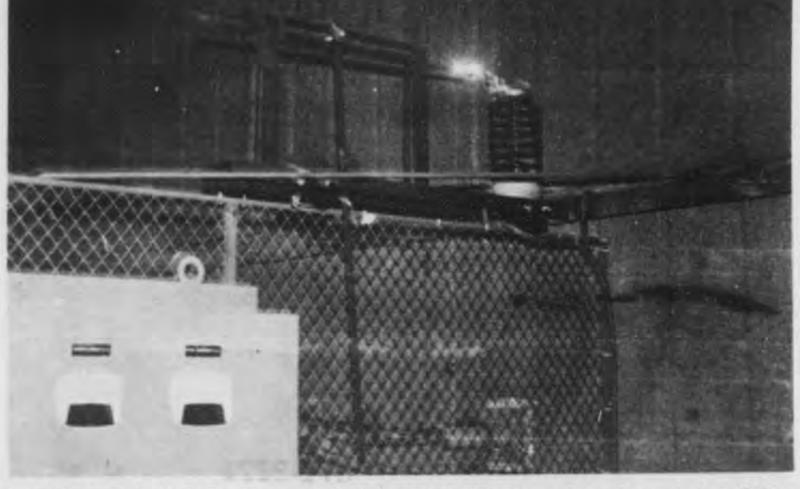
Harry Wheeler, Helena Corporation's products manager, added that one cement company removed about twelve tons of dust an hour, which they haul away in dump trucks. The problem is that it blows out of the trucks before they can dispose of it.

This material can be collected into hoppers either in a wet or dry state, and can often be recycled and used for another prupose. Many hydrocarbons which can go up in smoke are reclaimed for later usage. Some can be used for no other purpose than as a land fill.

The dust or smoke is collected by the precipatators through a highly complicated process. Essentially the hot gas is diverted into the unit, where high voltage electrical charges streak through the smoke. This tremendous charge of static electrictiy cause solid particles to stick to hundreds of plates lining the precipatator. The plates are then either vibrated or sprayed with mist to remove the particles into collecting hoppers.

The precipatators are so effective that, along with new pollution- control laws, the company has orders for components which they will not be able to fill before 1976.

The electrostatic precipitator is relatively new in American industrial use. One unit has been installed in the SEGCO power plant in Wilsonville. They are primarily used in plants which burn tremendous amounts of coal. The cement and paper industry also are big users of the precipatators, which are said to be 99.5 percent effective. Thallner stated that even one of the smaller units can remove tons of dust and smoke per hour at some industries.



Wheeler stated that every transformer unit they make is given hours of testing along with its rectifier and controls. The high voltage equipment is even used in a room- sized vacuum chamber at the Helena Corporation's main building.

The new building presently houses the model test research facility. Engineers construct clear plastic models of the presicitators at one-sixteenth scale. A number of different sizes of mobels are constantly being tested by the engineering team, with checks on air-flow, design, and product efficiency.

General manager Thallner added that the new developments at the company are only the beginning. He foresees a tremendous growth potential for the Helena company, with a great deal of expansion in operations and employment. With new federal state and local pollution controls going into effect, the Helena Corporation should be caught in the business boom caused by the installation of precipatators around the country.

OUR MODEL - - Model test engineer Jim Cauthen stands beside a scale mock-up to give an idea of its size. Built 1/16th the size of the actual unit, the model itself is not exactly small. When the real electrostatic precipatator is built it will be used in tandem with an idential unit by EBSCO Industries. Built of clear plastic, the model is tested by Helena Corporation's research engineers before the whole complex is manufactured.

A SHOCKER - - A flash of man-made lightning vividly shows how the anti-air pollution device works. In their testing area, Helena Corporation sends thousands of volts of electricity through the transformers, rectifiers, and controls as they test them. The powerful charge sizzles though the smoke, causing the solid particles to settle and leave only hot air.

Food office begins registration

The food stamp office, temporarily located at the Community Service Building in the auditorium, Columbiana, will begin registration of prospective food stamp clients on Monday, March 25.

Office hours are from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. five days a week except holidays, according to Mrs. Nell Fulton, Director of the Shelby County Department of Pensions and Security.

The food stamp program enables low-income households to buy more food of greater variety to improve their diets. Participants pay a small sum of money - the amount based on family size and net monthly income and receive a larger value of food stamps which can be spent like money in participating food stores.

The commodity food program will be phased out with the April food distribution. All persons presently participating in the food program as recipients should make new applications at the food stamp office if they wish to participate in the food stamp program said Mrs. Fulton.

The following schedule will be used in an effort to minimize crowds, long lines, and tiresome waiting. Mrs. Fulton requests that persons read carefully and observe the schedule. It is for the convenience of all concerned.

March 25 - Columbiana
March 26 - Columbiana
March 27 - Shelby Area
March 28 - Kingdom
March 29 - Chelsea
April 1 - Sterrett and Westover
April 2 - Vandiver and Dunnavant
April 3 - Wilsonville and Fourmile
April 4 - Vincent
April 5 - Calcis
April 8 - Harpersville
April 9 - Harpersville
April 10 - Vincent
April 11 - Siluria
April 12 - Alabaster and Saginaw
April 15 - Alabaster and Saginaw
April 16 - Pelham and Valleydale
April 17 - Montevallo
April 18 - Montevallo and Wilton
April 19 - Helena
April 23 - Dogwood, Almont and Aldrich
April 24 - Maylene, Marvel and Pearidge
April 26 - Calera

To qualify for food stamp benefits, households must meet certain nationwide eligibility standards that include income, resources, work registration and must have cooking facilities in order to prepare meals. Eligibility is determined according to uniform national income and resource standards (resources are such things as cash on hand, bank checking and savings accounts, stocks and bonds.) These standards apply to all households except those in which all members are getting public assistance. Certain household expenses can be deducted from income to determine costs of food stamps. According to Mrs. Fulton each applicant will need to bring the following information when applying for food stamps:

-- Names and ages of all persons who live in the home.

-- Social Security numbers for each member of the household who is 18 years of age or older.

-- Proof of all income of all those in family - latest pay slips, pay envelopes, pension award letters, (such as social security, railroad retirement, veterans administration, civil service retirement, etc.)

-- Current receipts from the office of the doctor or hospital showing the amount paid on bills each month.

-- Current rent, mortgage or house payment receipts, current receipts for gas, lights, water, telephone, garbage pickup and any other utility bills.

-- Current receipts from the drug store or health insurance office showing payments for medical supplies or health care.

Having this information ready for review will speed up the application for food stamps and will aid in determining the amount of money each person will pay for the stamps.

Mrs. Sarah B. Meadows will serve as supervisor for the food stamp program. Other employees are: Mrs. Verna C. Czeskleba, Mrs. Mary Nita Collins, Eligibility Technicians, Mrs. Myrtle Cupp, Clerk Typist I. The account clerk and Clerk Typist II have not been appointed yet.

In Montevallo and Calera--

Local Cub Scouts hold Blue-Gold banquets

Cub Scouts and Webelos of the Montevallo area gathered at the high school cafeteria Saturday evening for the annual Blue-Gold banquet, with their parents.

Scout leader Bill Allen presided at the dinner. Mrs. Carol Thompson, presented a tape recorded speech made by Governor George Wallace when Mrs. Thompson took her scouts on a tour of the capitol in Montgomery.

Mike Powell, director of the Vulcan district, outlined summer plans for scouts of the area which include a bicycle rodeo, swimming meets, and a rocket or pinewood derby.

A movie describing the work of the March of Dimes and the Walkathon was shown. The Montevallo cubs and Webelos are scheduled to take part in the county Tenn Walkathon on March 30 to raise money for the March of Dimes.

Robin Doss, the Shelby County poster child for the March of Dimes, attended the dinner with her parents.

Group singing concluded the program, led by Miss Marie Griffith, who demonstrated sign language to accompany the singing. Leldon Rochester was in charge of this part of the program. Rev. Paul Gauntt accompanied the singing on his guitar.

The three Cub dens and the Webelos had decorated the tables for the dinner with original hand made decorations.

Leaders of Cub and den One are Mrs. Ben Pette and Mrs. Carolyn Stevens. Den Two is led by Dot Cummings and Brenda Doss. Leaders of Den three are Adelle Pickett and Carol Thompson. Webelo leader is Leldon Rochester.

Guests at the banquet were Mr. and Mrs. Herb Milstead and Mayor and Mrs. Ralph Sears.

The evening of February 22 was a big event for the members of Cub Scout Pack 530 in Calera. The cub unit held its annual Blue and Gold banquet at the Calera rec building. Eighty-eight cub scouts, parents and guests were present.

BLUE AND GOLD BANQUET - - Calera Club Scout pack 530 pledges allegiance to the flag at their annual Blue and Gold dinner Feb. 22. The scouts observed the 64th anniversary of scouting.

The Blue and Gold banquet is an annual affair recognizing the birthday of scouting. This year a cake with 64 candles on it greeted the cubs as they celebrated the sixty-fourth anniversary of scouting.

Special guests at the banquet were Mayor and Mrs. George Roy and Calera High School principal and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Akridge.

Four dens presented skits at the program. One skit represented George Washington, Abe Lincoln, Betsy Ross and Uncle Sam. A second skit honored the American flag. Another clarified the cub scout promise while a fourth interpreted the freedoms enjoyed by an American boy. The Webelos den presented the color guard.

Cubmaster S.A. Jernigan welcomed two new den leaders into the pack.

ENTERTAIN BANQUET - - Rev. Paul Gauntt, Marie Griffith, Bill Allen and Leldon Rochester entertain Cub Scouts and their families at the annual Blue-Gold banquet held in Montevallo Saturday night. Music and singing were an important part of the program.

Candidates set shoot-out

The three candidates for Sheriff of Shelby County will be on hand at the Camp Branch turkey shoot to be held this Saturday at 1 p.m.

Billy Thompson, C.P. Walker and Allen Wilson will take part in the turkey shoot competition against each other, and against others in the fund raising event for Camp Branch Community Center softball team.

The softball team is sponsoring these events with David Seales as chairman, and Joe Littleton, Roy Holcombe, Jr., and Greg Roach, as committeemen.

The response last Saturday was so great that the women of Camp Branch requested another Saturday to take on the men. All are invited to come and participate.

Candidates running in the upcoming election are welcome. Seales encourages them to come out again this week and meet the people.

Improper signals cause driving risks

Officials at the University of Montevallo's Traffic Safety Center say a bad driving practice is being observed more and more on Alabama streets and highways.

This is how it works: in a line of two or more cars, the driver of a trailing car will blink his turn lights to indicate not his own intended turn, but the turn of a car up ahead. After the leading car makes his turn, the driver of the trailing car then shoots straight ahead.

This, the traffic safety experts say, is unsafe, and they urge drivers to stop the practice.

"Every driver should signal only his own intentions," TSC director J.C. Draper said.

"If a driver in a line of cars does not intend to turn, his only signal in closing up the line should be a 'slow down' or 'stop' signal," Draper stated. "Otherwise the question soon arises, 'Is the driver ahead of you going to turn, or is he lying.'"

A sure way to totally confuse the drivers behind you is to signal a turn either way and then go straight ahead, according to Draper.

Showing someone else's intentions is a good way to cause accidents and injury, he said, and while the offending driver might not be involved in the accident he would surely be the cause of it.

Draper noted that an improper turn signal with a blinker light actually is not illegal . . . "it won't get you in jail, but it could very well get you in the hospital or worse."

Giving the proper signal of your own intentions, and only your own, is nothing more than an accident avoidance procedure, and it's certainly a matter of driving courtesy, he declared.

LAST 8-CENT STAMPS - - Almost everyone tried to beat the deadline for the postal rate hike. Mrs. Frieda Perry displays a bundle of letters and bills from Davis Drug in Columbiana, as she mails them before the post office closes on Friday afternoon, March 1st. "You don't know how hard we worked to get these ready," said Mrs. Perry. Quite a number of businesses hurriedly readied a Friday mailing, rather than pay ten cents for first class letters under the new rates.

IRS can compute form 1040 taxes

Taxpayers filing Form 1040, with adjusted gross income of $20,000 or less, who take the standard deduction, can have the IRS compute their tax, Dwight Baptist, IRS District Director for Alabama, said today. This applies to taxpayers whose income is solely from wages, salary and tips, dividends, interest, pensions and annuities, he said.

"Those persons choosing to file the short Form 1040A can have the IRS compute the tax regardless of the amount of adjusted gross income," he added.

To take advantage of this service, taxpayers need only complete certain portions of the tax return, attach W-2 forms, sign the return, and mail it to the address indicated in the instruction booklet by April 15.

Details on what must be completed on the return are in the instruction booklet for each type of tax return.

Baptist advised taxpayers with questions to call or visit the nearest IRS office. Toll-free telephone numbers are shown in the tax forms packages this year.

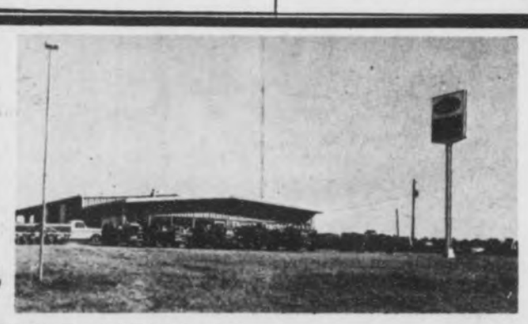
Ala. Power operates Gaston steam plant

Alabama Power Company will operate and maintain the Ernest C. Gaston Steam Plant at Wilsonville as the agent for Southern Electric Generating Company (SEGCO) under an agreement announced February 28. The announcement was made by Joseph M. Farley, president of Alabama Power, and A.E. Burnett, president of SEGCO.



SEGCO is owned in equal shares by Alabama Power and Georgia Power Company, each of which is entitled to one-half of the electricity generated by the Gaston plant. SEGCO's ownership and the division of power generated by its plant will not be affected by the agreement. The agreement does not affect SEGCO's coal mine near Parrish, Alabama, whose output helps supply the Gaston plant's needs.

Under their agreement, which has been authorized, by the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission, Alabama Power will act as agent for SEGCO for purposes of operating, maintaining, and making additions to the Gaston plant. Alabama Power also will be responsible for purchases of coal, fuel oil, supplies, materials, and equipment required for the plant's operation and maintenance. In addition, it will perform for SEGCO certain accounting, financial, and administrative functions.

The Ernest C. Gaston Steam Plant has four coal-fired units, which were placed in service between 1960 and 1962, and a relatively small combustion turbine unit. The plant's total installed generating capacity is 1,019,680 kilowatts.

Alabama Power has an 880,000- kilowatt coal- fired generating unit under construction at the Gaston plant. This unit, scheduled for operation in 1974, will be owned solely by Alabama Power.

Mr. Farley and Mr. Burnett said many facilities at the Gaston plant can be used jointly by SEGCO's existing units and the new Alabama Power unit.

Veteran broadcast journalist Sander Vanocur will appear in a special presentation at the University of Montevallo Thursday evening, Mar. 20.

The noted newsman-commentator came to national prominence as a member of the NBC news organization which he joined in 1957. Prior to that time, he had held staff posts with the Manchester Guardian, the North American Service of the BBC, CBS in London, and the New York Times.

His coverage of national and international events for NBC brought Vanocur to the nation's attention. Among his many major assignments were coverage of U.S. visits by Anastas Mikoyan and Nikita Khrushchev, and Democratic and Republican national conventions and campaigns from 1960 to 1968.

He was also well known as the "Today" show correspondent and as contributing editor of the Huntley-Brinkley Report.

Since leaving NBC he has served as anchorman on two feature programs of WNBC-TV in New York and as senior correspondent for the Public Broadcasting Service's National Public Affairs Center for Television in Washington, D.C. He is now a consultant to the Study of Democratic Institutions in the nation's capital.

Vanocur's appearance in Montevallo is a feature of the university's 1973-74 Concert and Lecture Series. Program time is 8:15 p.m. in Palmer Auditorium, and tickets may be obtained at the Palmer Hall box office prior to the program.

Bill Schroeder, volunteer chairman for the sale of U.S. Savings Bonds in Shelby County, has announced that the county exceeded its goal for the calendar year 1973.

Total sales for 1973 amounted to $320,433. This is 101.1 percent of the annual goal.

Over the state, sales for the year totaled $63,204,755, 98.3 percent of the state goal.

Schroeder is president of the Central State Bank in Calera.

Westover news

by Elsie Archer Jones

The wedding of Kathy Yvonne Williams and Rickey Wayne Alford was solemnized on March 1, at the Dolomite Baptist Church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Williams of Hueytown and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Alford from Concord.

The bridal gown was of white peau de soie and chantilly lace. A lace cap held her finger-tip veil of marquisette edged with lace matching her dress. She carried a bride's Bible covered with the matching lace and holding her bouquet of yellow roses mixed with white carnations, centered with a white orchid. The attendants dresses were solid yellow polyester seersucker; each carried a nose-gay of yellow daisies. The bride's mother wore a pink doubleknit dress, with a lace coat. The groom's mother wore a brown and white checked dress with a pleated skirt.

The bride wore as a special ornamental pendant watch which her grandmother Alverson wore on her wedding day, 34 years ago. It was a gift to her from her parents. They say that the watch still keeps perfect time. It has been worn by each member of the family on their wedding day since the death of the grandmother.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and the groom's best man was his father. Other attendants were: Maid of Honor, Miss Beverly Partridge. Bride's maids were Misses Denise Storey, Susan Alford, Shireen Alverson. Stacy Alverson, and Tammy Shirley. Flower girls were Tracy Bates, Wyna Alverson and Michelle McSwain. Groomsmen were Levoy Williams, Tim Alford, Dennis Hill, and Billy Joe Shirley. Barry Shirley was ring bearer.

The bride's grandparents are Mrs. Maggie Muse and the late Burke Alverson of Westover.

A reception followed the wedding. The couple will be at home in Bessemer.

Friends and relatives of Horace Oliver Moore, age 72, were saddened at the news of his death in Fayetteville, Tenn. on Sat. night, March 2. He had been in ill health for a long time. Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Eva Moore, a son, Horace Oliver Moore, Jr. of Birmingham; a step-son, Bill Butler, of Maple, Fla.; two grandchildren; three brothers: Lewis Moore, Birmingham, Russell Moore, Westover; and Cullie Moore, of Everett, Washington; two sisters - - Mrs. Blanche Curtis, of Birmingham, and Mrs. Maxine Kimbell, of Lexington, Ohio.

Mr. Moore was a native of Westover. His parents were the late James Oliver Moore and the late Mrs. Hixie Anna Moore, natives and residents of Westover for many years. His grandparents were the late Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Moore and the late Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sewell, all natives of the Westover area.

Visitors in the home of Mrs. Sarah Eggler during the week-end were Mr. and Mrs. Wyndol Hamer, of Haleyville, Ala. and Mrs. Juanita Mayer, of Birmingham. Mr. and Mrs. Hamer were attending the State Convention of anesthetists in Birmingham and made a hurried visit to see their sister.

Local church news

by Hugh White

The senior adults of Dogwood Grove Baptist Church were honored with a banquet at the local community center last Friday evening.

Sponsors of the event were the younger adults who wished to show their appreciation for the faithfulness of this group in their leadership.

Some 36 adults were seated around gaily decorated tables laden with ham, turkey and dressing, vegetables and various desserts.

Also served were specialty dishes, popular in days past, which brought many expressions of surprise. Approximately 25 men and women prepared and served the food.

The pastor, J.C. Payne, acted as master of ceremonies for the event. Entertainment was provided by a skit showing a couple preparing to go on a honeymoon after 50 years of marriage. Also, five couples played the "Newlyweds" as seen on TV.

From the amount of laughter and remarks overheard, a good time was had by all.

We would like to welcome REv. Jim Lee as pastor of Underwood Baptist Church. Rev. Lee took over his duties in January.

We are glad to hear Mrs. Zella Langston is doing well at Shelby Memorial Hospital.

The regular community singing will be held Sunday afternoon, March 10 at Mt. Era Methodist Church beginning at 1:30. The Dotson family from Birmingham will be guest singers in charge of the program.

RUINS - - A mobile home blaze brought fire trucks rushing to Pelham's Steel City Mobile Homes. Trucks from Alabaster, Pelham, and Helena were on the scene to extinguish the flames at the dealer's lot. The fire occurred around 7:15 p.m. Saturday, March 2. It apparently was an electrical fire, leaving $7,000 damage when the mobile home burned. (Photo by Jim Roper)

Montevallo news

Mr. and Mrs. E.E. Patterson (Annette Potts) of Niceville, Fla. are the parents of a son, Samuel Edwards, born Feb. 25th, weighing seven pounds and three ounces. Proud grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. James Potts.

The Centrala Garden Club met Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Loudell LaGrone with Mrs. Elizabeth Meyer serving as co-hostess. Mr. Eric Stipe, recreation director for the town, gave a short program on Montevallo's Recreation Program. Following his talk, members held a panel discussion on planting time and plant catalogs for spring and summer.

The Montevallo High School concert band participated in the district band festival held at Shades Valley High School last Friday.

The MHS band received unanimous approval of the judges, getting three "yes" votes. The band is now eligible to compete in the state band festival to be held in Tuscaloosa later this spring.

The band is under the direction of James Weese.

Mrs. Rich to head group

The Westover Extension Homemakers met in the home of Mrs. Jim Malloy on February 19.

The election of officers was presided over by Mrs. Varina Smith, the out-going president.

New officers are, Mrs. Harold Rich, president; Mrs. Wayne Archer, Mrs. Ray Shirley, Mrs. Jim Malloy, vice presidents; Mrs. Leon Archer, secretary treasurer and Mrs. Kenneth Prickett, reporter. The program was "Your Family Life Cycle."

THS band visits New Orleans

The Thompson High School stage band competed in the Loyola Jazz Festival in New Orleans on February 14, 15 and 16.

The 21 member THS band, directed by Elson Hood, competed with bands from all over the Southeast. The stage band's music is modeled after the big band sounds, playing mostly rock, jazz and swing.

The band will be featured at the monthly Shelby County teacher's meeting at Columbiana this Thursday.

The Montevallo recreation department is fielding a team in the Alabama adult basketball tournament to be played in Homewood this weekend. The tournament games will be played in the Homewood High School gymnasium and in the Homewood amory.

Competing in the tournament will be two teams from Cullman, teams from Decatur, Gardendale, Guntersville, Leeds, Montevallo, Rosedale, Talladega, and two from Tuscaloosa.

Montevallo is scheduled to play a team from Tuscaloosa at 6:30 p.m. Friday in first round tournament action.

Mr. and Mrs. Buck Prescott and their daughter

Party honors Prescotts

Mr. and Mrs. Buck Prescott of Rt. 1, Maylene celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary Sunday, March 3. The anniversary tea was given by their daughter, Mrs. Nadine Christie.

Relatives attending were Mrs. Leonard Prescott, Miss Odell Prescott, Mr. and Mrs. Angelo Boshell, all of Carbon Hill and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Dickson of Bessemer. Also present was their son-in-law, David C. Christy, their grandchildren, Terry and Carolyn Mae and many friends.

Alberta Murphy hits 'rumor machine'

Mrs. Alberta Murphy has filed her qualification papers for the Democratic nomination for Congress from the Seventh District. Mrs. Murphy, who ran a close second two years ago, will face Walter Flowers.

Speaking to supporters in Tuscaloosa, Mrs. Murphy said she learned some lessons last time and would not sit back and let a two-bit Watergate rumor machine spread lies in the last week of the campaign. "I learned that being a lady did not protect me from Flowers' gutter tactics two years ago," she said. "If he chooses to take the low road again, then I am willing to submit my life-long commitment to the Ten Commandments and the Constitution to the voters of the Seventh District. Will he?"

Although a Methodist, she graduated from Baylor, a Baptist College in Texas. "I also insisted that my son complete four years at a church - supported college before entering law school at the University of Alabama."

The theme of her campaign, Mrs. Murphy said, would be "Let's Clean Up the Mess."

"This is not going to be a slogan- type campaign; it's going to be issues. I want to go into every corner of the district with the facts and figures and expose Walter Flowers' record in favor of special interests such as the big oil manipulators who now threaten to give us $1 a gallon gasoline. We are a little district here in the Seventh, but we can send a big message to Washington by voting out the only part of it we can get our hands on."

Brenda is coming back to work on Fridays and Saturdays.

No one's looks are improved by shadowy down over the upper lip. To take away the shadow, try a good wax remover or facial creme bleach. Have a look around the jaw line, too. People who tend toward facial hair usually have peach fuzz around the jaw and up to the hairline as well as a moustache. We have the wax at Carlene's Coiffures.

Carlene's is open dialy Monday through Saturday and Thursday and Friday nights until 9 p.m. by appointment.

Montevallo Bulldogs win state play-off berth

The Montevallo Buldogs will be going to the state 2-A play-offs for the third time in three years. They won their state berth last week as they battled their way through area and regional play-offs last week.

The Bulldogs were awarded a bye in the first round of the area seven, district four tournament played in West Blocton last week.

Montevallo's first game came in the sime-finals of the area tournament Thursday night. The Bulldog knocked off Talladega Training by the score of 68-48.

Ronnie Tyus was the high scorer for Montevallo with 31 points. Team-mates Percy Brown and Willie Moore scored 19 and 10 points against Talladega Training.

Leading the scoring for Talladega were Melvin Rivers, Tim Truss and Roger Calhoun all scoring 12 points apiece.

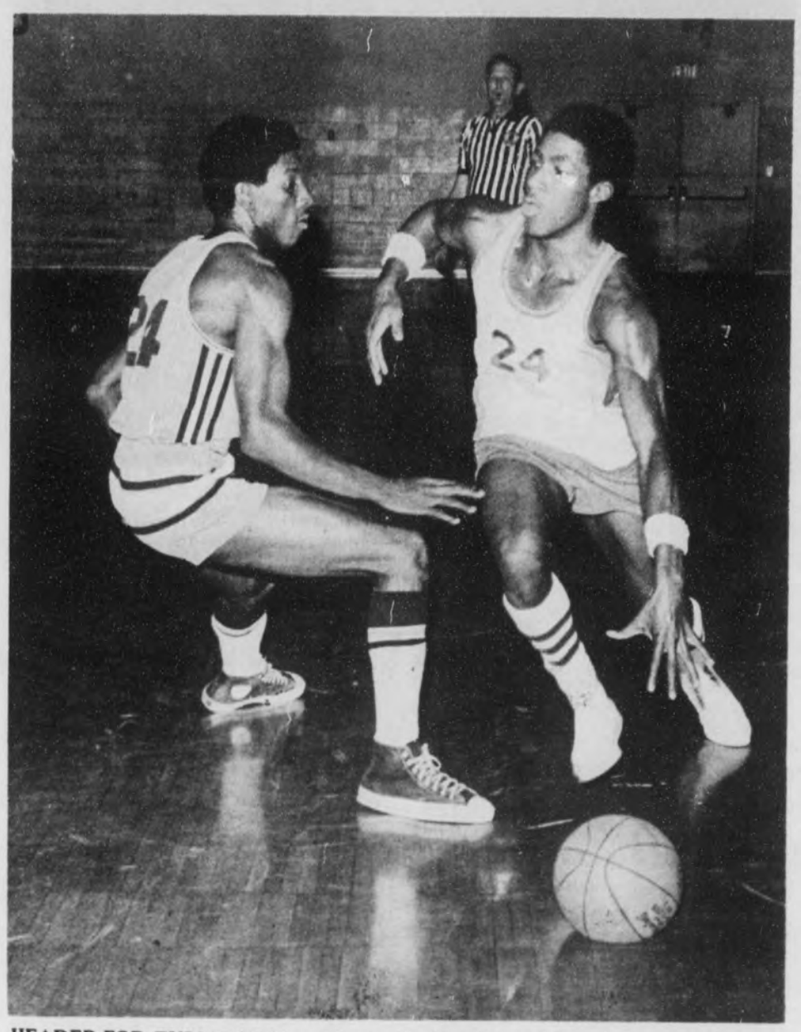
The Bulldogs then advanced to the chamionship where they downed West Blocton 59-40, to win the region seven tournament.

High men for Montevallo were Ronnie Tyus, 17; Percy Brown, 15 and Thomas Brown, 10.

Steve Preston scored 16 points for West Blocton while Sheldon Collins scored 13.

On Saturday night the Bulldong faced area seven chamion Ashville High School in the district five playoffs held at Gadsden State Junior College. The Bulldogs won 48-41.

Percy Brown scored 22 points against Ashville while Willie Moore scored 12 points. Larry Bathwelle led Ashville's attack by scoring 12 points.



Three Montevallo players were named to the area seven all-tournament team. They are Willie Moore, Ronnie Tyus and Percy Brown.

Other all-tournament players and their schools are Kenneth Fair and James Riggins, Vincent; Don Portis, Shelby County; Melvin Rivers, Talladega Training; and Mike Baily, Shelton Collins, Steve Preston, West Blocton.

Montevallo will face Sulligent High School at 9 p.m. Wednesday, March 6, in the state tournament played in Tuscaloosa.

HEADED FOR TUSCALOOSA - - Montevallo High School's Ronnie Tyus (24) helped to spark the MHS bulldogs on to victory in the 2-A area seven tournament last week. Montevallo then won a berth to the state 2-A tournament being held in Tuscaloosa.

THS advances to finals

Thompson High School advanced to the semi finals of the 3-A high school area eight district five tournament played in Clanton last week.

In a first round game played Tuesday night the Warriors soundly whipped B.B. Comer of Sylacauga by the score of 66-44.

Mike Oden led Thompson down the warpath by scoring 21 points against Comer. He was followed by James Taniehill with 16 points and John Adams with 12 points.

The warriors then advanced to the semi-finals where they went up against Chilton County High School. Chilton County was awarded a bye in the first round making Thompson thier first opponent in the tournament.

The early moments of the game were characterized by defensive play and the score was tied 12-12 at the end of the first quarter. Thompson pulled ahead in the second quarter and led 30-25 at the half.

The scales tipped slightly for Chilton County in the third quarter and they led 43-40 at the end of that period. Then with cheers of encouragement from the hometown crowd, Chilton County exploded in the fourth quarter and defeated Thompson by ten points. The final score was 62-52.

Leading scorers for Thompson in the second game were Mike Oden with 16 points, James Tanniehill with 14 points and John Adams with 12 points.

Mahaffey and Hall led Chilton County with 26 and 13 points each.

Leading the yellowjackets against West Blocton was James Riggins scoring 25 points. Riggins was followed by Kenneth Fair with 14 points and Paul Hamilton scoring 13 points.

Height is problem for Chelsea cagers

Chelsea High school lost to Birmingham University School in the area 13 1-A basketball tournament held in Hayden last week.

Chelsea coach Gary Stepehens talked to the Reporter about the game. Stephens said that B.U.S. was a much taller team and was able to control the backboards. He continued that Chelsea was out rebounded in the tournament game.

Stephens went on to say that height has been a problem which has plagued the hornets all season. Because of this the Chelsea players have had touble getting shots. Stephens also said that the Chelsea squad has had a problem with turnovers.

Leading the Chelsea squad was player Mike Young who scored 17 points against B.U.S. Stephens commented that Young has averaged around 20 points a game this year and will be back next season.

'Goober' will host benefit tourney

Phil Snow, past president of the Montgomery Association of Retarded Children, announced last week that plans were being made for the second George Lindsey benefit golf tournament. The one day tourney will be played on April 28, at Montgomery's 6,750 yard, par 71 Arrowhead country club gold course.

George Lindsey, better known as television's "Goober", has been involved for four years with the Alabama retarded children's Special Olympics. Through the tournament, Lindsey will be attempting to raise money to improve the facilities and programs for the retarded throughout the state.

Lindsey is inviting some forty of his friends in the sports world as well as the entertainment field to take part in this affair. They will then let 120 amateurs sign up with their $100 entry fee aiding the cause.

As of the announcement of the golf tournament, Phil Snow stated that definite commitments to participate in the golf tournament again this year had been received from Lee Roy Jordan, Paul Bryant, and Ernie Borgnine, plus three new additions in television and movie stars, Dale Robertson, and television and recording stars, Buck Ownes, and Las Vegas entertainer Anthony Armstrong Jones.

Lindsey has said, "It's going to be a fun week-end. We will have Tammy Wynette, George Jones, Jeanne Pruett, and many others down from Nashville to do a show on Saturday night at Garrett Coliseum. Then on Sunday, we are all going out and chase the golf ball."

Anyone desiring an entry blank or any additional information on the golf tournament should write Phil Snow, c/o Celebrity Golf Tournament, P.O. Box 1443, Montgomery, Alabama 36102.

Garrett is named for athletic honor

Tom Garrett of Shelby County High School has been named to the Prep All-America football program for 1973-74. This decision was announced last week by the editors of COACH & ATHLETE Magazine.

Garrett was nominated for this honor last fall by the Shelby County High School athletic department. Criteria for nominated included: outstanding athletic ability, based on career records sportsmanship, leadership and service to the team and community.

Sponsored by COACH & ATHLETE Magazine, the Prep All-America Football Program is an annual honor roll of outstanding football players from high school teams throughout the country.

Management boosts 'gator population

About ten years ago the Department of Conservation and Natural Resources embarked on a concentrated program to save Alabama's alligators from the brink of extinction.

Latest reports indicate that this effort is paying off. In a report filed by wildlife biologist W.J. Hamrick of Jackson, the alligator population appears to be on the upswing in Alabama.

Hamrick reported the sighting of 104 'gators during a project conducted during last spring and summer.

The largest number of sightings -- 25 -- was in large impoundments. The second most favorite habitat was farm ponds where 20 were sighted. Natural lakes and sloughs were a close third with 19 sightings. Some 13 were sighted in estaurine areas and 12 were observed in small streams.

These top five habitat areas accounted for 89 alligators or 85.6 percent of the 104 animals sighted.

Some 65 percent of the alligators sighted were less than six feet long. This length is generally accepted as the dividing line between adult and immature 'gators. Even though the figures involve a small number of 'gators, the fact that 65 percent were classed as immature inducated that reproduction has been good and the alligator population should be increasing.

Game and Fish Division Director Charles Kelley said the special efforts of the Division's enforcement personnel had been a major factor in the successful build up of Alabama's alligator population.

Little League helps to busy our young people constructively and keep them off the streets. We hope that you will come out and support the team for this will give the boys incentive to make their team one of the most outstanding in the county. Games will be held in the new Joe Tucker Park.

Names cause confusion

Troy Thrasher, and Jerry Thrasher both of Bessemer, who were arrested two weeks ago in connection with a burglary ring are not members of the Thrasher family who once lived in Wilsonville.

The similarity of names has caused confusion and embarrassment to the family.

The Troy Thrasher and Jerry Thrasher who grew up in Wilsonville now live in Jacksonville, Fla. and in Hoover.

Mouse project raises $1,000 fund

"Sending a Mouse to college" is the goal of students at Shelby County's elementary and middle schools this week, and they have raised enough money to send lots of mice to college.

According to Mrs. Elizabeth Stowe of Alabaster, chairman of the school drive for the Shelby County unit of the Cancer Society, school children raised $1,000 for the research project of the society.

Mrs. Stowe said there was almost 100 percent participation by the schools of the county.

Children at the various schools devised clever ideas for raising the funds. Idea behind the drive is to purchase mice for cancer research at research centers throughout the United States.

Why is your A.D. Pharmacist called "personal"?

Because he's always available for personal consultation. He makes sure you understand your doctor's instructions for instance.

It's a very good idea to check with him on non-prescriptions too. The fifth largest cause of hospital admissions is drug misuse resulting from self-medications. Be sure. Be safe. Ask your A.D. Personal Pharmacist.

Ministerial association formed in Vincent area

Ministers in the Vincent area met Saturday morning, March 2, at Vincent United Methodist Church and organized the first Ministerial Association for this area. Elected to serve for the ensuing year are: President, Rev. Frank Ellison (Vincent Methodist); VP, Rev. Roy Davis (Assembly of God, Vincent); Secretary, Rev. Herman Pair (Macedonia North Baptist); Devotional Chairman, Rev. Douglas Reynolds (Pentecostal Church, Vincent). Others in attendance were Rev. Charles Card, Calvary Baptist, Vincent; Rev. Lamar Griggs, First Baptist Church, Vincent; and Mrs. Elvin Green representing Rev. Weaver Vansant of Providence Baptist Church.

The ministers decided on these goals: closer fellowship with one another, community outreach, meeting community needs together, helping each other with visits to the sick, and praying together for the good of the community. They voted to have a community sunrise service on Easter morning at the Vincent United Methodist Church. It was agreed to meet twice a month on the first and third Saturday mornings. Meetings are to be held in the churches on a rotating basis. The next meeting will be held March 16, 9 a.m. at Macedonia North Baptist Church.

Other ministers in the area will be invited to join the association.

SPEED LIMIT CHANGE - - As a result of Governor George C. Wallace's orders to comply with the recently passed Emergency Highway Energy Conservation Act, Highway Employees across the State have begun to place overlays over present signs, as these two young men are doing, lowering the speed limit to 55 miles per hour for all motor vehicles. Lowering of the speed limit assures Alabama of continued federal funding for highway construction.

Oven saves energy when used properly

by American Gas Assoc.

Did you know that the gas used by a range to cook three meals for a family of four costs about $ .03 per day, or under $10 per year, based on a gas cost of ten cents per therm?

A thermostatically controlled surface burner can save as much at 16 percent of energy. These controlled burners (sometimes called "Burner- with-a- Brain") use just enough energy to cook meals to perfection.

Despite the low cost of cooking with gas, energy savings are still possible by using common sense cooking techniques. For example, to start boiling, use a minimum amount of water and a full flame. After the boiling process starts, turn the flame to simmer; vigorous boiling wastes energy and does not cook food faster. Cover pans to keep heat inside and utilize the steam for cooking. Defrost foods before cooking to save time and energy. And, don't ignore the old pressure cooker. It can be a great time/energy saver.

Using the oven wisely also conserves energy. Instead of cooking one potato or one casserole, plan an entire oven meal - main dish, vegetables, bread and dessert. It's not always necessary to preheat the oven; when preheating is required, ten minutes should be sufficient.

Rely on time and temperature when using the oven. Trust your oven, or use a meat thermometer. Opening the door to check on baking foods colls the oven, and thus wastes gas. Preheating a gas broiler is unnecessary, and the door should not be left open during broiling.

Dairies run in Bearden and Baker families

NEW DAIRY LOCATION - - Ralph Bearden looks over the new family 800 acre dairy located in the far northeast section of Shelby County. The Bearden family has operated a dairy near Helena for 45 years, but they feel a new location is needed as housing demands in the Helena area make dairying operations increasingly difficult . (Photo by Willard Harrison.)

Are milk prices too high? "Yes," say some. "NO", say the milk producers of Shelby County.

Dairying is an important part of Shelby County's agricultural and business activity. This county is the second highest milk producing county in Alabama.

In an attempt to present some of the problems faced by local dairymen in today's inflationary economy, Shelby County Reporter staff members, Rick Moore and Willard Harrison recently conducted interviews of several dairymen. The first interviews were printed two weeks ago. Last week, a tornado hit one of the county's important dairies, adding to the woes of the milk producer. This week we present further views and photographs of Shelby County and dairies.

The Beardens of Helena run a family- type dairy. The father, J.E. (Ned) Bearden began the operation in 1929, and, with the help of his sons, has expanded the operation to handle four hundred cows.

The Beardens are expanding from their large farm in Helena to another location in Vincent. Their new farm, formerly owned by Dr. Carraway, is presently taking care of about a hundred head of cows. With the price of land soaring around Helena, the Beardens have a strong incentive to sell parts of the farm to people who want to build hosues.

But even the demand for residential area around Helena will not cause them to suddenly transfer the farm to another locale. Only Ralph Bearden has any plans to move to the new farm, where he is building a new house. A gradual shift to the other dairy is quite likely Ralph Bearden admits, but at present two farms are better than one.

A Bearden trademark is trophy - winning among the children. Even in the early days Leonard, Ralph, and Joel would compete among each other for prizes in showing their cows. The three children of the late Leonard Bearden won their share of trophies and blue ribbons before they grew up, and the other children are still adding to the list of cattle shows won. This year Randy Bearden won a trip to Chicago as the first prize in dairy cow competition.

Like all dairymen, they are concerned about the price of milk and the amount of profit they can make. According to Ralph, diarymen are not necessarily in favor of a hike in milk prices, but they favor a drop in the cost of cow feed. He feels that the four cents per gallon increase due this month will not be much help to the dairy farmer, and that many dairymen may have to leave the business. He says that the mild winter has helped the situation by allowing more grazing on winter grasses.

Tommy Baker who has a dairy near Montevallo is from the third generation of dairymen. His grandfather started the famiiy dairy in 1906. Baker declares the family has never faced an economic crisis since then like they are experiencing now.

Baker has cut his dairying operations in half. He is now milking 75 cows. Baker said he is replacing 400 head of milk cattle with 300 head of beef cattle.

Baker sayd that he is unable to plan future agriculture operations because of the present uncertain economic conditions.

Baker's dairy is equipped with an automatic feed silo, an automatic hay system and walk- through milk parlor. Baker also has permanent pastures to graze his cattle.

UM presents mountain play

"Dark of the Moon", a play based on an old Smoky Mountain folk legend, is being presented at the University of Montevallo's Palmer Auditorium on Wednesday, March 6, and Thursday the 7th. Written by Howard Richardson and William Berney, the play concerns traditional superstitions and religious practices of the mountain people.

Directed by Marcia W. Urban, a graduate student in the university's speech and theatre department, the play centers around a young witch boy and the "normal" girl with whom he falls in love and marries. Conflict arises when local citizens, in their religious intolerance and superstition, drive the young man away.

Lead roles in the play featured Doug Trotter, of Eufaula, and Patti Anderson, Birmingham. Trotter is a graduate student in speech and theatre, and is currently a teacher in Shelby County; Miss Anderson is a fourth- year music major at Montevallo.

Other cast members were Delores Adkins, Lyn Chichester, Stark Harbour, and Weldon Stice, of Montevallo, and Rhonda Short of Helena.

Underground paper ruled legal in school

Two high school seniors wrote and mimeographed an "underground newspaper," then distributed copies to students just outside the school grounds. The principal, incensed, suspended them from their classes. The two students, equally incensed, took the matter to court.

At the hearing, the principal pointed to a rule of the Board of Education forbidding students to hand out any printed material without his approval.

But the court decided that the Board's rule was a violation of freedom of the press. Ordering the students reinstated, the court said such a rule could even prevent one student from handing another student a bible.

"The purpose of education," observed the court, "is to spread, not to stifle, ideas and views."

THE FAMILY LAWYER

This version of student right is now followed by most courts. In particular, they look with tolerance on political, social, and economic criticism. As one judge commented, in upholding the placing of an anti-war advertisement in a high school newspaper:

"Free speech is not confined to classroom discussion."

On the other hand, the law recognizes that some limits may be justified by the necessities of orderly education. "Time and place" rules for distributing literature are generally hald to be with in the school's authority. Extreme vulgarity, too, has been condemned.

Furthermore, courts usually allow a tighter rein on high school students than on college students. In one case, a court upheld disciplinary action against a high school student because of a scurrilous leaflet denouncing the principal. The court said:

"Activities of high school students do not always fall within the same category as the conduct of college students, the former being in a much more adolescent and immature stage of life and less able to screen fact from propaganda.

"The line of reason must be drawn somewhere."

A public service feature of the American Bar Association and the Alabama State Bar Association. Written by Will Bernard.

Students view atomic world

Students in 44 Alabama schools will have the opportunity to view "This Atomic World" presentation during March, April and May.

The presentation is sponsored jointly by the Oak Ridge Association of Universities and the Atomic Energy Commission, and is operated by the University of Alabama- Birmingham (UAB).

The program, which explains in student terms the structure of atoms and the operation of nuclear reactors, as well as such concepts as radiation, fission and fusion, will be presented by James R. Dodson, Jr.

It will be shown at Thompson High School on March 25.

It is scheduled for Shelby County High on May 14, Montevallo High on May 15 and Calera High on May 16.

FHA loans cover losses from tornado

Residents of Shelby County, who sustained production or physical losses as a result of the tornado, severe storms and flooding, beginning on or about May 27, 1973, may be eligible to receive an emergency loan from the Farmers Home Administration county office at Shelby County Courthouse, Rm. 207, Columbiana, before close of business April 2, 1974.

These loan applications will be taken under the terms of a new law enacted January 2, 1974. Individual examination will be made of each application to determine date of disaster occurrence, eligibility of the applicant, and purposes for which a loan may be made.

Payment terms depend on the purposes for which the loan is used and the applicant's payment ability. Emergency loans under this authorization will be made at five percent interest.

Hunt begins flight school

Larry Hunt, son of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Hunt of Route 1, Vincent, has begun basic flight training at the Naval Air Station here.

When he completes Aviation Officer Candidate School he will be commissioned an ensign and begin more than a year of intensive ground and inflight training leading to his degisnation as a Naval Aviator.

A 1973 graduate of Alabama A&M University, Normal, he joined the Navy in June 1973.

New Skylab stamp launched

"Those Alabama men and women who launched the Skylab mission should be the ones to launch the Nation's special Skylab postage stamp," Senator Jim Allen has told the U.S. Postal Service as he sought to have official ceremonies for the new stamp set at Huntsville's Marshall Space Flight Center.

In a letter urging selection of the Alabama location, Senator Allen said, "Skylab is of special interest to Alabamians because of the idea for the project was born in the minds of scientists at Marshall and throughout its successful mission the program has been managed from that NASA Center."

Commending the Postal Service for its decision to issue the Skylab stamp, Senator Allen said "it reflects due credit and recognition to those men and women responsible for our nation's successes in space. The Postal Service would be doing these Americans great honor by holding the release ceremony at Marshall or in Huntsville," he asserted.

March 10 through 16--

Girl Scout Week is set

by Mildred White Wallace

Several weeks ago, we, here in the office, were taking frequent "breaks" to enjoy Girl Scout Cookies. Today we should like to raise our limited penpoint in a tribute to these nearly four million strong Girl Scouts that come from every ethnic, racial, economic and cultural group in the nation. They work together, learn together and do their part toward helping make the United States a better place in which to live. This organization is proudly commemorating its 62nd anniversary and declaring March 10-16 as Girl Scout Week.

Since its inception in 1912, Girl Scouting has instilled in its membership the highest ideals of character, service and patriotism. Whether it be through programs of conservation, drug- abuse prevention or a hundred others, the Girl Scouts are always in the forefront, offering a positive and creative outlet for the energies of modern youth.

The 1974 Girl Scout Week theme is, "Wanted -- Girl Scout Leaders" -- which is a concise reminder that Scouting can be brought within the reach of all eligible girls only if more adults step forward to help guide the young leaders of tomorrow.

The organization urges -- "be a Girl Scout leader; it means so much to our youth, and so much to all of us".

'Big Jim' Folsom adds pizazz to race

by Mildred White Wallace

The first time the writer remembers meeting the colorful figure from Cullman known as "Big Jim" Folsom, he was in Columbiana running for Governor. At this time, as I recall it, he was taking the telephone company to task about something. I remember talking with him on the corner of where Jones Flower Shop now stands, and he made this statement: "When I am Governor I am going to reach up and pull the wires down" -- etc -- He gestured upward and almost touched the telephone wire above his head. (I have forgotten the issue) but not the man. He was nattily attired in a brown tweed suit, light tan camel hair overcoat and a broad brimmed beige sombrero. I told him "if he should miss the Chief Executive's position he should head for Hollywood" -- I felt sure he would -- eventually win an Oscar.

Today - many years later -- I find a press release on my desk stating that the then widely known dynamic personality "Big Jim" Folsom -- that says, he is a candidate for Lieutenant- Gov. The communique recalls some facts that have transpired since -- "way back when -- referred to above. He recalls particularly the 1962 gubernatorial race -- in which the following prominent Americans were involved. "Today -- he says, be it noted that President Kennedy is dead, DeGraffenreid (our Congressman) is dead, Bobby Kennedy is dead, Governor Wallace is crippled, Mayor Boutwell quit, Ole "Big Jim" was disabled for nine years". "Now, -- he continues: "For three years I've been going to Church Singings, and playing the best poker hand in Cullman".

Postscript-

Since writing the above paragraphs, the politically ambitious giant from Cullman has changed his mind and tossed his hat in the arena as a candidate for Governor of Alabama.

How 'bout that?

MARY ELLA COLLINS
. . . engaged to Gregory Wade Woodfin

Miss Collins to wed Woodfin in April

Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Collins announce the engagement of their daugher, Mary Ella, to Gregory Wade Woodfin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther G. Almaroad of Clanton.

Miss Collins' grandparents are the late Mr. and Mrs. William Lee Smith of Clanton and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Collins of Thorsby.

Grandparents of Mr. Woodfin are Mr. and Mrs. T.J. Ellison and the late Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Woodfin all of Clanton.

Miss Collins attended the University of Montevallo and graduated from Jacksonville State University with a B.S. degree in marketing.

Mr. Woodfin is presently employed with United Lumber Products of Thorsby and working in Decatur, Alabama.

The wedding is planned for April 6, 7:30 p.m. at First Baptist Church in Thorsby. Everyone is cordially invited.

Bob Hume addresses Novella Club meet

Members of the Novella Club met in the Library Club Room Thursday evening for their regular monthly meeting. Hostesses were Patsy McCombs, Peggie Moody and Gussie Bell.

Bob Hume was presented as guest speaker and he showed views from the trip to the North and Eastern part of the U.S. which the Boy Scouts took last summer along with his historic sketch.

Cherry O' Cream pie and coffee was served carrying out the George Washington birthday theme.

Plans are now being made for the Mexican Fiesta and Dutch Dinner which will be held at the next meeting when husbands and boy friends will be invited to share the colorful event.

Across the miles . . .

From Bardstown, Ky. comes the following message: "If no other good comes from the Watergate scandal surely it will be that the American people will wake up and realize that if our democratic system is going to last, we must work for it. If we do not participate in government -- at least by voting, we will have only ourselves to blame if one day we wake up and find we have lost our freedom to a dictator!"

The May Primary Election is fast approaching. It might be well to take note of the above warning and do your part toward keeping democracy alive by going to your polling place and casting your vote for the candidate whom you believe -- as an individual -- will best serve your county, state and nation. Should you fail to do this "mandatory - goose - stepping" to the polls might be a little nearer than you think!

League elects queen

Mrs. Sonja King was elected as reigning queen of the Alabaster Suburban League at recent festivities.

The event was designed to inspire young people of the Alabaster area to take a civic minded interest in their community and to portray a new concept of beauty - the beauty of unselfish community service.

First runner-up was Miss Toni McDade, followed by Miss Charlotte Shield, Miss Valerie Underwood and Miss Pamella Greene. Others who entered the contest were Miss Wanda Faye Carter, Miss Linda Mixon and Mrs. Janice Smitherman, Linda Alexander and Lynn Adams.

The Suburban League honored Mrs. Hattie Stewart and Mrs. Eloise Underwood for faithful service. Mrs. Rose Upson was recognized in honor of the late Dean Upson, liaison officer of the League.

League chairman Robert Tolbert said that many persons contributed greatly to the success of the event, naming Miss Mary Roach, principal of Thompson Middle School, and trustees, city and county officials and the public for supporting the League's activities.

The League has purchased land for a proposed community center and hopes to raise enough money to begin construction soon.

Fishermen's menu ideas kill appetite

By Mildred White Wallace

Over-the- coffee-cups-chatter Thursday, Feb. 28, centered around a talk with bookkeepers with whom we were having lunch. All admitted they were trying to beat the clock on "bills" due and payable March 1 -- in order to save two cents on each letter mailed to customers. Mr. Morris joined us, and then came Ed Lightsey, Top Glenn, and a few more folk interested in fishing and in beavers which they stated were cutting down timber and damming up streams on farms etc. For the benefit of the one who wanted to know if there were a limit to the killing of these animals According to Ed Lightsey, the season on beavers is open year round. You can "shoot 'em-trap 'em - kill 'em and eat 'em -- if and whenever you care to come in contact with them.

The menus the fishermen stated they liked "best of anything" consisted of "possum, rat cheese and sardines". At this point we decided we did not care for anything else to eat that day.

News of your friends and mine

by Mildred White Wallace

Happy-go-lucky- and breezy March came in Friday bringing its unpredictable weatherand also creating some changes in postal rates. If you want to send a letter now to that certain somebody - it will cost you ten cents -- instead of eight cents you have been paying. Just a reminder when you go to the post office take an extra two cents with you. Other prices on items going through this avenue of communication have also taken a leap upward. Consult your postmaster for details.

Columbiana continues to expand, and more professional and commercial office space seems to be needed. It is reported that Clark Dean a C.P.A. has purchased some property from Chubby McGhee and will soon begin construction on a new building suitable for offices. The new City Hall will also be located on this street and construction should soon start on this municipal facility. Low rent homes are still lacking for citizens wanting to make their future homes in this part of Alabama.

Fay Quick, Shelby County's efficient Tax Collector, definitely merits the recognition she received in a feature article which appeared in Monday's Birmingham Post-Herald written by Nancy Duncan. In this article Mrs. Quick is referred to as the "smiling Tax Collector". Those of us who have been associated with her in a business way, and certainly -- all our lives in that friendly sort o'way, also know that she belies the statement that a "prophet is not without honor save in his own country" -- for Mrs. Quick's record of public service, and the confidence her constituents have placed in her, evidences their appreciation for the way in which she has managed this important official post since they placed it in her hands as custodian of their interests.

May we also add that her assistant, Delyn Cost, also merits our personal congratulations for her long years of faithful and conscientious work in this office. Fact is, only the best in clerical assistance is ever employed in the Tax Collector's office and the result naturally follows that that examiners of public records always rate this office as "tops" thereby setting an example worthy of emulating by all public officials.

Mrs. Rick McDow directed the program featuring the life of Annie Armstrong at First Baptist Church Sunday evening using members of the Junior Acteens as narrators. The young thespians and their director merit congratulations for this factual presentation which kicked off the drive for funds for this Home Mission work. Preceding the program a taped message from Gay Nichols currently serving the Korean children in California's home mission fields was heard. The drive for furthering Home Mission work will close Easter Sunday. The goal set is $1,200.

AIMING FOR ECONOMY WITH A SMALL CAR?
THE DODGE BOYS ARE RIGHT ON TARGET

1974 Dodge Dart Swinger 2-door hardtop.
1974 Dodge Dart Custom 4-door sedan.

WITH A FREE AUTOMATIC TRANSMISSION.

Right now, when you buy either a Dart Swinger hardtop or Dart Custom four-door sedan optionally equipped with power steering, vinyl roof, AM radio, light package, whitewall tires, deluxe wheel covers, left remote-control mirror, deluxe bumper guards, three-speed wipers with electric washers, day/night inside mirror, deluxe insulation package, and special exterior mouldings, your Dodge Dealer can offer you the automatic transmission free (because Dodge doesn't charge him for it). See the new '74 Dart Automatic Specials at the Dodge Boys' right away.

SEE THE GREAT SMALL CARS THAT MAKE UP THE "DART DOZEN."

They're all "right on" with:

• ECONOMY!
Did you know that a Dodge Dart Sport can go farther on a gallon of gas than a Nova?
Gas mileage figures based on October 1973 Popular Science magazine. Tests performed by Popular Science for its report were conducted on '73 vehicles with figures adjusted by Popular Science for 1974 model changes and the results of E.P.A. tests.

• INCREASING TRADE-IN VALUE.
Just check around, wherever used Dodge Darts are sold. You'll see how our little cars hold their value.

• ROOM FOR 5 OR 6.
Our Swinger hardtops and Dart sedans have room for six. There's room for five in our Dart Sport coupe. (Yet, Dart Sport has more total hip-room than Maverick, more trunk space than three Pintos!)

• ELECTRONIC IGNITION.
This advanced system is standard on every 1974 Dodge Dart. It eliminates points and condenser (that can wear out or get wet). In addition, factory-recommended spark plug maintenance is up to 18,000 miles under normal driving conditions. (Another nice saving for you when you choose a new Dart.)

• SMALL-CAR MANEUVERABILITY.
If you've been driving a big car for years—you may be pleasantly surprised to find how many "more" parking spaces there are for a Dodge Dart at parking lots.

LEGAL NOTICES
"BECAUSE THE PEOPLE MUST KNOW"

LEGAL NOTICE
Notice of Pendency of Complaint
In the Circuit Court of Shelby County, Alabama
Civil Action No. E-189-74
TO: The following described land:

The SE¼ of the SE¼ of Section 12, Township 20 South, Range 3 West, Shelby County, Alabama; and the following named entities and persons: R.L. Hill and his heirs or devisees, if deceased; Brown Landone and his heirs and devisees, if deceased; Landone Villa Lands, a corporation, or a dissolved corporation, and the unknown stockholders of Landone Villa Lands; Sales Exchange Corporation, a corporation, or a dissolved corporation, and the unknown stockholders of Sales Exchange Corporation; and all such persons and the heirs or devisees of such persons, if deceased, and all such associations, partnerships, corporations or other entities who unknown to the Plaintiffs claim or are reputed to claim any title to or interest in, or lien or encumbrance upon, the land made the subject matter of this action of any part thereof.

Take notice that Clarice White Luck and Ruth Luck Gordon, on the 12th day of February, 1974, filed in the Circuit Court of Shelby County, Alabama their verified Complaint, pursuant to the provisions of Sections 1116, et seq, Code of Alabama (1940) (Recompiled 1958), against you and the above described land and against any and all persons claiming any title to, interest in, or lien or encumbrance upon the above described land or any part thereof or interest therein, and against all other persons, and against said land for the purpose of establishing the title of said land in the said Clarice White Luck and Ruth Luck Gordon and to clear up all doubts and disputes concerning the same and that said suit is not pending in said Court.

Plaintiffs allege in said Complaint that the title to said land stands in the name of the Plaintiffs on the records in the Office of the Judge of Probate of Shelby County, Alabama based on the following facts and circumstances: On June 20, 1938 the Tax Collector of Shelby County, Alabama sold said land at a Tax Sale to the State of Alabama for non-payment of taxes for the Tax Year 1937, which constituted a valid lien against said land, as shown by Tax Sale Record 13, at Page 146, in the Office of the Judge of Probate of Shelby County, Alabama; pursuant to said Tax Sale, a Certificate of Purchase was issued to the State of Alabama and thereafter on June 12, 1941 the State of Alabama transferred and assigned said Certificate of Sale to Paul O. Luck, as shown by the instrument recorded in Deed Book 111, at Page 498, in said Probate Records; subsequently, and on June 24, 1941 the Judge of Probate of Shelby County conveyed said land to Paul O. Luck, as shown by Tax Deed recorded in Deed Book 111, at Page 514, in said Probate Records; and subsequent to the execution, delivery and recordation of said Tax Deed, the said Paul O. Luck has died and according to his Last Will and Testament said land was devised to his widow, Clarice White Luck, as shown by the Decree of Final Settlement recorded in Will Book 13, at Page 117, in said Probate Records, and thereafter the said Clarice White Luck conveyed an undivided one-half interest in and to said land to Ruth Luck Gordon, as shown by deed recorded in Deed Book 218, at Page 199. And Plaintiffs further allege in said Complaint that Plaintiffs are in actual, peaceable possession of said land and the Plaintiffs and their predecessors in title have been in such possession of said land for a period exceeding the 10 years next preceding the filing of this Complaint, and no other person, firm, corporation or entity has been in possession of said land or any part thereof during said period. The Plaintiffs and their predecessors in title have held color of title to said land for a period exceeding the 10 years next preceding the filing of this Complaint and have assessed said land for taxes and have paid taxes thereon for and during each of the 10 years next preceding the filing of this Complaint.

Plaintiffs further allege in said Complaint that after making diligent search and inquiry, Plaintiffs were unable to locate the following named persons to determine whether or not they are living or dead, and if living, what their ages and addresses are at the present time, and if deceased, the names, ages and addresses of their heirs or devisees, and that the same are unknown to the Plaintiffs, said persons being as follows: R.L. Hill and Brown Landone, and that Plaintiffs after most diligent search and inquiry were unable to locate the address of Landone Villa Lands, a corporation, and Sales Exchange Corporation, a corporation, and were unable to find out if said corporations are still in operation or if dissolved or discontinued, the Plaintiffs were unable to ascertain the names, addresses and ages of the stockholders of said corporations at the time of liquidation or dissolution of said corporations, as the case might have been, and the same are unknown to the Plaintiffs; and that the names, ages and addresses of any other parties who, unknown to Plaintiffs, may claim an interest in or to the above described land, are unknown.

It is, therefore, ordered by the undersigned Register that publication of this notice be made in the Shelby County Reporter, a newspaper published and having a general circulation in Shelby County, Alabama, once a week for four consecutive weeks, and that all those to whom this notice is addressed and any and all persons claiming any title to, interest in, or lien or encumbrance upon, the above described land, or any part thereof, or any interest therein, be, and they are hereby required to answer the Complaint in this cause within the time required by law, and not later than April 8, 1974, and serve a copy thereof upon Plaintiffs' attorney or suffer a judgment by default to be rendered against you.

It is further ordered that a copy of this notice certified by the undersigned Register, as being correct, shall also be recorded as a lis pendens in the Office of the Judge of Probate of Shelby County, Alabama.

Done at office this the 12th day of February, 1974.

Todd Auction Company, a corporation; Realty Management Corporation, a corporation; McCoy-McCarty Land Company, a corporation, or McCoy-McCarty Land Company, a partnership, whose partners are unknown; D.D. Kinnebrew and Company, a corporation, or D.D. Kinnebrew and Company, a partnership, whose partners are unknown; and all persons and the heirs or devisees of such persons, if deceased, and all such associations, partnerships, corporations or other entities who unknown to the plaintiff claim or are reputed to claim any title to or interest in, or lien or encumbrance upon, the land made the subject matter of this action or any part thereof.

Take notice that Anniston Production Credit Association of Anniston, Alabama an Association has this day filed its verified complaint in said Court against the above named defendants and against any and all persons and the heirs or devisees of such persons, if deceased, and all such associations, partnerships, corporations or other entities who unknown to the plaintiff claim or are reputed to claim any title to or interest in, or lien or encumbrance upon, the land made the subject matter of this action or any part thereof and against all other persons and against said lands for the purpose of establishing the title of said lands in the Anniston Production Credit Association of Anniston, Alabama, an Association, and to clear up all doubts and disputes concerning the same and that said suit is now pending in said Court.

Plaintiff alleges in said complaint that the title to said lands stands in the name of the plaintiff on the records in the office of the Judge of Probate of Shelby County, Alabama, and said complaint further alleges that plaintiff claims title to said lands by virtue of a deed from M. Louise Palmer, unmarried, to Buddy DeShazo and Willia Mae DeShazo dated Marvh 15, 1963, and which was recorded in Deed Book 224 page 641 in the Probate Office of Shelby County, Alabama. At said time, Buddy DeShazo and Willie Mae DeShazo executed a mortgage back to M. Louise Palmer, as shown by Mortgage Book 281 page 709 in said Probate Office. Default was made in the payment of said mortgage and the same was foreclosed by The First National Bank of Birmingham as Trustee under the Will of Mamie Louise Palmer, deceased, and bid in by said Bank as Trustee as shown by foreclosure deed dated August 4, 1972, recorded in Deed Book 275 page 603 in said Probate Office. The said DeShazos had also mortgaged said land to the Anniston Production Credit Association on September 11, 1968, as shown by Mortgage Book 309 page 635 in said Probate Office and default having been made in the payment of this mortgage, the Anniston Production Credit Association foreclosed the same as shown by foreclosure deed dated June 7, 1972, recorded in Deed Book 274 page 635 in said Probate Office. Anniston Production Credit Association then purchased the interest of The First National Bank of Birmingham, as Trustee under thw Will of Mamie Louise Palmer, deceased, on the 14th day of September, 1972, as shown by Deed Book 276 page 412 in said Probate Office. That during the time of plaintiff's ownership it has been in actual peaceable, adverse possession of said lands, caliming to own the same and during the time and that of its predecessors in title mentioned above, the same has been used as a farm and pasture land for more than ten years prior to this date and that for each of said years, the said plaintiff and its predecessors in title have assessed said real estate in the office of the Tax Assessor of Shelby County, Alabama, and paid the taxes on said real estate for each year, and that no one else, except for some erroneous assessments of a few lots, has paid the taxes on said real estate for said period of time except the plaintiff and that no one has been in possession of said lands or any part thereof for more than 30 years next before the filing of this complaint, except for the plaintiff and its predecessors in title.

Plaintiff further alleges in said complaint that after making diligent search and inquiry, plaintiff's information as to the defendants as set out in the Complaint is true and correct to the best of its information and belief and that the names, ages and addresses of any other parties who, unknown to plaintiff, may claim an interest in or to the above described property, are unknown.

It is, therefore, ordered by the undersigned Register that publication of this notice be made in the Shelby County Reporter, a newspaper published and having a general circulation in Shelby County, Alabama, once a week for four consecutive weeks, and that all those to whom this notice is addressed and any and all persons and the heirs or devisees of such persons, if deceased, and all such associations, partnerships, corporations or other entities who, unknown to the plaintiff, claim or are reputed to claim any title to or interest in, or lien or encumbrance upon, the land made the subject matter of this action or any part thereof, are hereby notified of the filing of the same, and that said defendants be and they are hereby required to plead or answer the complaint in this cause within the time required by law, and not later than May 10, 1974.

It is further ordered that a copy of this notice certified by the undersigned Register, as being correct, shall also be recorded as a lis pendens in the office of the Judge of Probate of Shelby County, Alabama.

Montevallo Conservancy to recycle newspapers

A paper reycling plan for old newspapers is being put into effect in the Montevallo area, as a result of action by the city's chapter of the Alabama Conservancey. The group called a meeting for interested citizens at the University of Montevallo campus on Thursday, February 28.

Following a talk by Dr. Cameron McDonald, the group decided to offer a permanent paper recycling program in the near future. They plan to locate a newspaper receptacle in downtown Montevallo to collect the papers to resell in Birmingham.

In her address to the group, Dr. McDonald discussed the feasibility of a program similar to the one she spearheaded in Birmingham. The information she supplied strongly suggested the workability of such a program, although the Conservancy chapter president pointed out the main disadvantage.

"The cost for transportation (of papers) usually consumes most of the profit made," said president Richard Cummings, "but considering the lack of paper today and the problem of disposal, the recycling certainly seems worthwhile."

Noting that recycling has become one of the "major watchwords of this age of shortages," Cummings added that any person of civic group wishing to become involved in the program can contact him at 665-4373, or Dr. Robert McGuire at 665-2637.

FIRST SPADEFUL - - Groundbreaking ceremonies were held Feb. 28 at the new Pelham Plaza for a branch of First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Bessemer. Taking part are Pelham mayor Paul Yeager; Joseph deMarco, representing Pelham Plaza; and Fred I. Blair, president of First Federal. The new branch will be located between the existing mall building and Cardwell Brothers Furniture.

Groundbreaking began in Pelham on February 28 for the new branch of First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Bessemer. The new building will be built on the grounds of the new Pelham Plaza on Highway 31.

Association president Fred T. Blair reported that construction will begin immediately at the new site. Blair pointed out that the directors of Frist Federal Savings and Loan Association of Bessemer believe very strongly that the growth of the Shelby County area is to continue at a rapid pace for years to come, and they are happy to become a part of this growth. He added that First Federal expects to be a progressive member of the growing Pelham community.

First Federal of Bessemer currently has two offices, in Bessemer and Hueytown, with assets in excess of thirty-seven million dollars. Blair stated that the association has enjoyed a healthy and steady growth. The opening dates for the new Pelham office will be announced later as construction progresses.

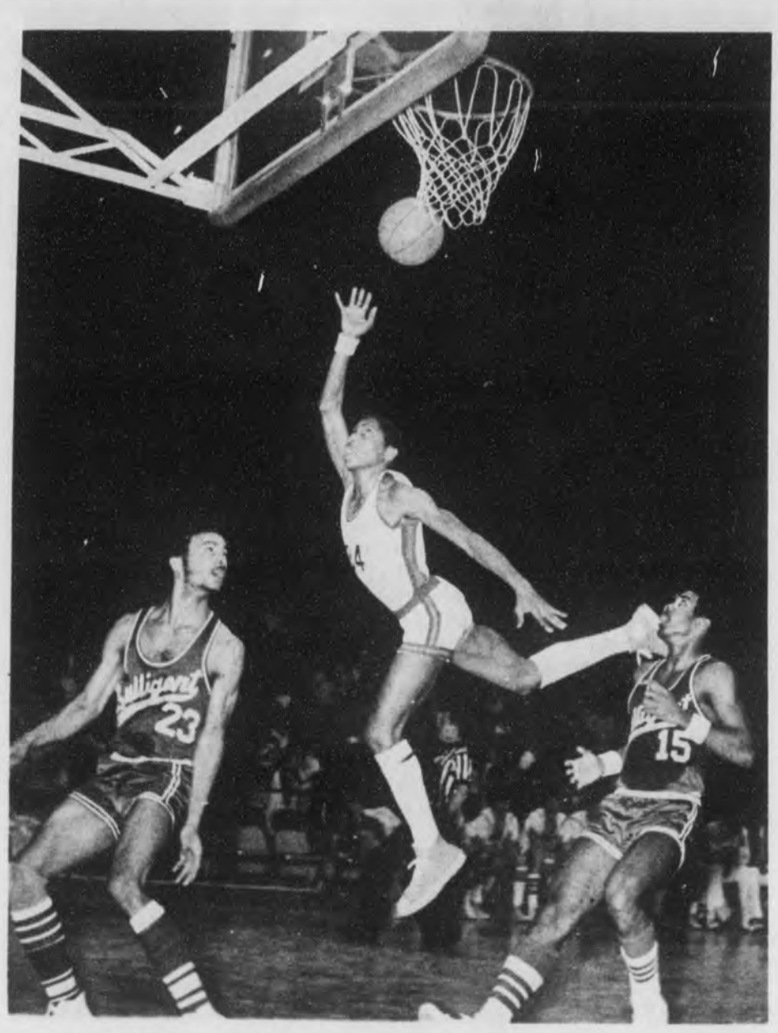
MHS Bulldogs are new state champs

With sirens screaming and horns blaring, Montevallo welcomed home its championship basketball team from the state playoffs in Tuscaloosa Saturday evening.

City fire trucks, city police cars and private automobiles waited for the returning team at the county line and escorted them into the city in a grand parade just as night fell in Montevallo.



It is believed to be the first time that a team from Shelby County has taken the state basketball championship.

Earlier that afternoon, the Montevallo Bulldogs defeated the Cherokee Vocational High School Indians 52-42 in the Alabama 2-A championship game at Memorial Coliseum in Tuscaloosa.

In the state basketball tournament held at the University of Alabama last week, Montevallo defeated Sulligent High School in first round tournament action last Wednesday night. They then downed Dadeville High School in a semi-final game Friday afternoon and earned a berth in the championship.

The Montevallo High School basketball team had gone to the state championship in both 1972 and 1973 but failed to finish on top. This year the Bulldogs, under the direction of new head basketball coach Gary Fleming, achieved that goal.

See the sports section on page B-1 for the complete tournament story and pictorial coverage of the Bulldogs rise to the state championship.

Three firms plan new county jail

If a stay in the Shelby County jail is in your future, it would be well worth while to postpone the trip for a couple of years.

After months of study, the Shelby County Commission has selected a group of three architectural firms to design the proposed new jail. It will replace the present jail located on the third floor of the courthouse annex.

The three firms chosen at a special meeting of the commission on March 8 are, Dampier- Harris and Associates of Alabaster, Heery and Heery, Inc. of Atlanta, and Grove-Haack and Associates of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.

Each of the firms will contribute its own specialty in the design and construction of the new facility.

Dampier-Harris brings its reputation as the fastest growing architectural firm in the state. Besides the obvious advantage of being a local firm, Dampier- Harris has wide experience in institutional design. The present additions to Shelby Memorial Hospital were designed by the firm as well as schools and shopping centers.

Heery and Heery is noted for its ability to get construction moving fast and efficiently. It is the largest architectural firm in Georgia. One of its recent projects is the Atlanta Stadium.

Grove-Haack is the team member that supplies the expertise on jail design. It prepared the Alabama Correctional Master Plan and has planned several correctional facilities in Florida.

The present county jail was designed 20 years ago and the new facility will be planned for the needs of the county for at least another 20 years.

The location of the new jail and sheriff's office building is not firmly decided, but the Commission hopes that the architectural design will fit on land already owned by the county near the present courthouse in Columbiana.

County Democrats nix kin at polls

by Marcia M. Sears

No more can kinfolks of candidates serve as election officials at the Democratic primaries in Shelby County.

The county Democratic Party Executive Committee ruled out kinfolks as election officials at its meeting last Thursday night. The committee also passed a resolution stating that full time employees of the county cannot serve at the polls.

Although neither resolution seems startling or unreasonable, as a matter of practice, Democratic party primaries in the past have tended to be managed by a small group of persons, many of whom serve year after year. County employees have served at the polls, collecting pay from their regular job with the county and also collecting pay for serving at the polls. And there has never been a line drawn regarding the relatives of candidates. Some candidates in the past have had their wives, sisters and mothers work at the polls.

The proposal was made by Probate Judge Conrad M. Fowler. The resolutions passed unanimously, although there was some discussion about the difficulty of finding qualified people to work at the polls.

Ed Daviston of Pea Ridge, who ran for the County Commission four years ago, was all for the resolutions, but he drew a laugh when he commented, "They're scarce at Pea Ridge", meaning someone who is not kin to a candidate or a committeeman, "But I believe we can find enough to work at the polls."

A few members of the committee felt that relatives of candidates who run for Democratic party beat committeemen should be allowed to work at the polls, but in the end beat committeemen were included in the resolution.

The wording of the proposal rules out relatives "to the degree of aunt and uncle, by blood or marriage," recognizing that many family connections in Shelby County go on and on.

In support of the proposal, Judge Fowler said, "We must open up the Democratic party in Shelby County to the rank and file and make it possible for the greatest number of people to participate in the election process. If one candidate wishes to have relatives at the polls, then all candidates should have the opportunity."

He said he had received many calls from voters who complain that "the same people" work at the polls all the time.

By law, a committee composed of the probate judge, the sheriff and the circuit clerk chooses election officials. The three usually take the recommendations of the committeemen in each beat.

The Thursday night meeting was attended by fewer than half the members of the Executive Committee. Several candidates for office made their appearance and spoke to the group.

Presiding at the meeting was L.C. Payne, chairman of the party.

None of the candidates for the office of sheriff was on hand, but representatives of candidates Billy Thompson and Allen Wilson were there.

At the request of a committeeman, Judge Fowler explained the rules for listing campaign expenditures. He said that under the new rules, candidates must file all contributions of over $100 with the Couple weds in mid-lake ceremony

"I want this marriage to be as lasting as these waters."

With that admonition from her father, Miss Virginia Dianne Bean and Mr. Clarence Roy III were married last Saturday in a boat on Lay Lake.

A flotilla of five open boats filled with family and wedding guests accompanied the boat bearing the wedding party to a location about 100 yards offshore from Spring Creek.

The unusual ceremony was conducted under bright blue skies on a warm spring day. Rev. Bobby Hope, an evangelist and cousin of the bride, officiated at the ceremony.

The bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Bean of Birmingham, formerly of Columbiana, rode in the boat with the wedding party. The boat was piloted by Bob Byers of Birmingham. The bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W.A. Bean of Columbiana rode in another boat with members of the family.

The Lowrance depth finder on the boat registered five feet of water when the vows were exchanged.

The bride wore a short white dress styled with rounded neckline and puffed sleeves. A medallion on a gold chain was her only jewelry. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and mums with blue and white streamers.

The bride's mother wore a pink dress with gray accessories.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C.C. Roy Jr., and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. C.C. Roy, Sr., all of Birmingham.

Society wants courthouse saved

by Willard Harrison

The Shelby County Historical Society has placed top priority on restoring the old county courthouse in Columbiana, presently the town's city hall. At a March 8th meeting of the society's board of directors, it was also decided to extend charter membership until the group's next meeting on Sunday, March 24. It is scheduled for three o'clock in the Helena Junior High School auditorium.

One suggestion was that a group be responsible for taping oral interviews with the county's oldest citizens in order to record their memories for later reference. A new committee is to be organized to locate and preserve old maps of Shelby County. Plans are being realized for publication of a monthly newsletter.

Other projects are receiving high priority as well. The cemetery committee led by Mrs. John B. Walters has met to make plans to catalogue every gravestone in the county. A survey of historic sites has lead to the nomination of several sites to qualify for funds for restoration. Plans are also underway to compile data from the county tax records and census reports.

New committees are to be organized at the next meeting.

WILLARD HARRISON

FUTURE UNCERTAIN - - The Columbiana City Hall is one of the oldest public buildings in the county still in use. Its fate has not yet been decided. The Columbiana City Council plans to build a new city hall farther up Mildred Street. The old building, formerly the county courthouse, was slated to be demolished; with protests from the historical society, the council has yet to consider all of the alternatives. No one knows yet whether the historic building will be restored or destroyed.

LANDSCAPERS - - Springtime comes to Alabaster with a new look for Thompson Middle School's grounds. The school's Science Club members spent much of last Friday planting the thirty-six trees and shrubs given to the school by state soil conservationist Robert Kelly. The students planted the bushes on terraces they had dug on the eroding back yard of the middle school. Officers of the Science Club are (l to r) Carol Burroughs, Tammy Hines, Debbie Wilson, Daniel Stagner, Chris Genry, Wayne Majors, and Joyce Lully.

Society president Kenneth Penhale reported to the directors that the survey has located several more sites worthy of preservation. Under leadership of Dr. John B. Walters, the committee has placed several more places on the list. Finding that a historic district has a better chance for restoration than a single building, the committee has recommended areas in Helena, Montevallo, and Calera, as well as building in Columbiana and other parts of the county.

Columbiana's City hall was the object of considerable discussion at the meeting. Both Penhale and state historical commission director Warner Floyd had sent letters to Columbiana mayor Bob Bolton urging him to consider saving the old building. Penhale stated that of fourteen county courthouses nominated for restoration funds, Shelby County's former courthouse has been placed at the top of the list by the state historical commission.

The old building has been slated for demolition after Columbiana builds its new city hall. Although both Penhale and Floyd have protested against its destruction, they have received no reply from city leaders. Mayor Bolton told the Reporter that a decision has not been reached by the city council. He adds that while there has been some discussion of the building's future, nothing definite has been decided. If the building is saved, the society directors agreed that it would make an ideal museum and depository for historic records.

A constitution and by- laws for the new historical society were adopted by the directors at the Friday night meeting. Penhale announced that over three hundred members have been signed up in less than two months since the inception of the historical society. He added that incorporation papers have been filed and that this will pave the way for tax- free donations to the society.

Charter membership is still open until the March 24th meeting, with dues of one dollar. After that time annual dues will be raised to five dollars. To become a charter member, a person should send his dollar to the Shelby County Historical Society, P. O. Box 28, Helena, Alabama 35080, or sign up at the next meeting. The speaker at the meeting will be announced at a later date.

Forest fires scorch county woodlands

Forest fires are on the upsurge again in the county, with several blazes reported in the past week. At least three fires were fought during the dry, windy weather last week.

One fire was reported in Calera near Highway 31. The fire was caused by a local landowner who accidentally let a brush fire get out of control. The fire was soon extinguished when it reached a wooded area.

Another fire blazed for a few hours during the night last week just south of Columbiana on county road 25. There was no evidence that the fire was purposely set, yet the rangers suspect that it was arson. They think that hunters are burning off the underbrush to attract turkeys during hunting season.

A fire on a mountain between Columbiana and Saginaw burned for several days. The firefighters who came on the scene on Tuesday, March 5, were unable to do much to control the fire's progress northward from county road 26 near Moore's Town. The rocky, wooded terrain of the mountain made it almost impossible to contain the flames with firebreaks and trenches.

According to a forest ranger spokesman, the fire continued to some extent on into Friday, March 8. He said that it was difficult to move in firefighting equipment to the burning mountain located approximately two miles west of the Forestry Service's Pinnacle Tower fire- spotting station.

Rangers were on the scene along with men from the Gulf States Paper Corporation. The State Forestry Service was unable to do much toward extinguishing the fire, which burned slowly on the rocky mountainside owned by several families in that area. Only a small percentage of the land burned was owned by Gulf States Paper Company.

According to all indications the fire was incendiary, or started deliberately. Rangers at the scene indicated that the blaze began at the side on highway 26, and apparently not by accident. Firefighters did dig a firebreak near the road, but winds spread flames to the dry underbrush at the foot of the hill.

Damage from the fire was not too serious, since it was a relatively slow- burning fire which left many of the large trees. The fire spread the quickest as it climbed the slope Tuesday the fifth, but it was kept under a close watch by the forest rangers. The firefighters were able to keep the fire from burning several nearby houses in the Moore's Town community.

Montevallo receives rec center applications

The City of Montevallo has received two applications to establish privately operated recreation centers.

Ronnie Allen, a resident of Pea Ridge made his second appearance before the City Council at its Monday night meeting, applying for a license to operate a recreation center. Allen's first choice for a building is a residence located at the corner of Shelby and Island Streets.

The results of an inspection tour of the frame building indicated that the cost of bringing the building up to specifications for a recreation center would probably be more than the owner of the building is willing to spend.

Allen then requested a license to operate his proposed recreation center in the now vacant Standard Oil service station building located on Main Street. Allen told council members that he had contacted Standard Oil and the oil company is willing to rent the property to him for this purpose.

Montevallo's Building Inspector, T. C. Latham and Montevallo's Fire Chief Dr. S. M. Mahan were instructed by the council to check the property to see if it meets specifications of the Southern Building Code. It is located in an area zoned for business. Allen proposes to feature coin operated pool tables, foosball, electronic tennis, air hockey and similar types of games and tables.

Another application was received Tuesday from the Watson Vending Company of Bessemer to establish a recreation center in a vacant service station building on State Highway 25. The building formerly housed a Moore's Supreme filling station. It is located near the viaduct in an area zoned for light industry.

The council expects to act on the two requests at its next meeting, March 25.

Other citizens appearing at Monday night's council meeting included Everett Taff, who recently acquired the H.I.E. Dyer property. Taff suggested to council members that the city purchase the Shoal Creek dam and turn the area into a park. Taff told the council that he would attend the next meeting of the council and propose a purchase price.

Earl Cunningham, a candidate for city council during the city's last election,

Field and scream

by Fred Cooper

As you drive through the archway entrance to the University of Montevallo campus, you can take a right after driving past the new music building, go in front of stately, historic Main Hall, and follow the red brick road past Bloch and the side of Comer on the way to Flowerhill. If you turn left at the stop sign right past the Home Management House, however, you'll find yourself on back campus, a lovely area bordered on one side by the tennis courts and the other by the golf driving range and sometimes football field. The combination range and gridiron is nestled among the trees and a gently rolling landscape. No matter how loud and confused the surrounding world may be, this little bit of nature is quiet, friendly and ready to accept a visitor.

I've always kind of hated the place.

This goes back to 1962, when I was a freshman at then Alabama College, looking for Physical Education credits to accumulate in order to eventually graduate. Softball was closed. So was volleyball, tennis, and even calisthenics although I never really considered that. Track and Field was available, though.

"Just a little running," Coach Floyd Anderson told me. "Just enough to keep in shape."

Track and Field was the name of the course but Field and Scream was what we called it. Every Tuesday and Thursday at 3 p.m., I would trudge down to this lovely little area described above with Larry Robinson, now a resident of Dry Valley but then a gullible freshman like myself, and we would go through whatever torture Coach Anderson had devised for us that day.

I never really got in shape because I resented punishing myself two days a week so I wouldn't make any effort to exercise the other five so it would do some good.

I'm reminded of this bit of my past and the tiny area of land that I hate because right now, every muscle I own hurts.

This is a result of a casual remark made by one of the nurses where I work. I had on a pullover turtleneck shirt. I had worn it because (a) it was comfortable and (b) I had a lot of pictures to take and ties get in the way sometime. I thought I looked rather spiffy.

"Fred," she said, beginning the casual remark that led to my sore muscles, "most men wear shirts like that to show off their massive chests or their broad shoulders. Why are you wearing one?"

Fortunately, I had just finished eating some cookies and I was able to reply with complete accuracy, "So I can count the cookie crumbs I dropped."

It was true. There was no way those crumbs were going to reach the ground. My protruding belly caught them all.

Having cleverly sidestepped the real issue, I resolved to never let it happen again. Therefore, I have started an exercise program which includes not only running but sit-ups, leg-lifts, weights, and steam bath. So far all I've managed to do is get everything sore. I did gain two pounds in the shower after my workout the other day but I'd just as soon not mention that.

So now, every afternoon as I got traipsing around the track where I run, I have my memories of the University of Montevallo to keep me company, the place I used to run for nothing and hate it. Now I pay for the use of the track and hate it even more.

I'm not doing something right.

A BIT OF NATURE -- The outdoors is coming into Carmichael Library at the University of Montevallo, thanks to UM Professor Charles Gormley. Julia Rotenberry accepts one of seven nature photographs Gormley is giving to the library. The lush color photos are close-ups of flowers, plants, and outdoor objects. Gormley says, "I find ninety percent of my subject matter in my own back yard." He adds that he is also giving another series of animal photographs to the university's biology department. Photography has been his hobby for the past six years.

County courthouse crowd finds plenty to do

by Mildred White Wallace

Summer vacations usually mean a diversion from the pressure and tension of a daily work-a-day world, but not so in the courthouse. The officials are busy at the present time getting ready for meeting the legal daadlines on various essentials that are required to keep the poeple informed regarding dates due on this and that.

For instance, we encountered Mary Nivens, clerk of the Board of Commissioners -- in the courthouse lobby this morning -- and learned that the poll list for Shelby County voters was in the process of being completed and approximately 22,000 citizens were eligible to vote this year in the important elections coming up. It will be interesting to note just how many people will take advantage of this priceless heritage and cast their ballots on May 7.

Tax Collector Fay Quick was notifying all delinquent taxpayers that ad valorem taxes were past due; and those who failed to ante up would have their property advertised for sale during May. Names of these "Johnny Come Latelys" will be published during April.

Evelyn Lowe, Chief Clerk in Circuit Clerks office, was busily engaged in preparing and filing important court documents and recording legal papers pertinent to cases docketed for trial in the current term of the Circuit Court which began Monday and will continue for three weeks.

We learned from "powers that be" in the Tax Assessor's office that Mable Joiner Franks will be promoted to Chief Clerk Mary Suttle's place. Mrs. Suttle resigned some weeks ago to take effect in April.

In the Probate office, we paused for a minute but all mechanical devices were clicking and all clerical help had their penpoints poised issuing various data requested by those waiting for new boating licenses, marriage licenses, renewals of drivers's licenses and many other phases incident to the duties of this office.

Judge Fowler was in conference and we could not get all the information regarding various districts - - like who is running for what and from where. Things have changed since last election so - it will be wise to check and find out what district you are now in and who is running to represent you -- before going to your polling place. Maps containing this information are being prepared for publication - watch for them!

District Attorney Harold Walden was in charge of a new grand jury which had been empannelled for consideration of a large number of cases set for their investigation and disposal.

Judge Ingram was presiding in the courtroom on cases docketed for this week. A number of visiting attorneys, witnesses and those summoned for jury duty were milling around the corridors and lobby.

Louie P. Wilson, Chairman of the Tax Equalization Board and his co-workers, Louis W. Lauer and Layton Carter were engaged in scrutinizing records pertinent to "property equalization". They will be completing the current assignment within the next 30 days.

Sheriff and deputies were all at their official posts of duty set on "ready"!

A busy, bustling group of people each one apparently engaged in doing their bit toward keeping the wheels of democracy turning in the correct direction.

Opponent may find some faulty linen

By Don Wasson

They're off and running in the May 7 primaries and it bodes to be one of the most confusing and perplexing elections ever.

The top races are pretty cut and dried--George Wallace looks like a shoo-in although his closest challenger, Sen. Gene McLain of Huntsville will hang a lot of faulty--if not dirty--linen on the line before its over.

Lt. Gov. Jere Beasley has built a commanding political organization and the assault of Birmingham Sen. Richard Dominick and Montgomery Insurance Exec Ron Creel may not be able to untrack the Beasley express. If either of them makes it into a runoff, then there might be a chance.

Bill Baxley, despite the Beasley ploy of running his close friend and business associate, Jack Tatum of Opelika against the attorney general, should win in a walk if the party lets Tatum stay on the ballot. He underpaid his qualifying fee which could wipe him out.

Gov. Wallace made it plain that Tatum is not his candidate-- that he didn't inspire the Opelikan to enter the race and it appears that Tatum, if he makes the race, will try to discredit Baxley as a means of improving Beasley's gubernatorial aspirations. That ploy could backfire however.

The other races aren't stirring up much interest and it is the legislative races and the clection of a whole bunch of party functionaries where the real interest seems to lie.

The new legislature is to come from those crazy, mixed-up districts which make no sense whatsoever. Any reader of this column, no matter what county he or she lives in, knows that the legislative districts are possibly gerrymandered.

It will be days after the primary before we'll know who got the nominations and in November, where there are contests, it will be the same thing over again. The Republicans came up with a surprising 41 candidates for the legislature--34 for the House and seven for the Senate.

In the Democratic party contests, one is for the district's seat on the State Executive Committee and the other is for one of 18 delegates posts for the national party's Charter Conference next December in Kansas City. That get together is being called "the Mini-Convention."

These races are interesting this year because they represent an attempt by Gov. Wallace to regain control of party affairs in Alabama, something he hasn't had since his first election in 1963.

Somehow or another, the Wallace forces are going to let you know which of the candidates in these races are their candidates. They qualified around 90 candidates for the executive committee races and have someone in all but one of the 18 delegate races.

This charter conference is important to Wallace although he publicly pooh-poohs the whole thing. Says it isn't that important to him and his cause. But it is.

He'll want a goodly number of delegates to that conference who represent the Wallace viewpoint, and a failure to send a healthy representation could be viewed as a weakening of the Wallace faithful.

There isn't a whole lot of organization in this regard in other states but there is some and his aides are hoping that the Wallace viewpoint will be heard loud and often during the writing of a new party charter.

Legislators have power to tie up counties

by Judge Conrad M. Fowler

The operation of county government has a direct relationship with the opinions and policies of state legislators. An explanation is in order.

The role of county government is to deliver public services. Elected County Commissioners must make judgments as to how public funds shall be spent to provide services. Elected County Commissioners share this responsibility with those who are elected to the legislature because legislators have the power to pass local laws that appropriate the counties' money. A problem can arise when legislators, by passing a local law, in the legislature, require appropriations of county funds in the middle of a budget year without providing a source of revenue for these expenses.

Legislators also have authority over the organization and functioning of county government.

In recent times we have seen several examples of the exercise or the attempt to exercise legislative power over county government:

1. Bill to appoint a new chairman of the Shelby County Commission with no provision for a vote by the people. This attempt ended when Senator Obie Littleton announced that the bill would have to include a provision permitting a vote by the people.

2. A bill was introduced that would have given the Sheriff authority to release prisoners from jail on "work release programs". There was no public discussion of this bill. Perhaps there is merit in such a program but should not this authority be left to the trial judge who passes sentence?

3. A bill was introduced to remove the employment of the county ABC tax inspector from the County Commission and place this position in the Sheriff's Department.

4. An act passed in 1971 that prevented State Troopers and Game Law Enforcement Officers from serving alias warrants to re-arrest defendants who failed to appear in court, and restricting this re-arrest authority to the Sheriff's Department. This act also placed limitations on the serving of search warrants in Shelby County.

These are some examples of the exercise of legislative power over the county government.

Perhaps questions should now be asked of candidates running for the legislature.

Will you advertise local legislation as required by the state constitution before it is introduced? Will public hearings be announced and held on important local issues before the passage of legislation? What is your concept of a proper relationship between a legislator and the elected governing body of the county?

If enough of you ask these questions, county government in Shelby County, 1975 to 1979, will be smoother and more successful.

Baptists say Thanks to city firemen

Letter to Editor:

The volunteer firemen of Montevallo, who first answered the fire call at the Reid home, and quick assistance from Calera and Shelco Unit No. 1 contained the blaze that could have spread to the First Baptist Church.

Without their skill, alertness, and God's providence the church could have caught fire. The wind was blowing from the south, and toward the shopping center across the street, which kept the fire away from the church.

These volunteer firemen had to drop what they were doing and answer the call for help. They always respond whether night or day and regardless of the seasons. Fire fighting is a dirty and dangerous job. These non paid volunteers are to be congratulated.

COURTSHIP, MARRIAGE AND THE FAMILY

By Herbert J. Miles, Ph.D.

HOW TO RECOVER FROM A BROKEN ENGAGEMENT

Q. Dr. Miles, after five months of courtship I became engaged six months ago. Three months ago I accepted a diamond ring. On both occasions I was not really sure Rubin was happy about our relationship, but I loved him and went ahead thinking things would work out, since he had taken the initiative in both steps. Recently he has decided that our engagement must be broken. I am crushed. Yet I now see that this marriage could never work. Without giving details as to why (there has been no immorality involved) my question is "Will you give some suggestion on how to recover from a broken engagement?" (the hurt party)

A. It is not easy to recover from a broken engagement, especially for the "hurt" person. As I have said before, it is much better to break an engagement than to have to break a marriage.

When engagements are broken, the immature hurt person may respond by promiscuity to build up ego, by excessive drinking or the use of drugs, by threatening to tell things that ought not be told, by threatening the life of the lover or by threatening suicide. Usually these threats are not carried out. The mature person, although hurt deeply, will want to respond to his problem by intelligently coming to grips with reality. The first shock of broken engagement usually causes immediate depression. When this happens, do not repress your feelings. Go ahead and cry if you feel like it. There is a "time to weep" and this is one of those times. Discuss your breakup with an understanding parent, friend, or counselor. Buy yourself something new to give you a lift. Most important, you need to realize that time is a great healer and is on your side. When the immediate depression has subsided, face things as they are. Respond to reality! Do not live in the past. Do not drift into fantasy and daydreams about your former lover. Do not refuse to date other people and wait for a future reconciliation. Evaluate your "ex" with an open mind. Do not overly criticize him. This can serve little purpose except to belittle yourself for being involved with "such a creep." Evaluate your "ex's" good qualities as well as his poor qualities. Honestly weigh and evaluate the differences in values, goals, and personalities of you and your "ex." View your breakup as a learning experience. Decide to discipline yourself to conquer this problem by looking to and properly planning the future. If you are a religious person, pray, believing that God will give you strength to live each day as an exciting new challenge. Thank Him for this learning experience. Take action to establish yourself as an individual again.

Do not listen to "our" song, nor go to "our" place. Do not constantly socialize with those who were friends built around you as a couple. Do not constantly speak of your "ex." Do not see your "ex" more than necessary. Avoid places where the two of you were always together. When you are unavoidably in contact with each other, be kind and courteous as you would to another person of the community, but be careful to avoid any word, action, or gesture that might indicate you are still interested. If your "ex" opens the gate for further social relationships to you, close it kindly but firmly. If he sends you mail or presents, do not respond to them. If it continues, return them unopened.

Take positive action to occupy your time. Do not dwell on self pity. Renew old acquaintances and ties. Meet new people. Take a vacation if possible; participate in sports. Develop a new hobby or renew an old one. Join that community group that you have never had time for. Become active in your Church, and participate in its social functions. Consider volunteer work in your hospital or neighborhood center. Although I do not recommend it, I once knew a student who transferred to another college in order to avoid a determined pestering "ex." Two years later she was happily married and a much wiser person.

Date other people. Make yourself attractive and available. Date a variety of people. Be careful about getting serious again too quickly. Beware of a quick marriage on the rebound in an attempt to save face. Spite marriages will be failures. It normally takes as long to get into love the second time as the first time. Yet experience is on your side. Set your sails in the direction of a good marriage. Plan and pray to that end. Millions of others in your circumstances have moved out of disappointment into happy marriages. You can too!

(I am happy about several reports that readers are clipping this column and mailing it to friends. Others are pasting the columns in a permanent album to be used in talks and group discussions. I am sure your editor joins me in encouraging these practices. Questions for this column should be addressed to Dr. Miles at Carson-Newman College, Jefferson City, TN 37760)

Keeping tab on super road

If a multi-state highway is built from Kansas City to Brunswick, Georgia, Shelby County will be right in its path.

The much-discussed highway was the subject of a public hearing last week, attended by Bob Merrell, executive assistant to the Shelby County Commission.

Merrell reports that officials from the greater Birmingham area were unanimous in their approval of a highway that would speed traffic, especially from Birmingham to Memphis.

Proposals for the new highway include a rail line down the median of the highway for high speed passenger transit, and pipeline and electrical power transmission under the highway.

The 1973 U.S. Highway Act required a feasability study and hearings are being conducted in cities along the route.

The only negative note at the meeting came from a representative of the Alabama Conservancy who listed five considerations the project must meet to obtain the approval of the Conservancy.

He said the group would want to study environmental effects of the project; that it should not disrupt historical sites, should not disrupt established neighborhoods, or add to air and noise pollution levels; and special consideration should be given to serving economically depressed area. The Conservancy's final objection may be impossible to meet, however. They do not want the highway to "violate the Bankhead National Forest" nor serve as a gateway into the Sipsey Wilderness Area. However, the Bankhead National Forest occupies such an extensive part of northwest Alabama, many highway planners feel it is impossible to route a highway without going through the Forest.

Nixon; oil in news

by Jack Anderson

(Copyright, 1974, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

The Three Musketeers: President Nixon's constant, closest adviser these days is press secretary Ron Ziegler. No one spends more time with the President than Ziegler. They begin with morning coffee together.

Two other people have easy, regular access to the President. One is his chief of staff, Gen. Alexander Haig. The other is his bosom friend, Bebe Rebozo.

The three musketeers -- Ziegler, Haig and Rebozo -- are all for Nixon. He has made them his inner circle more for their loyalty than their ability. Not one of them, for example, understands politics.

My own White House sources say the President doesn't seek political advice from the three musketeers, although he uses them as sounding boards. He looks upon himself as the best politician around and relies on himself for making the big political decisions.

My sources say Nixon sees politics in everything. He looks at Watergate, for example, as a political rather than a moral issue. He believes the drive for his impeachment is led almost entirely by his sworn political foes. Their real motive, he thinks, is to reverse his 1972 landslide victory.

Congress and Oil: Congress, meanwhile, has to face its own moral problems. For years, Congress has been voting special tax privileges for the oil industry. The oil companies solemnly assured doubters that the granting of such advantages was the patriotic thing to do.

This argument conceivably might have justified a tax break for the discovery and development of domestic oil. But the oilmen considered it equally patriotic to drill for oil in faraway places.

Congress, therefore, granted them U.S. tax breaks to drill for foreign oil. They were permitted to take an oil depletion allowance for the oil pumped out of foreign wells. They also could deduct from their U.S. taxes the royalties they paid to foreign potentates.

Through these gimmicks, the American taxpayers indirectly paid for the development of most of the vast Arab oil reserves. The American taxpayers also put up most of the money, in the form of tax credits, that was paid to the Arabian oil sheikhs.

Today, the American taxpayers are still granting tax credits for the taxes and royalties that U.S. companies pay to the Arab oil producers. Yet the Arabs won't sell the oil, which the American taxpayers indirectly are paying for, to the United States.

If this makes you indignant, you can write the House Ways and Means Committee and urge the members to cut out tax benefits on foreign oil profits.

MHS musicians attend festival

Two band students at Montevallo High School, Becky Hood and Jon Goad, won places in statewide competition to attend the All-State Music Festival in Auburn this week, following rigorous auditions early this spring.

Montevallo High School band conductor, Jim Weese, accompanied them to the Auburn campus where they competed on Monday for places on the All-State bands.

Miss Hood was named to the white band, as third chair, alto saxophone. Goad won fifth chair tenor saxophone in the white band, in the competition which drew the top high school band performers in the state.

Directing the white band was William F. Swor, director of bands at Louisiana State University. The concluding concert of the festival was held in Memorial Coliseum on Wednesday at 7 p.m.

AND THEY'VE JUST STARTED - - Columbiana scouts look a little grim as they set out on the first mile of their 55 mile hike. But by press time, with experience behind them, their tempo and spirits had picked up considerably. They are planning a five day hike through the mountainous northeast section of the county and will return to Columbiana Friday. (Photo by John Jones)

Scouts tour county by foot

A Columbiana scout troop will see a lot of Shelby County the hard way this week, as they take a 55 mile hike.

Troop 560, under the leadership of Bob Hume, left Columbiana Monday morning. They will go to Calcis, on toward Leeds, back to Sterrett, will climb Signal Mountain, then head back through the Narrows and stop off at Argo Lake.

They expect to be home by Friday afternoon.

Jimmy McCullers will meet the boys at Calcis and at the Narrows to resupply them with dehydrated food. Hume says that the troop would normally carry five days of food with them, but because some of the boys are not experienced hikers, he felt it would be better to keep their loads light and resupply en route.

Boys making the trip are Hugh Sims, Jeff Seale, Greg Joiner, Dan Head, Ken Seale, Jay Alston, Joe Smith, Spin Spires, Scott Owen, Danny King, Kenny Spearman, Tom Seale, Scotty Bell, and John Stroud.

Jeff Hill and Sammy Bristow are the assistant scoutmasters, helping Bob Hume with the trip.

Science Fair winners named at Thompson

by David Fancher

Thompson High School held its annual science fair on March 4 and 5.

Students taking General Science, Biology, Chemistry, and Physics were required to enter a project.

The projects were judged by Mr. Jim Hermencz, Montevallo High School; Mrs. Emily Pendleton, Montevallo Middle School; and Mr. Mike Nelson, University of Montevallo.

DEMOCRATS STUDY LINES - - Members of the county Democratic Executive Committee study new voting district lines on an oversize map of Shelby County. The committee met last Thursday night in the courthouse. From left, Mrs. Hoyt Blalock, Wilsonville, John Cunningham, Montevallo, Mrs. Ann Parker, secretary of the committee, Montevallo, and George Green of Helena. Democrats discussed the problems election officials will face because of the newly drawn district lines, which are based on U.S. census boundaries.

THE HISTORY OF JAZZ - - Thompson High School's "Southern Sounds" performed a history of jazz at the Shelby County education association's last teacher meeting of the year. The 21 member group had returned from a jazz festival in New Orleans last month, where they competed with bands from all over the southeast. The Southern Sounds, under the direction of Elson Hood and Tim Anderson, is one of the seven performing groups in THS's music department.

Calera boasts new city hall auditorium

The Calera city hall now boasts a newly remodeled auditorium. The new facility is being used for city council meetings and municipal court.

The large meeting room in the rear of the city hall building has been carpeted and paneled. A stage has been raised at one end of the room and a curved desk seating several people has been erected on it.

Mayor George Roy invites all citizens to attend Calera's council meetings and court sessions to view the new additions. The next council meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, March 19.

The Calera city council has proclaimed April as clean up month. Merchants and civic clubs have been asked to join in the drive.

Calera Girl and Boy scouts will also be earning serving patches by collecting trash and carrying it to the land fill.

HAPPINESS IS A NEW CADILLAC - - Twenty years ago, Bill Humphries promised Fred Barber a Cadillac if we would work for him for 20 years. Last Friday, the time was up, and Barber had forgotten about it. But Humphries remembered and had just given Barber the keys to the shiny new automobile when this picture was taken. A large crowd gathered in front of Humphries' home in Chandalar to watch the happiness spread all over Barber's face. Humphries is a home builder and real estate developer who has developed Chandalar in Shelby County and many other subdivisions in Jefferson County. Barber has worked for him 20 years as a stone mason and brick mason.

Vincent wins accreditation

Vincent Elementary School passed its most important test, after a thorough self-study and inspection by a committee of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools. The committee informed principal Calvin Smith last week that its members have unanimously recommended that the school be accredited by the Southern Association.

Approval culminates several years of work on the part of faculty, staff, parents and friends throughout the entire Vincent community.

It becomes the first elementary school in Shelby County to receive accreditation from the prestigious Southern Association.

Montevallo Elementary School has applied for accreditation and is in process of complying with several of the requirements.

Michigan scholar to give UM lecture

Dr. John Arthos, scholar and professor of English at the University of Michigan will present a lecture at the University of Montevallo on March 19 on the subject, "The Character of the Humanities."

His visit is cosponsored by the Concert and Lecture Committee and the English and history honorary societies at the University.

The lecture will be held in the New music building at 8:15 p.m. Following the lecture, members of Sigma Tau Delta and Phi Alpha Theta will be hosts at a reception at King House.

requested the city take steps to condemn and remove certain vacated and run down buildings. He called such buildings a nuisance and a hazard to nearby residents.

Cunningham congratulated the city's fire department and police department for excellence in the performance of their assigned duties.

The Reverend J. Robert Moore, pastor of the Montevallo Baptist Church also appeared before the council to thank the fire department personnel for containing the recent fire that destroyed the Dr. J. I. Reid home, adjacent to the church building. Reverend Moore indicated he had sent letters of thanks to Shelco Unit One, the Calera Fire Department and to the Montevallo Fire Department, but that he wanted to appear in person to express the thanks of his church members.

Wedding

Following the ceremony, all the boats returned in a group to the Spring Creek launch. Friends showered the bridal couple with rice, as they stepped out of the boat and into their automobile.

They will make their home in Birmingham.

Beauty tips for you from Carlene Barefoot

Ideas for summer of '74 are cut, color, and curl. Shorter lengths are not an absolute must, but the smaller head is still very much in vogue along with others in magazines; bringing back the soft shape to the coiffures of the 20's, 30's and 40's.

Lengths vary from cheek bone to shoulder and the newest hair colorings are everywhere. Burnished brunettes are side by side with blondes and red heads. Streaking, high lighting and frosting enable the hair stylist to create for each patron a look that is uniquely hers.

Blow dry styling is up front quick service of today. But rollers and curling irons are also the means to '74 sexily, sophisticated silhouettes. Feather cut, fluffy bobs, finger waves, mixtures of curly and smooth, some with bangs, dipped or flipped will be in every salon that keeps up with the revolutionary changes that are happening on the fashion scene. At Carlene's Coiffures we're now doing haloing hair coloring.

Carlene has been doing this new coloring for several months. Come in and see the new look.

Brenda is now back at work Fri. and Sat.

Salon hours - open six days a week. Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Saturday - 8 to 5 p.m. Thursday and Friday - 8 to 9 p.m. by appointment.

DEBRIS LITTERS THE GROUND - - An explosion in the Soul Palace Club in Calera demolished the building's interior Thursday night. Broken glass, window screens and parts of tables and bits of the ceiling can be seen in front of the building as Calera Police Chief Cecil Harris (in uniform) and Shelby County Sheriff C.P. "Red" Walker prepare to enter the bombed out structure.

BOMB WAS DETONATED HERE - - Sheriff Walker, holding wire and Chief Harris are shown inspecting a padded barricade. It is believed the person or persons setting off the charge crouched behind the protective barricade when the explosion occured. Sheriff Walker is holding up the wires that led to the inside of the building.

Explosion damages Calera night spot

A charge of from five to eight sticks of dynamite caused heavy damage to the interior of the Soul Palace Night Club in Calera, Thursday night.

Jeff Pilgreen, Calera police officer who was first on the scene told the Reporter the blast occured at approximately 11:45 Thursday night. Pilgreen said the building, located two blocks east of the Calera Middle School, had been vacant all day and no one was inside at the time of the blast.

Calera's Police Chief Cecil Harris told the Reporter that the 60 by 24 foot cement block building is owned by Jack Collum, but the nightclub is operated by brothers Jessie Frank Bishop and Ed Bishop.

Shelby County Sheriff C.P. "Red" Walker said no motive for the bombing has been established.

Chief Harris also told the Reporter that five to eight sticks of dynamite were stolen from the City of Calera at about 8:00 p.m. Thursday. Authorities believe there is a link between the stolen dynamite and Thursday night's explosion.

Investigating officers believe the person or persons responsible for setting off the blast constructed a hastily-made buffer or shelter to hide behind while the dynamite sticks were detonated.

There were no injuries Property damage to the interior of the building is described as heavy.

In addition to Calera police and the Shelby County Sheriff's office, federal authorities and the state fire marshall are investigating.

No arrests have been made.

House fire causes city problems

Last week's spectacular fire which destroyed the Reid home adjacent to the First Baptist Church of Montevallo has created a series of problems, not only for the Reid family and the Baptist Church, but also for the City of Montevallo.

Under the agreement the Reid family reached with the Baptist Church when they sold the property to the church for $27,500, the family kept the responsibility for upkeep of the property.

The church is not to take possession of the property or concern itself with upkeep until three months after the death of Mrs. J. I. Reid. Mrs. Reid lived in the home until she moved to a nursing home in Birmingham, where she now resides.

The house was furnished, but no one living in it at the time of the fire last week.

However, the charred two story walls constitute a potential danger to passersby, and the damage to the house was so great as to be irreparable.

Several citizens are urging the city to take steps to condemn the house. There is precedent for doing so. According to former city officials, a house owned by the Kroells was condemned many years ago, and torn down. It was located on the corner of Valley and Middle Streets where the Shell Service Station is now located.

The Reporter contacted Mrs. Allan Hargrove, daughter of Mrs. J. I. Reid, at her home in Montgomery Monday evening. Mrs. Hargrove said that the family has not yet made any plans for the property. She indicated they would want to talk with church officials before they would make any decisions.

Insurance adjustors had not completed their work at press time.

A type transposition in last week's story in the Reporter showed that the Reids purchased the home in 1961 from the Wilkinson family. The date should have read 1916.

'Grave' work begins

The cemetery committee of the Shelby County Historical Society met at the home of Mrs. John B. Walters, in Montevallo, on March 6, with seven members of the committee present.

Plans were made for immediate work to begin for registering the graves in the cemeteries near the residences of the members of the committee members, first, and then spread out into the remainder of the county. Each tombstone in each cemetery with the name of the deceased, the date of birth and date of death is to be recorded.

Every effort available will be made to determine the names of the persons who are buried in unmarked graves. This will be done by contacting citizens, ministers, and records which might be available to the registrars.

The cemeteries in the Montevallo, Columbiana, Indian Valley, Chelsea, and Westover areas will probably be surveyed first. Any help which can be given these registrars by other members of the Society, or members of the communities, will be appreciated.

Gas retailers change stickers

Gasoline and diesel fuel retailers are instructed to make temporary changes on price stickers affixed to pumps.

The Federal Energy Office said the stickers on the gasoline pumps are to be changed by placing a "+2c" next to the number in the last block. The "+2c" represents the margin increase granted to dealers to be effective March 1.

When the retailer gets a wholesale product cost increase or decrease, he is then to cross out the amount in the last box of the sticker and write as near as practical to the last box the full legal selling price, including the two adjustments. Diesel fuel pump stickers are to be changed in the same manner to reflect changes in product costs which can be made only once a month.

WINNING QUARTET - - Chelsea High School was the winner in the county competition for the best quartet, sponsored by the FFA. The members are (l to r) Mike McDaniel, Denise Bradley, Donnie Davis, and at Piano, Jeff Brasher. The Chelsea group will go on to compete against eight other quartets in the district competition on April 18.

RUNNERS-UP - - Coming in second in the quartet competition was the Columbiana group. These Shelby County High School students are (l to r) Tim Walker, Danny Walton, Denise Bean, Kathy Davis, and at piano Bobbie Schofield.

In county contest--

Chelsea quartet wins

The county FFA quartet contest ended with a Chelsea High School victory, following up their uncontested win last year. The gospel- singing four won over a quartet from Shelby County High School at SCHS's vocational agriculture building on Thursday, March 7.

Members of the winning group are Mike McDaniel, Denise Bradley, Donnie Davis, and Jeff Brasher, who accompanied them at the piano. The Chelsea singers will go on to compete against winners from eight other counties at the district competition scheduled for April 18th at Shelby County High. District winners will receive a cash award from the FFA, and will compete in state finals in Montgomery at the Future Farmer's convention in June.

Although the quartet contest has been in existence for several years in Shelby County, generally there are few entries. While Chilsea had no competition last year, SCHS was represented by Tim Walker, Danny Walton, Denise Bean, Kathy Davis, and their pianist, Bobbie Schofield.

Judges at the afternoon singing were local vo-ag instructors Bob Holstren, David Kirkpatric, and Pryor Murphree. They especially recognized the weeks of practice that had gone into both groups' practice sessions. The two quartets' sponsors and parents expressed enthusiasm and hope that more quartets will enter next year.

Troopers to enforce speed law

"State Troopers will begin enforcing Alabama's newly-adopted 55 miles per hour speed law within the next two weeks, in compliance with a federal mandate signed into law by Congress January 2", State Public Safety Director, Colonel E. C. Dothard, said today.

Dothard pointed out that the reduced speed law was necessary in order to comply with the federal regulations, so that the State could continue to receive federal highway funds.

The Director added that lowering the speed limit is expected to result in a substantial savings in fuel, but more importantly, a reduction in deaths and injuries, resulting from traffic accidents.

"Our records prove that speed is one of the leading killers on our highway", Colonel Dothard said. "It not only increases the number of crashed, but also the severity of them."

The reduced speed law will be in effect on all highways in Alabama, unless otherwise posted, as soon as the Highway Department completes the installation of the new speed signs, and will apply to all vehicles, day and night.

"Our aim in enforcing the newly- enacted speed law is not to make mass arrest, but to save lives. We are calling on each driver to help us by voluntarily complying with the State's new speed regualtions", the Director said.

Helena officials have made a request applying to use of the city park while a funeral is taking place in the adjacent cemetery. They ask anyone who is playing in the park or riding a motorbike there while a funeral is taking place, to leave the park area and return after the services are over out of consideration of others. Cooperation will be appreciated, especially by those in the funeral party.

All Helena residents are encouraged to use the park facilities including the ball field, gym equipment, swings, see saws, picnic shelters, and bar-b-q pits.

Why do so many people think Budweiser is sort of special?

Most of them know that brewing beer right does make a difference. And that's good enough for us. Even if they can't put their fingers on one specific reason, they sure keep putting their hands on one specific beer: Budweiser!

When you say Budweiser., you've said it all!

Spring opening scheduled at Oak Mountain

by Rick Moore

Does a mountain resort complete with guest cabins, a dinner club restaurant, championship golf course, boardwalked beach area on a clear unpolluted lake, outdoor skating rink and bridle paths sound like a resort in New York's Catskill Mountains? Your second guess might be that such an attraction is in the Smoky Mountains of Tennessee and North Carolina of the Ozarks of Arkansas or Missouri.

If your guess was any of these places, then you're wrong. Oak Mountain State park will boast all these recreational facilities, and more, right here in Shelby County.

Scheduled to open by May 1, most of the new Oak Mountain recreational complex is nearing completion. Park manager John T. Meredith explained that all of Oak Mountain's facilities will be open by late spring with the exception of the 18 hold golf course. Meredith says that the course will open about two months behind the rest of the park.

The list of activities open to a visitor reads like a recreation planner's list at a jet set resort. A visitor to Oak Mountain may choose camping, fishing canoeing, small craft sailing, rowing, pedal boating, tennis, outdoor roller skating, swimming, hiking, primitive and organized camping, bicycling or picniking.

The park will boast four lakes for the enjoyment of water lovers. In addition to the two 85 acre fishing lakes which are now open at the Eastern end of the park, Oak Mountain Park also has two new water empoundments. One is a 75 acre recreation lake for swimming and boating. The other is a smaller 18 acre lake for the exclusive use of guests lodging in the park's ten new rental cabins.

The two new lakes will remain virtually unpolluted since their watersheads are located almost entirely within the park itself.

A large day use area is located on the shores of the new 75 acre lake. Facilities in the day use area include a sand beach for swimmers, a boardwalk, a short order restaurant, a picnic terrace, boat docks, and an outdoor skating rink around a fountain.

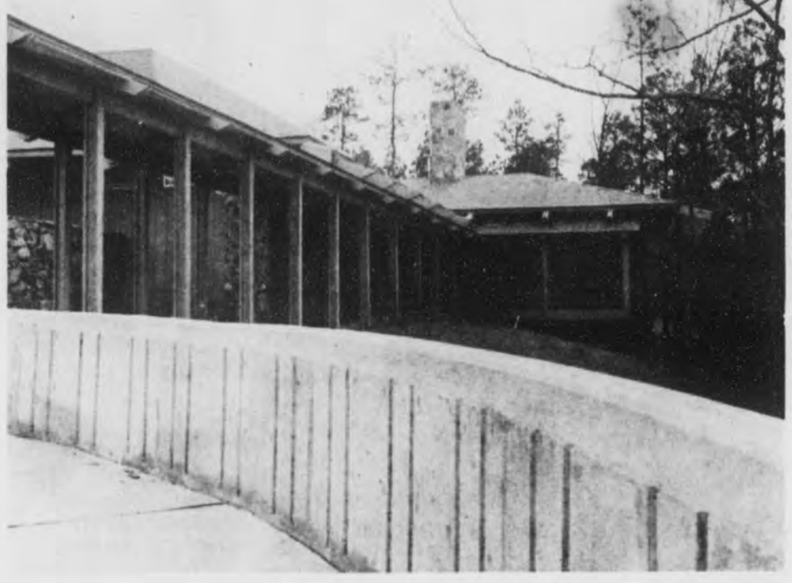
Another of the park's eating places will be the foothills restaurant which will incorporate five different dining areas under one low-gabled roof.

Adjacent to the Foothills restaurant will be an interpretive center. This building will house a 150 seat auditorium and a display area. These facilities are designed to be used for group meetings and conventions.

Near the entrance of the new park area will be a demonstration farm which will house many barnyard animals. This facility is designed to be an open air museum to give city dwellers a taste of rural life.

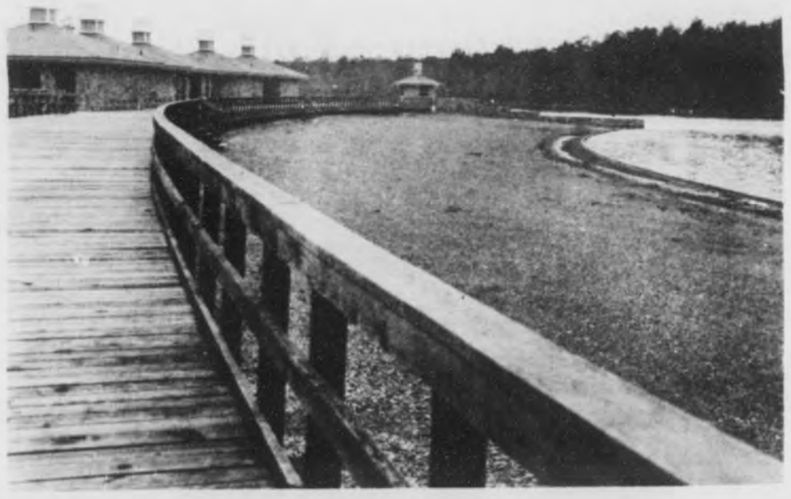
Also at the farm site will be horse stables and a riding ring. Enthusiasts will find horses for hire here.

Campers will find separated trailer sites, complete with utility hook-ups, and leveled tent sites. In the new camping area will be a country store, coin laundry, and modern convenience stations.



All this development will not encroach on the natural beauty of the wildlife in the park. Meredith explained that Oak Mountain State Park contains 9,940 acres of land. Only 750 of that area has been developed, leaving the rest to be preserved for future generations in its natural state.

NEW LAKE - - This is the view (right) from the dam of Oak Mountain Park's new 75 acre lake. Since the lake's watershead is within the park, it will remain virtually unpolluted. The park's day use area is located on the opposite shore. The lake will be open to boating and swimming.



OVERNIGHT ACCOMODATIONS - - Ten rental cabins for overnight guests will be located on this small 17 acre lake. A picnic shelter is in the foreground and a new cabin stands behind. A boating and fishing pier extends into the water. The small lake is for the exclusive use of cabin guests.

FOOTHILLS RESTAURANT - - This swank dinner club type eating place is located on a hill in Oak Mountain Park. The picture windows of the restaurant will offer supurb views of the surrounding scenery.

LAKESIDE BOARDWALK - - This boardwalk will extend the length of Oak Mountain Park's new lakeside beach. The beach area on the left will be filled with sand during the next few weeks. A concrete apron extends from the shoreline into the lake and a diving platform will satisfy the more adventuresome swimmers. The building on the left will house the dressing rooms and showers.

ENTRANCE - - This large building at the entrance of the lake recreation development will house park offices. It also contains a large recreation area for public use.

DAY USE AREA - - With the approaching summertime the lakeside day use area is apt to be one of the most visited of the new Oak Mountain Park facilities. In the foreground is a large community center type building. At the lakeside development in the background visitors can enjoy picnic pavillions, a short order restaurant, outdoor skating rink and boat rental.

The Economy Call is like an economy car.
Both save you money on long distance visits.
But the economy car needs gas and time and your energy to get you there. And the Economy Call needs only a finger to dial One, plus the area code, plus the out-of-town number. That takes only a few seconds. While it's nice to travel there in person, right now, can you think of a better alternative than the Economy Call?

Area Girl Scouts observe sixty-second anniversary

Girl Scouts in Shelby County join scouts throughout the nation this week in celebrating Girl Scout Week, commemorating 62 years of Girl Scouting.

Mrs. Hugh E. Youngblood served as chairman of the program in the county.

Troops meet with their volunteer leaders on a weekly basis through the school year. Activities carried on by local scout troops vary with the interests of the girls and the leaders, but all the activities serve to give the girls knowledge and skills which they are encouraged to use for the benefit of their families and communities.

Leaders of the troops serve the community in a unique and rewarding way through their opportunity to be with girls in the age range 6 to 17, and to help them develop their potential.

The increasing number of working women makes it difficult at times to find women who can volunteer their time as Scout leaders, according to Mrs. Youngblood. But those who serve as leaders become so enthusiastic about it they often serve for several years.

Leaders of troops in Shelby County are:

Alabaster: Junior Troop 37 - Mrs. Robert Brown and Mrs. Calvin McCune; Cadette Troop 503 - Mrs. Charles Garrett.

Calera: Brownie Troop 194 - Mrs. Robert Todd and Mrs. Carl Vance; Junior Troop 153 - Mrs. Lewis Knowles and Mrs. Howard Frederick; Cadette Troop 181 - Mrs. S. A. Jernigan and Mrs. W. G. Holcomb.

Montevallo: Brownie Troop 121 - Mrs. Norman McMillan and Mrs. Milton Foley; Junior Troop 168 - Mrs. Robert Readal and Mrs. Robert Moss; Junior Troop 449 - Mrs. James Wilkinson and Mrs. Kneeland Wright; Cadette Troop 323 - Mrs. Karl Perkins and Mrs. Sanford Colley; Senior Troop 142 - Mrs. Dudley Pendleton.

Valley School area: Junior Troop 46 - Mrs. David Fowler and Mrs. Dick Mace.

MHS wins 2-A championship

by Rick Moore
Reporter Sports Editor

To borrow the old winemakers phrase "It was a very good year," the 1973-74 Montevallo High School basketball team produced a vintage crop of young players who accomplished what two previous championship teams failed to do.

The Bulldogs had failed in championship bids in 1972 and 1973 finishing with second and third place trophies. This year they brought home the big one.

Continuing the analogy, last week was "a very good week" for Montevallo. The Bulldogs emerged victorious in the state 2-A basketball tournament, winning the right to be called the best 2-A basketball team in Alabama.

As several thousand fans filed into the University of Alabama's Memorial Coliseum Saturday afternoon, Montevallo methodically defeated championship rival Cherokee Vocational High School 52-42. This final win clinched the state championship for the Bulldogs and gave the team a 30-3 overall seasonal record.

Montevallo, representing region seven in the tournament, met the region eight champion Sulligent High School in the Bulldog's first tournament contest last Wednesday night. The region seven team proved to be little contest to Montevallo and the Bulldogs won the first round game 77-62.

Montevallo met their second tournament opponent in Dadeville High School. In the semi-final game played Friday afternoon, the Bulldogs defeated Dadeville 59-51 and thus winning a championship berth.

Montevallo basketball coach Gary Fleming commented that the Montevallo coaching staff considered the game against Sulligent as one of their toughest challengers in the tournament. "We knew we had to play a top-notch game," Fleming explained. He commented that Sulligent had a very balanced team and one of the best tournament players in Reggie Hall.

At the end of the first quarter of the Sulligent game Montevallo led 9-8. The halftime score was Montevallo 29 and Sulligent 20. At the end of the third quarter Montevallo led 51-29 and the final talley was Montevallo 77 and Sulligent 62.

Top scorers against Sulligent were Percy Brown, 18 points; Eddie Tyus, 17 points; Willie Moore, 16 points; and Thomas brown, 14 points.

Reggie Hall led the scoring for Sulligent with 25 points while John Howard and Frankie Noland both had ten points each.

"We let up and underestimated Dadeville," Fleming commented about Montevallo's second tournament game. The Montevallo coach continued that the Bulldogs had some fine individual efforts in the Dadeville game by no good play as a team unit.

Fleming said that prior to the game the Montevallo coaches had determined that their opponents would try one of three tactics: freeze the ball, paly their normal game, and press. As it turned out, Dadeville tried all three.

Dadeville was also a physical team and played a rough game, but Montevallo controlled the boards and won out.

Montevallo took the opening jump against the Dadeville Tigers and took the ball in to score. The Tigers then stalled for three minutes. After this tactic failed, Dadeville then went into a full court press against Montevallo, but at the end of the first quarter the Bulldogs led 18-6.

By halftime the game looked like a shoo-in for the Bulldogs as they enjoyed an eleven point 32-21 lead.

However, the Tigers did not give up so easily. Dadeville came back and outscored Montevallo in the third quarter slicing Montevallo's lead to 40-35.

The Tigers moved to within three points of Montevallo in their closest threat of the game with 1:28 left. The score was then 53-50.

Basketball tournament

The Bulldogs held on to the lead and won 59-51.

Shooting in the double figures for Montevallo were Ronnie Tyus, 15 points; Percy Brown, 12 points; Willie Moore, 11 points; and Eddie Tyus, ten points.

The stage was set for the championship game as Montevallo, with a 29-3 record, met the Cherokee Vocational Indians, with a 28-4 record.

Ronnie Tyus scored the first two points in the game. Percy Brown followed seconds later making the score 4-2. With 2:52 left in the first quarter Cherokee tied the score at 5-5 but the Bulldogs pulled away and led 12-9 at the end of the quarter.

The Indians never moved any closer than five points to Montevallo in the second quarter. Thomas Brown scored six points, and Eddie Tyus, Percy Brown and Willie Moore each scored two points to give Montevallo a 24-17 halftime lead.

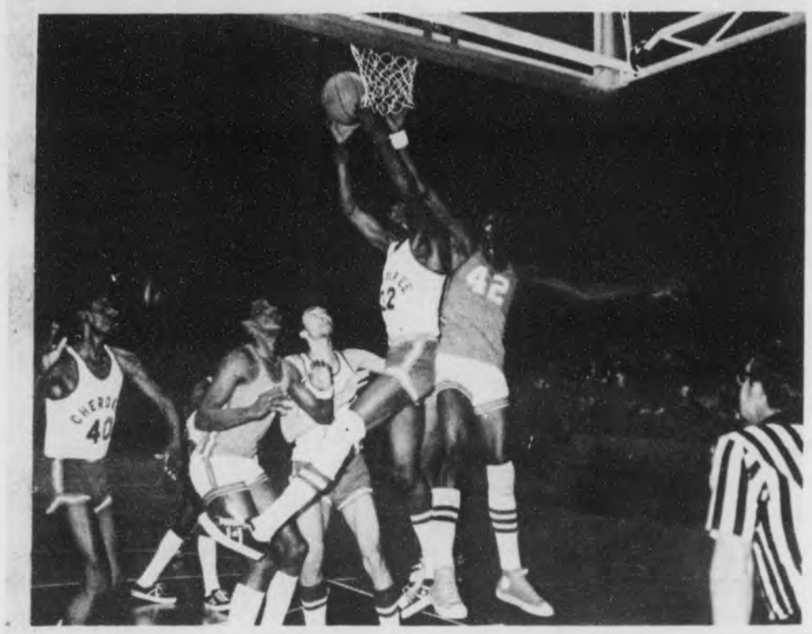
Cherokee Vocational came out after halftime using the full court press. The Indians scored six quick points moving within one point of Montevallo before the Bulldogs began to pull away. Neither team had gained advantage by the end of the third quarter with both Montevallo and Cherokee scoring ten points during that period. The score was 34-27.

The Indians never moved to within less than six points during the entire fourth quarter. The final quarter was characterized by several fouls and with 5:45 left Eddie Tyus fouled out of the game. Thomas Brown scored the final point for Montevallo on a foul shot giving the Bulldogs a 52-42 win and the state championship.

Fleming said that he was proud of all his players who saw the necessity to stop Cherokee Vocational with their defense. He singled out Eddie Tyus and Thomas Brown as defensive stalwarts.

Percy Brown led the scoring in the championship game with 20 points. He was followed by Thomas Brown with 16 points and Ronnie Tyus with 11.

Willie Moore, Percy Brown and Eddie Tyus were named to the 2-A all- tournament team.



Fleming was especially appreciative of his team's success in view of the fact that his star players had played and won, under three different coaches in three different years. "That says a lot for a team," Fleming said. You done't find many players winning from all three coaches."

Playing their last game at Montevallo last Saturday were five of the team's most valuable players, all of whom received the highest praise from Fleming. They are Percy Brown, Ronnie Tyus, Eddie Tyus, Louise Printiss and Willie Moore.

IN talking about the 1973-74 basektball season Fleming explained that the team had its ups and downs. An early obstacle was learning a third coaching philosophy in three years. Fleming also stated that the Bulldogs encountered more injuries and sickness than he has ever experience in coaching. When someobdy was out there was also another player to fill his shoes, he said.

Fleming also singled out injured player Recardi Nelson who led the team during the early season and helped influence the team to dedicate the season to Christ.

In closing Fleming expressed his appreication to all the faculty, student and community support he received in Montevallo. He sumed it all up by saying, "To have a winning program you have to have everybody working together, not just the players and coaches."

LAY UP - - Thomas Brown (34) makes an easy shot against Dadeville as team mates Willie Moore (20) and Ronnie Tyus look on. The Bulldogs downed Dadeville 59-51 in a semi final game played Friday in Tuscaloosa.

Home games on tap for Falcons

It's baseball time again at the University of Montevallo as the Falcons start their 1974 season under the direction of new Coach Bob Reisner. Local fnas will have an opportunity to see the Falcons in the eleven remaining scheduled home games this season. Home games will be played at the UM diamond located on Middle Street in Montevallo.

Jaycees host UM baseball classic

The Montevallo Jaycees will be sponsoring the University of Montevallo Baseball Clinic and baseball tournament this week.

The clinic started Tuesday and will continue Friday. Teaching classes in the clinic will be Montevallo coach Bob Riesner; ex-major leaguers Joe Sewell, Milt Bolling, Frank Bolling and Luman Harris; and Birmingham- Southern coach Roy Mewbourne.

Montevallo, Huntingdon, Birmingham- Southern and Illinois Benidectine will be playing each other in the tournament starting Wednesday and continuing through Saturday. Three games are scheduled for each day.

Some youngster will win chance to meet Aaron

Some lucky boy or girl will be eligible to win a trip to see the Atlanta Braves play in Atlanta this summer and also meet the great Hank Aaron. The name of this winner will be drawn at the Atlanta Braves - Baltimore Orioles exhibition game to be played at Rickwood Field in Birmingham on April 2.

Any child, 12 years old or younger, may enter the contest by mailing a post card to Major League Baseball, 5656 10th Avenue South, Birmingham, Alabama along with ticket orders.

The name of one child will be drawn at the game, with the winner receiving tickets to two week-end games in Atlanta this summer, motel accommodations, and $25 expenses. The winner will get to carry along an adult as his or her guest.

The Atlanta Braves will open the 1974 baseball season with a three- game series in Cincinnati, but Alabama baseball fans will probably see more of Hank Aaron in one day in Birmingham two days before the opener than Cincinnati fans will see in three games

That was the word from Atlanta manager Eddie Mathews recently on a stopover in Birmingham promoting the coming season in Atlanta and an Atlanta -Baltimore pre- season game April 2 in Birmingham's Rickwood Field.

The big drawing card, of course, is Aaron, the man just one home run away from the career home run record held by Babe Ruth. "We'll probably use Aaron as a designated pinch hitter," Mathews told his Birmingham audience. "That means you'll probably get to see him bat four times."

Mathews then said that Aaron probably wouldn't even play when the Braves go to Cincinnati for the opening series, the Braves brass electing instead to have Aaron tie and break the record in Atlanta.

Baltimore and Atlanta will be in Birmingham for a spring showing that has become something of an annual affair, with proceeds going to charities all over the state.

This year's game will be on Tuesday, April 2 at 6:30 p.m.

Standings are listed in basketball league

Eric Stipe, Montevallo's civic recreation director, released the standings in the Montevallo men's basketball league last week.

Teams in order from first to last and their records are: Super Start (5-0), Dove's (3-2), Power Company (3-2) Times Printing (1-3), Smithermans (1-3, and the Coaches (1-4).

The leading scorer is Danny Young of the Power Company averaging 13 points a game. Young is followed by Anthony Staffney (Super Stars) ten points a game, Larry Barton (Times Printing) nine points a game, Clarence Harrell and Jerry Hays (Super Stars) both average nine points a game, and Ronnie Googe (Doves) eight points a game.

DEBORAH HOPE EDMONDS
. . . engaged to Billy Ray Pickens

Couple to wed in Wilsonville

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Leroy Edmonds of Wilsonville announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter Deborah Hope to Billy Ray Pickens, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Franklin Pickens, Jr. of Westover.

The bride elect is the granddaughter of Mrs. Thad A. Burrell and the late Mr. Burrell of Tallulah Falls, Ga. and the late Mr. and Mrs. Wesley A. Edmonds of Tallulah Falls and Atlanta, Ga. She is a graduate of Shelby County High School and Shelby Co. Vocational Center, and is employed by Kirkpatrick Sand and Cement Co. in Birmingham.

Mr. Pickens is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Henry Robertson of Westover and the late Mr. and Mrs. William F. Pickens, Sr. of Anderson, Mo. He is a graduate of Vincent High School and attended N.F. Nunnelley Vocational School in Childersburg. He is presently employed by Modhan in Pelham.

The wedding will be solemnized on Friday, April 26 at 7:30 p.m. at Wilsonville Baptist Church. All friends and relatives of the couple are invited to be present.

Fresh books needed at library

Many of us who like to keep up with currently popular books continue to wish that more new books would be bought for the Library. The Rental shelve needs replenishing; and certainly funds allocated to the library should be used to meet the popular demand of its readers. After all, it is the taxpayers money that is being expended. We know of several requested books, written by Alabama authors that certainly should be included in the available list. But we have been unable to procure them except through Birmingham facilities.

In an endeavor to get new books, we have talked with several people connected with this department and from what we can learn, if we have been correctly informed - is that books are purchased through the State Library. Does this mean that we have to have someone in the State Department select and censor our books before they are sent to us? What is the procedure and how can the library be brought up to date as are those in other localities? Certainly no town has a lovelier building nor one more beautifully kept -- but what, who, and where shall we turn to for the purpose of getting new books while they are new? That is the $64 question.

MRS. KENNETH NEAL CHAPMAN
. . . the former Sharon Ann Scott

Chapmans wed in Calera

Sharon Ann Scott and Kenneth Neal Chapman were united in marriage on March 9, at the Calera Baptist Church.

Rev. Howard Golden, and Dr. Jerry Smith, minister of First Christian Church of Birmingham, officiated using the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Charles William Scott of Calera, and Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Cleon Chapman of Birmingham.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of silk organza, appliqued with Chantilly lace and pearls on the bodice styled with a high neckline and buttoned cuffs on the bishop sleeves. Her skirt flowed to a chapel train accented with lace motifs, and a lace and pearl Camelot cap held her veil.

The bride carried a bouquet of pink, blue, and yellow spring flowers centered with an orchid.

Mrs. William Tanner of Birmingham, sister of the groom, was matron of honor. Barbara Scott of Calera, served as maid of honor. Their dresses were pink, trimmed at the bodice with a multi-pastel daisy lace. They wore picture hats matching their dresses.

Bridesmaids were Debbie Scott of Calera, Mrs. Alan Staggs of Alabaster, Misses Linda Hand and Angie Troncale of Birmingham. Junior bridesmaids were Miss Nancy Scott of Calera and Miss Tammy Tanner of Birmingham. Their dresses were blue, trimmed at the bodice with multi-pastel daisy lace. They wore matching picture hats. Dana Payton of Calera was the flower girl.

Wilbur Cleon Chapman was his son's best man. Groomsmen were William Tanner, Sonny Chapman, Frank McGuire III, and James Barnes of Birmingham, and Eugene Scott of Calera. Junior attendants and candlelighters were Steve Scott and Lynn Moon of Calera. Bill Tanner Jr. of Birmingham, was the ring bearer.

A reception followed at the church fellowship hall. The brides table was overlaid with a pink satin cloth and pink lace. The groom's table was overlaid with a mint green satin cloth and and lace. Those assisting in serving were Misses Alicia Benefield, Karen Baird and Debbie Alexander of Birmingham, Mrs. Ronnie Wilson of Birmingham, Mrs. Donnie Gentrey of Jacksonville, Mrs. Duke Graham III, of Pleasant Grove, Miss Kathy Ballard of Tuscaloosa, and Miss Lynda Samons of Calera. Mrs. Hank Lucas registered the guests.

Following a wedding trip to Gatlinburg, the couple will live in Jacksonville, Ala. where both attend the University.

Rhetorical artillery doesn't solve problems

by Mildred White Wallace

It matters not what the President of the United States says, or how many rhetorical shot and shell are hurled across the aisles of Congress, the fact that a law is passed decreeing that such and such shall be done to solve a problem -- does not necessarily mean that the problem will automatically be solved.

For instance only a few years ago the federal government declared a war to the death on poverty. Tens of billions of dollars were allotted and spent on this project -- but poverty still survives and it always will, since it is impossible to make every living human being want to work and live in a way that a majority think is suitable.

There are some people who simply do not want to be tied down with a steady job -- no matter what it pays. Demands however on the government for protection against every adversity are fast reaching the outer limit of governmental capability just as demands on energy resources grew beyond the capacity of industry to produce at a low price.

Therefore, as much talk as we continue hearing about the "energy crisis" it just may be a blessing in disguise if it is accepted as proof that nothing in life is free and that there is no God given right to abundance or security or anything else except as it is earned and paid for at a fair rate of exchange.

Your friends and mine

by Mildred White Wallace

Did you know that the lowly copper penny, the last United States coin of any intrinsic value, was about to go. Because of inflation and the demand for copper, the value of the metal now exceeds the penny. Do you remember in World War II, pennies were made of zinc-coated steel, but they were all called in and destroyed.

So, it is planned that next year poor old Abe Lincoln, E Pluribus Unum and all, will appear in aluminum and there he will remain until aluminum, too becomes more valuable than the penny. Then -- who knows the Great White Father in Washington may just go back to wampum.

The new Strickland's Men Shop which opened on Main last week has rated many favorable comments -- not only among the men but among their "better halfs" whom we saw shopping during the weekend. Feel sure they had in mind trying to improve the looks of the man around the house. Clothes are distinctive, colorful, and calculated to add a bit of zip and zing to any drab - gray toned slacks and shirts. Go by and congratulate Jim Strickland for providing this facility. The store is definitely a credit to your town and mine!

A new book titled "My Mother Was a Rebel" has been donated to the Columbiana Library in honor of the late Mrs. A.P. Longshore Sr. The book was written by her grandaughter Helen Friedman Blackshear who spent some time in Columbiana during her childhood days as a guest in the Longshore home. The book will be especially interesting to those of us who knew Judge and Mrs. Longshore and their 12 children.

Mr. and Mrs. E.J. Sullivan, both of whom were connected for many years with the schools in Shelby County before they retired, celebrated the passing of their Golden Wedding on March 3 in Columbiana when they were honor guests at a luncheon held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Curlee.

Sharing in the joyous occasion were Mr. and Mrs. John Curlee, Mrs. Letie Jordan of Sylacauga; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jordan of Shelby; Dr. and Mrs. George Barrow, Jr., of Crestview, Fla; and Mrs. Huett Curlee of Birmingham.

When she arrived home she realized she had left her purse in the booth. She called Mrs. Milstead and asked that she go down and and check it. Mrs. Milstead found the purse gone, but a note from a passerby that stated: "I found your purse Mrs. Davis and have left it in the sheriff's office for you". No name was signed but Mrs. DAvis says it is heartening to realize that "honesty" still prevails on Main Street in Columbiana; and she is most grateful for the return of her purse.

MRS. FRANK PAGE
. . . formerly Lynda Gail McGuffie

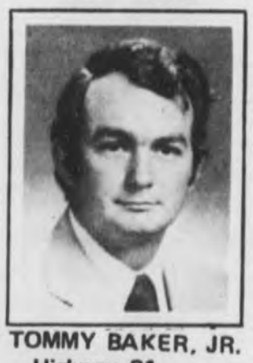
Lynda McGuffie weds Frank Page

Miss Lynda Gail McGuffie became the bride of Frank Page February 28 at New Hope Baptist Church with Rev. Kenneth Clement officiating. Music was furnished by Peggy McGuire, organist, and Mrs. Lila Philyaw, vocalist.

The bride is the daughter of Fred D. McGuffie, Sr. of Helena, and the late Mrs. Eva McGuffie.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J.O. Page of Wilton.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, F.F. Brashier. She wore a candlelight satin gown with a lace bodice and long sleeves of organza trimmed with lace. A jeweled head piece held her finger tip veil. She carried yellow roses and carnations centered with a white orchid on a white bible.



Miss Lisa McGuffie, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Jenny and Sandra Crumley, nieces of the bride, and Tracy Page, sister of the groom were junior brides' maids. Tina Grimes was flower girl. The attendants wore yellow floral print polyester seersucker gowns and carried long stemmed yellow roses.

Jim Keister served Mr. Page as best man. Steve and Jeffry Smith, nephews of the bride were junior groom's men. Charles Wood, Sr. and Robert McGuffie served as ushers. Charles Wood, Jr. was ring bearer.

A reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church, with Mrs. Edward Smith, Mrs. Robert McGuffie and Mrs. O'Neal Grimes serving.

The couple is at home in Alabaster.

West Point promotes A.M. Lokey

Albert M. Lokey, Jr., son of Mrs. Frances K. Lokey, Wilsonville, was appointed to the rank of Lieutenant within the corps of Cadets at the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, N. Y.

Cadet Lokey, who is serving as a Regimental Assistant Operations Officer, is scheduled to graduate from the Academy in 1974 at which time he will receive a B. S. Degree and be commissioned a second lieutenant.

Judges face new court of judiciary

The Judicial Inquiry Commission, designed under Alabama's new Judicial Article to investigate complaints against state judges, has organized and is now functioning according to its chairman, attorney Oliver W. Brantley of Troy.

Brantley, who served as chairman of the first commission, along with Florence attorney, Charles Poellnitz, were appointed to the group by the State Bar Association. The Alabama Circuit Judges' Association appointed two judges, Cecil Deason of Birmingham and Clifford Delony of Tuscumbia to the commission. The governor appointed I.J. Scott, Jr. of Opelika and Basil Thompson of Andalusia and the State Supreme Court named Appeals Court Judge Robert Bradley of Montgomery.

Under the new organization of the commission by the Judicial Article, it will serve as a "grand jury" to investigate and bring charges against errant judges before the new Court of the Judiciary. The new constitution mandates that the commission's investigations remain confidential until it brings charges or returns an "indictment" against a judge before the new court. At that point that matter becomes a public record similar to the way grand juries function.

Brantley said that all complaints received by the commission will receive proper attention and all will be investigated. He said the procedure for filing a complaint against any state judge is simply to state the complaint in writing and mail to the Judicial Inquiry Commission, 200 South Hull, Suite 100, Montgomery, Alabama 36104.

The chairman stressed that, generally, complaints pertaining to matters which fall into the area of legal decisions of judges should not be sent the commission. He said that those matters are taken care of in the normal process of the appellate system whereby higher courts make reviews of cases.

Check math before filing

Dwight Baptist, IRS District Director for Alabama, cautioned taxpayers about to file their 1973 Federal income tax return to check it over carefully before putting it into the mail to the Chamblee, Georgia, IRS Service Center.

Baptist said that taxpayers who take that extra few minutes often find errors in arithmetic or other basic, but common, mistakes that otherwise have to be corrected in processing and may delay the issuance of refund checks.

Alabama taxpayers, he said, should make certain they provide the correct Social security number, take the correct figures from tax tables and schedules, attach all necessary documents, and sign the return if they want a prompt refund.

"One thing all taxpayers can do to assure correct identification of their tax return is to attach the pre-addressed label in the space provided on the form they file with the IRS," Baptist said.

Draft lottery to be drawn March 20

Young men born in 1955 will have their selective service lottery numbers drawn on March 20, even though there is no draft or plans to resume callups for involuntary military service. Mr. Felix R. Petrey, state director of selective service for Alabama announced today.

The sixth annual selective service lottery drawing for the nation's young men who become 19 years of age during 1974 will be held in Washington, D.C. on that date.

Alabama has approximately 33,000 19 year olds who will have their lottery numbers established by this drawing, according to Petrey.

The military selective service act requires all young men to register with the system at the time of their 18th birthday. They are assigned their random sequence number through the lottery which is held during the year in which they become 19 years of age. They are potentially vulnerable to induction throughout the calendar year of their 20th birthday; thereafter each year, they are placed in a lower priority selection group.

As a result of the lottery numbers which are drawn, some of the young men born in 1955 will be placed in a class available for military service by their local boards. This group will form a standby pool of "readily inductible" men during calendar year 1975. This pool would be available to supplement the all-volunteer armed forces in the event of a National emergency. The President's induction authority would have to be restored by the congress before these young men could be inducted. The depense department has issued no calls for fraftees since December 1972.

The lottery is ocnducted in the following manner: two plexiglass drums are placed on the stage. Capsules containing the 365 dates of the year are placed in one drum in a random manner. Capsules with the numbers 1 through 365 are placed in the other drum, also in a random manner. Both sets of capsules will be thoroughly mixed.

In reminding Alabama's young men that penalties for failing to register can range to as much as five year's imprisonment or a fine of $10,000, or both, Mr. Petrey said that selective service has provided ways which enable men to register with minimum inconvenience.

"Volunteer registrars, many of whom are located in high schools, have been appointed in areas where there are no local board officed," he reported.

Petrey said that young men in Shelby County may register at the office of Kermit Mathison, University of Montevallo from 8 to 5, five days a week.

Harbour listed in biography

Dr. Charles C. Harbour, chairman and professor of the University of Montevallo speech and theatre department, has been chosen for listing in the 1974 edition of "Dictionary of International Biography."

Harbour's special area of research is in modern American dramatic criticism, and his studies on Stark Young and John Gassner are widely used. He is currently working on a book, "Dramatic Theory at Mid-Century," which is expected to be in printed form during the coming spring.

Gathings on dean's list

Jonathan W. Gathings, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Gathings of Columbiana, has been named to the Dean's List at Marion Institute for the first grading period of the second semester.

He is a senior in high school.

WE'RE NUMBER ONE - - Jubilant Montevallo High School students climb aboard the city fire truck to meet the victorious Bulldog team as it returned from Tuscaloosa Saturday night. A parade led by police cars and fire trucks waited at the county line to escort the state champions of Montevallo High School into the city.

THE BEST CHEER OF THE YEAR - - Montevallo's cheerleaders were ready and waiting on the red fire truck with the large crowd of students and Montevallo residents that gathered to escort the team into town, after it won the 2-A class basketball championship.

Gardeners push recycling

Mrs. Mary Burks, widely known Birmingham conservationist, will discuss recycling at a community -wide meeting sponsored by the Montevallo Evening Garden Club.

The club is inviting all garden clubs, representatives from all civic clubs, the Montevallo Conservancy, and anyone else who would like to attend the meeting on March 27 at 7:30 p.m.

It will be held in the auditorium of the music building on the University of Montevallo campus, according to Mrs. Jeannette Merijanian, spokesman for the club.

It is the hope of the evening garden club that the community will support the recycling to such an extent that it can become a fund raising project. In the event, club will suggest that the money be donated to the city library.

Fourmile Baptists meet in new church

The indomitable, dedicated determination of Rev. Don Graves and members of Fourmile Baptist Church was evidenced Sunday morning at the eleven o'clock worship hour when the first service was held in the recently completed building.

Months ago, this historic church was destroyed by fire. Mr. Graves also lost in the blaze his complete and valuable library. The tragic disaster however, did not force a cessation in religious activities. Sunday School and worship services were continued in various places while plans were formulated to rebuild the church.

Sunday morning, Rev. Don Graves had the privilege of again addressing members and friends present in the congregation who had gathered to dedicate their further Christian efforts in their own sanctuary.

County Baptists sponsor School of Disciples

The Shelby County School of Disciples Program will be held Monday and Tuesday, March 18-19, First Baptist Church, Pelham. The inspirational and evangelistic conference will begin on Monday evening, March 18, 7:00 P.M.

The three sessions on Tuesday, March 19, are Tuesday morning, 9:00 A.M., Tuesday afternoon, 2:00 P.M., and Tuesday evening, 7:00 P.M.

Featured speaker will be Dr. Vance Havner of Greensboro, North Carolina. One of the best- known preachers in America today, he has ministered in every part of the nation, is the author of 30 books, and a veteran evangelist of 60 years. He will speak once in all four sessions.

Other speakers for every session include Dr. J. W. Lee, Professor of Old Testament Interpretation, Baptist Bible Institute, Graceville, Florida and Randall Veazey, evangelistic singer artist in residence at the School of Music, Samford University, Birmingham, Alabama.

Special speakers include Rev. Bob Hunt, missionary to Taiwan on Monday evening, Dr. Otis Williams, Alabama Baptist Director of Evangelism on Tuesday morning, and Miss Jane Rice, Miss Alabama, 1974, on Tuesday night. Tuesday night will be Youth Night. Also speaking on Tuesday night will be Miss Joyce Norman, writer from the Birmingham News. The public is invited to attend every session. Nursery is provided for children. The annual event is sponsored by the Shelby Baptist Association, Rev. John Duncan, Director.

Walkers lining up for Walkathon

Citizens of Shelby County will be covering a lot of ground when the March of Dimes Walkathon gets under way on March 30. But they're not just walking for their health. Their goal is to benefit the health of some 250,000 children who are born each year with birth defects.

The Walkathon is scheduled to begin at the Student Union Building on U.M. campus with registration from 8:30 to 9:30 a.m., rain or shine, and will end at the same place covering a total of 15 miels.

"There are two ways in which residents of Shelby County can participate in our drive," said Randie Sears, chairman of the event. "You can either put on your walking shoes and join the line of march, or you can sponsor someone to walk for you. Either way, you'll be helping to make big strides in the campaign to fight birth defects."

A Walkathon sponsor pledges a specific contribution to the March of Dimes for every mile walked.

Money raised helps support March of Dimes research and medical service programs, in addition to educational activities and community service projects. For information about taking part in the Walkathon, call 665-2981.

SS tax hits again; up to $772 per year

Recent legislation increasing the wage base for withholding Social Security taxes (FICA) went into effect Jan. 1, the Internal Revenue Service told Alabama employers today.

"Up to $13,200 of your employee's income is now subject to Social Security tax," said IRS District Director Dwight Baptist. "However, the rate of tax will remain the same at 5.85 percent each for employers and employees."

This means that employers will pay up to $772.20 per year in FICA taxes for each employee. Employers should continue to use the FICA tax withholding tables contained in the 1973 editions of the Employer's Tax Guide, Circular E or Circular A.

"An employer should not withhold more than $772.20 in Social Security taxes during 1974 from any employee's wages," Baptist said.

Social Security taxes, paid by both employers and employees, provide for a Federal system of old-age, survivor's, disability, and hospital insurance.

Mr. and Mrs. Wren Eddings of Brierfield route one were honor guests in the home of their daughter, Mrs. Gwen Mitchell in Aldrich on February 17 when they observed the passing of their 50th wedding anniversary.

Present to share in the happy occasion were their four children, Mrs. Margaret Lewis, Woodridge, Va; Mrs. Jo Ann Wright, Canton, Ga; Lennis Eddings, Valpariso, Fla; and hostess Mrs. Gwen Mitchell of Aldrich; nine grandchildren; along with one great grandson.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Eddings called throughout the afternoon party hours to extend congratulations and best wishes for many more joyous anniversaries together.

UM opens competition for music scholarships

Students from high schools and junior colleges in Alabama and surrounding states will vie for music scholarship awards at the University of Montevallo in Saturday sessions on Mar. 23 and Apr. 6.

Details of this year's competition were announced by Dr. John Stewart, music department chairman and dean of the College of Fine Arts at Montevallo.

He said high school seniors and junior college students who anticipate attending the University of Montevallo are eligible to enter the program.

Competition includes auditions and written tests, according to Stewart, and musical quality rather than difficulty of composition will be judged more important in audition performances.

Competition is open to pianists, organists, vocalists and string and wind instrument players. The event is approved by the Alabama Association of Secondary School Principals.

Scholarships range in value from $600 to $1,200 over a four- year period for successful candidates who enroll in the University's Bachelor of Music and Bachelor of Music Education curricula.

Students interested in entering the 1974 competition should contact Dr. Stewart at the College of Fine Arts, University of Montevallo, Montevallo, Ala. 35115.

and all persons and the heirs or devisees of such persons, if deceased, and all such associations, partnerships, corporations or other entities who unknown to the plaintiff claim or are reputed to claim any title to or interest in, or lien or encumbrance upon, the land made the subject matter of this action of any part thereof.

Take notice that Anniston Production Credit Association of Anniston, Alabama an Association has this day filed its verified complaint in said Court against the above named defendants and against any and all persons and the heirs or devisees of such persons, if deceased, and all such associations, partnerships, corporations or other entities who unknown to the plaintiff claim or are reputed to claim any title to or interest in, or lien or encumbrance upon, the land made the subject matter of this action or any part thereof and against all other persons and against said lands for the purpose of establishing the title of said lands in the Anniston Production Credit Association of Anniston, Alabama, an Association, and to clear up all doubts and disputes concerning the same and that said suit is now pending in said Court.

Plaintiff alleges in said complaint that the title to said lands stands in the name of the plaintiff on the records in the office of the Judge of Probate of Shelby County, Alabama, and said complaint further alleges that plaintiff claims title to said lands by virtue of a deed from M. Louise Palmer, unmarried, to Buddy DeShazo and Willia Mae DeShazo dated Marvh 15, 1963, and which was recorded in Deed Book 224 page 641 in the Probate Office of Shelby County, Alabama. At said time, Buddy DeShazo and Willie Mae DeShazo executed a mortgage back to M. Louise Palmer, as shown by Mortgage Book 281 page 709

Seventy goats in herd

Vincent farm goes to goats

FEEDING TIME - - Farmer Clinkscales opens the feed bin to get corn for his herd of goats. Dozens of the goats gather around for dessert after grazing in the pastures all morning. Clinkscales has dozens of nannies, a few billies, and several baby kids. He finds that goats are in demand for their meat, which in generally barbecued.

HEN FRUIT - - Mr. and Mrs. Clickscales clean and pack hundreds of eggs an hour and within a week, perhaps hundreds of thousands of them. With a host of busy hens and roosters doing their part, the Clinkscales are able to supply enough eggs for a twice-weekly pickup by the buyer.

BILLY THE KID - - The farmer said that most of the kids were born since Christmas. This baby goat is one of bigger ones, with tiny horns and a little beard. The babies are quite gentle and friendly, and are especially cute at this age. This kid and about seventy more goats make their home on a farm north of Vincent. Life is all fun and games for the goat herd, at least until the fourth of July.

How about a dish of barbecued goat? That's what many Shelby Countians are beginning to eat. According to W.M. Clinkscales of Vincent, there is little demand for milk from his goat herd. Instead people are buying them for the meat.

On his farm north of Vincent, Clinkscales raises goats for this new market. At present he has about seventy in the herd, including a whole new crop of kids born between Christmas and late January. He said that the number varies seasonally with the number of nannies on hand.

Goats are not nearly as bad as people seem to think. They are supposed to stink, eat garbage, and be ill-tempered. Of course most of these misconceptions have some basis in truth, but goats' habits are hardly worse than those of cattle, chickens, or any other farm animals. Clinkscales appears quite fond of his goats, having names for many of his favorites.

His male goat, Billy Bill, is assisted by another adult billy in keeping order among the many nannies. Clinkscales adds that the kids are quite appealing, especially the two month old babies.

Despite the known virtues of goat's milk, the farmer says that there is not much demand for it in his area. Goat's milk is supposed to be already homogenized, good for ulcerated stomachs, and is often recommended for infants. Health food addicts praise it for its known qualities, plus perhaps for imagined superiority over commercial milk. Clinkscales points out that despite the high price he could get for it, its not worth it for him and his wife Lou Nell to milk the nannies.

Goats are not the only animals on the Clinkscales farm. Like the famous Old McDonald, Clinkscales also has about thirty cows, over six thousand chickens, and even a German Shepherd dog. The animal population is indeed high on the 110-acre farm on county road 57 north of Vincent. Instead of going to the modern specialized farm which centers on just one animal or crop, the Clinkscales farm is more like the old-fashioned type of decades ago.

The thousands of chickens on the farm are not grown as fryers, or as egg- layers, at least for stores. Mrs. Clinkscales said that they raise hatching eggs for a major feed- producer, who picks up the fertile eggs twice weekly. The chicken house has over 5,700 Line Seventy hens and 700 pelt roosters, according to Clinkscales. They are fed by an automated feeding system which moves the feed in its circuit around the feeding house.

The goats, chickens, and cows are very nearly of equal importance to the farm. The cattle, primarily beef cows, are quite profitable for the family. The cows and the goats graze side by side in the pastures, and share the hay and corn at mealtime.

The farm does not really have vegetable crops in the old sense, because the Clinkscales fill most of their needs with a garden. Since the children have grown up and moved away, the couple finds it easier to tend to animals than crops. The farmer adds that he does not even raise his own hay for the stock, but buys it instead.

For about thirty years, William and Lou Nell Clinkscales have run the farm not as a business enterprise but as a way of life. "Sometimes it's hard, but it's worth it," says the man. His wife agrees, as she sits cleaning a batch of eggs. Many people would not care for it, but the Vincent couple thrives on a life with the chickens, cows, and goats.

"HERE A CHICK..." - - Wall-to-wall chickens are a familiar sight to many Shelby County farm families. However the Clinkscales do not sell the chickens or eggs for food. The thousands of hens in their chicken house produce fertile eggs for a major feed- producer. Instead of ending up as omelets, these eggs will hatch as another generation of chicks.

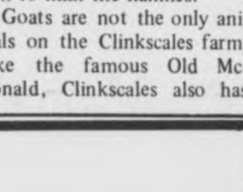
"The insurance due again?"



To a businessman it's confusing to have separate policies for fire and extended coverage, theft, vandalism, glass breakage, public liability, etc. All the insurance you need can be packaged, by Scott-Long, into one commercial policy at 10% to 15% savings over the separate policies.

Courthouse causes statewide interest

The future of the old courthouse in Columbiana is creating statewide interest.

The 1854 structure now serves as the Columbiana City Hall, and the Shelby County Historical Society wants it to be preserved as a building of historic significance. The state historical society is also interested in its preservation.

But Columbiana's city officials had planned to tear down the building once the new city hall is constructed a half block away.

Mayor Robert Bolton told Mildred W. Wallace, associate editor of the Shelby County Reporter, "We had engineers come and inspect the entire structure - from top to bottom. They found it in 'shaky condition' saying the foundation is most unstable. Between $35,000 and $45,000 was the estimated figure needed for remodeling and restoring the building to a safe status. The city definitely will not spend any more money on it.

"However," Bolton continued, "If the Historical Society is successful in obtaining federal funds sufficient to renovate and maintain the building up to our specifications, we will agree to let them have it. Otherwise the building will be torn down."

Society schedules Sunday meeting

The Shelby County Historical Society is planning its next monthly meeting for Sunday afternoon, March 24, at 3:00 p.m. in the Helena Junior High School auditorium. On the agenda is a program of business, with progress reports and discussion of new committees needed.

The two-month old historical society has grown phenomenally, with membership already surpassing four hundred. By comparison, St. Clair County's four-year old historical society has five hundred members on its rolls. Warner Floyd, executive director of the Alabama Historical Commission, has remarked that Shelby County's society "will turn the state upside down." Since his speech before the group a month ago, the membership has more than doubled.

Several committees are already well into their special projects. The cemetery census and survey of historical sites are making progress, with workers active around the county. The "save the courthouse" campaign is currently at a standstill pending action from Columbiana city council. Several new committees are slated to be launched at the Sunday meeting, in order to keep the society working on a wide range of vital activities.

Society secretary- treasurer Linda Hinds Conn reminds prospective members that charter membership has been extended until the March 24 meeting. Dues can be paid to her at the meeting. Afterwards dues will be raised with charter memberships no longer available.

PLANTIN' TIME - - Like a nostalgic scene out of the past, Will Davis of Rt. 1, Calera, greets spring behind the plow. Davis plans to plant a crop of cane to make molasses. Everywhere farmers and gardeners are plowing and planting as the spring season begins here in Shelby County. (Photo by Rick Moore)

INDIAN SPRINGS SCHOOL - - Joe Mays, faculty member at Indian Springs School, Rt. 1 Helena, brushes up in his study before meeting his classes. Mays' comments and those of other faculty and students will appear in a forthcoming feature story on the widely known school in the Shelby County Reporter.

Jury prices land in property suit

The issue of what property is worth in Shelby County was put to a jury again last week.

The case involved land in the Dunnavant - Vandiver area where the Alabama Power Company seeks to condemn as easement to construct power lines to the Leeds substation.

Milton and Manley Yeilding of Birmingham brought the case, Yeilding vs. Alabama Power Co., so that a jury could decide the valuation.

Appraisers differed on their valuations from $4,000 to $30,000 with intermediate appraisals of $16,000 and $23,000.

The jury, after listening to testimony and deliberating for three days, decided that the Power Company should pay the sum of $12,500 for 6.22 acres of land, plus the easement.

Serving on the jury were Robert A. Crouse, Calera; Elliott C. Robbins, Montevallo; John O. Leeman, Jr., Maylene; Johnnie Brown, Saginaw; Samuel Glass, Calera; John T. Hunt, Calcis; Mrs. Emory Booth, Helena; Allen Hawkins, Alabaster; Ethel Mae Moore, Chelsea; Donald Milstead, Calera; Ray White, Rt. 1, Alabaster and John O. Wellborn, Rt. 1, Leeds.

Candidates freed from rally fees

Candidates for political office will find campaigning less expensive this year than in the past, thanks to the new State Corrupt Practices Act.

They can no longer pay charitable organizations, churches or schools for the privilege of speaking at political rallies.

In the past, many such organizations have invited candidates to rallies in order to raise money for the organization. The candidates were asked to pay fees for the privilege of saying a few words. In Shelby County, the fee often was at least $10 and in recent years $25, $50 or "free will donation" was the common practice.

Now, if churches or schools sponsor rallies, they will have to listen to the candidates' words and won't gain anything from the exercise except inspiration.

State Attorney General Bill Baxley notes that Title 17, Section 286 of the law says it is a corrupt practice to solicit or ask or invite payment to religious, charitable or other organization supposed to be primarily for the public good from any candidates for election.

He will investigate any complaint he receives on the matter.

All of this brings to mind a story told about a Shelby County candidate a few years ago. It seems he was invited to attend a church sponsored rally in a section of the county where he was not well known. He accepted, wishing to widen his acquaintances. When he arrived, he became involved in spirited bidding for homemade cakes, baked by members of the church.

As the bidding for a particular cake continued, he found himself bidding against his opponent in the campaign. He felt he had to outbid the rival, and the bidding kept on and kept on, with the church members applauding each bid.

When it was finally over, the candidate had bid over $300 for the cake. As a man of limited means, the entire exercise left him strapped.

But to top off the story, when the votes were counted from that beat, the candidate who had paid $300 for the cake lost the beat by a tremendous margin.

Man is arrested in Sunday slaying

James Henry Holcombe was arrested after the death of Mose Wesley Gaiters late Sunday evening in a shooting incident.

Gaiters was declared dead by Shelby County Coroner Billy Thompson at Shelby Memorial Hospital.

Gaiters died of apparent gunshot wounds. The shooting occured around 10:30 Sunday night in South Alabaster. Holcombe was taken in custody to the Shelby County jail.

Investigating officers included Alabaster Chief of Police C.E. "Bull" Carter, Sgt. LeRoy Davis and Sheriff C.P. Walker.

Ralley to kick off Wallace campaign

Governor George C. Wallace will kick off his 1974 Gubernatorial Campaign in Birmingham's Municipal Auditorium Friday evening, March 22.

According to Tom Ventress, State Campaign Coordinator, doors to the Auditorium will open at 5:30 p.m., and Governor Wallace will appear some time between 7 and 8.

A number of the Nashville - Grand Ole Opry musicians will be on hand to entertain Wallace supporters, who are expected to come from throughout the State. Stars such as Tanya Tucker, Ferlin Husky, Bobby Bare, Jim Ed Brown, Nat Stuckey, George Morgan, Connie Van Dyke, and others will liven the occasion.

Governor Wallace is campaigning for an unprecedented third term as Governor in this year's Democratic Primary. He is expected to outline his campaign platform during the Birmingham rally, which is the first political rally to be held for Wallace in Alabama since the 1970 Governor's Campaign.

Following the Birmingham rally, Governor Wallace will journey to Greenville on Saturday, March 23, for a 2:00 p.m. appearance near the Courthouse.

Later on Saturday, at 7:30 p.m., the Governor will appear in Andalusia in front of the Covington County Courthouse.

The Greenville and Andalusia rallies will also include entertainment.

Ventress would not disclose the Governor's campaign platform, but said that he knew that the Governor was particularly proud of the accomplishments made during his administrations in the fields of education, industrial development, and improvement of highways and the mental health program.

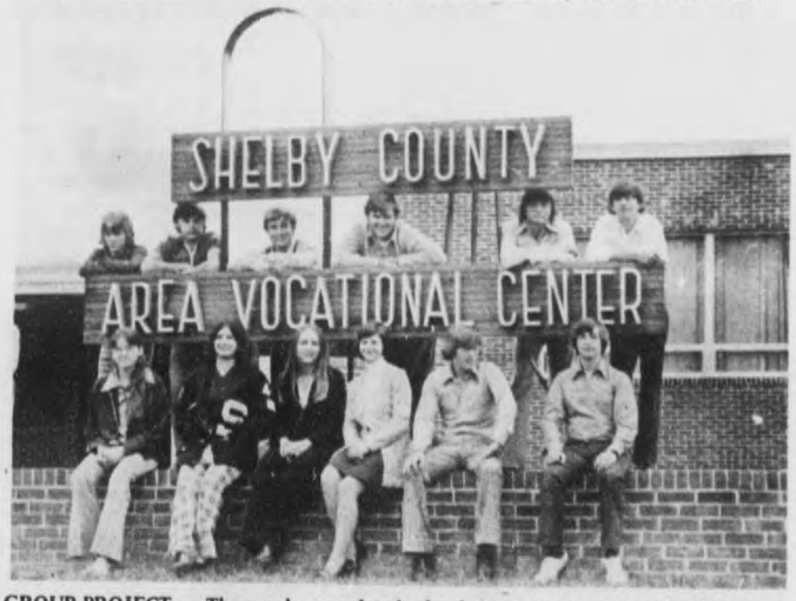
Candidate killed Sunday

The Republican candidate for state senate district 18, which includes all of Shelby County, was killed in an unusual accident Sunday.

Doyle Plier of Jemison was struck by a car while he stood at a service station east of Clanton. State troopers said he was hit by a car that veered into the service station on Lay Dam Road near Clanton.

The 41 year old Plier was the only G.O.P. candidate in the race for the senate seat.

Alabaster man given UA post



An Alabaster man, Charles R. Attaway, has been appointed budget director for the Community Chest-United Appeal. According to executive director David G. Orrell, Attaway will assume his financial duties for the charity organization which operates in Shelby, Jefferson, and Walker Counties.

A Shelby County native, Attaway was formerly the insurance manager of the Woodward Company and is now attending the University of Alabama in Birmingham, working toward a degree in accounting.

He is a member of Beta Gamma Sigma and is a deacon at the First Baptist Church in Alabaster.

THEY'RE BITING ON THE LAKE - - Coleman Vining, E. E. Brantley and Rev. Floyd Harris understandably look a little tired as they show off a string of 99 crappie they caught fishing on Lay Lake last Wednesday night. Warm weather and the AEA holidays brought many fishermen and their families to the Shelby County lake shore last week.

Festival of Arts salutes Fed. Republic of Germany

Few of us will be fortunate enough to take our families on a vacation to Germany. Area residnts may get a taste of continental culture, however, in the upcoming Birmingham Festival of Arts.

This year's festival theme is entitled: "A salute to the Federal Republic of Germany." The civic affair will start on Thursday, March 21, and continue through Sunday, March 31.

Probable the biggest attraction in the festival of arts will be the International Fair held at Birmingham Civic Center. Dates for the fair will be March 22-31. Visitors to the fair will find a replica of a German Village, food, crafts, exhibits and entertainment from the Federal Republic of Germany.

Other cultural events in the festival of arts will be held throughout Birmingham.

The Samford University drama department will present an origianl production entitled The Brothers Grim and Their Fairy Tales at 8 p.m. March 20 and 21. The show will be presented at Samford's Arena Theatre.

A special exhibition of German art will be on display at the Birmingham Museum of art starting March 21. A reception from 6-7:30 p.m. will open the showing.

Winners of the Birmingham Festival of Arts Hackney Literary Awards will be announced March 23 at 10:30 a.m. at the civic center, and selected short stories from the national and state will be read.

A wind quintet from the University of Montevallo will perform in a pre-festival event at 10:30 this morning, March 21.

The quintet includes Beth Anthony and Ellen Cook, flute; Laurie Gene Orr and Julie McEntee, horn; Jack Isaacks, oboe; Cindy Rudolph, clarinet and Larry Wade, bassoon.

This event is scheduled for the Birmingham Museum of Art.

Other events of the Festival include a recital of German organ music at the First Christian Church of Birmingham, March 22 at 8 p.m.

On March 24 at 3 p.m. at the Museum of Art, a "Connoisseur Concert"; will be given. Various other musical events are scheduled.

The Porsche Club will have a show of German made sports cars at the Civic Center.

Collum not club owner

The Soul Palace in Calera is owned by Jesse Bishop. His brother Ed Bishop helps operate the building, according to family spokesmen.

The family told the Reporter that Jack Collum is not an owner and has nothing to do with operation of the night club.

Officials investigating the recent bombing at the Soul Palace were under the false impression that Collum was a co-owner and that report was conveyed in last week's Reporter.

Investigation into the bombing is continuing, but at the time of this writing, no arrests had been made.

Officials travel to New York City

Wilsonville officials went to New York City last week to make final arrangements for the sale of bonds to finance the $19.6 million expansion projects at the Alabama Power Company installations.

Representing the city was Mayor W.J. Stephenson. Representing the Wilsonville Industrial Development Board were Kyle Lansford, chairman of the board and Sherrell McClure.

They flew to New York on March 10 and held meetings through March 12.

Man discovers 1934 newspaper

Bacon at 25 cents a pound? That's what the old newspaper said that J.V. Jones found when he was remodeling the top floor of the pool hall in Columbiana.

Jones brought the yellowed pages of a 1934 copy of the Birmingham Post to the Reporter office this week and it provided the staff with considerable amusement.

The front page was missing, so the big news stories of the day were not available. However, the food and clothing advertisements were enough to remind everyone of the depressed prices of those depression days.

Besides the bacon, there was ham at 17½ cents per pound and 24 pounds of flour for 99 cents. Men's suits were bringing $20 and a 12 piece bedroom suite was listed at $87.50.

The food editor printed a story saying that an "inexpensive chop dinner can be made fit for a king". She gave recipes for dressing up the pork chop. Not many people today think of pork chops as an inexpensive way to feed the family.

Jones said he thinks the papers had fallen behind a wall and had been forgotten until he started reconstruction. He is with Shelby County Construction of Shelby. The pool hall will modernize and add new facilities in its second floor, Jones said.

'Rapture' comes to Camp Branch

The religious film 'The Rapture' will be shown at Camp Branch United Methodist Church on Sunday March 24th at 7 p.m.

Everyone has a special invitation to come and bring someone with them, according to Camp Branch leaders.

REMODELED ROOM - - Calera mayor George Roy and city clerk LeMoyne Payton inspect the newly completed meeting room in the Calera city hall.

Ridge Lo Kennel burns

The Ridge Lo dog kennel located on Valleydale Road east of Highway 31 was partially damaged by fire Tuesday morning. The business is owned by George R. Cline.

The Pelham and Alabaster fire departments answered the fire alarm call at 9:15 a.m. Firemen report that most of the kennels was saved and that all the dogs housed in the facility escaped harm.

DOUG BALLARD

CANDIDATE FOR THE SHELBY COUNTY COMMISSION DISTRICT TWO

FLYING "X" RANCH, MONTEVALLO, ALA. 35115

Dear Friends:

I would like to express my heartfelt appreciation to all the fine people who are actively supporting me in this campaign. As you all know, one man cannot possibly do this job alone. There are approximately 75 to 100 people who are handing out cards and contacting their friends in Alabaster, Brantleyville, Calera, Dogwood, Montevallo, Pea Ridge, Montevallo, Maylene, Camp Branch, Almont, Wilton, Saginaw, Aldrich, and all over the rural areas of the district.

I had written a personal letter to send to all my campaign workers, but there are so many it would be impossible to not overlook somebody.

Therefore, I am taking this means of THANKING YOU for the confidence and plain hard work you are demonstrating in helping me. I will assure you it will not be forgotten.

May I add that with the help from so many respectable people, I am extremely encouraged, but we must not "peak-out" too soon, but must continue to work.

Sincerely yours,

Doug Ballard

Bumped head brings fame and riches from leading men's magazine

by Fred Cooper

Move over, Literary World. Here comes Cooper.

I have sold something to the Foremost Men's Entertainment Magazine in the country. I have the check to prove it.

I almost didn't have the check to prove it. All this came to my attention the other evening when I got home and was reading my mail. There was this letter from the Foremost Men's Entertainment magazine, see? I saved it until last. I thought it was a form letter reply to an angry one I'd sent them earlier about a subscription I'd ordered for a Christmas present that had not arrived. In fact, I almost threw it away.

I opened it, though, mostly out of curiosity. There was this long green thing inside that looked like a check. Sure enough, it WAS a check! I thought maybe it was a refund and as I first glanced at it, it looked like it was made out for fifty cents.

A fifty cent refund, I thought. How nice. It must have cost them more than that to type it and mail the letter.

I looked closer.

It read not fifty cents but fifty dollars! And it had nothing to do with the subscription that had not arrived. They were paying me for something I submitted!

And it's here I must confess and ruin a perfectly good story.

It wasn't something I had written. I had clipped it out of the newspaper. What it was, was a bumped head that had a funny double meaning.

For those of you who are now thoroughly confused, a Bumped Head occurs when a headline for one story is on the same level, more or less, with the headline of another story and the size type is close to the same. It looks like the headlines go together when really they have no connection with each other.

I don't remember what the bumped head said and it's just as well because since the Foremost Men's Entertainment Mag bought it, chances are the Reporter couldn't print it anyway.

Besides, that was four months ago I submitted it. I don't even remember where I lived four months ago, let alone something like a bumped head.

At any rate, I did get paid for it. And while I enjoy the money, I feel like a literary maggot. All I did was use my scissors.

I think in the future, I'll just casually mention that I got a check for something I sold and not elaborate. That will add a whole new air of modesty.

Now if you'll pardon me, I'm going to go ask Huffstutler where HIS check from the Foremost Men's Entertainment Magazine is. The best part of success is rubbing it in.

1974 primary may preview 1978 governor campaign

by Don Wasson

The 1974 Democratic primary races for attorney general and lieutenant governor may well be a preview of the 1978 gubernatorial race as Atty. Gen. Bill Baxley and Lt. Gov. Jere Beasley begin firing at each other in their campaigns.

If it gets down to a question of who threw the first rock, that will have to be credited to Beasley, who was instrumental in getting his friend and business associate, Jack Tatum, to enter the primary race against Baxley, protestations to the contrary notwithstanding.

In opening his campaign, Tatum took some pretty healthy swipes at Baxley, saying what Lt. Gov. Beasley has been saying all along -- that BAxley is a headline hunter and is persecuting people rather than prosecuting them.

Tatum charged that Baxley, who beat incumbent MacDonald Gallion both in the primary and then as an independent candidate, won by a "fluke" in 1970. But he would not say what he meant by a fluke.

Tatum denied that anyone had influenced his last-minute decision to seek the office -- not Beasley, not Gov. Wallace, not the Farm Bureau not the Associated Industries of Alabama nor any of those "Big Mules" the attorney general has prosecuted.

It was the attorney general himself, Tatum said, who got him in the race. He charged that Baxley has misused his office, that he tries his cases in the newspapers, and that he uses the office to further his political ambitions rather than for the welfare of the people.

He also claims the office is overstaffed and that the attorney general has built his office into a $1 million-a-year operation.

The entire Tatum presentation sounded like a knee-jerk reaction -- exactly the same things Beasley has said privately in defending his overstaffed office and the use of public funds to carry on a three-year public relations campaign for his own political advancement.

If there was any doubt that Beasley shoved Tatum into the race for attorney general, it was dissolved by the Tatum press conference.

The Opelika businessman, who is a stockholder in the East Alabama Paving Co., will serve during the coming campaign as the "straw man" for the Beasley gubernatorial bid four years from now.

He'll smite Baxley hip and thigh, saying the things on the stump the lieutenant governor has no business saying this year, since he isn't running against Baxley -- not overtly at least.

And meanwhile, don't expect Baxley to remain silent, either on Tatum or on the obvious Beasley connection. The race provided Tatum isn't disqualified by the party, should be the most interesting one of a pretty sorry lot.

Secret Service readies plans against White House air threats

by Jack Anderson

(Copyright, 1974, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON — The Secret Service is preparing secret defenses to prevent a maniac from crashing a plane into the White House. The threat from the sky is a new and ominous development.

First, a Fort Meade, Md., serviceman, who washed out of flight school, absconded with a helicopter and headed toward the White House. Secret Service officers feared he was going to crash into the executive mansion. Instead, he landed on the White House lawn in a hail of shotgun fire.

Then an unemployed Philadelphia salesman, Sam Byck, attempted to hijack an airliner in Baltimore. Only later did the world learn, from a tape recording Byck sent me, that he had planned to crash the big jet into the White House.

This combination of events sent the Secret Service scurrying to devise some means of protecting the President from kamikaze missions. One proposal was to arm the White House police with "Red Eye" missiles. These are anti-aircraft weapons which can be fired from the shoulder, heat-seeking missiles which would zip up the tail pipe of an oncoming plane.

Contrary to press reports, the Secret Service has rejected this solution. For "Red Eye" missiles might miss the target and zoom up the tail pipe of a commercial jet landing at Washington's nearby National airport. The missiles might even destroy jets warming up on the landing strip.

The Secret Service, therefore, has now adopted a different sophisticated defense which, for the sake of the President's security, should not be described.

Nixon-Blew It: Saudi Arabia is rich enough in oil that it alone could have broken the back of the Arab oil embargo long ago. King Faisal might even have been willing to resume shipments of oil to the United States unilaterally. But President Nixon, eager to offer some good news to a Watergate-weary nation, embarrassed Faisal by predicting the end of the embargo prematurely.

Last December, Oil Minister Ahmed Zaki Yamani, with the king's concurrence, promised that Saudi Arabia would do all it could to end the oil embargo. But U.S. Ambassador James Akins cabled from Saudi Arabia that the offer must be kept strictly secret for the sake of Saudi relations with militant Arab neighbors. I saw the exchange of secret messages during my recent visit to the Middle East.

But the President ignored Akins' warning and predicted an early end to the boycott. The Arab world knew that the President could have gotten this word only from Saudi Arabia. It made King Faisal look as if he were playing Washington's game and reduced his effectiveness in urging moderation upon the Arab militants.

The king, therefore, felt he could no longer push for ending the embargo, without appearing to be a lackey of the United States. As a result, he soft-pedaled his efforts to end the embargo and the militants for a while, got the upper hand inside the Arab oil meetings. King Faisal, rather than jeopardize his position in the Arab world, does not want to take unilateral action to lift the boycott.

Tax Tactics: Many Americans, apparently, are determined to pay less taxes this year. They figure that if President Nixon can get away with paying negligible taxes on a $250,000 annual income, they are going to do the same.

I have made spot checks with several tax accountants across the country. They tell me they have been bombarded with demands from taxpayers for assistance in figuring how to avoid paying taxes. Other taxpayers have written to the Internal Revenue Service, threatening to withhold their full taxes. Invariably, the angry taxpayers have cited President Nixon's tax returns as justification for shortchanging the government this year.

The President claimed a $576,000 tax deduction for donating his vice presidential papers to the government. There is now evidence that the claim was based on a fraudulent document — a backdated deed which actually wasn't prepared until after the legal deadline had passed. The President also sought tax deductions for every possible trivial item from wedding gifts to funeral sprays. He even wanted to count his support payments to his daughter Julie as a salary and, thereby, deduct it from his taxes. But his tax advisers talked him out of it by warning the story probably would leak out.

The United States depends upon a volunteer tax system, the most successful in the world, to finance the government. This volunteer system is in danger of breaking down if the public loses confidence in its fairness.

Gentlemen's Agreement: America's "horn of plenty" has seemed a little empty this year. We have suddenly awakened to find ourselves short of gasoline and paper products. Now the food supply is getting tight.

This is reflected in the price of food, which has continued a steady climb. But unlike oil, the price of some foods has been dropping at the source. Yet the drop in wholesale prices hasn't caused the slightest dip at the supermarket.

Beef on the hoof is three dollars cheaper now than it was a year ago. But have beef prices gone down? No. Pork is also down on the wholesale market as is poultry and butter. But, in most cases, the consumer gets no share of the savings.

When wholesale prices skyrocketed last summer, the rise was quickly reflected at the supermarket. But now that some prices are going down, the benefits are not passed on to the consumers.

The reasons are not too difficult to figure out. Often, two or three major chain stores dominate over 50 per cent of food sales in a given area. There seems to be an unspoken "gentlemen's agreement" in such situations that help keep prices and profits high.

The Federal Trade Commission is investigating some of the most blatant offenders. Meanwhile, the losers are both the farmers and consumers.

College frosh aim for grad school

Students entering college today are far more interested in graduate and professional studies than freshmen of only a few years ago.

The eighth annual survey of entering freshmen reveals that a pronounced increase in interest in graduate studies is evident among last fall's freshmen.

The percentage planning to obtain graduate degrees increased to 56.9 percent last fall. In 1971 only 42.3 percent planned to do graduate work.

Last fall's percentage was the highest figure since the survey was initiated in 1966.

The 1973 survey was based on 318,178 freshmen entering 579 institutions.

The survey was directed by Alexander W. Astin, former director of the American Council on Education's Office of Research.

Kelley earns praise

by J.R. Roe, SCS Technician

Recently a Special Acheivement Award was given to Robert E. Kelley for exceptional performance in resource planning and working with local units of government in Shelby County during the period July 1, 1972 through June 30, 1973.

Kelley was one of only three District Conservationist in the state to receive such an award.

When asked about the award Mr. Kelley stated that the people of Shelby County deserve the credit for this award and he said he was thankful for the cooperation of every person that he had worked with in the county.

For the same period in 1973 your Troopers had investigated 108 accidents resulting in 29 injuries and 5 deaths.

Courtship, marriage and the family

by Herbert J. Miles, Ph.D.

FAMILY FINANCIAL PLANNING

Q. Dr. Miles, we have been married four years and have two small children. We are happy in our marriage. We love each other and our children. I enjoy being a housewife. We are active in the local church. My husband is a school teacher, and our salary is not very high. He plans to go to school each summer working on his master's degree. With rising inflation it is difficult to stay solvent financially. Would you write a column on financial suggestions for couples like us. (Mrs. H.C.)

A. Your question is exceedingly practical. You are living in a society that shouts at us to spend, spend, spend. In the midst of this loud noise the faint voices calling for us to save, are seldom heard.

1. I suggest that you and your husband plan a monthly budget. A budget tells your money where to go, rather than you wondering where it went. Dr. Henry Bowman says "The budget . . . should be considered as a plan for obtaining what is wanted rather than . . . a restriction on spending."

2. Go to your local public library and check out books on marriage and the family, and home economics for detailed help on planning a budget and other aspects of family finances.

3. Pay cash. Avoid charge accounts, credit cards, and installment plans. Paying cash gives you the opportunity to shop around and buy the best economic values. The installment plan is a blessing when properly used. Only use it in "must" cases such as paying for your automobile. Pay cash by check. This gives you all the records you need.

4. Avoid borrowing money. When you borrow in absolute emergency cases, always know exactly how much interest you are paying. Shop around for a low interest rate. Always pay interest on the UNPAID BALANCE ONLY.

5. Eat good food, but plan wisely. Have your own vegetable garden. Canned and frozen food from a garden save money. Home cooked meals are nutritious, and not expensive. Buy and freeze fruits and vegetables in season when the market is flooded and the prices are low. Watch the local newspaper and take advantage of week-end sales.

6. Many housewives love to sew and save by making much of the family clothing. Buy standard clothing. Buy summer clothing during July and August sales and winter clothing during January and February sales when prices are low.

7. Drink water. Drinking soda pop is fad, a habit. It is not only an expensive habit but it is a significant factor in obesity. A standard bottle of colored water contains from 75 to 90 calories. Water has no calories and costs little. Why don't we all admit that medical science warns us against the caffeine in coffee, tea, and cola drinks?

8. Avoid cigarettes and alcohol. Medical science has established a causative relationship between the use of cigarettes, alcohol, and disease. Only the cigarette and alcohol interests debate the issue. I challenge the reader to figure up how much it costs for a person to smoke one or two packs a day and/or drink a pint per week for forty years, assuming he lives that long.

9. It is not necessary to own a color TV. To dress up a moron in beautiful colors doesn't make him a college professor. The local newspaper and a standard AM-FM radio plus your religious magazine and one national news magazine will keep you informed about the world around you.

10. Avoid like "the plague" an American disease known as "keeping up with the Jones." There seems to be abundant evidence that mature, secure independent people who do their own thinking seldom or never contract the disease.

11. Stay in Social Security, your occupational pension plan, and buy group term Insurance from your occupational group.

12. Set aside a small amount each month in a savings account in a Bank or a Savings and Loan to be used only in case of extreme emergency.

Mrs. H.D., the purposes of life are to live, to be happy within your family, and to serve your community and mankind. Your letter indicates you and your husband have the necessary characteristics and family situation to fulfill these purposes. Sincerity, creative ingenuity, systematic organization and old fashioned hard work will whip your money problem. It could be that your problem may be a blessing in disguise. Progress and creativity grows, not from conformity, but from adversity.

(Dr. Miles welcomes questions for this column. When a letter is used in the column, the identity of the person is not revealed. He will answer personal letters as time permits. Write him at Clayton-Newman College, Jefferson City, TN. 37760)

POISONS IN THE MEDICINE CHEST - - Dr. John Rayfield, county health officer urges everyone to clear their medicine chests of poisonous substances and keep them under lock and key, as part of National Poison Prevention Week.

Week emphasizes poison prevention

The week of March 17-23 is National Poison Prevention Week. Dr. Rayfield, Shelby County Health Officer urges that county residents recognize the dangers of poisonings and take action to prevent them. Although fatal poisonings have decreased in the past two years, fatalities are only part of the problem. Many children who have swallowed medicines and household products are rushed to hospitals daily. Most of these cases are saved by rapid action and corrective measures, he said.

"The Federal Hazardous Substances Act," states Dr. Rayfield, "forces proper labeling of products. But we fail to read and heed the labels. Poisons must be marked with the skull and crossbones while potential poisons carry either the WARNING signal or the yellow CAUTION sign. Such products should be stored in a locked cabinet regardless of whether they are in "child-resistant" containers or not."

Children under five are involved in accidental poisonings most often. They cannot read labels and must rely on a responsible adult to keep them safe. Aspirin is still the most common product ingested by children. Adults become careless and provide the means of these accidents.

Dr. Rayfield warns that products should never be stored in soft drink bottles. Neither should medicines given to the child be referred to as candies. So many containers look alike that the label should be read each time it is used. When the phone or the doorbell sounds, be sure that your child is safe before answering. A matter of seconds is all it takes for little hands to discover and ingest poisonous substances.

Pesticides are effective when used properly. These same helpers may become harmful to children and pets who experiment with their contents. Make a habit of using substances according to specific instructions and of storing them in accordance with safe practices. Poison Prevention Week can be successful only if you practice its goals day after day all year. Act now before the emergency, not after the tragedy!

Compost helps fertilize garden

by Robert E. Kelley
Soil Conservation Service

Sending grass clippings away with the garbage wastes energy. So we buy plant food in a bag, put it on our yards, clip the grass, and send all that energy to the landfill. And the garbage trucks burn more energy taking the bulky clippings away.

This is especially ironic because this material is so easy to save and convert into valuable organic fertilizer at home.

Make a compost heap with a little wire or scrap lumber, and this summer's grass clippings or fall's leaves can be next spring's organic fertilizer and soil conditioner. For further information call or write the Soil Conservation Office. Telephone 669-7136 or P.O. Box 1113, Columbiana, AL 35051.

Columbiana sawmill operator gives tour of operation

DEBARKER - - Marshal Boazeman operates a debarking machine at the B.L. Owen sawmill in Columbiana. The machine stripps the bark off of logs as the first step in the lumber manufacturing process. The rotating blades in the lower left corner convey the stripped logs to the large circular saw which cuts the log into several rough slabs. Owen custom cuts both large and small quantities of lumber for his customers. He said railroads have been his biggest customers over the past 24 years.

Ed Note: The logging industry in Shelby County is big business. Articles by Rick Moore in the Reporter last fall followed the process of how trees are cut, and how the logs are skidded out of the woods and loaded on trucks. The series continues with this account:

by Rick Moore
Shelby County Reporter

What happens to logs after they're loaded on trucks and hauled out of the woods of Shelby County?

To answer this question we visited the B.L. Owen Lumber Company in Columbiana last week and recorded in pictures the step by step progress of wood going through the sawmill, from a log to the finished product.

B. L. Owen explained that he has been operating the same sawmill for the last 24 years. In that time railroads have been his biggest customer, buying lumber for varied construction purposes. Owen also said that he cuts both large and small amounts of lumber for his customers.

Some of the by-products of a sawmill are chips, shavings, sawdust and bark. Owen noted that at one time he had huge mounds of these wood particles, but lately he has been selling large quantities of sawdust as mulch for gardens, to spread on the floors of chicken houses, etc.

He also sells chips made from the slabs or unused portions of logs to a papermill to be used for pulp.

Owen once used chips to fire a boiler which produced steam to run his machines. He also used it as fuel to heat his lumber drying kiln. However, the price of labor is too high now to hire someone to stoke the furnaces, he says. Electricity and gas now provide sources of power.

High labor costs are just one of the problems facing the small sawmill operator. Owen admits that he has considered quitting several times. When asked about the future, Owen just smiles and says he is working on the next 24 years.

SAWING THE LOG - - The large saw in the left hand side of the picture cuts a rough board from a log. George Portis takes these rough slabs and feeds them into the edging machine.

EDGER - - A rough board comes out of the edger cut at a specified width. The edger makes two cuts on either side of the piece of lumber trimming off the rough sides. Edger operator George Portis feeds the boards into the machine. Sawyer Willie Brantley stands behind him.

DRYING LUMBER - - B.L. Owen inspects a stack of lumber dried in a special drying kiln. After being cut from logs, rough lumber must first be completely dried before it can be planed down into the finished product. Normally lumber is stacked outside to dry in the open air for several months but can also be dried quickly in a heated kiln for about 100 hours.

New water safety law passed

Conservation Commissioner Claude D. Kelley announced today that Alabama's Water Safety law has been amended to comply with federal boating regulations.

One of the most significant changes, Tom G. Shackelford, Director of the Water Safety Division, stated, involves the personal flotation device requirements for boats 16 feet in length and over.

This new regulation reads as follows:

"Section I. Every vessel operated on the waters of this state is required to have on board at least one U.S. Coast Guard approved personal flotation device (PFD) for each occupant aboard the vessel as specified below:

Class I (less than 16 feet): a Type I, II, III, of IV.

Class II (16 feet but less than 26 feet): a Type I, II, or III.

Class III (26 feet but less than 40 feet): a Type I, II, or III.

Class IV (over 40 feet): a Type I, II, or III.

"Section 2. In addition to the above requirements for personal flotation devices, all recreational boats 16 feet and over in length operated on the waters of this state shall carry at least one Type IV PFD (cushion or ring buoy) as a throwable device. Such PFDs must be placed or stored on the vessel in such manner as to be readily available for use in case of emergency.

"Section 3. Such PFDs that are torn, rotted, or damaged lose their U.S. Coast Guard approval. In addition, all PFDs shall be proper size for occupants on board.

"Section 4. The Department of Conservation and Natural Resources, through its enforcement officers, shall have the right to inspect any required safety equipment aboard any vessel operated on the waters of this state.

"Section 5. Any safety equipment found to be in an unserviceable condition may be stamped as unserviceable equipment and its use prohibited.

"Section 6. Nothing in this Regulation shall be interpreted so as to mean that stamping shall be a prerequisite for prosecuting a person who violates any provision of this Regulation."

SBA offers aid to businessmen

Something new in small business management help will be offered by the Small Business Administration in an all-day seminar Tuesday, March 26, at SBA Headquarters, 908 South 20th Street, Birmingham. All sessions will be designed to alert prospective business owners to business problems before they actually go into business.

Welcoming begins at 8:45 A.M., with meetings running from 9 A.M. to 4:30 P.M., and will be organized around the twin themes of "Investigage Before You Invest" and "Study Before You Start".

"Our purpose is neither to encourage or to discourage people from going into business," says James W. Allen, SBA Management Training Coordinator, "but rather to acquaint them with the requirements, pitfalls and pleasures of operating a business.

The seminar, sponsored by SCORE, will be conducted by management consultants and other successful business people who will deal with the personality traits required of owners, their knowledge, experience and motivations. Sessions will deal with organization and planning, capital requirements, locations, overhead, product knowledge, advertising and marketing, records and recordkeeping.

Registration may be made by writing SBA, or telephoning 325-3977. Attendance will be limited to 40 due to facilities available, and there is no charge.

More gardens than ever--

Gardeners begin spring planting

by Willard Harrison

Planning a garden this year? Now's the time to begin thinking about it. With food shortages and fuel shortages, it is a good time to begin a garden. If you have never had a garden before, this year would be the year to have one as grocery prices begin their predicted rise.

Rev. Charles Stroud of Columbiana is planting his first garden this year. He and his two sons have plowed their backyard for their initial attempt at farming. He sees gardening as almost necessary during this time of high prices and shortages. He adds that it is a healthy, worthwhile activity for outdoor families who want to cut down on their food bill.

TOMATO TIME - - With warm weather breezing in early, Shelby County is getting ready for a season of gardening. Members of the horticulture class at the area vocational center are planning ahead with thoudands of tomato seedlings on hand in the greenhouse. These future gardeners are also raising pepper plants, flowers, and other planting favorites.

The county farm supply stores are doing a brisk business nowadays, but they warn that fertilizer, seed, and other farm needs are in short supply or almost non-existent. Bob Butterworth of Bob's Farm Supply stated that it is next to impossible to buy fertilizer; in fact they had a large order cancelled recently due to lack of chemical ingredients for the manufacturer. He adds that seed potatoes were scarce a few weeks ago, but that they are available now.

Randy Jacobson of the Mid-State Farmers Co-Op tells us that gardeners should buy their fertilizer now wherever they can, since most manufacture was stopped months ago. He adds that many kinds of seeds are expensive, and that prices on many farm items will undoubtedly rise. He told us that the price of pesticides has not risen significantly however. Jacobson says that more people than ever seem to be gardening.

"It looks like it may be necessary this year," comments insurance man Jeff Falkner. He is planting his first vegetable crop this year, beginning with corn and tomatoes which he plans to grow in his yard. He agrees with interested observers who say that there may be more gardens this year than the county has seen since the World War II victory gardens. As a frequent traveler around the county he says that people are plowing their lawns,backyards, and even growing vegetables rather than flowers in their flowerpots.

County FFA students are getting ready for gardening time with seedlings that they grow in their greenhouses. Tomatoes, hot peppers, and sweet peppers are favorites in high school greenhouses. The horticulture classes at the Shelby County Area Vocational School are busy getting their plants ready for warmer days, as they combine gardening with their classwork.

Hubert and Paula Shirey of Calera are planning their garden. Mrs. Shirey says that they plan to plant beans, squash, corn, peppers, potatoes, and tomatoes.

She says that their favorite variety of tomato is the Bonnie tomato, which yields enough fruit to supply a family's needs with only two plants. She said that last year they planted fourteen of these plants and had so many tomatoes that they could not give them all away.

Many families who have never had a garden might wonder how to go about it. Obviously the first thing you need is some land. Many farmers have already begun by getting their gardens broken up, as a tractor turns the soil at least six inches deep. The best bet for folks without a tractor is to hire someone to plow, perhaps going together with neighbors who could hire him at the same time. Of course the garden must be plowed later in rows when planting time comes.

Another thing new farmers should keep in mind is seed. Even the beginner knows that they can get garden seed in almost any supermarket, convenience store, or drug store. But some things are seldom raised from seed, and seedlings for strawberries, onions, and other garden plants are readily available at seed stores, discount stores, or any place that sells farm and garden supplies. Seeds are available in bulk quantity at some stores for gardeners who would otherwise pay extra for fancy supermarket packaging for seed of equal quality packed in small envelopes.

One mistake even experienced gardeners make is using too much fertilizer, thinking all gardens have the same mineral needs. Many buy 8-8-8 fertilizer with equal parts of nitrogen, potassium and phosphorus, when they might need only nitrogen. Also important for acidic soil is an application of line. Of course the only way to know what a garden needs is to have the soil tested.

Soil can be tested by bringing it to the office of the county agent in Columbiana. Here they can make arrangements to test the soil without guesswork. County extension agent John E. Jones points out that the only way to determine the garden's mineral needs is by testing.

With the high cost of chemical fertilizer and an interest in natural gardening, many people are making their own organic fertilizer in compost heaps. Now would be a good time to build a pen to fill with old leaves, sawdust, and grass clippings. Cover layers of such plant refuse with a light cover of soil and 8-8-8 fertilizer, and allow it to soak with rain. It usually takes 12 to 18 months for the organic clippings rot into compost.

COMPOST HEAP - - Many gardeners are finding that a compost pile is economical and labor-saving. The Stouds have constructed a pen to fill with leaves, grass clippings, and organic trash. After frequent wettings the plant matter combines with soil and chemical fertilizer added in to make rich compost. This compost is a good substitute for fertilizer that is virtually gone from the retail market.

Most gardeners are aware that different vegetables must be planted at certain times. John JOnes told the Reporter that it is already too late for many of the greens, potatoes, and other plants. Root vegetables should be planted as soon as possible, including beets, carrots, onions, and radishes.

Jimmy Bice, horticulture instructor at the county area vocational school, stated that seedlings can be grown indoors now for tomatoes, peppers, and other garden plants, so that they will be ready when warmer weather arrives.

A danger of cooler weather and frost prompts John Jones to advise planting a few seeds of corn, okra, and other crops, gambling on warm weather. A later planting would be done later after warm weather is here to stay.

Many a crop is ruined when gardeners plant varieties of vegetables not recommended for the Alabama climate. A careful reading of seed packages should give a planter a good idea of whether a certain variety is worthwhile for Shelby County. An even better bet is to check with the county extension office for specific varieties of vegetables suited to local gardens.

Later in the gardening season the county extension office can offer help on problems gardeners are sure to run into, such as disease, insects, or nematodes. The county office can also give advice on weed control, irrigation and mulching, and countless other problems a gardener can have.

Advice and planting tips can also be acquired from local vocational agriculture teachers at county high schools, experienced farmers, or from the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Remember that gardening is not a hit-or- miss proposition but is like any other do-it- yourself project with its own rules and guidelines.

BREAKING UP IS HARD TO DO - - Rev. Charles Stroud and his son Jeff have plowed up much of their backyard getting ready to plant a garden at their Columbiana home. The Strouds are one of the many families in the county who are planting their first garden.

Helena resident, Lee Laecheit, played an important role in organizing and promoting the highly successful Plant Dig held Sunday, March 17 near Jefferson State Junior College.

Mr. Laechelt, who works with the State Forestry Dept., appeared on local radio and TV encouraging the public to attend. The dig involved a nine acre area soon to be covered by new apartments. The property's owner agreed to allow the public to come at a specified time in order to reclaim trees and plants rather than plow them under with bull doziers.

Approximately 3,000 people attended the dig, reclaiming plants as well as being given free pine seedlings by the Forestry Department.

The First Baptist Church of Harpersville invites everyone to hear a message in song this Sunday morning, March 24, from 11-12 a.m. Guest vocalist will be TV personality, Leon Westerhouse.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brewster of Mt. Orab, Ohio announce the arrival of a son who was born March 6 and tipped the scales at 7 lbs. and 8 oz. They have named the little newcomer James Patrick II. His grandmother, Mrs. Maxine Brewster resides in Montevallo.

A daughter, Ashleigh Louise, was born to Dr. and Mrs. Robert Pyle (Sandra Scott) of Mobile, on March 11. Ashleigh's little sister, Kim, is spending this week in Montevallo as the guest of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Scott.

Funeral arrangements for S.M. (Buck) Isbell, 70, are pending as we go to press. Mr. Isbell died in Shelby Memorial Hospital March 19 following a lengthy illness. He was a life long resident of Columbiana.

Survivors are: his widow, Lilla Isbell; two brothers, Barney Isbell of Columbiana, and Gordon Isbell of Birmingham; four sisters: Mrs. Tony Lyon, Mrs. Gene Edmondson, Mrs. Ruth Smith and Mrs. Nell Henderson of Birmingham. Several neices and nephews.

WALK–A–THON - - Randie Sears, and Harry Martin of Montevallo High School talk over plans for the March of Dimes Walk-a-Thon with Jackie McGuire of Thompson High. The benefit Walk-a-Thon will be held Saturday, March 30. (Reporter photo by Becky Hood)

Friends give party for Mrs. Harrison

Friends of Mrs. Francis Harrison (Pauline) gathered at her home near Dogwood last Saturday to give her a surprise birthday party.

Mrs. Rebecca McGaughy made a cake, and Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Young brought a freezer filled with home made ice cream.

From all reports, Mrs. Harrison, who is widely known for her presentation of the Christmas story to groups throughout Shelby County, was taken by complete surprise.

Friends showered her with birthday remembrances and enjoyed a happy afternoon with Mrs. Harrison and her family.

Montevallo women host supper for ADP sorority

Funeral services were held in Hoffman-Rockco Chapel on Friday at 2 p.m., with burial in Montevallo Cemetery. Rev. Fred Holmes officiated at the service.

Calera Cubs visit foundry, jail

A trip to the Southern Foundry in Calera was a recent highlight of the schedule of Cub Scout Dens one and four from Calera.

Hubert Beasely and Johnny Scroggins conducted the boys through the foundry and showed them how molds are made for various products.

Later a trip was scheduled to the zoo in Birmingham. Making the trip were the Webelos and cubs from Den four. Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Beasley accompanied the boys on this interesting outing.

Last Thursday, on AEA holiday, Dens one and four had a tour of the county jail, conducted by Deputy Jim Mayhew. During the complete tour, one boy managed to get himself locked into a cell. He was rescued without delay, Mrs. Beasley reports.

Boys in Den four are Wade Beasley, Mike Robinson, Steve Goble, and Bobby Jones. Their den mother is Mrs. Hubert Beasley.

Calera Webelos are Calvin House, Mark CArden, Mike Horton, Wayne Giddens, and Joey Faucett. Den chief is Steve Jernigan.

Den mother of Den one is Mrs. Jean Holcombe.

New Hope news

Mrs. Helen Almon has returned to her home in Montgomery after spending last week here where she was the guest of Mrs. Althea Anderson.

* * * *

Karen Rutherford has returned from Panama City, Fla. where she spent last week with a group of young people from the Wales Gobel ministry.

* * * *

Mrs. Lula Shirley is spending the weekend visiting Mrs. J.M. Wilson and other friends on Cahaba Valley Road.

* * * *

Mrs. W.E. Sorrell and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Holmes are spending several days in Tuscaloosa, where they are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Sorrell.

* * * *

Mrs. Allen Howard and children of Pensacola, were guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lacey on Valleydale Road recently.

* * * *

The Bright Circle of the C.P.W. met at the Fellowship Hall Thursday. Mrs. W.D. Swafford was in charge of the program when she discussed "Simon Encounters Christ".

Things are busy in Westover

By Elsie Archer Jones

Mt. Signal Baptist Church on Highway 280 West announces that Bro. Bob Lee Franklin, Director of Admissions at Judson College, at Marion, will bring a group of the students from that college for the evening services on Sunday evening, March 24th. To all parents and youth, of this area, this is a MUST night. Everyone is invited to attend.

* * * *

Recent visitors in the home of the Horace Waltons were Mrs. Ann Hobler, of Charlotte, N.C.; Mrs. Margaret Walton and daughter, Montez, from Atlanta.

* * * *

A delightful dinner party was held at the home of the Otis Moore's on last Sunday. It was observing the 23rd wedding anniversary of Mr. Moore's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. T.R. Moore; the third wedding anniversary of their son, Otis Moore, Jr., and wife, Gale; and the recent birthdays of Mr. Otis Moore, Miss Neannine Moore, and Mrs. Elsie Archer Jones. The tables were heaped with delicious food. Much fun was had exchanging gifts, picture making, reminiscing, and eating. Jeannine Moore showed just how much she has been learning in the Home Economics Department at Chelsea High School, by serving a beautifully decorated green cake for the "Happy Birthdays", and a white cake, decorated with red roses and candles for those who were celebrating their wedding anniversaries.

* * * *

Mrs. Mary Ruth Gathings, the popular commercial teacher at Chelsea High School, with her house guests, Mrs. Susan Woodward, her aunt, from N.C., and Mrs. Reba Baggette, from N.C., and Mrs. Annie B. Adams, made a tour of the historic points in Montgomery last Friday. Mrs. Woodward is a retired teacher from N.C.

* * * *

Guests in the home of Mrs. Annie B. Adams last week were Mr. Bill Hollis, and family, of Cullman. The family formerly lived in Wilsonville and Mr. Hollis is a former teacher of Chelsea High School.

* * * *

Mrs. Renata Hughes Williamson has accepted a position with Alabama Power Company in Birmingham, as secretary.

* * * *

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Arledge visited his brother and family in Demopolis last week. The high-light of the visit was a camping trip to the backwaters of the rivers of that area. They reported that they caught seven bass which weighed 30 pounds.

* * * *

I wish to congratulate the Mt. Signal Baptist Church Bulletin which they are mailing out. It is very inspirational, reverent, and filled with announcements of the ill and shut-ins of the neighborhood, as well as announcements of the different activities of the church.

* * * *

Friends who are still ill in hospitals include Oliver McManus, Silas Dobbs, Mrs. Steve Collins. REv. C.M. Taylor, who recently underwent heart surgery, is back home and up-and-around again. I am sure that his congregation at the Wilsonville United Methodist Church are happy to have him home.

* * * *

Rev. and Mrs. J.D. Denny, of Mt. Tabor United Methodist Church, spent last week in Scottsboro, at their home there.

Edited by Rick Moore

PLAY BALL - - University of Montevallo pitcher David Williams fires a strike across the plate in a game with Birmingham- Southern College during the UM Baseball Classic last week. The Falcons lost this game 2-1. The classic consisted of a round robin tournament among Montevallo, Birmingham- Southern, Illinois Benedictine and Huntingdon. 'Southern won the event by sweeping six straight wins. UM followed with a 3-3 record. The Montevallo team now has a 3-9 record this season playing such opponents as University of Alabama, Troy and Livingston. The Falcons' first Southern States Conference contest will be a home game against William Carey College this Friday at 1 p.m.

Sports shorts

Von Authur, Jr. of Columbiana will be attending the Fort Lauderdale Baseball School Camp this summer.

Arthur, a catcher, will be receiving all professional instruction at the school, which will be beneficial to his baseball future.

Fifteen year old Rick Kirkland scored a double eagle last Friday on a 495 yard par five hole at the Pine Tree Country Club, according to friends.

Playing with Kirkland were Stewart Tiezson, Tim Falkner and George Maynard -- all students at Indian Springs School

Rick is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Lewis Kirkland of Montevallo.

Benefit game shaping up

Some people are calling it "the game of the century," "the game of the year," or "the game of the month." It will at least be called "the game of the day," when the Shelby County coaches from the east side meet those of the west side.

In a benefit basketball game to raise money for the American Cancer society, the coaches from Montevallo, Thompson and Calera high schools will meet those from Shelby County, Vincent, Chelsea and Indian Springs this Thursday night, March 21. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

Herman Watts, spokesmen for the east side, predicted his team to be at least a forty-point favorite in this coaches' grudge match. Watts also warns spectators brave enough to witness this event that several "special" cheerleaders will be on hand to lead the pep sections.

Admission will be charged to everybody at the game including the players, officials and coaches. Tickets will be on sale at the door or at any Shelby County high school.

At Lay Lake--

Fishing stories top sport news

Unseasonably warm weather the weekend of March 9 brought large numbers of fishermen to the waters of Lay Lake mostly crappie fishing. Lake marina operators reported the best business this year.

The good fishing conditions continued on into the following week. Coleman Vineing, E.E. Brantley and Rev. Floyd Harris caught 99 crappie at Spring Creek last Thursday. The trio reported that they caught their large string on minnows fishing five to seven feet deep.

Ernest Carden also reports that he will be giving away free coffee and cookies at Spring Creek landing.

Crappie was THE fishing story all last week. E.J. Jones of Columbiana brought a string of seventeen crappie weighing 23 pounds by the Reporter office on Friday. Jones caught these beauties at Bulley Creek using a cane pole and live minnows for bait.

J.T. Boykin, Jr. of Bozos Camp reports that white jigs and minnows were the best crappie bait. However, Boykin told the Reporter that Gary Armstrong brought in a string of nine bass Monday, March 11. All of Armstrong's fish weighed between five and seven pounds and were caught on spinner bait.

Jerry Wooten at Camp Okomo gave virtually the same crappie fishing report. Crappie fishing, Wooten said, comprised about ninty percent of the Lay Lake fishing activity last week. He said fishermen were getting the best results with minnows and white jigs fishing in two to five feet of water. Wooten reports that Douglas Cosper caught the limit of crappie during the March 9 weekend.

Bill Henke went on to say that topwater spinner baits were also bringing results on bass. The best of these were the deadley dudley, humming rat and twister. Henke continued fast funning spinner baits of the small one-fourth ounce variety will be bringing good results in a few weeks.

ALL SMILES - - E. J. Jones of Columbiana gives proof of the rumor circulating the county that crappie were biting last week. Jones caught this string of 17 crappie weighing 23 pounds on Bulley Creek last Friday. He used a cane pole and live minnows to catch these fish. Jones says he was fishing about eight feet deep.

Exhibits are open at NRA meeting

The National Rifle Association will conduct its 1974 annual meetings and Exhibits March 22-26 at the Marriott Motor Hotel in Atlanta.

Daily sessions will be conducted by authorities in the fields of law enforcement, conservation, firearms education and recreation.

More than 135 exhibitors will display the latest in sporting firearms, accessories and related hunting and outdoor equipment.

The exhibit hall will be open daily to the general public for admisstion fee. NRA members presenting membership identification, fireman, policemen and servicemen in uniform will be admitted free.

PROUD TRIO - - Randy Vickery, Dave Gentry and Phil Standifer inspect a good day's cateh of crappie. The trio caught these 50 crappie weighing 30 pounds during the March 9 weekend while fishing at Lacoosa Marina. They used white jigs as bait, fishing at a depth of six feet.

ALL IN A NIGHT'S WORK - - Eleven year old Craig Gardner of Bessemer looks tired but happy after fishing for crappie Wednesday night, March 13. Craig, his father L. C. Gardner and Jimmy Carnes caught these crappie during their night time adventure on Lay Lake. Joe Smith and Max King (below right) admire a 40 pound catch of bass taken on Lay Lake March 11. The two used a bush hog lure as bait.

BASS HIT HITT - - C. E. Hitt holds two bass he caught fishing out of Lacoosa Marina March 11. The bass on the left weighed six pounds, two ounces and the one on the right tipped the scales at five pounds eight ounces. Unseasonably warm weather brought hordes of fishermen to Lay Lake last week as the empty boat trailers will attest (bottom left).

In Montgomery--

Stars and amateurs paired

The list of celebrities entering the second annual George Lindsey Golf Tournament is growing. The one-day affair will be held Sunday, April 28.

George Lindsey, known to his TV and stage audiences as "Goober," will be attempting to raise money to improve facilities and programs for retarded children throughout the state.

Already entered in the 18-hold tourney are Anthony Armstrong Jones, Dale Robertson, Bear Bryant, Shug Jordan, Terry Beasely, Shorty Lavender, Harlon Hill, Doug Layton, Mickey Andrews, George Weeks, Norm Zauchin, Hal Self, Jim King, Scott Hunter, Larry Scott, Lee Roy Jordan, Mike Kolen, Tom York, Jim Goostree, Bill Oliver, Dude Hennessee, C.M. Newton, Mal Moore, Bud Moore, Jim Davis, and Mickey Mantle.

Jimmi Sue Cannon, former Golddigger, will serve as hostess for the golf tournament once again this year. Invitations have been extended to numerous other Hollywood and Nashville personalities. Announcements of these commitments will be made as they are received.

A benefit stage show will be held on Saturday night at Garrett Coliseum featuring Tammy Wynette, George Jones, Jeanne Pruett, and many others down from Nashville. All proceeds from this show will go for physical activity programs for retarded children.

The format for the Arrowhead golf event will feature three amateur players in a foursome with a celebrity. These foursomes will be drawn out of a hat. The entry list will be restricted because of the time element in getting the foursomes under way. Amateurs wishing to compete should write Phil Snow, c/o Celebrity Golf Tournament, Post Office Box 1443, Montgomery, Alabama 36102 for an entry blank or additional information on the tourney.

Brooks seeking second win

Dick Brooks will be trying it again this year at the fourth annual Winston 500 race at the Talladega International Speedway on Sunday, May 5.

The 31-year-old veteran from Porterville, California, pulled off automobile racing's biggest upset in 1973 by winning the Talladega 500.

"I want to show some people that my victory in the Talladega 500 was no fluke," says Brooks. "I think we can win here again. If I did it once I can do it again.

"They say the first big win is the hardest. I sure hope the others come a lot easier."

Last year's Talladega 500 was not only Brooks' first super speedway triumph but also his first Grand National victory.

Rabbit raising scores big with Valley youths

By Shelba S. Nivens

Winners at the Southern Rabbit Show sponsored by the Alabama Rabbit Breeders Association at the state fairgrounds in Birmingham last week (Sat. March 9) included young people from Shelby County. Larry Winslett of Valleydale Road was a three time winner with his champagne rabbit. It won in the "Champagne" class, "Best of Show", and as the best of 6-8 month olds. Larry is a student at Thompson High School.

Buddy Hughens of Route 1, Helena won a "Grand Champion" trophy with his black and white Dutch. Buddy, age 13, is a student at Valley School. His eight year old brother, David, also raises rabbits. David won a first place ribbon with the Siamese Satan rabbit that he raised from a baby. Second place in the Jr. Siamese Satan's division went to David Gipson, also a student at Valley.

The boys enjoy not only the showmanship of their rabbits, but they also enjoy them as pets. They say that love and attention make better show animals of them.

Every fall, young rabbit breeders from Shelby County have the opportunity to show their rabbits in the Shelby County fair in Columbiana. But plans are now underway for two more rabbit shows yearly in Shelby County. These shows are to be sponsored by the newly formed Shelby County Rabbit Breeders Club.

Mrs. Ann Hughens has been instrumental in getting the club started, and is serving as secretary for the new group. She says the new club is for old and young, but that it hopes to encourage many youth to join and become active in breeding and raising rabbits. "If enough youth are interested," says Mrs. Hughens, "a youth club may be formed where the young people elect their own officers and run the club themselves."

Officers of the new rabbit club hope to have a show sometime this spring. Their next meeting is scheduled for March 23. Interested persons may contact Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hughens of Helena Route 1, or Club President, Joe Winslett of Valleydale Road.

Cubs enter favorite pets in pet show

Shelby County Cub Scouts will have a chance to enter their goldfish, dogs, cats, snakes -- or whatever -- in a pet show August 23.

The Vulcan scout district, which includes Shelby County, is having a pet show. Cub Scouts aged eight, nine and ten years old may enter.

The pet show will start at 9 a.m., Saturday, March 23. It will be held at the Homewood armory on Lakeshore Drive in Homewood. Registration is 25 cents and any pet is eligible. There will be prizes galore.

A final stipulation for pet owners is that they should be in uniform.

For further information contact Kay Snell at 823-1551.

Pea Ridge F. D. saves homes

by C.W. Lawley, Pres.
Board of Directors
Pea Ridge Fire Department

March 11 was a busy day for the Pea Ridge volunteer firemen. The fire department was called out on three separate occasions to extinguish raging forest fires. The first, and largest fire was about to engulf two residences when the fire truck arrived on the scene.

The homes of Mr. and Mrs. Jess Henson and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Holsomback were saved from destruction by the quick reaction of the fire department personnel. This is evidenced by the thank you note the department received from Mr. and Mrs. Henson. The note read: "Thanks for the hard work you all did to save our home from burning. May God bless each of you. Tell the three boys that came first that Jess and I will never forget how hard they worked and that I hope God will give them a good blessing for it. Words cannot tell you how much we do thank you."

All the fire department personnel have expressed how rewarding it is to receive such high praise for their time and effort. They all feel that saving just one home is well worth all the time and effort spent in helping others.

The other two fires were of much less consequence, but could have developed into a major fire if the fire department had not arrived on the scene and extinguished the flames as quickly as they did.

Gulf States Paper former executive dies

Mrs. Mildred W. Warner, 80, who once had the distinction of being the only woman president of a major paper company, died at her home in Tuscaloosa March 12 after an extended illness. For almost 20 years she headed Gulf States Paper Corporation.

She is survived by her husband, Herbert D. Warner; a son, Jack W. Warner, present head of the Tuscaloosa - based company. two daughters; 11 grandchildren and one great grandchild.

A native of New York state she moved to Alabama when the company's operations were consolidated in the state's first pulp and paper mill in 1929. She became president of the company in 1939 upon the death of her father, Herbert E. Westervelt, who founded the firm.

She was actively president of the company until 1957, at which time she was succeeded by her son.

In recognition of her leadership in civic and cultural activities as well as in business, the University of Alabama granted Mrs. Warner an honorary doctorate of laws in 1956. She was a former trustee of Sweet Briar College, Sweet Briar, Va. and of the Presbyterian Children's Home in Talladega.

Ball camp makes plans

Applications are now being accepted from boys interested in attending Little League Baseball's summer camp program. The camp will be held at Little League Baseball's Southern Regional headquarters in St. Petersburg, Fla.

The Camp offers a variety of activities including swimming, tennis, badminton, and volley ball but with special emphasis on baseball. All of the latest equipment and techniques for training in the skills of baseball will be used, including daily use of batting cages, pitching machines and other items approved by the Research Department of Little League Baseball.

The first of three two week sessions begins on June 16th. Applications are being accepted for all three sessions. Full information can be obtained by calling St. Petersburg, 344-2661, or by writing Little League Baseball, P.O. Box 133366, St. Petersburg, FL 33733.

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

When one will not, two cannot quarrel.

PAYNE LAKE - - Nestled among the hills of the Talladega National Forest in northeastern Hale County, Payne Lake is a public recreation area easily accessible to Shelby County residents. The water in this 110 acre lake was lowered recently, but the empoundment is now filling up again. Visitors to the lake area will find swimming, camping, fishing and picnicking available.

Hour's drive away--

Payne Lake offers nearby recreational area

By Rick Moore

With expectations of gasoline shortages during the spring and summer months, many recreation- minded residents may have to give up trips to their favorite out-of-state vacation spots in favor of a wealth of scenic areas just a few miles from home.

Payne Lake, located in the Talladega National Forest in Hale County is such a spot. Operated by the U.S. Forest Service, Payne Lake is little more than an hour's drive away for most Shelby County residents. It is located on Alabama highway 25 east of Centreville.

Ranger B.W. Fenton of the Centreville U.S. Forest Service office says that camping and swimming are encouraged at Payne lake, but picnickers and fishermen are also frequent visitors.

The 110 acre lake offers excellent fishing and two sand beaches are located at the water's edge. Facilities for camping and picnicking include shelters, picnic facilities and rest rooms.

Ranger Fenton explained that no designated camping or picnic areas as such are located in the recreation area. Vacationers may choose any area around the lake's shoreline on a first come first- served basis.

Also located in the Payne Lake area is a 1.5 mile nature trail. Trees are identified by name along the route to provide an easy lesson in nature lore.

Another three-quarter mile trail leads to a fire tower atop a nearby hill. From here hikers can enjoy visits of the lake area and surrounding countryside.

Recently, Payne Lake was partially drained so that work could be done on a water system. The work is completed and the lake is now filling up to its normal level.

Use of Payne Lake is now free, but Fenton explained that legislation is before Congress to allow the park service to charge a nominal fee for the use of recreation areas. Ranger Fenton said that by April or May a small entrance fee may be charged at Payne Lake.

Anyone desiring further information concerning the Payne Lake recreation area may contact the U.S. Forest Service office in Centreville.

CAMPERS RELAX - -These two families used the AEA holidays for a chance to "get away from it all" with their families last week. The lake offers fun for the fishermen in the group while the youngsters ride their bicycles through the quiet uncrowded roads through the park area. A nature trail at Payne Lake offers just one of many opportunities for hiking.

FOR PUBLIC USE - - The Payne Lake recreation center in the Talladega National forest is open to the general public on a first-come first served basis. It is operated by the U. S. forest service. This sign stands near the waters of the lake while the picnic pavillion in the background offers shelter to those wishing an outdoor meal.

New program to aid farmers

The 1973 Rural Environmental Assistance Program (REAP) which terminated in December, 1972, will be reinstated, the U.S. Department of Agriculture announced.

The announcement was made as the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) was notifying farmers that they can now sign up for cost-share assistance under the new Rural Environmental Conservation Program (RECP) announced last December. RECP, which carries forward some of the old REAP, was authorized by the Agriculture and Consumer Protection Act of 1973.

Kenneth E. Frick, Administrator of ASCS, said operational details of the reinstituted 1973 REAP, are under study and will be announced later. He said reinstatement of the 1973 REAP Program resulted from a U.S. District Court decision reversing the termination action.

Meanwhile, sign-up dates are being announced by ASCS County offices for farmers to request annual and long-term federal cost- share agreements provided by the 1974 RECP.

Frick explained a major difference in the two programs is increased emphasis on forestry practices and implementation of longterm cost-share agreements under RECP.

In addition to forestry incentives RECP provides help for landowners to establish and follow recommended permanent type conservation practices while farmers are being called on for allout production to meet domestic and export needs.

Hey, I'm trying to figure out why Mustang II is sticker priced higher than Plymouth Duster.

What I mean is . . . it can't be the room. Because Duster holds more people than Mustang II. And it can't be the trunk, because Duster's almost three times bigger. Duster's even got a standard electronic ignition that virtually eliminates ignition tune-ups. And it's still priced lower than Mustang II. Guess that's what separates superstars from other cars.

Dr. Walters, Brown receive author awards

Two authors, one a distinguished Alabama educator and the other the Birmingham- born author of "Addie Pray," will be honored by the Alabama Library Association at Montgomery April 5.

The 1974 Author's Award will be presented to Dr. John Bennett Walters Jr. of the University of Montevallo for "Merchant of Terror," the account of Sherman's savage Civil War raids through the South, during the 70th annual ALA convention.

Joe David Brown will receive the same recognition for "Addie Pray," the novel of the little girl who accompanied a wily con man through the countryside, and eventually out-conned him. The enormously successful film, "Paper Moon," is based on the first 125 pages of "Addie Pray."

DR. JOHN B. WALTERS

Dr. Walters, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences at the University of Montevallo, spent ten years researching and writing "Merchant of Terror," which includes much material never known by the public until the volume was published.

Many Alabama scenes can be recognized in "Addie Pray"

Dr. Walters, a native of Cordele, Ga., received his Doctor of Philosophy Degree at Vanderbilt University. He joined the faculty of the University of Montevallo in 1956. He is author of articles and book reviews appearing in the Journal of Southern History and the Mississippi Valley Review.

Brown attended Birmingham schools and the University of Alabama before joining the old Birmingham Post as a copy boy. He was a cub reporter when he was told to go to City Hall and pick up some copy because the office boy was sick. When he reached City Hall he telephoned the city editor and told him, "I'm no office boy. I quit."

JOE DAVID BROWN

He was a game warden in North Alabama and city editor of the Dothan Eagle before leaving the state for travels which eventually carried him to The New York Daily News. He was a World War II paratrooper who received a battlefield commission in Southern France, and wounds that hospitalized him for 15 months. His wife was an Army nurse when he met and married her toward the end of his hospital period. His profitable and prolific fiction career began when he sold his first short story in 1945. He was a foreign correspondent for Time-Life in Asia and Europe.

Dr. Walters is a member of the board of directors of Shelby Memorial Hospital and teaches a Sunday school class at Montevallo Methodist Church. He is a member of the Alabama Education Association and former president of its Division of Higher Education. He is a member of the Alabama Writers Conclave and regional and national scholastic organizations.

Gym and choral groups to give show at TMS

Thompson Middle School students will be given a chance to show the skills they have learned in gym and chorus class Friday night. In a dual program March 22 at 7:30 p.m., gymnastic and choral groups will perform at the school.

According to Mrs. Jean Pryor, in charge of gymnastics, she and choral director Carlton Reese have been working with talented students for weeks. Mrs. Pryor told the Reporter that she will have eighty girls and three boys in the program. They will be performing routines with exercises, the balance beam, parallel and uneven bars, as well as the rings.

Mrs. Pryor added that in addition to the creative gymnastics, the choral groups will sing around six songs. Mr. Reese's student groups have performed before several groups, and should display a wide range of talent at the show.

The dual program is sponsored by the school's PTO in order to match federal funds made available through Title 3. There will be a small charge to raise this money, which will be used for the maddle school's improvement.

Courts take stand against prison cruelty

Block Thirteen in a certain state prison was known as the "hell hole." Inmates were kept – sometimes for years – in dark, 6' x 9' cells. Once a day they were allowed outside for 15 minutes, during which time they had to bathe, wash their clothes, and exercise.

But when these conditions were called to the attention of a federal judge, he ordered changes made at once. He said the situation was a form of "cruel and unusual punishment," forbidden by the United States Constitution.

Traditionally, courts have maintained a "hands-off" policy toward the administration of our prisons. They have felt that conditions behind bars were generally outside of their jurisdiction.

But in recent years, that attitude has been changing. Repeatedly, prisoners have won cases based on the "cruel and unusual" clause of the Constitution.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

A broad spectrum of complaints has come under closer judicial scrutiny – corporal punishment, forced labor, restrictions on mail, restrictions on visitors, inadequate food, faulty sanitation, insufficient medical supplies or personnel.

Courts are still wary, however, of getting too deeply involved in the day-to- day problems of running a penal institution. Thus, one prisoner failed to establish "cruel and unusual" punishment merely because he had been deprived of the right to wear his civilian shoes. And in another case, a court found no constitutional problem when a prisoner's long hair was cut to standard length.

The court said:

"A man in jail is not a free man. His right to wear long hair is outweighed by the interests of the state in maintaining sanitary conditions and discipline. The Eighth Amendment expresses the revulsion of civilized man against barbarous acts. The prohibition of long hair is not barbarous."

There are many unsightly and unsanitary spots in and around Main Street, and in some residential sections where the owners have moved out of town that truly need to subscribe to the "clean-up-paint-up- fix-up" brigade now in formation in an attempt to get ready for Spring. If it cannot be done or will not be done by the owners, isn't there some plan by which the city authorities could hire the work done and charge it to property owners? The obvious need is visible to all. The problem, what to do about it, also seems to be everybody's. What do you suggest?

Income tax began small in 1913 bill

by Mildred White Wallace

The "Beware-of-the- Ides-of-March" date (15) has passed without any earth shattering occurrence. However, April 15 -- deadline for income tax payment, is furnishing plenty of food for thought. Our local tax experts are busily engaged in compiling facts and figures and placing them neatly in their own little boxes in an endeavor to promptly deliver to you and me the amount we shall have to render unto Uncle Sam the annual gift he will be expecting.

This morning, the question was raised regarding how the income tax got started? We decided to do a bit of research and find out. Here's how: The 16th amendment to the U.S. Constitution, legalizing federal income taxes, was adopted in 1913. It had its beginning as an amendment to a bill in Congress lowering the tariff on imports.

The idea seems to have been that the small deficit from reduced tariff receipts could be taken care of by a tiny tax on prosperous incomes. For instance on incomes from $4,000 to $20,000, the bite was one percent; on $100,000, it was four percent; on $500,000, six percent. Few people, in 1913, made more than $4,000. Few voices raised any opposition to the odea of the tax. It didn't seem too important at that time. Things however, have changed during the past 61 years -- the TAX continues! Do you suppose we have overlooked a lesson contained in this information that we possibly should have been learning?

MARSHA KAY KIRBY
. . . engaged to James Donald Jones

Kirby-Jones vows set for May 18

The engagement of Marsha Kay Kirby to James Donald Jones is announced by her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Willard Kirby of McCalla.

Mr. Jones is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin L. Jones of Wilsonville, and the grandson of Mrs. H.G. Woods and the late REv. Woods of Oakman; Mrs. Nora Jones of Birmingham and the late Martin Luther Jones.

He attended the University of Montevallo where his social fraternity was Pi Kappa Phi. He is employed by Alabama Power Co.

Miss Kirby is a student at University of Montevallo and a member of Phi Mu social sorority. Her grandparents are Mrs. O.C. Cook of Tuscaloosa and the late Mr. Cook; Mrs. Thomas J. Kirby of Wedowee and the late Rev. Kirby.

The wedding will be an event of May 18, at First Baptist Church of Bucksville.

Miss Lawler wins singing contest

Miss Dian Lawler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W.L. Lawler, Jr., of Montevallo, won first place in the Senior Division, South Carolina state singing competition held on March 9, in Columbia. Dian is an opera student of professor John Richards McCrae.

In addition to the over-all competition, winners of each category competed for the "Best of the Contest" awards. Third place, in this division, was taken by Dian.

Dian is active on the Converse campus as a member of S.C.A., Chorale and Opera Workshop. She also played the lead in "Hansel and Gretel".

In 1950 election--

Funny gadgets won votes

by Mildred White Wallace

Jarva Jug Jargon this morning consisted of gazing into the crystal ball in an attempt to find out just who would be the next Governor of Alabama? This surmise caused me to begin a reminiscent ramble, which involved recalling the gubernatorial race, in about 1950 -- when the field was crowded with gubernatorial aspirants. At this time, it seemed the candidates decided that showmanship rather than statesmanship would furnish them with the key that would unlock the door leading to Capitol Hill in Montgomery.

Do you recall some of the gadgets they used to attract the attention of Mr. and Mrs. John Q. Public -- and the personalities sponsoring them? Here are a few candidates I brought out from my mental laboratory during that time. Elbert Boozer of Anniston, I remember, came into town with an exact replica of the State Capitol attached to his campaign caravan; Gordon Persons landed next to the courthouse in a helicopter; Bob Bell came clanging into town and motored around Main ting-a- ling-ing a train bell; Joe Money, famous for his tractor sales, came down from the Magic City representing the "business man" -- Chauncey Sparks, we remember came by and we asked him if he had his pockets filled with sparklers? Bull Conner handed me a metal replica of a bull with his name on it. A paper weight he called it! Phillip Hamm had his "Hog Snapper" band with him -- emulating "Big Jim" and his Strawberry Pickers -- who, I believe started this whole idea of catching the eye hoping to capture the ear. Reuben Newton entered late and chose a Gospel Song quartette. We asked this gentleman why he didn't hand out Fig Newtons instead of his cards.

Those days seemed to have passed into the limbo of Yesterday but it was fun trying to remember 'way-back- when" while we enjoyed our morning coffee break with those who had shared these exciting years in the political arena.

Electricity. How to use it better where you use it most.

Even if you're a gourmet cook, you probably don't know all the things electricity can do for you in the kitchen. Or how, at the same time, you can get the most out of the electricity you use.

Did you know, for instance, that vegetables should be cooked in very little water, and only until they're tender? The longer they cook, the shorter their vitamin supply will be. And the more electricity you'll be using.

Speaking of water, maybe you think a drippy faucet is no big thing. But, if your hot water faucet leaks one drop a second, you can lose 200 gallons a month. The electricity it took to heat that water is lost, too. Right down the drain.

Another thing. When you run your kitchen exhaust fan to take out food odors and excess heat, you shouldn't leave it on for more than fifteen minutes after you've finished cooking. If you do, you'll be taking out your heating or air conditioning.

Now. Clip the coupon, fill it in, and send it to us. We'll send you a free booklet that tells you how to use your electricity better. Because electricity is energy that's made from natural resources. And like all energy, it shouldn't be wasted. Knowing you're using energy wisely should make your life a little brighter.

News--25 years ago

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Stinson have returned to their home in Columbiana after spending the winter in sunny California with their daughter, Myra Stinson Vickery and Mr. Vickery.

After leaving California by train for the home base-they, with 2,000 other passengers, were marooned in Green River, Wyoming for over a week with the thermometer hovering around 18 below zero.

Mr. Stinson, in speaking of this experience says that only one member of this locomotive population got sick duirng this time. A young woman with two babies on her hands was the victim. One of the babies developed pneumonia. However, Tom told us he knew there were good people everywhere, and soon donations were offered sufficient to procure ambulance service and hospitalization for the family. Perhaps a little life was saved due to the generosity of the passengers. Then, came the Red Cross, he said, to aid the stranded family and see them through the situation. He paid a glowing tribute to the Mayor and the people of Green River.

Culture Club meets

Mrs. E.E. Peavy entertained members of the Columbiana Culture Club at her home on Thursday March 14. An impressive devotional was presented by Mrs. J.I. Harrison entitled: "Greatest Salesman in the World" by O.G. Mandino.

Mrs. Vernon Adams introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Edward G. Williams, youth counselor of the Shelby County Youth Aid Bureau who told of the many services this organization can offer to those experiencing problems.

Mrs. Robert Barrett was welcomed as a new member into the club.

Following a brief business session delectable refreshments were served by the hostess.

The April meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. A.M. Muncy.

The meeting was adjourned with the reading of the club collect.

It's Senior Citizens Month!

March -- by gubernatorial proclamation, has been declared Senior Citizens recognition month and plans for this age group are in formation throughout the state in various club houses set apart for their activities.

During the past weekend we had the pleasure of visiting the Sylacauga Chapter and found that members comprising this over 65 age group were far from wanting a Kennedy Rocker to sit and watch the sun rise and set. Fact is, we found more vim, vigor and vitality in their club building than we had seen anywhere else we had been searching for news items regarding this and that -- these and those -- and him and her.

The Exhibition hall was large and spacious. A talented pianist was playing many popular tunes and modulating into some of Yesterdays nostalgic "Moonlight and Roses" melodies. The band members, who have purchased attractive uniforms, number about 40; and are in demand all over the state.

Crafts of all kinds were being made showing the handi- work of the talented group. Beautiful quilts featuring intricate patterns were being sold as quickly as they could be taken from the. quilting frames. One was delivered while we were visitng with them. It was a Cathedral pattern and sold for $100. Orders for four more were on the calendar for future delivery.

A workshop has been set to take place in the Marble City this month to which directors and members throughout the state have been invited to attend,. According to Beth Yates, City of Sylacauga's REcreation Superintendent invitations have been issued to Columbiana's Good Neighbor Club, and we feel sure if representatives from this alert group attend this session, many new ideas for their future activities will be made available.

During our short stay in the Marble City with this group of Golden Agers we thought a statement once made by Will Rogers was truly being exemplified in their attitude toward calendar years. Mr. Rogers once remarked, in his own inimitable manner: "Age is a state of mind over matter. If you don't mind, it doesn't matter"! This group of Senior Citizens we visited -- truly verify this fact!

The hap hazzard parking formerly utilized in criss-crossed formation in front of the post office every morning has been ordered stopped by our law enforcement officers. Better look now before parking on the wrong side of the street even for the time required to get the mail.

If you are travelling east -- park on the side of the street on which the Stinson and Crawford homes are located. Should you be entering town from the East going West -- toward Main -- park on the side of the street the postoffice is located.

If this explanation is not sufficiently clear, read the signs that are now up telling you which way to go. As the Chief of Police told me -- "This is a courteous warning." He neglected to tell me what he would do if we "forgot" one morning and parked wrong -- but we are not sufficiently interested to try and find out - we are going to heed the "warning".

Kinnebrew and Company, a corporation, or D.D. Kinnebrew and Company, a partnership, whose partners are unknown; and all persons and the heirs or devisees of such persons, if deceased, and all such associations, partnerships, corporations or other entities who unknown to the plaintiff claim or are reputed to claim any title to or interest in, or lien or encumbrance upon, the land made the subject matter of this action of any part thereof.

Take notice that Anniston Production Credit Association of Anniston, Alabama an Association has this day filed its verified complaint in said Court against the above named defendants and against any and all persons and the heirs or devisees of such persons, if deceased, and all such associations, partnerships, corporations or other entities who unknown to the plaintiff claim or are reputed to claim any title to or interest in, or lien or encumbrance upon, the land made the subject matter of this action or any part thereof and against all other persons and against said lands for the purpose of establishing the title of said lands in the Anniston Production Credit Association of Anniston, Alabama, an Association, and to clear up all doubts and disputes concerning the same and that said suit is now pending in said Court.

Plaintiff alleges in said complaint that the title to said lands stands in the name of the plaintiff on the records in the office of the Judge of Probate of Shelby County, Alabama, and said complaint further alleges that plaintiff claims title to said lands by virtue of a deed from M. Louise Palmer, unmarried, to Buddy DeShazo and Willia Mae DeShazo dated Marvh 15, 1963, and which was recorded in Deed Book 224 page 641 in the Probate Office of Shelby County, Alabama. At said time, Buddy DeShazo and Willie Mae DeShazo executed a mortgage back to M. Louise Palmer, as shown by Mortgage Book 281 page 709 in said Probate Office. Default was made in the payment of said mortgage and the same was foreclosed by The First National Bank of Birmingham as Trustee under the Will of Mamie Louise Palmer, deceased, and bid in by said Bank as Trustee as shown by foreclosure deed dated August 4, 1972, recorded in Deed Book 275 page 603 in said Probate Office. The said DeShazos had also mortgaged said land to the Anniston Production Credit Association on September 11, 1968, as shown by Mortgage Book 309 page 635 in said Probate Office and default having been made in the payment of this mortgage, the Anniston Production Credit Association foreclosed the same as shown by foreclosure deed dated June 7, 1972, recorded in Deed Book 274 page 635 in said Probate Office. Anniston Production Credit Association then purchased the interest of The First National Bank of Birmingham, as Trustee under thw Will of Mamie Louise Palmer, deceased, on the 14th day of September, 1972, as shown by Deed Book 276 page 412 in said Probate Office. That during the time of plaintiff's ownership it has been in actual peaceable, adverse possession of said lands, caliming to own the same and during the time and that of its predecessors in title mentioned above, the same has been used as a farm and pasture land for more than ten years prior to this date and that for each of said years, the said plaintiff and its predecessors in title have assessed said real estate in the office of the Tax Assessor of Shelby County, Alabama, and paid the taxes on said real estate for each year, and that no one else, except for some erroneous assessments of a few lots, has paid the taxes on said real estate for said period of time except the plaintiff and that no one has been in possession of said lands or any part

FREAK OF NATURE - - This fragile pie plate bird feeder was untouched by the high winds that swept across Shelby County early Thursday morning while just a few feet away a giant hickory tree lies toppled over. Wind storm rips county leaving Calera man dead

Cyclonic winds ripped through Shelby County on Wednesday night, March 20, leaving widespread damage and one death as a result. Overturned house trailers caused several injuries, and downed trees damaged several cars and homes.

Killed was Matthew Mason of Calera, an employee of Alabama Power Company. According to Nolan Hardin, head of the Montevallo office of the power company, young Mason was working on a power line in Calera when he came in contact with a live wire. He was electrocuted, and later pronounced dead at Shelby Memorial Hospital. The accident occurred at about 12:30 in the afternoon Thursday when power men were trying to restore electricity to the area.

Shelby Memorial admitted one patient hurt in the storm, Mrs. Eva L. Jones of Rt. 1, Shelby. Mrs. Jones was injured in the night when her mobile home was overturned in the storm. She had several ribs broken when a bookcase apparently hit her as the trailer tilted. She was admitted to the hospital at 5:20 a.m. Thursday morning, where she is listed in fair condition with several possible multiple fractures of the ribs.

Trailers were also reportedly overturned in Dogwood and other areas, although downed trees caused a greater amount of damage around the county. Montevallo, Alabaster, and other areas were hard hit by fallen trees.

A large willow tree fell across a street behind Western supermarket in Alabaster, blocking the road and tearing down power lines. Other trees in that city had broken in two as they bent with the near-hurricane force of the wind. Trees were felled by the winds in the residential area of north Alabaster, and a large plate glass window was blown out of Bill's Dollar Store, shattering the glass into the sidewalk as the wind whipped through the store at about 3 a.m.

The storm was strongly felt in the Montevallo area, with a number of trees down in the city and the university campus.

A large oak tree was uprooted and toppled onto the front porch of Napier Hall, damaging three cars parked in front of the men's dormitory.

A cedar tree was downed in the King family cemetery on the campus. Crews cut it into post lengths to sell. The sale covered the cost of renting additional saws, according to the university grounds superintendent.

Trees were damaged on Montevallo's Main Street, and surrounding areas were also hard hit. House trailers were reportedly overturned in the Dogwood and Pea Ridge area, with injuries also reported by local people.

A number of pine trees were split, broken in half, or torn limb from limb in a line crossing highway 119 at Calvary Hill Baptist Church near Moore's Crossroads. The trees were damaged in a west to east line in a pasture across from the church. The biggest trees felled appeared to be two large pines near the church that had literally been broken in half about thirty feet from the ground. A large cedar tree was uprooted on the other side of the church, although there was no apparent damage to the church itself or to a house trailer behind it.

Minor damage was visible all around the county, in the wake of the winds that reached from sixty to possibly eighty miles per hour in some localities. A church steeple was damaged in Brantleyville, where outbuildings were also reportedly toppled and torn apart. Signs were down at many stores and businesses around the county, and some reported broken windows in homes and other buildings. The electricity was off for much of Thursday in several municipalities. Game wardens located a broken power cable near Waxahatchee Creek; this line, which regularly supplied power to the Columbiana area, was not repaired until nearly 5 p.m.

A small tornado touched down on the shore line of Lay Lake during the stormy weather early Thursday morning. Several boats docked near Lacoosa marina were badly damaged, but the marina itself was untouched.

Two Bessemer men, S.H. Scott and Malcom Parsons, were spending the night in a truck camper when the storm hit. Their vehicle was parked near the boat dock that was hit by the high winds.

Scott recalls what happened. About 3:15 a.m. Thursday

I-65 construction sparks expansion of business and motel projects

by Willard Harrison

One of the last major links still unfinished on Interstate 65 is between Alabaster and Hoover. But work on the Shelby County portion is progressing well, and is bringing with it plans for many new multi-million dollar businesses and motels.

Construction crews are back to work on I-65 near the Highway 31 interchange. Don Archer, manager of the Southeast Contractors project, told the Reporter that the crews have been back to work for about three weeks despite recent rainy weather.

I-65 project superintendent John Allen said that although there has been little or no progress on the project since December, they are still 27 percent ahead of schedule. "Work is going much better than expected," he added, "with this project already 62 percent complete."

At present bulldozers and road machines are excavating for later work to be done on the Highway 31 bridge which will overpass I-65. Actual work on the separate bridge project should begin in a week or so, according to Allen. He commented that a new detour is planned, with traffic moving on county road 11 across from Thompson Middle School.

Motels are also making progress along the present I-65 highway. Work is proceeding on plans for a Sheraton Motor Inn to be located on a hill at the southeast side of the I-65 and Highway 31 interchange. Judge L.C. "Curt" Payne, former mayor of Alabaster, said that the city is working hard on final negotiations for the project. An announcement is expected soon about contracts to be let on the $2½ million inn.

Calera has taken the initial steps in floating a bond issue for a new motel to be located at the county airport area. To be called the Airline Inn, the new motel is a part of the Rodeway Inn chain.

The motel is to be located at the southeast section of the interchange at the airport exit. All of the legal work has not yet been completed, but Calera officials expect the last few obstacles to be cleared before long.

Also in progress near the airport is a huge multimillion dollar complex for the Alabama Power Company. The project is well underway across the interstate from the airport. The complex will cost an estimated $14 million and will cover much of the 318 acres at the site owned by the power company.

The airport itself is also undergoing an expansion program. Under current plans, new hangers and other buildings are to be constructed in the next few months. Negotiations are also being conducted on plans for lengthening the airstrip enabling it to service even most of the larger jet planes. Hank Spires of Gulf Aviation recently told of plans that will make the Shelby County Airport second only to the Birmingham municipal airport in the whole metropolitan area.

While there have been few official announcements about industries planning to build around the uncompleted sections of I-65, reliable sources indicate that there is unquestionable interest in that real estate. Plans are being discussed for a new construction project on the I-65 and Cahaba River vicinity, and many other businesses are reportedly beginning master plans for expanding into the proposed I-65 area.

GOING UP IN PELHAM - - A crane swings high over the new Pelham City Hall as construction of the new building proceeds rapidly.

Civic Club elects temporary officers

Irvin N. Howell, engineering manager at South Central Bell headquarters in Birmingham, was elected temporary president of the newly formed North Shelby County Civic Club at the organization's first meeting recently at Valleydale Baptist Church auditorium.

The club is the second of its type to be formed in North Shelby County within the past year. Its purpose is to make its members aware of and better able to cope with problems in their neighborhood. Members work daily toward making their community a better place in which to live.

Other temporary officers elected were Ron Irving, vice president; Sherry Millard, secretary; and Frank Hughes, treasurer. Bill Millard, Ben Buntas, and Mrs. W.R. Stephenson will serve on the board of directors.

Paul Yeager, Director of the Shelby County Planning Board, was the guest speaker at the organizational meeting.

New 1974 voter list has 20,926 names

The list of qualified voters is printed as Section C of this week's Shelby County Reporter.

The list shows a record number of 20,926 qualified voters in the county.

For the first time in history, the names were photographed from the computer print-out. The names appear in the newspaper exactly as they appear on the computerized lists maintained by the county.

In former years, county voting officials furnished the newspaper a typewritten list of registered voters. The newspaper in turn had to copy the list on typesetting equipment. The new system, reduces the possibilities or error in typesetting and proofreading. It should prove to be the most accurate list of voters in county history.

Registration has been very heavy in recent months. Over 111 new voters were said to be registered in Beat 12 alone on the last registration date.

Only those persons who registered before March 9, 1974 will appear on the list in today's newspaper. Those registering after that date will be on the supplemental list to be published next month.

Local political race picks up steam

by Marcia M. Sears

What's going on in the local political campaign?

Most of the candidates have been keeping a low profile, but a sure sign that the campaign is picking up steam is the number of rumors one is beginning to hear.

"This one said," "That one claims," "Is it true that," "I heard that . . ." These are phrases that are prefacing the political discussions around the coffee tables of the county.

One candidate for the office of sheriff, Allen Wilson of Pelham, says that rumors going the rounds about his candidacy are so incorrect that he is taking out paid advertisements to set the record straight.

Some persons are speculating that candidates are saving their biggest political fire until two weeks before the election.

Some candidates have in the past preferred their opposition to make the first move, so they can tear his arguments down.

Interest centers on the race for sheriff with Billy Thompson, and Wilson running against the incumbent, Red Walker.

The races for the two places on the County Commission are also drawing increased LIGHTING UP - - Wilton police chief J.O. Page installs the lights in the upper room of the town's municipal building. Wilton is currently renovating the town hall from top to bottom, for the first time in forty years. Meanwhile, without a jail Wilton prisoners are being held at the Montevallo and county jails.

Wilton renovates city hall building

The town of Wilton is moving ahead on renovating its old jail into a modern municipal building. The inside of the small two-story building is being completely rebuilt and refurnished for the first time in its forty-year history.

Working for several months, chief of police J.O. Page and Bill Glawson have been converting the building for the town's present needs. The town council realized that the upstairs jail was substandard and that the lower floor was crowded.

Mayor Troy Mims and the council began planning to rebuild the inside of the building to keep up with the trend of growing population and industry. In an economy

STILL GROWING - - Shelby County's world famous sinkhole remains the center of attention. Two Alabama geologists have recently published an article about the "Big Sink", saying that their study will be able to help predict where other such holes will appear. The hole, located a few miles northeast from Montevallo, is about four hundred and fifty feet across and still growing. For further comments on the sinkhole, see the article on page two.

County Walkathon set for Saturday

Walking for the March of Dimes is the thing to do this Saturday.

Registration for the second annual Shelby County Walkathon will start in Montevallo at 8:30 a.m. and the walk will start at 9:30 continuing for 15 miles.

Groups from all over the county are expected to participate in the Walkathon. Individual walkers are signing up business establishments and sponsors to contribute a certain sum for each mile walked; according to Teen chairman Randie Sears.

Everyone who wants to walk is encouraged to do so. There is no age limit.

Among the organized groups that will help with the Walkathon are the new Pelham Jaycees, who will serve at check points to initial cards, which show how far the walkers have progressed.

Schools have designated chairmen to help organize groups to participate in the walk. In charge at Calera High is Betty Johnstone; Chelsea, Denise Bradley, Montevallo, Randie Sears; Shelby County, Jerry Whitten; Thompson, Robin Stapleton; Vincent, Becky Hartsfield; Shelby Academy, Kathy Lacey; Coosa Valley Academy, Ricky Darby.

Cub Scouts from Pea Ridge are organizing a special four-mile walk as their contribution to the March of Dimes. The Cubs have enlisted Pea Ridge churches to sponsor their walk.

Many other scout groups are planning to participate.

The Walkathon will organize at the Student Union Building on the University of Montevallo campus. The route will be north on highway 119 to Moore's Crossroads where the group will turn right and circle back to Montevallo on the Spring Creek Road.

Miss Sears urges everyone to join the fun for a worthy cause.

WINNING BOWLING TEAM - - The University of Montevallo faculty bowling team won this year's Wednesday night bowling league competition with a season record of 49 wins and 15 losses. The team took high series with 2,409. Pictured (left to right) are Harold Ray, Director of UM's Slater Food Services; Dr. James Beal, Associate Professor of Chemistry; Dr. Miguel Guitart, Professor of Physics and Chemistry; and Paul Jones, Assistant UM Business Manager. The competition was held on the UM bowling lanes in Farmer Hall.

In Montevallo--

Rec center license granted

Montevallo's governing body approved one application for establishing a recreation center in Montevallo and took another application under advisement during a city council meeting held Monday night.

On a split vote the council approved the application submitted by Ronnie Allen of Pea Ridge for a recreation center to be located in the now-vacant Standard Oil service station building on Montevallo's Main Street. Three council members cast favorable votes. Two members abstained from voting.

Before the voting occured City Clerk Kenneth Bailey told members of the council that both Fire Chief Mahan and City Inspector T.C. Latham had inspected the proposed site and both indicated the property would meet city code specifications for the proposed recreation center.

In previous appearances before the city council Allen told council members he planned to install coin operated pool tables, football, electronic ping pong and air hockey games.

A representative of a Bessemer vending machine company appeared before the council members at Monday night's meeting and outlined plans for establishing a similar center in a former service station building located on Highway 25 near the viaduct over the Southern Railroad.

Mayor Ralph Sears indicated the city would need additional information, such as the name of the operator of the proposed center, before the council could act on the application.

Everett Taff, who has a two year option to purchase the estate of the late H.I.E. Dyer, was another visitor at Monday night's council meeting. He repeated his suggestion that the city purchase the dam on Shoal Creek, a part of the Dyer estate. Taff set a tentative price of $11,000 on the dam and adjacent property.

Taff indicated that there is some historical value to the dam and a nearby burned out grist mill. He reported that W.L. Lawler, Sr., had expressed interest in restoring the mill. Taff suggested that the entire complex could be converted to a scenic park- tourist attraction.

Members of the council agreed to inspect the site in the near future.

In other action Monday night, council members agreed to purcahse a front-end loader and other equipment from Alvin McGaughy who is disbanding his business.

City Clerk Kenneth Bailey informed council members that a new rectifying station, a part of the municipal gas system has been installed and is now operating. Bailey also reported that the city's paving project is continuing.

Commission forms two new beats

Once upon a time there were only 21 beats in Shelby County. In fact there were 21 beats in the county for many many years.

But redistricting has changed that, and now we have Beat 22 and Beat 23.

Beat 22 was created in the Simmsville - Fungo Hollow area last fall, following redistricting lines.

Beat 23 was created just this month, when it became apparent that a group of voters would have to travel a long distance to vote.

A petition signed by 51 names reached the Shelby County Commission from residents who live "west of Highway 280 and north of Simmsville Road between the top of Double Oak Mountain and the beat line of Beat 12 west of the Atlantic Coastline Crossing".

The residents of this area formerly voted in Chelsea, which is convenient for them to reach. Under the new districting they would have had to travel to the New Hope Cumberland Presbyterian Church on Cahaba Valley Road to vote.

They requested that the Commission set up another beat so they could vote in their own community. The Commission agreed and now Beat 23 is the beat with the smallest number of registered voters in the county.

The G. W. Turner residence is designated as the voting place for the beat, assuming that doors to the residence are big enough to accommodate a voting machine.

Political race attention in Districts 2 and 4.

The contests for the two places on the Board of Education are not going to be as quiet as in some years.

Elaine Hughes of Montevallo is running against W.M. Morris of Alabaster for one place on the Board.

For the other place, Harold Rubin is challenging the incumbent, Douglas Kent. Both live in Alabaster.

The Indian Springs Civic Club held an open meeting last Friday, inviting all the candidates seeking office in the Indian Springs area to attend.

Following speeches, a question and answer session generated some to-the- point questions.

A political rally is scheduled at Shelby Academy on April 6 to which all persons running for offices in the county have been invited.

Aerial photos may reveal causes of sinkhole problem

High altitude photographs taken at regular intervals could hold the key to understanding the past, present, and future of sinkhole problems such as those that plague Shelby County, according to Geological Survey authorities.

Geologists William Warren and Charles C. Wielchowsky in a recently published 14-page research article dealing with aerial remote sending of carbonate terranes in Shelby County, say their data have predictive value and "show great promise in the study of limestone hydrology and subsidence problems."

The Geological Survey of Alabama authors also present two low-altitude color infrared photographs of the "Big Sink" and area just southwest of it. The trend of the sinks is plotted across one of the maps on a one inch to 500 foot scale. "The strike of the underlying limestone formation units . . ." is indicated on the photographs. Their report indicates that in some instances the alignment of future sinkholes will be along strike and in other instances when faulting is involved sinkholes may align themselves at an angle to strike.

One example of the problem that has gained national attention, is Shelby County's "Big Sink". It was located in early December 1972 a few miles northeast of Montevallo, shortly after a collapse had occurred. Today, the hole is an estimated 450 feet wide, still growing, and drops 100 to the waterline.

The research paper presents a detailed look at the geology and hydrology of a 70 square mile test area in Shelby County, and generally shows the time saving value of using 20th century photographic techniques in studying carbonate terranes.

Copies of the article are available for $1 from Publication Sales, Geological Survey of Alabama, P.O. Drawer O, University Alabama 35486.

Alabaster to catch stray dogs

Comes spring and everybody has had it with the neighborhood dogs.

Irate neighbors and telephone calls to city halls about stray dogs are as predictable a sign of spring as the first daffodil.

Alabaster is the first city in the county to do something about the spring problem this year. It has already given notice that a dog detention period goes into effect during the last two weeks of April. During this period any dog running loose will be picked up by city workers.

The city is encouraging everyone to properly innoculate their dogs and then come to the city hall to purchase dog tags. In this way family pets will be protected and stray dogs will be captured.

IT'S TIME FOR A CHANGE

Under Bill Thompson - - -
The Sheriff's Department will be different.

COOPERATION

COOPERATION with all other law enforcement agencies will be improved. The State Department of Public Safety has a staff of experienced, well trained, criminal investigators. They are available to investigate crimes upon request of a Sheriff. These State investigators have not been invited to assist local County officers in criminal investigative work for the past 14 years. Shelby County citizens, against whom crimes have been committed, are entitled to have these skilled State investigators come into Shelby County to help solve crimes. Shelby County Deputies working with these State officers will improve their own capabilities. Bill Thompson, as Sheriff, would not keep these State officers out of Shelby County. He would invite them in.

Bill Thompson will:

COOPERATE with state officers in the execution of search warrants. These warrants are useful to suppress organized gambling, drug traffic, and other criminal activity. Bill Thompson will not insist that only he or his deputies have a right to serve search warrants in Shelby County nor will he object to state officers serving search warrants in Shelby County. State officers and county officers should have the same goal - - suppression and elimination of criminal activity.

COOPERATE with all municipal police departments and insure full public recognition for the good work performed by municipal officers.

COOPERATE with all state and federal officers assigned to Shelby County including ABC officers, State Troopers, Conservation officers, ATU officers and others.

LET'S ELECT BILL THOMPSON SHERIFF OF SHELBY COUNTY

Wallace promises hike in education funds during next two years

by Don Wasson

The announcement by Gov. Wallace last week to the teachers that $200 million more will be available for education in the next biennial budget came as no surprise -- Dr. Paul Hubbert of the Alabama Education Association had been using that figure for a number of weeks.

But the AEA convention seems to be a time for governors to promise things and the practice has become firmer and firmer in the last few years as the teachers begin to flex their political muscles more and more.

Elementary and secondary teachers are headed straight down the path to unionization despite the phenomenal gains they have made in the last two bienniums.

Consider how the biennial appropriations for education have climbed since the 1963-64, 1964-65 biennium when the two-year appropriation was $388.8 million.

In the next biennium, 1965-66 and 1966-67, expnditures were $530.4 million, a 36.45 percent increase.

In 1967-68 and 1968-69, the total was $573.6 million, only an 8.14 percent increase.

But in the next two-year period, 1969-70 and 1970-71, the education budget was $761.2 million, an increase of 32.7 percent.

The increase levelled off somewhat in the 1971-72 and 1972-73 fiscal years, rising to $878.8 million, an increase of 15.45 percent.

The current fiscal two-year budget for education, which will end Oct. 1, 1975, is the first billion dollar budget -- $1.18 billion in fact, and a 33.44 percent increase.

What Gov. Wallace has proposed -- $200 million, will be an increase of around 18 percent.

It would give the teachers another $1,000 a year raise but there is already talk of bringing state pay up to the national level which would necessitate almost a $2,000 a year increase.

Wallace did not say he advocates bringing the average up to the national average in the next biennium, only that we should aim toward the national average.

But the teachers seized on the aim and right away began talking about a $2,000 a year increase.

That would take $137 million of the $200 million and it is highly unlikely that the legislature will go that far. In addition to elementary and secondary teachers, there are junior colleges and trade schools, the senior colleges and universities and other areas in which state education monies must be spent.

The elementary and secondary education forces pressured their way to the lion's share of the current education budget, and they should receive the highest percentage, but in the Governor's select Committee, Dr. Hubbert dominated the meetings and the vote went against higher education.

That same pressure will be applied when it comes time early next year to divide up that $200 million.

But before any educators begin slicing up a $200 million pie, it might be well to remember that a nationwide coal strike is imminent and such a strike could play havoc with the Alabama economy and with the revenues that pour into the Special Educational Trust Fund.

AEA is out to win about 40 to 50 seats in the Legislature and is going to be even more of a force to be reckoned with in the next budget.

Detente falling apart

by Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — The Russian-American detente is becoming dangerously frayed. Secret intelligence reports warn that the Soviets believe Secretary of State Henry Kissinger is trying to diminish their influence in the Middle East.

Suddenly, Moscow radio has started attacking Kissinger in its Arabic broadcasts. The same broadcasts warn the Arabs that all the United States really cares about is oil and that it will do nothing to curb Israel as long as it can get Arab oil.

Intelligence reports also claim that the Kremlin has brought pressure on Syria not to go to Washington for peace talks. Instead, the Kremlin wants the talks held in Geneva where its own Middle East negotiator has been waiting.

Russia not only wants a voice in the peace talks but is preparing to sabotage any agreement Kissinger works out — unless Soviet interests are fully protected.

In Washington, President Nixon has acknowledged privately to aides that the Middle East developments have not been "a happy situation" for Russia. He also told aides that "the Soviet-American detente has served us far more than it has served" the Russians.

Nevertheless, he said, the Russians "have been acting with restraint." He is counting upon Kissinger to reassure the Kremlin leaders and bolster the Soviet-American detente on his trip to Moscow.

Chicom Kidnap Manual: The recent revolutionary kidnappings have been linked by the Central Intelligence Agency to Red China and North Korea. Strictly speaking, the kidnappings weren't ordered by Peking and Pyongyang. But both countries have furnished guerrilla instructors who have encouraged political kidnappings.

The kidnapping idea is found in guerrilla manuals, which the instructors have written. This is a tactic that the Chinese Communists used in their own struggle for power. At one point, they even kidnapped rival leader Chiang Kai-shek and held him for political ransom.

The Chinese manuals have become available in the United States and extracts have been printed in underground newspapers. The kidnapping of Patricia Hearst by the Symbionese Liberation Army (SLA), for example, appears to be taken right out of a Chinese text. The manual even suggests that the kidnap victim should be ransomed for food to feed the poor.

This does not mean that the SLA is directed by the Chinese. But they have access, apparently, to guerrilla manuals put out by Peking.

Meanwhile, confidential police reports warn ominously that there are several other underground groups like the SLA that can now be expected to attempt similar kidnappings.

Henry's Pessimistic: The lifting of the Arab oil embargo should bring fast relief to motorists who have been lining up for gas. It will take six weeks for oil to reach U.S. ports from the Middle East. But Arab oil in Caribbean refineries can now be diverted to the United States immediately.

There is a definite danger, however, that the Arabs may reimpose the oil embargo just before the summer vacation months. They have agreed to reassess the situation after two months. If there has not been an Israeli withdrawal from Syria's Golan Heights, the Arab militants are certain to demand a new oil embargo.

What's more, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger has admitted to the White House that his diplomatic magic may not work in Syria. Dealings with the Syrians, he said, has a "bizarre quality." He found himself talking to the heads of factions, most of whom, he said, were extremists.

In a secret report to President Nixon, Kissinger described Syria's President Assad as highly intelligent, with a sense of humor. But Kissinger said he never knew when Assad "is going to jump the tracks."

If Assad jumps the tracks, unfortunately, it could once again derail those oil shipments to the United States.

A Human Tragedy: Behind the Watergate headlines is a tragic human story. Two dozen of President Nixon's closest associates have been ruined. They have either pleaded guilty or have been indicted for crimes. Yet not one has been accused of committing a crime for his own benefit. They committed the Watergate crimes for the benefit of Richard Nixon.

As their reward, most of them have now been cut off from the White House. Some have gone to prison. Others are going through or preparing for agonizing trials.

Remember how John Mitchell, the former attorney general, used to puff calmly on his pipe and assert the need for "preventive detention" and "no-knock" laws? Now he hides out not only from the press but from his friends. He lives alone in a Manhattan hotel under an assumed name. The few who have access to him say he drinks too much. He has lost his good name, his livelihood and his wife.

His successor, Richard Kleindienst, has passed the prosecutors' lie detector tests and is maintaining a stoic public image. But in private, he has been devastated by the Watergate wreckage and the damage it has done to the nation. His friends have walked into his office and have found the man in tears.

G. Gordon Liddy, the former White House undercover man, invited his superiors to hire gunmen to shoot him down in the streets. When this offer was declined, he went to jail, lips sealed, for a 20-year sentence.

Bernard Barker, the leader of the Watergate crew, came out of prison with his face partially paralyzed. Charles Colson, the combative presidential assistant, has turned to Christ.

Others also are now broken and harassed men. The human toll has been tragic.

Dear Senator Sparkman

Dear Senator Sparkman: I have heard much in recent weeks of the legality of removing pollution control devices from automobiles by owners. Please advise whether or not I would be violating a federal law if I did remove the devices in order to obtain better gas mileage. J.G., Birmingham Sparkman: The Federal Clean Air Act prevents dealers and manufacturers and not private individuals or independent mechanics from removing or rendering inoperative a vehicle's emission control system. However, many states have laws preventing the removal of such deviceseven by individuals. Alabama, I believe has such a law. You may be interested in knowing that the Environmental Protection Agency conducted tests which indicate that removal of the emission control system of an auto will not substantially improve fuel economy. The reason for this I am told is that the greater portion of the loss in fuel economy comes from the basic design changes of the engine which were done to accomodate the pollution devices.

Dear Senator Sparkman: We just received a directive from the Federal Government which states that our bank must do all its hiring through the State Employment Office. This action is but another flagrant attempt by the Federal Government to take over private enterprise, and I submit that if the government take-over trend is not reversed, this country will not long endure.

Sparkman: I was shocked to hear of this action which you describe. It seems to me that state-operated employment services should be a supplement to private employment agencies -- not a replacement for them. Also, you should have the right to hire employees through newspaper advertisements or through whatever methods you choose. Please give me the name of the agency which issued this order and I shall be glad to check it out for you.

Dear Senator Sparkman: I am a heavy equipment operator and I would like very much to get a job on the Alaska Pipeline. Could you obtain the name of the contractor so I may contact him? T.W., Sylacauga

Sparkman: It is my understanding that Alaska has over 14,000 people unemployed -- about 10 percent of the labor force -- and that these people will be given first chance at the new jobs, estimated to be about 6,000 the first year. The Alaska Department of Labor advises that the local labor supply is more than adequate to meet anticipated needs, and that it is unlikely that hiring will be done outside Alaska. If you are still interested though you may contact the companies doing the work whenever they are announced in the newspaper.

Reminiscences on UM news bureau

by Fred Cooper

On April 1, a sort of era will be ended at the university that sits in the middle of Shelby County.

On that day, the University of Montevallo will open its doors for business for the first time in nearly 15 years with out Steve Huffstutler manning the News Bureau.

He'll be in Birmingham, looking over his new job and new responsibilities as Public Relations Director for the Red Cross.

Steve came to Montevallo in 1959, leaving the graduate school at Florida State gladly. He'd gone from Phillips High School in Birmingham to the Korean War, from there to Auburn where he joined a bunch of ex-GI's bombing through in three years, anxious to get their degrees and start catching up.

He got his degree and with it, a work-study fellowship to FSU for graduate work. It didn't take. The school he went into didn't sit right with a war veteran who was ready for real, everyday living for a change. The word reached him that Alabama College needed a news director and within a couple of phone calls and an interview, the job was his.

When he got to Montevallo, Mike Mahan, now Dr. S. M. Mahan, Jr., was heading up the photo lab and Ed Ewing, political advisor in Montgomery, was with the News Bureau. Ralph Sears was Director of Public Relations.

Steve and I go back more than a decade. I met him as a freshman, went to work for him as a junior in the News Bureau and it was there that I learned to discipline my writing into acceptable news story style. I also learned the rudiments of news photography and film processing. I suppose professionally, he's had more influence over my work than anybody else because since then, no matter what kind of job I've had, I've wound up with a typewriter and a camera.

He also taught me something else that's been even more valuable--not to take myself too seriously. I don't think I'm the only one who's learned that lesson from him. Keeping things on an even keel has been his trademark.

It's home. In the last few days of March, he'll realize he's doing some things he's done for a lot of years for the last time. But, as one administrator's wife told him when she heard the news, "Don't look back." He isn't. There's a new job with new challenges ahead and, as everything is with Steve, it'll be fun.

I remember, though, one night at Lloyd's Restaurant, the U.M. ATO fraternity that Steve is advisor to all got together for supper. Joining us was a couple from West Georgia College who were new in the area but he was a strong ATO. Steve and his date were late. When he came in, all the boys stood up to greet him. Shortly after that, the fellow from West Georgia leaned over and asked me who he was.

"That's Steve Huffstutler," I told him. "He's the advisor."

He thought about it for a minute and leaned back over.

"I knew when everybody stood," he whispered, "that he was somebody special."

Part of heritage--

Old courthouse made history

by Elsie Archer Jones

WHAT IS A HERITAGE? The Encyclopedic Dictionary give us the definition as "A cultural tradition, body of knowledge, etc., handed down from past times." In thinking of the destruction of the old City Hall in Columbiana, I have to think of the many facets of the above definition which this old building fit into that category.

As the first courthouse of the County, other than the temporary one in Indian Valley, it has made many pages of the history of the lives and events of many of our forefathers from which we have inherited much of our present culture and life. In destroying these artifacts of our past lives, we cannot help but destroy certain characteristics which have been handed down to us from venerable forefathers.

These qualities are those same ones which we hopefully strive to instill in our present generation. In tearing away our old buildings, historic sites, literature, and other symbols of knowledge of the past would destroy much of our ability to keep alive for our posterity the heritage to which they have an inborn right.

The old city hall building later became the Blackerby Hotel which for many years served as a lodging place and an eating place for the many people of the County who travelled to Columbiana to attend to their trading and other businesses. For many years this hotel served the people of the entire County. It is still a venerable institution to the many people who were served there; as well as a respected place to the many descendants of these families -- Blackerbys, ARchers, Wingards, Nolens and others who are still citizens of the county, and who are still contributing to the different businesses of the City of Columbiana.

Too many of our old elegant homes and structures in surrounding area have been destroyed by, oftentimes outside interests, who only desire the space occupied by these structures for installing some instituions of business, from which they hope to gain personal benefits.

Many an old beautiful home-site has been transformed into just another "asphalt jungle" which boasts only of old cars for sale, or parking facilities, many of which are adorned only by ropes stringing plastic banners of various gayly colors to attract one more customer, to avail themselves of one more dollar.

I hope that our citizens of Shelby County will think upon these things and lend your support to the Shelby County Historical Society which is striving to become organized just for the sole purpose of preserving our historic remains for the inspiration and culture of our future generations.

COURTSHIP, MARRIAGE AND THE FAMILY

By Herbert J. Miles, Ph.D.

SHOULD PARENTS HELP SUPPORT THEIR MARRIED CHILDREN FINANCIALLY?

Q. Dr. Miles, our son, Ray, age 21, is planning marriage, and we approve the marriage. Our problem concerns whether or not they can make it financially, and whether we should help them financially after marriage. They have plans to make it on their own and have outlined their plans to us. But their plans are full of "ifs" and seem to us to be rather shaky. Will you discuss this problem in your column? Mr. and Mrs. T. N.

A. Mr. and Mrs. T. N., there is no easy "yes" or "no" answer to your problem. In ancient Oriental families the bride was uprooted from her family and moved in to live with her husband's family. His father or grandfather was authority in the family. All worked as a family unit and all shared the fruits of their labor. The new married couple were a new branch on the husband's family tree. The advantages were that the new couple did not have to worry about food, shelter, clothing and occupation.

The Hebrew-Christian culture taught that "A man shall LEAVE his father and mother and CLEAVE to his wife." They both moved out from their relatives and formed a completely new and independent family unit, lived in their own home, and were responsible for their own support, food, clothing, shelter, and occupation. This has been largely the family type of the Western World. Its advantages are privacy, individuality, responsibility, and freedom. Across the centuries the gradual drift has been toward this type family, yet it has never been fully realized. Henry A. Bowman says, "There is some reason to believe that in this country the present period is the first in which marriage has not been subsidized. In earlier times, a girl usually entered marriage with an ample hope chest and often with a dowry. When a man married, his father gave him some land, stock, and equipment, and friends and relatives assisted in the building of his house." This was rural America. Today we live in an urban society.

Therefore, Mr. and Mrs. T. N., you and your son, Ray, have a problem. You live in a society which calls for education through high school and college, and a very high standard of living. Yet today I still feel that the advantages are on the side of the couple being responsible financially after marriage, for the following reasons:

1. The Christian Scriptures seem to advocate financial independence after marriage. The couple are to "leave" their parents, "cleave" to each other and become a single family unit. This implies that a marriage is to be independent financially. 2. Financial independence tends to promote self-confidence, competence, and marriage success. 3. When parents disapprove of a marriage, their disapproval becomes more stubborn if they are expected to dole out money to keep the marriage going. There will follow conflicts and arguments. Conflicts and arguments are the crutches of lame minds. 4. An American rural proverb says that "The man who pays the fiddler calls the tune." When parents pay to keep the marriage going they will be tempted to tell their children how to spend their money, what decisions to make and how to raise their children. This may lead to an impossible in-law situation. 5. The financial aid from parents can turn out to be a crutch; ambition will decline. The young couple may expect the initial gifts to become a dole or an annuity. 6. In a society where the husband is supposed to "bring in the bacon" his honor and his male ego may be crushed in his dependence on in-laws for financial help. 7. Some emotionally insecure dependent parents may freely give financially in order to hold on to their children and bolster their sagging self-confidence. 8. A young couple's financial dependence can easily turn into emotional dependence.

Financial independence for newly married couples ought to be the rule, even in our fast changing culture. However, there may be exceptions to the rule. An unexpected emergency may arise. It is right for loving parents, to step forward and offer financial help in the crisis. It is usually best to have the understanding that the money will be repaid, often without interest, when circumstances permit. Or parents can help their married children by giving them gifts of money or needed merchandise as gifts on birthdays and Christmas. This promotes love and protects the ego and the independence of the couple. I recommend these exceptions. However, exceptions to the rule do not repeal the rule. It is far better for young engaged couples to save their money, and plan well in order to enter marriage in economic independence and enjoy privacy, responsibility, self-confidence, individuality, and freedom.

Art series scores on ETV

Art in daily life and how it can enrich a person's experience is one of the keynote concepts in the public television program "Awareness" which is seen on the Alabama Public Television Network each Monday at 11:30 a.m. and Thursday at 2:15 p.m.

A long-time voice in the field of art education, Jessie Butler Jones, of Columbiana, is the narrator of the program and was in on the planning from concept to before-camera activities.

The present "Awareness" is a modification of a prior series which ran on the network for four years earlier. It has now been updated, and produced in color.

A basic idea behind "Awareness" is to provide different settings for small groups of students from 8th to 12th grades on specific field trips. Then, the art in question is brought into focus. Why does it delight the senses? How can appreciation of it apply to other areas of experience? How can you best analyze your appreciation of this art form?

Field trips have included antebellum homes, the Pike County Frontier Museum, Gulf States Paper Company in Tuscaloosa, George Washington Carver Museum in Tuskegee, Birmingham Botanical Gardens and Zoo, and the studio of nationally recognized Alabama artist Larry Godwin at Frundige.

One "Awareness" program recognized certain Alabama highways which received national recognition for well-planned engineering and the maintenance of the natural beauty. It demonstrated well-designed commercial art and how proper scale and proportion of this art form to all surroundings can be a positive addition, not a blight.

"Being involved with art is a revitalizing feeling," says Mrs. Jones. Her career has encompassed a wide range of experiences. A graduate of University of Montevallo, she has been a classroom teacher, a supervisor and counselor for elementary and high schools. She served as state supervisor of art for the State Department of Education for many years. Six months ago was was named teacher education adviser for the State Department of Education. In her new position, Mrs. Jones works with deans of education of the 27 colleges in Alabama that have teacher education programs.

She holds the Ed.D degree from the University of Alabama.

A modest television program producer, she says, "the program series "Awareness", is loaded with teamwork. She laughs as she explains how many of her ideas were not engineeringly sound and had to be scratched as a possibility. Yet, how even the most ridiculous brainstorming of ideas had happy results within the realm of television as a medium.

In the modification from the black and white series to color, some new emphasis was given to different resources. They were human geographical, new media, and going to the art classroom itself to see how effectively art could be perceived, and therefore translated into a happier appreciation, with in-depth understanding.

As an outstanding production from Alabama Public Television Network by the Montgomery Public Television Studio, "Awareness" has been selected to appear on closed circuit television in April of this year from the Public Broadcasting Service office in Washington, D.C.

In a special television showing, the series will be shared with other art teachers throughout the nation on the hopes that it can provide them with some fresh ideas and new thinking in getting the idea of art appreciation across to students more effectively.

CAMP OUT IN STORM - - S. H. Scott and Malcolm Pearsons of Bessemer look a little tired after camping out in a windstorm that hit Lay Lake early last Thursday morning. The two were sleeping in a truck camper near Lacoosa marina when violent winds picked up a houseboat docked only feet away and blew it three hundred feet. They described the sound of the wind as that of a freight train as it rocked their camper back and forth. Pearsons is holding a box of litter deposited in their fishing boat by the winds.

Cancer unit requests loan closet

The Service Committee of the Shelby County Unit of the American Cancer Society is trying to establish a loan closet which will allow the unit to loan hospital equipment and supplies to cancer patients.

The loan closet needs equipment such as hospital beds, wheelchairs, bed pans, walkers, etc.

Any individual or organization interested in donating such items or taking on such a project should call Ms. Yeatts at 663-0711 for more information.

Guard to visit employers

Employers in Shelby County will be visited by members of the Guard and Reserve during Employer Support Week, April 1-6, as part of a nationwide program to ensure the support of civilian employers of those employees who participate in the Guard and Reserve.

This period has been set aside by Deputy Secretary of Defense, William P. Clements, Jr., in recognition of those American Employers who have implemented personnel policies which encourage employee participation in Guard and Reserve training programs as well as to induce other employers to adopt similar policies.

This special effort will be conducted in conjunction with a national campaign soliciting employer support which was mounted a year ago by the National Committee for Employer Support of the Guard and Reserve, headed by Mr. James M. Roche, former chairman of the board of General Moters.

The statement, in part, assures the employee participant in the Guard and Reserve that job and career opportunities will not be limited or reduced becuuse of such service; that leaves of absence for military training will be granted without sacrifice of vacation time; and that the ensuing agreement and resultant policies will be made known throughout the organization.

Home show in county

Construction of 12 new homes in the Parade of Homes Village in Altadena South will begin very soon, according to Thurman Wilson, chairman of the Birmingham Association of Home Builders.

Builders who participate in the association recently frew lots for the 1974 Parade Village.

Opening dates for the homes are now planned for August 11 to August 18.

Altadena South is in the northern part of the county in the vicinity of Caldwell Mill Road.

Alabaster court hears 57 cases

Alabaster assistant city clerk Andrea Burgess reports that 57 cases were considered by the Alabaster municipal court Tuesday, March 19. Twenty-four were new cases, 15 were old and 18 were old alias cases.

The 57 cases were dispensed as follows: 24 continued, six paid, nine new alias warrants were issued and 18 old alias cases were outstanding.

Storm

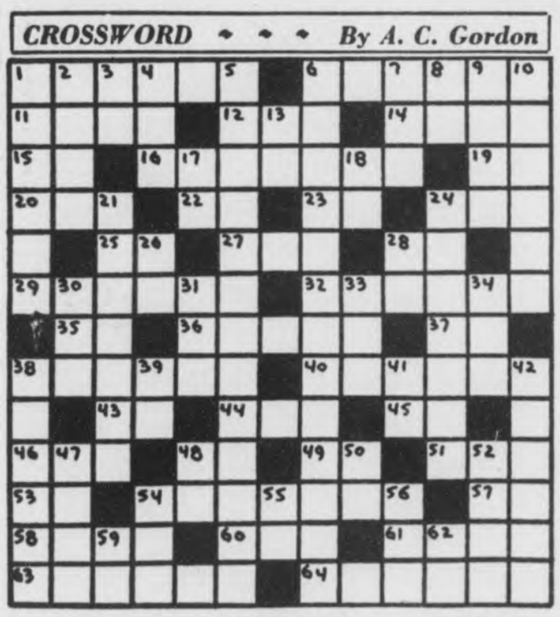
morning a bad thunderstorm was in the area. Lightening flashes were striking with such rapidity that there was a constant roar of thunder. The wind started blowing so hard that the trailer started rocking from side to side. Scott remembers that the trailer almost tipped over, but didn't. The wind was so loud it sounded like a freight train.

In all three boat houses were blown like toys by the wind. Two other smaller boats were sunk.

One houseboat was pikced up by the wind blown over three other boats. The houseboat came to rest some three hundred yards away on the opposit shore of the slough.



Another houseboat was capsized while a third houseboat had the top blown off of it.

Two boat houses belonging to Jim Anton of Birmingham and James Templeton of Lacoosa, were blown away.

The Templeton family lives in a large brick house a few feet away from the water front. The storm blew down a large tree in their yard as well as their boathouse a few feet from their home. A boat dock in the Templeton's yard was also damaged and a boat belonging to the family was damaged beyond repair.

Mrs. Templeton also described the constant roar of thunder when the storm hit. She said that the whole house started shaking like it would be blown away. This horror only lasted a few seconds and the windstorm left as quickly as it had come.

Amateur gardener learns agriculture the hard way

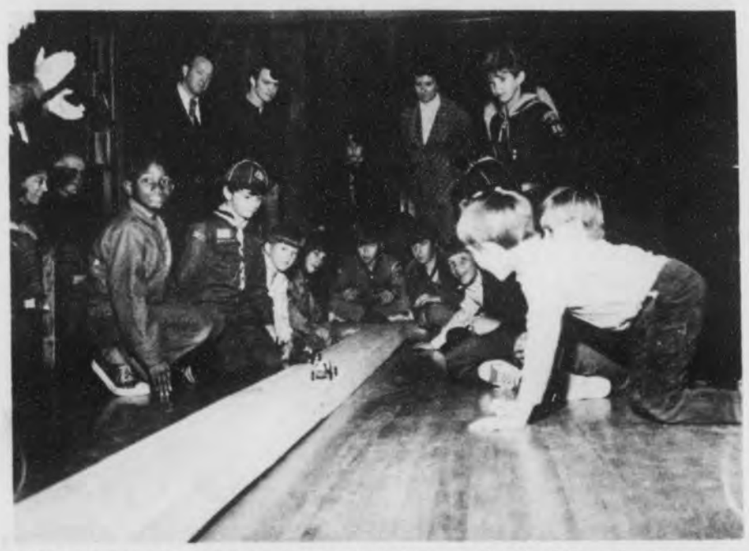
Ed Note: Garden planting fever is hitting almost everyone this spring. It's that time of year. But now that food prices and shortages are all the talk, many Shelby Countians are heading out into unfamiliar territory with spade and hoe, determined to scratch out a garden in the best tradition of their pioneer forbears.

Doris E. Davis, of Calera, feature writer for the Reporter, tells a good story about her experiences as a gardener.

by Doris Davis

I had a garden once but citybred as I was and never having been in a garden, I found that I had a lot to learn before I could even plant it. I didn't know the difference between dropping seed and broadcasting or how far apart to plant the rows or how many seeds to put in each hole.

Determined to go about it as scientifically as possible I wrote to Auburn University for all the information they could send me on home gardening. They sent me charts on when to plant certain seeds and the varieties that could be expected to flourish in Shelby county soil. They didn't say anything about the heat or sweat or calluses or insects that all go along with it. I had to learn that the hard way.



I could hardly believe it when the tiny plants began to poke their way up through the soil. I guess I didn't really believe any of it would even come up. What a thrill it was to go out each morning and realize the growth that had taken place since the previous day. But the rains came and the winds blew and beat upon my garden and before I knew what was happening weeds had sprung up among the rows.

All the hoeing and digging and pulling I could muster wasn't enough to get rid of those weeds. Worms got in the squash and for some reason the canteloupe rotted on the vine. We spent all day rigging string for the beans to run on and the first good wind that came along demolished it.

All was not lost though because I had planted a fifty foot row of cucumber seed. Little did I know that I could have gone into the cucumber truck farming business off of that one row. Once the vines began to produce I gathered cucumbers every day. I couldn't believe it. I would clean the vines one day of ripe cucumbers and the small ones left on the vine would take on enormous growth overnight so that they were ready to pick the next day. I made twelve gallons of pickles that summer and gave away cucumbers to everyone that came along.

I wish that some of these people who have such beautiful gardens every year would write a book on just exactly how to do it. Even Auburn University doesn't tell you how to hold your mouth when you hoe or where the moon should be in the sky when you plant or how to keep the weeds out. I've just about decided that this knowledge comes only with having grown up on a farm and experienced the hard work and calluses and a few trips behind the barn necessary to make a kid get out and experience all that hard work. I regret having been almost a third of a century old before I could see a tiny stem push its way up with bowed head and then spread its tiny twin leaves open to the warmth of the sun. Even though my garden was basically a failure we did have some good food out of it that summer. I learned to distinguish a squash vine from a cucumber vine. I learned what fun it is to be able to go out in your back yard and pick your supper rather than having to go to the grocery store to buy it. I learned to appreciate the term "God gives the increase." For in spite of all that I did or didn't do to that garden once it was planted it did bear fruit. I enjoyed watching it grow and harvesting it and eating from it but some day I'd like to learn how to do it right and have a beautiful gadren like my nieghbor does every year.

All I learned was only enough to write a book on "How to raise 539 ears of corn and 50 pounds of weed seed."

FLURRY OF SMOKE AND BURNING RUBBER - - Pack 560 of the Columbiana Scouts watches with excitement as two cars race down the track at the Pinewood Derby Friday evening. Jason Head's car turned out to be the big winner of the evening. He nosed out David Hume's car in a tight race.

From left, David Hume, Bruce Glenn, Greg Garett won the major award for the event in models and wood carving. Standing is Mrs. Gerald Egar. About 65 scouts and their parents enjoyed the banquet and associated activities held in the recreation hall.

UM students elect new SGA officers

Tom Walker, the University of Montevallo junior who is a candidate for the Alabama Public Service Commission, won the presidency of the University's Student Government Association in balloting held Monday.

Walker, who is from Birmingham, won over two other Birmingham students, Tommy King and Scott Oyer.

Walker received 683 votes, Oyer 212, King 67.

Walker is currently serving as SGA vice president.

Two other top SGA posts were on Monday's ballot. Steve Pickett from Fairfield outpolled Dru Minton of Warrior for the office of vice president. Pickett received 526 votes. Miss Minton 434.

A run-off will be held this week for SGA Social Chairman. Monday's vote eliminated Steve Bailey, Birmingham.

The runoff will see voters deciding between Ron Glass of Calera and Ron Jones of Decatur.

Monday's vote gave Jones 448, Glass 375 and Bailey 120.

Voting for other SGA offices will be held next week.

The new SGA officers will take office in April and will serve until April, 1975.

Columbiana council amends city hall plans

The Columbiana city council met in their regular bi-weekly meeting on Thursday, March 21, to discuss plans for their new city hall.

City employee Mrs. Truett Ray said that the council discussed changes needed in the blueprints presented at the meeting by architect firm Dampier and Harris. Several needed changes were approved, and these details will be worked into final plans for the new building.

Mrs. Ray stated that the council did not bring up any discussion concerning the present city hall, nor the action they will take concerning plans to dispose of the former courthouse.

Leon Barton gets surprise

by Linda Hinds Conn

Longtime Alabaster resident, Leon Barton, was honored by the Alabaster Civitan Club with a surprise dinner on March 21. Recently retired from Alabama Power Co. Mr. Barton was a charter member of the Civitan club and has been involved with all of the club's heart and drives and sale of fruit cakes as well as many other activities.

There were about 170 people at the celebration, including Mr. Barton's wife, Mrs. Margaret Barr Barton, and their sons, Larry of Atlanta and Lindsey of Columbus, Ga., whose presence was a complete surprise.

Serving as emcee for the dinner was Charles (Bunk) Olson who entertained the crowd with his amusing anecdotes. Judge Conrad Fowler was guest speaker.

Seated at the main table with Mr. Barton was his longtime friend and coworker, Mrs. Marguerite Busby, who compiled a scrapbook about Mr. Barton. Included in the scrapbook were the signatures of guests at the dinner and a proclamation from the mayor and city council of Alabaster declaring March 21 as Leon Barton Day.

After dinner Mr. Barton gave a thank you speech expressing his pleasure at being allowed to serve the people of Alabaster.

Where were you when the lights went out?

SCHOOL GOES ON - - These students at Columbiana High School go about their studies as usual despite the lack of electric lights. Windows supplied enough light to illuminate the classrooms and school was conducted as usual.

CANDLE IN THE DARK - - A candle lights a shelf of canned goods in a Columbiana grocery store last Thursday when a windstorm damaged a power transmission line. Electrical power was restored late Thursday afternoon after having been out for over 12 hours. A portable electric generator provided power to operate the store's cash registers during that time.

HAND POWER - - It takes two employees to operate this cash register -- one to punch and one to crank -- at another Columbiana food store. Candles and makeshift power were the order of the day last Thursday when electricity was off in portions of Shelby County.

County news notes

All Shelby County grocers are urged to attend a meeting April 2 at 7 p.m. in the auditorium of the Department of Pensions and Securities (Welfare office) in Columbiana.

The procedure to follow in order to receive food stamps as payment for groceries will be explained in detail at the meeting.

Grocers may not accept food stamps unless they have been authorized to do so. The Food Stamp program for Shelby County will begin on May 1.

CHAPEL IN THE PINES - - Workmen busy themselves on the construction site of the open air chapel at Helena's Joe Tucker park. The chapel is situated on a wooded knoll overlooking the park's lake. When finished the non- denominational chapel will be available for use by anyone for religious purposes.

Helena churches plan sunrise service

Helena's three churches are planning to join together for a combined sunrise service at the town's new chapel in the Joe Tucker Park. The Baptists, Methodists, and Presbyterians will gather on Easter Sunday for the service.

According to town Clerk Frances Parrish, the service will begin with opening prayer by Baptist pastor Rev. Jerry Kline. The message will be brought by the United Methodist's Rev. Fred Holmes. Presbyterian pastor Rev. Tommy Johnson will give the benediction.

Followeing the service, the worshippers will leave the newly- completed chapel to have coffee and doughnuts at the picnic shelter near the park entrance.

The service is set for 6 a.m. on Sunday, April 14. All Helena residents are invited to attend this first public function held in the new park.

Death claims father of Jack Farmer

W. C. Farmer, father of Jack Farmer of Alabaster, died Saturday night in Druid City Hospital at Tuscaloosa.

Mr. Farmer was 84 years old. He had served with the postal service in the Duncanville area for 50 years prior to his retirement in 1959.

Funeral services were held Tuesday with burial in Tuscaloosa Memorial Park.

Mr. Farmer was interviewed on his career at the time of his retirement. He told the newspaper reporter that he had used a horse and buggy to deliver the mail on the Duncanville route from 1909 to 1923. He said he used five horses, two mules, three buggies, two carts, five Model T's, three Model A's and five V'8's carrying the mail.

Farmer recalled that he wore out 37 sets of tire chain during his postal service. He estimated that he had 47 blowouts and 423 flat tires while driving automobiles on his mail route.

The Duncanville route is a 41 mile route in Tuscaloosa and Bibb Counties. There were 465 persons on the route at the time of his retirement.

Mr. Farmer is survived by another son, W. C. Farmer, Jr.; three daughters, Mrs. Juanita Jones, Mrs. Joe Van Derver; and Mrs. Clara Alley; six grandchildren and four great grandchildren and one sister.

The family requested that in lieu of flowers, donations might be made to the Duncanville Methodist Church or to the Heart Fund.

Lucille Boaz

Funeral services were held for Mrs. Lucille Finley Boaz, 60, Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock from Bolton Brown Service Chapel. Rev. J.M. Sessions and Rev. Massey officiated.

Mrs. Boaz was a widely known barber. She had been associated with Leo Foster's City Barber Shop in Columbiana, during the past 20 years and her death came as a shock to her friends and patrons.

Mrs. Boaz was taken suddenly ill early in the eveing of March 21 and died from an apparent heart attack at one o'clock on the morning of March 22 after being admitted to Brookwood Hospital in Birmingham for treatment.

Survivors are: husband, Ellis Boaz of Columbiana; one daughter, Mrs. Don Davis (Maxine Boaz); two grand children; three sisters: Mrs. Ed Horton and Mrs. Arlin Horton both of the Kingdom Community; and Mrs. Nelda White of Tennessee; one brother Leo Finley of Birmingham.

Pallbearers were: Wallace, William, Jack, Billy and Bob Horton; Charles, Wayne and Robert Finley.

Interment in Pinelawn Gardens, Bolton Brown Service directing.

Vera Eller

Funeral services for Mrs. Vera Poole Eller, 65,o f Rt. 1, Shelby were held Saturday at Elmwood Chapel with burial in Elmwood.

Mrs. Eller was a native of Clanton. She was retired after 33 years with Loveman's Department Store.

She is survived by her husband, George Allen Eller; a son, John Wayne Eller of Birmingham; and a sister, Mrs. Lonnie Scott of Clanton.

Ella C. Lybrand

Mrs. Ella Cummings Lybrand, age 82, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Virgil Wyatt, on Sunday, March 24. She was a native of Shelby County and was practically a life-time resident of the county. She was a member of Mt. Tabor United Methodist Church.

For many years she gave a home to a number of boys and girls from the Welfare Department, who needed a home, and kept several of them until they became adults. They were loved and treated as members of her own family. Even after she was bed-ridden, she was constantly busy making lovely and useful handmade gifts for her friends and family. She always had a place in her heart and home for the needy.

She was the daughter of the late James Pasqual Cummings and the late Mrs. Ida Kilgore Cummings, who recently died after celebrating her 100th birthday.

Her survivors include one son, Hoyt Lybrand and one daughter, Mrs. Virgil Wyatt, both of Westover; five grandchildren and three great-grand children; one brother, Claude Cummings and one sister, Mrs. Ollie Ryan, both of Leeds, and a number of nieces and nephews.

Funeral services were held at Mt. Tabor Methodist Church in Westover on March 26; conducted by Rev. J.D. Denny assisted by Rev. C.C. Sheets, Rev. L.S. Ritchie and Rev. D.C. Wills.

Honorary pallbearers were Clyde Taylor, Ray Moore, Russell Moore, Carl Dean Moore, Tag Elliott and T.R. Moore.

Burial was in the adjoining cemetery.

Adron Shaw

Funeral services were conducted March 17 at 3 p.m. from Union Methodist Church for Adron C. Shaw, 60, who died March 15 in Shelby Memorial.

Mr. Shaw was a resident of Mountain View Apartments.

Survivors are: wife - Onzelle Shaw, two sons, Richard Shaw of Georgia; and Jerry Shaw of Alabaster. One brother, Melvin Shaw of Columbiana and one grandchild.

Two-year-old drowns in lake

Greg Nichols, age 2, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mickey Nichols of Chelsea Community is reported to have drowned in Ferguson Lake Tuesday morning.

His body was taken to Shelby Memorial Hospital but was dead on arrival. Details of how the accident happened are not available as we go to press.

Railway offers support

by Willard Harrison

The Shelby County Historical Society is receiving support from a number of groups, businesses, and society members. As it begins a number of projects, the group is making progress on a number of fronts. The "save the courthouse" project in particular seems to be making headway.

The courthouse project is not actually meeting any real opposition from the Columbiana city government, despite reports to that effect in Birmingham papers. While the city did plan to tear down the building originally, there was apparently no better alternative. While there is no official word from the council, it appears that the city would be glad for someone to take the building and restore it.

Negotiations between the historical society and Columbiana will be channeled through committee chairman Elsie Archer Jones, appointed at the society's Sunday meeting. It was reported at the meeting that the courthouse - city hall is now eligible for the National Register of Historic Places. Whether it is so listed depends upon action at the federal level now. State representative Tom Stubbs stated that he plans to introduce legislation for the state to purchase the building if it makes the National Register, thus arranging for the state to pay much of the funds needed for restoration.

Southern Railway also offered its support to the courthouse project and the historical society through its representative, W.L.D. Johnston, who was present at the meeting. Johnston added that Southern will also offer help by opening its historical files to the society and lending its political strength when needed. He pointed out that the railroads have played an important part in the history of the county, and that Southern is quite interested in the work of the historical society. He also called for similar support from the other railroads, the power company, and other older industries in the county.

Other groups are also contributing their part for the society. Columbiana's Boy Scouts, under the leadership of Bob Hume, are undertaking the project of copying the names and dates from the tombstones in the Columbiana Cemetery. John Ellis of Indian Springs School is leading a group of his pupils in compiling a book of old skills and folklore of Shelby County. He and his students plan to compile the book and sell it in the next few months.

The historical society is also planning to work closely with the Tallacoosa Lakes Association to publish a pamphlet with Shelby County facts. Lakes association member Claude Smith is working with society president Kenneth Penhale, and probate judge Conrad Fowler plans to approach the county commission asking them to fund the project.

The society also learned of plans to rebuild the old grist mill in Montevallo. Everett Taff, owner of the land, told the group that he has been approached by a backer who wants to supply the money for such a project, but that a deal has not been agreed upon.

Several new committees were formed at the Sunday meeting. One group will be responsible for compiling a history of county towns, so that all town histories can be combined to work on history of the county as a whole. The courthouse committee and cemetary survey group also signed up a number of volunteers. Plans are currently underway to begin a monthly newsletter for historical society members, who now number around four hundred according to estimates by secretary Linda Hinds Conn.

Building permits show increase

Building permits showed an increase for the month of February over January, 1974 it was announced today by Ed Lacey, President of the Birmingham Association of Home Builders. 207 permits valued at $5,129,491 were issued in February, up 54 permits from the previous month for a year-to-date total of 360 permits valued at $8,568,062.

Multi-family permits were down slightly with 10 permits covering 174 units valued at $1,403,460, for a year-to-date total of 43 permits covering 497 units valued at $4,304,676.

"With the down trend in the mortgage interest rate", Lacey continued, "home building is on the upswing and 1974 should be a fine year for housing."

Conserve in laundry

by American Gas Assoc.

Few appliances perform as often as gas water heaters. The right one will give you all the hot water you want, when you want it, so be sure the size of your water heater fits the size of your family. To achieve maximum economy and efficiency, the water heater should be located as close as possible to hot water outlets. If this is impossible, be sure your pipes are well- insulated to avoid the escape of heat.

Your laundry room is an important place for taking further conservation steps. Whenever possible, wash and dry full loads of clothing. Avoid wasting hot water while laundering by using the water level control on your washer. One load requires 18-30 gallons of water. If the fabrics do not require hot water, use the cool or warm water setting.

Clothes dry faster with complete circulation of air, so clean the lint filter before each load is dried. Avoid over-drying clothes ... it not only wastes energy but may cause some fabrics to shrink or become overly wrinkled.

If you wash dishes by hand, use a dishpan or sink stopper instead of washing single plates, cups, knives, etc., under continually running water. If you have a dishwasher, be sure it is full before operating it. A small load uses as much hot water as a full load (about 12 gallons per cycle).

And, stop that drip ... repair leaky faucets. A leak of one drop per second adds up to 650 gallons per year.

Every flaw you find and correct in your household planning will help the energy conservation cause and your household budget. That makes good sense!

Because of you... today a man is on a dusty road leading south from Rawalpindi...

reporting, analyzing, probing — to send you an eye-witness story. Other Christian Science Monitor reporters are gathering facts for you in Moscow, Nairobi, Beirut, London, Tokyo, San Francisco, and Washington.

Because you need to understand what's happening in order to change what's wrong and to support what's right.

The Christian Science Monitor gives you the facts, and reports how problems are being solved. It keeps you informed but not depressed — the Monitor has a uniquely hopeful outlook.

News, commentary, art, entertainment, fashion, sports, business, family: a lively daily newspaper (Monday – Friday) with something for everyone. For 13¢ a day — less than two postage stamps.

SAME OUTSIDE - - but new insides. Wilton's jail and town hall is being totally remodeled, with a courtroom and council chamber in the upper floor and the clerk's office downstairs. The building, built during the depression, is receiving its first remodeling, as Wilton citizens gear up to meet their needs for the 1970's.

"CAN I HELP YOU?" - - Wilton chief of police J.O. Page shows off the new counter in the ground floor of the town hall. He has been working for several months on the rebuilding of the two-room structure, updating the town hall from top to bottom. The project should be finished sometime in the summer, according to Chief Page. (Photos by Willard Harrison) move, the council is financing the project with revenue sharing funds, with work done by volunteers.

Chief Page has been working steadily on the project in the free time when he isn't patrolling the town. He told the Reporter that he had been doing much of the work in the past few months, with help from Glawson and others. Several more months of work are needed before the building is completely finished, explained Page.

Quite a bit of progress is visible in the town hall. All signs of the jail are gone upstairs, except for the bars on the windows, which Page said would be almost impossible to remove. The barred windows will now surround the new town council and court room. A judge's bench is finished in the room, and a table will be installed for council meetings and for use in court sessions.

The first floor will be used by town clerk Louise Reeder. A new counter has been built, and the room is completely paneled. New furniture is planned for the room, and drapes and carpet will be put in later on. A rest room has also been added.

The building, built in 1934 by the CWA, is scheduled to be unveiled in an open house sometime this summer, according to chief Page. He added that at present the town is jailing prisoners in the Montevallo and county jails.

Chelsea club to build park

Officials of Chelsea Youth Club announced this week that they have just purchased ten acres, located on Hwy. 47, for the purpose of building a park to be used for little league, peewee football, and other sports.

Club members said that it will take a lot of work as well as money to develop this land into a park but they are making efforts to overcome any obstacles. Fund raising efforts have been slowed down for the past two months by the gas shortage and rain but have now begun again full blast.

Requests for donations are being made to club members, individuals, and businesses. Anyone who would like to make a contribution of money or spare time, may contact Mrs. Margaret O'Shields at 678-9601 or P.O. Box 38, Chelsea, Al. 35043.

New speed limit now in effect

State Public Safety Director, Colonel E.C. Dothard, says that Alabama's new 55 miles per hour speed limit is now in effect.

The speed was lowered in compliance with a Federal mandate signed into law by Congress on January 2, but enforcement was withheld until all the new speed signs could be installed.

Colonel Dothard said that all the signs have been posted and that Troopers are now enforcing the new speed limit on all highways in Alabama for all vehicles, day and night, unless otherwise posted. He pointed out that the reduced speed law was necessary in order to comply with Federal regulations, so that the State would not lose Federal highway funds.

Our records show that already this year, the suggested lower speed has resulted in a reduction of 16 deaths, 249 injuries, and 1,078 traffic accidents, compared to the same period last year, and we feel a mandatory lowered speed will result in an even greater reduction of accidents, injuries, and deaths, as well as a substantial savings in fuel consumption.

Colonel Dothard said, "We do not plan mass arrests with the new speed limit, but will enforce it in a fair and impartial manner, as we have always done on our traffic laws, and", he continued, "I am urging all highway users to voluntarily comply with our new speed regulations."

On the lighter side

If the cost of living goes up any higher, taxes will be a bargain.

There are three reasons for acquiring information. Some want to know it, some want to use it, but most just want to tell it.

Up and down Main--

Your friends and mine

by Mildred White Wallace

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Resch have returned from a two weeks stay at their home in Pennsylvania. We are enjoying a beautiful Zook plaque Mrs. Resch brought us which assures us -- according to legend -- "good luck through all the days to be". Deep is our appreciation for this evidence of thoughtfulness of us during their absence from Main.

* * * *

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Strickland (Beth Fowler) are in Chicago for a two weeks visit with her parents.

* * * *

Nell Glenn has returned home after spending a two weeks vacation in sunny California. Naturally, she had a telephonic confab with Kathy Carter who has been out there for several years filling musical engagements when and if they do not conflict with her assignments with an Insurance firm

* * * *

Gay Nichols, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Nichols, appeared on the TV Split Second program last Wednesday at 11:30 from California. Gay is doing missionary work among the Koreans in Los Angeles. She won the coveted TV engagement by answering questions correctly and walked off with creditable honors on her initial TV appearance.

Naturally, Columbiana friends stopped whatever they were doing to watch this particularly popular panel on this particular date. Gay tossed off those answers in no time flat, and we were personally very proud of our little Main Street representative. Who can say what the future holds for Gay? Only Daddy Time holds the answer.

* * * *

Congratulations to Paul W. Smith who has earned membership in Mutural Benefit's President's Club. This is an honor group of Company agents whose sales records have proved to be superior. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Basil Smith of Columbiana and another SCHS graduate who is making good in his chosen career.

* * * *

It is always good to realize that many of our "native sons", after completing their collegiate courses, prefer coming back to Columbiana to make their future homes. This fact was evidenced this morning when we left our office to pick up the mail. On our way to the postoffice we met Conrad Fowler Jr., son of Judge and Mrs. C.M. Fowler, a graduate of University of Alabama Law School, currently practicing his profession with Wallace, Ellis and Fowler law firm; Tommy Harrison -- soon to finish law at U of A working with his father, attorney Karl C. Harrison in his law office; Brian Gordon a graduate of Samford University, in business with his father H.M. Gordon; George Holcombe Jr., a graduate of Jacksonville State University, in business with his father George Holcombe Sr. of Gulf Service; Jeff Falkner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Buck Falkner, also a graduate of U of A, manager of an Insurance office in Columbiana; Mike Hill, an Auburn graduate, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elvin Hill now associated with First National Bank. Rick McDow, following the harrowing experience of a POW returned home to take charge of McDow Motor Co., formerly owned by his late father, Jimmy McDow. I feel sure there are many more "returnees to Main" but we just happened to see and talk with these particular ones this morning. All state they are proud to be home and have the privilege of being a part of the spectacular growth Shelby County is now experiencing. We assure them they are truly our most prized possessions.

* * * *

Mr. and Mrs. Leon B. Wallace are spending this week in Hanceville where they are opening two new stores they have recently purchased. Mr. and Mrs. Dickert of Scottsboro were their weekend guests.

Names and description of property on which ad valorem taxes have not been paid will appear in the Reporter April 11 and continue for three weeks.

* * * *

Do you want a Kindergarten in the First Baptist Church? That is the question now under consideration and this is the week to make known your need for this facility which will materialize if there is enough interest shown.

This is the week to register your child for this service. Contact the church office for further details.

* * * *

There are quite a few young mothers who reside in Wilsonville, Harpersville and Vincent areas working in Columbiana. They tell me they are having a problem in finding competent help in keeping the wee little folk while they attend to their various assignments; so, they are combining their thoughts regarding this matter and have plans to take steps toward obtaining a Day Care Center for this area - if enough interest is manifested and if the plan proves feasible. It seems the nearest Day Nursery is miles away from the home base which makes it difficult to take advantage of it.

If enough interest is generated for such a movement and if those who are interested will contact Betty Cox, phone 672-2802 after 5 p.m. perhaps further positive steps may be taken toward finding a solution to this problem.

The last week of criminal court began Monday bringing out of town attorneys, witnesses and jurymen called to serve. It also was Food Stamp Registration day which expanded the crowds we encountered when circulating under the dome.

The Novella Club members will entertain their husbands and boy friends with a Mexican Dinner party Thursday evening. The Fiesta will be held in the Fellowship Hall of United Methodist Church.

One of the happiest people we saw last week was personable Louise Stinson who has made many friends during her stay in official circles in Columbiana. There is a good reason for this joyous outlook, and the reason she was making a circle around March 19 as a most memorable day! Two little grand- daughters were born -- one to her daughter; and one to her son. Same day -- same hospital - Baptist Medical. The young mothers are now, by their request, in same room enjoying these little bundles of joy together. We happily present to Alabaster friends and neighbors their newest citizens: Melanie Flynn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Pilgreen (Jenny Almon) born March 19 - Baptist Medical.

Alexandra Claire, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Stinson (Michele Bowers) born March 19 -- Baptist Medical.

Your single vote may decide election

by Mildred White Wallace

In urging the people of Shelby County to make a ring around May 7 and get out and vote -- some have said -- "What good would my one vote do?" Well, let's turn a few hsitoric pages and find out.

Thomas Jefferson, was elected President by one vote in the electoral college; Ditto for John Quincy Adams -- President - by one vote! His election was contested and referred to an electoral committee. He won by one vote! The man casting the deciding vote for President Hayes was a Congressman - who was elected to Congress by the margin of only one vote! A client of his was desperately ill at the time of the election. He demanded that he be carried to the polls and his one vote decided the outcome.

California, Idaho, Oregon, Texas and Washington were admitted into the United States by just one vote. That's a large slice of territory -- and today all the millions living in those states are Americans -- by just one vote!

Let's cite a more recent incident. Do you recall the Draft Act of World War II? It passed the House of Representatives by only one vote!

So, your one vote may be the deciding factor in the upcoming election. If you have registered and are eligible to vote it would be a tragedy if you failed to shoulder a responsibility you -- in reality -- should be proud to shoulder!

Twelve local colleges set exposition in April

Mr. William M. Voigt, Executive Director of Operation New Birmingham, today announced final plans for a Four County Area College Exposition to be held in Birmingham April 1, 2 and 4.

Mr. Voigt said that over a period of time twelve colleges and universities had discussed the idea of having a spring college exposition for high school students and their parents in these areas.

"The purpose of this Exposition is to bring closer to home available information regarding curricula and college costs to both students and parents. Today's spiraling cost of education has made all of us more aware of our responsibility to keep parents informed as well as supply pertinent information concerning local educational institutions and their curricula for prospective students."

Participating in the first Area- Wide College Exposition will be the University of Montevallo, University of Alabama in Birmingham, Samford University, Birmingham Southern College, Miles College, Daniel Payne College, Jefferson State Junior College, Walker Junior College, Southeastern Bible College, Lawson State Junior College, Bessemer State Technical College and St. Vincent's School of Nursing.

The Exposition will be held on April 1 at Roebuck Community Center, 8920 Roebuck Boulevard; April 2 at Vestavia Hills Library, 1973 Merryvale Road; and April 4 at Ensley Recreation Center, 2800 Avenue K.

Time scheduled for the event is 3 P.M. until 9 P.M. Also represented will be the Southeastern Regional Representative of the American College Testing Program, financial aid officers from the various institutions, and all available general information on these participating colleges and universities.

Additional information may be obtained by calling Mr. Voigt at Operation New Birmingham.

Miss Carol Jean Evans weds Mr. Robert Best

Carol Jean Evans and Robert Best were married in ceremonies at Hueytown Baptist Church, Friday March 22, in the presence of their families and friends.

Miss Evans is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.H. Best of Hueytown.

A reception was held after the ceremonies at the home of Mrs. Frank Crunk in Bessemer.

Following short wedding trip, the couple will be at home in Hueytown. Both Mr. and Mrs. Best are employed at Foodworld in Pelham.

A shower honoring the bride was given in Montevallo on Sunday, March 17. Mrs. Kenneth Eddleman was hostess for the bridal shower.

Cohostesses were Mrs. Jerry Hayes and Mrs. Linda Johnson.

Montevallo Garden Club elects new officers

The Montevallo Garden Club met on Wednesday morning, March 20, at the home of Mrs. A.C. Anderson.

Ms. Marilyn Latham, director of the Montevallo Information and Referral Center, who met with the group, explained the purpose of the Center and extended an invitation to all to work with the organization.

Officers were elected for next year. The following members were chosen to lead the activities of the club beginning in September: President - Mrs. George Towery; vice president - Mrs. A.C. Anderson; secretary - Mrs. Don Lovelady; Treasurer - Mrs. M.S. McGehee; Parliamentarian - Mrs. M. Thornton; Historian - Mrs. E.B. Barrett.

Dr. Lois Ackerley presented a thought provoking program on "Planning for Color in Shrubbery".

Columbiana Baptist sets youth 'happening'

Author Joyce Norman and Miss Lujean Howard will be featured in Columbiana First Baptist's All-Youth "Indoor Happening" to begin at 8 p.m. Saturday night.

Miss Norman, State Women's Editor of the Birmingham News, has authored a book titled Personal Assignment and soon to be released How to Hug a Sandwich.

A former high school English teacher, Miss Norman accepted Jesus Christ in 1968 and since then has inspired audiences around the country with her conversion story. In her spare time, she enjoys flying, photography and traveling.

During the coming year, she will appear on TV's To Tell the Truth and will be a guest of Barbara Walters on NBC's Today Show.

Miss Lujean Howard, music assistant at First Baptist Church, Huntsville, will be featured in the evening's mini concert directed by Tom Stoker.

All young people in Shelby County are invited to be present.

Blackout stops work following mid-week storm

by Mildred White Wallace

March 21 - was not a holiday by official proclamation, but Ready Kilowatt just about made it so in this area as a heavy rain, lightening and hail storm knocked down trees, over turned mobile homes and caused breaks in wires preventing any lights to shine or any mechanically operated machine to function. Since practically all types of work depends on seeing where we are going - Ready Kilowatt is an essential. Thursday, as a result of the storm he took a day off and practically paralyzed all business activity.

On this particular occasion there were -- no lights -- no radio - no TV - no electrically perked coffee - no hot water - no way to see how to open the P.O. box and procure the morning mail. Many business houses remained open but there were no lights; and electrically operated typewriters, cash registers and cafe equipment were silenced -- which made it difficult to complete a day's work. The lesson we were supposed to learn by this frustrating experience might be to start counting our blessings and stop taking them for granted, and whats more about the subject we are discussing this morning -- is to realize what a V.I.P. Mr. Ready Kilowatt really is! We know of no other fellow in this town who could close up offices, send grocerymen to Birmingham for dry ice to preserve their produce and virtually stop all mechanically operated industries in this area. But thats what Ready Kilowatt did last Thursday, March 21.

MR. AND MRS. FRANK HUSTON DOUGLAS JR.
. . . formerly Susie Denise Pitts

Mr. & Mrs. Douglas wed in Siluria

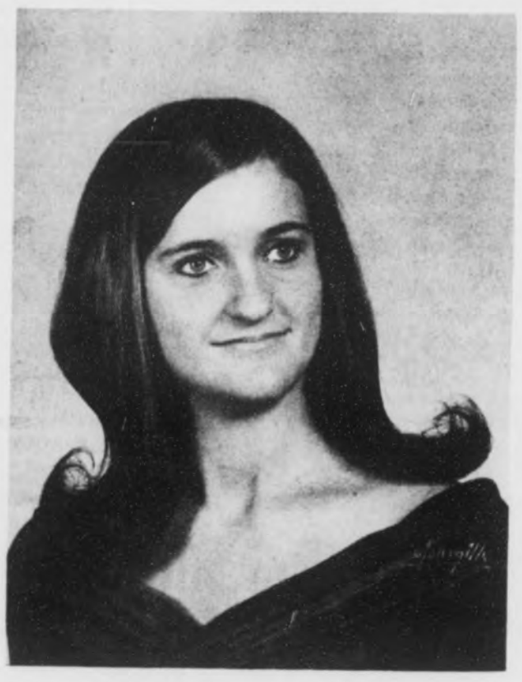
The marriage of Susie Denise Pitts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E.L. Stanley of Siluria; and Frank Huston Douglas Jr., son of the late Frank Huston Douglas and Mrs. Barbara Douglas of Keystone was solemnized at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Robert Bailey of Siluria on March 24.

The bride's grandparents are: the late Mr. and Mrs. Jim Spain.

For her wedding the bride chose a blue crepe dress and carried an arrangement of blue and white carnations with long velvet streamers. Little Sherry Tina Smith served as flower girl.

A reception followed the wedding.

Calera Garden Club welcomes spring season



by Mrs. B.D. Holcombe

The March meeting of the Calera Garden Club was held at the home of Mrs. J. Frank Baker with Mrs. V.B. Hanson serving as co-hostess.

Attending were thirteen members and following guests - Mrs. Fredrick, Mrs. Ward, Mrs. L.W. Lawler Jr., Mrs. McMillian and daughter Angelia.

The colorful array of spring flowers on display, grown and arranged by different members, portrayed a picture of the coming of spring and the enthusiasm of the gardeners.

Mrs. L.W. Lawler Jr. assisted by Mrs. J.D. Freeman gave the program which was a review of their trip to the Bahamas. The beautiful slides along with the pictures they had made and the history gleaned of the area while there, made one feel they had really visited the Bahamas.

CHERYL DENISE LAWSON

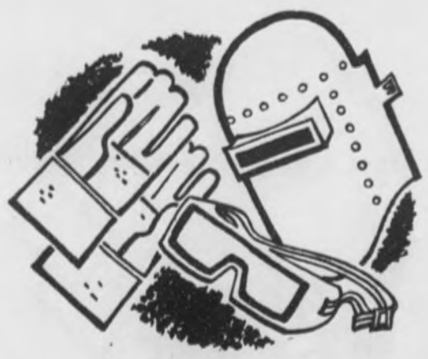
Lawsons announce daughter's troth

Mr. and Mrs. Guy O. Lawson of Alabaster announce the engagement of their daughter Cheryl Denise to Rickey Wayne Channell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Channell also of Alabaster.

Grandparents of the bride elect are the late Mr. and Mrs. James Lawson, and Frank INgram and the late Mrs. Mary Ingram.

Grandparents of the prospective bridegroom are: the late Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Waldrop and Mr. and Mrs. H.T. Channell of Cardova.

Miss Lawson is an employee of Employers Insurance Co. at Hoover; and Mr. Waldrop is employed by the Texas Instrument Co. in Texas.



The wedding is planned for April 20 and will be solemnized at seven thirty in First Baptist Church of Alabaster.

Save Easter eggs for tasty recipes

With Easter drawing near, homemakers are faced with the double task of making beautiful eggs to adorn the children's baskets, and then using those Easter eggs in imaginative recipes so they won't be wasted.

That's where a few hints on cooking, coloring, storing and eating Easter eggs come in . . . to make this job a little easier and more creative.

"Turkey and Egg Strata" and "Pennsylvania Dutch Style Pickled Eggs" provide two ways of using Easter eggs in an attractive, tasty and nutritious way. In addition, the recipes below will help to keep the family food budget in line while making happy after- Easter meals.

Turkey and Egg Strata

6 slices day-old white bread butter
2 cups diced cooked turkey
3 hard-cooked eggs, diced
1/2 cup chopped onion
1/2 cup chopped green pepper
1/2 cup chopped celery
1/2 cup mayonnaise
3/4 teaspoon salt
dash pepper
2 eggs, beaten
1-1/2 cups milk
1 can cream of mushroom soup
1/2 cup grated sharp cheese

Butter 2 slices of bread; cut into 1/2" cubes. Cut remaining bread into 1" cubes. Place 1/2 the buttered cubes in an 8"x2" (optional) baking dish. Combine turkey, vegetables, hard- cooked eggs, mayonnaise and seasonings. Spoon over bread cubes. Sprinkle the unbuttered cubes over turkey mixture. Combine beaten eggs and milk, pour over all. Cover and chill for one hour or overnight. Spoon soup over top; sprinkle with remaining buttered cubes. Bake at 325 degrees F. for 50 minutes. Sprinkle cheese over top during last ten minutes of baking. Makes 6 servings. (Chicken may be substituted for turkey.)

Pennsylvania Dutch Style Pickled Eggs

Place whole, peeled, hard-cooked eggs in a glass jar. Cover with mixture of equal parts beet juice and vinegar. Add a little chopped onion and a few whole cloves. Cover the container and hodl under refrigeration three to four days before serving.

Tips on Hard-Cooking Eggs

Cover the eggs in a pan with enough water to come at least one inch above the eggs. Bring rapidly to boiling. Turn off heat, and if necessary set the pan off the unit to prevent further boiling. Cover and let stand in the hot water for 15 minutes. Cool immediately and thoroughly in cold water . . . this makes the shells easier to remove and helps prevent dark surfaces on the yolks.

Tips on Coloring Eggs

Clean eggs in cold tap water only. Boil in enamel, glass or stainless steel pan. Drop dye tablet directly into vinegar, add cold tap water after tablet has stopped fizzing. Skim off any foam with paper towel. Spoon color over egg with plastic spoon while turning eggs. If first egg has uneven color, add a tablespoon of vinegar to dye bath.

Tips on Storing Eggs

To store eggs best, make sure the shells are not cracked or dirty. Keep hard- cooked eggs in the shell; this way, you can store them under refrigeration up to four days. Even if eggs have been at room temperature for two hours or less, they may still be regrigerated without damage for the same amount of time.

County 4-H girls compete in speaking contest

Competition for best 4-H public speakers of Shelby County was held recently at the columbiana Library meeting room.

Girls were asked to speak on their chosen topic for three to five minutes.

In the senior dividion, Ann McEwen of Columbiana was first, and Cindy Morgan of Calera was second.

In the junior division Regina Benson of Shelby Elementary came in first. Gina Davis of Vincent was second, Lisa Williams, of Wilsonville Elementary was third.

The elementary division saw Donna Dorough of Chelsea win first; Kelli Ellis of Columbiana, second; and Debbie Holcombe of Chelsea came in third.

Ann McEwen and Donna Dorough will represent the county in the district 4-H awards program to be held in July in Birmingham.

Those large white "X" marks that appear on hillsides all over the county are serving as guides for the aerial survey the tax reappraisal experts are conducting.

After finishing the aerial work, county officials expect members of the Kirby C. Smith firm and the Jacobs Company to use them with written tax records to complete an up-to-date tax map of the entire county.

The work is expected to continue for a considerable length of time.

PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS, in order to better control the spread of rabies and to determine which dogs in the City of Alabaster and police jurisdiction thereof are stray, homeless or wild dogs, and,

WHEREAS, in Ordinance No. 87 of the City of Alabaster, Section 4, I deem it necessary to safeguard the public from the dangers of hydrophobia:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Harold Davenport, Mayor of the City of Alabaster, Alabama do hereby Proclaim that April 15-26, 1974 to be "DOG DETENTION PERIOD", in the City of Alabaster and the police jurisdiction, thereof. During the "detention period" every person owning or keeping a dog shall confine it securely on his premises, and any dog found running at large shall be seized and impounded, unless noticeable infected by rabies. All dogs so noticeably infected with rabies and displaying vicious propensities shall be killed by the Police Chief without notice to the owner. Dogs impounded during the period of such proclamation, if claimed within six days, may be released to the owner unless infected with rabies, upon payment of the impounding charges provided for in Section 10 and meeting the other requirement of Section 10. If unclaimed that period, such dog may summarily destroyed.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Seal of the City of Alabaster to be affixed.

Kinnebrew and Company, a corporation, or D.D. Kinnebrew and Company, a partnership, whose partners are unknown; and all persons and the heirs or devisees of such persons, if deceased, and all such associations, partnerships, corporations or other entities who unknown to the plaintiff claim or are reputed to claim any title to or interest in, or lien or encumbrance upon, the land made the subject matter of this action or any part thereof and against all other persons and against said lands for the purpose of establishing the title of said lands in the Anniston Production Credit Association of Anniston, Alabama, an Association, and to clear up all doubts and disputes concerning the same and that said suit is now pending in said Court.

Plaintiff alleges in said complaint that the title to said lands stands in the name of the plaintiff on the records in the office of the Judge of Probate of Shelby County, Alabama, and said complaint further alleges that plaintiff claims title to said lands by virtue of a deed from M. Louise Palmer, unmarried, to Buddy DeShazo and Willia Mae DeShazo dated Marvh 15, 1963, and which was recorded in Deed Book 224 page 641 in the Probate Office of Shelby County, Alabama. At said time, Buddy DeShazo and Willie Mae DeShazo executed a mortgage back to M. Louise Palmer, as shown by Mortgage Book 281 page 709 in said Probate Office. Default was made in the payment of said mortgage and the same was foreclosed by The First National Bank of Birmingham as Trustee under the Will of Mamie Louise Palmer, deceased, and bid in by said Bank as Trustee as shown by foreclosure deed dated August 4, 1972, recorded in Deed Book 275 page 603 in said Probate Office. The said DeShazos had also mortgaged said land to the Anniston Production Credit Association on September 11, 1968, as shown by Mortgage Book 309 page 635 in said Probate Office and default having been made in the payment of this mortgage, the Anniston Production Credit Association foreclosed the same as shown by foreclosure deed dated June 7, 1972, recorded in Deed Book 274 page 635 in said Probate Office. Anniston Production Credit Association then purchased the interest of The First National Bank of Birmingham, as Trustee under thw Will of Mamie Louise Palmer, deceased, on the 14th day of September, 1972, as shown in Deed Book 276 page 412 in said Probate Office. That during the time of plaintiff's ownership it has been in actual peaceable, adverse possession of said lands, caliming to own the same and during the time and that of its predecessors in title mentioned

At P.E. convention--

UM prof represents South

Dr. Miriam Collins, a professor of health, physical education and recreation at the University of Montevallo, will represent the thirteen Southern states during the annual meeting of the Board of Directors and the national convention of the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation. Both meetings are being held in Ahaheim, California this week.

"Decisions which could affect nearly every school child in the country are being deliberated this week," according to Dr. Collins.

"Our big concern this year is to extend opportunities in health and safety, physical education and dance and recreation and sports for all youngsters", Miss Collins said.

Dr. Collins, was elected to a three year term on the AAHPER board of directors in 1973. President of the national association is Dr. Willis J. Baughman of the University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa.

Dr. Collins, who has been a member of the University of Montevallo faculty for 21 years, indicated that the 7,000 members of the association who are attending this year's meeting, "will be dealing with the final touches of a reorganization of the association to better accomplish health and fitness programs for all children, the gifted and the handicapped as well as the so-called normal child."

Dr. Collins is a past president of the Alabama State Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation. She holds degrees from Georgia State College for women, the University of Tennessee and the University of Alabama.

Business and personal donations may be made by contacting Pi Kappa Phi Fraternity at 665-4015.

HANDMADE CRIB FOR GRANDDAUGHTER - - E. B. Turner of Columbiana holds his 19 month old granddaughter, Bess Kathleen Turner, and shows her the crib he made for her by hand. Bess and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Turner, Jr. came up from Brewton last week to visit and were happily surprised by the oak crib lovingly made by hand. Mr. Turner, Sr., enjoys woodworking, especially when it is for such a lovely young lady. (Photo by Rick Moore)

BAND CONTESTANTS - - Shelby County High School will be represented at the district FFA contest elimination by their string band. Winning the county competition were (l to r) Kevin Atkins, Melinda Hollis, Mike Blankenship, Larry Smith, and Rick Blankenship. They will compete with bands from eight other counties in the competition on April 13 at the high school in Columbiana.

Unmatched entertainment planned in Tuscaloosa

Attending Tuscaloosa's fourth annual Heritage Week, scheduled this year for April 28- May 5, will be like taking a nostalgic trip into a bygone era.

Unlike most other such events, Tuscaloosa's Heritage Week offers visitors an array of entertainment unmatched in the south. Included in the program will be a Sunday Afternoon in the Park extravaganza, a Heritage Hunter - Jumper Horse Show, an Antique Show and Sale, a Forum of nationally- known speakers, and a tour of Antebellum and Contemporary Homes.

Heritage Week activities get underway April 28 with a kickoff parade and a program in historic Capitol Park. Featured attractions in the park will be glass blowers, wood burners, charcoal sketchers and jewelry makers - - all demonstrating their skills for passers by.

Home tours begin April 30 and extend through May 4.

Such tours are designed to give visitors a glimpse in some of Tuscaloosa's most elegant home. One of the featured structures on the tour is the Greek- Revival President's Mansion at the University of Alabama.

Another will be an early Georgia house built in the 1820's and still another will be the Old Tavern, an 1827 stagecoach inn located on the site of one of the first capitol buildings in Alabama.

Headquarters for the "Tour of Homes" will be the historical University Club.

The University Club was built in 1838 and was given to the University in 1944 by Mr. and Mrs. H.D. Warner.

The Hunter-Jumper Horse Show is set for May 3-5 at the North River Hunt Club.

The event will draw exhibitors from throughout the United States.

Horse show visitors are also invited to tour "North River Restorations", a 19th century mini-community near the Hunt Club.

The 18th century Antique Show and Sale begins April 28th and lasts through May 4th.

The show will feature exhibits by dealers from throughout the country.

Nationally prominent speakers will be on hand for the "Heritage Forum" scheduled for April 30-May 2.

Speakers will be William Blair, Ms Christine Heineman, and Ms Catherine Denny.

Blair will talk on "18th Century English and Irish Furniture: The Real Versus the Fake". Ms Heineman will speak on "Flower Arranging in Antiques", and Ms Denny will talk on "Oriental Rugs."

In addition to the talks, workshops on antique refinishing will be held and a movie, entitled "Artistry in Tureens", will be shown.

For maps, brochures and other information, write the Tuscaloosa County Preservation Society at P.O. Box 1665, Tuscaloosa, Alabama 35401.

Westover families cope without electric power

by Elsie Archer Jones

From a hasty survey of readers, I found that the fifteen hours of "no current" produced some rather interesting and diverse incidents during that period. The Beacon Sunday School Class of Mt. Signal Baptist Church held their regular monthly meeting by candlelight and felt that they had a glamorous time.

The Fred Strother family cooked and ate their meals in their camper, and ran their business, as usual, with a Coleman lantern. They could sell no gas.

Mrs. Otis Moore took the opportunity to rest in bed until time for her appointment with the doctor, but found two of the doctors out of their offices because of the current situation.

Mrs. Velma Shaw and Mrs. Lane Shaw went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Thrasher, in Birmingham, for supper and to spend the night. When Lane Shaw returned home, he couldn't find his family, but he went to some neighbors home for supper. They had a gas stove. After several telephone calls, he was able to locate his mother and wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Holcombe of Chelsea reverted to their coal heater for cooking and warmth. They were visited by their neighbor, Mrs. Dottie Elliott, for coffee.

The writer and Mrs. Eva Mae Wortham went out in their car and signed up ten more members for the Shelby County Historical Society.

Alan Hatcher celebrated his sixth birthday party at the home of his parents Mr. and Mrs. James Hatcher at 3:30 p.m. Sunday afternoon. Little Miss Alana Archer celebrated her fourth birthday the same afternoon, with a party at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Mac Archer. Stephen ARcher who attends the Vocational School in Columbiana with these children made it to both parties.

We extend our sympathy to the family of Mr. Henderson (Coosa) Reeves who died in Carraway Methodist Hospital in Birmingham last Monday, March 18, and his funeral services were held in the Baptist Church in Vandiver, with burial in the adjoining cemetery.

Visitors in the Bill Shaw home this week are their daughter, Mrs. Dale Layton, and James Dale and Shawn Layton, of Macon, Ga.

How long is a manufacturer responsible?

For how long a period of time may a manufacturer be held responsible for the safety of his product? Say a stepladder collapses. Does it matter – legally – whether it was bought 20 days ago or 20 years ago?

Of course, in a particular case, there may be specific guarantees or standards of safety that apply. But the law has developed some broad guidelines as well.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

For one thing, the manufacturer is usually not responsible merely because his product has "grown old" in the normal fashion. As one court put it, in rejecting the claim of a housewife injured by an aged washing machine:

"There is no duty upon a manufacturer to furnish a machine that will not wear out."

On the other hand, a manufacturer may still be held responsible years after selling the product, if the passage of time had nothing to do with the accident Take this case:

A bar stool, after being in use for three years, caved in under an unlucky customer. The manufacturer, sued later for damages, protested that he could not be blamed, since the stool had been "out of our hands" for such a long time.

Nevertheless, the court decided the injured customer had a legitimate claim because the accident was traceable to a faulty welding job done at the factory. The court said this was not the kind of hazard caused by usage of the product.

In one unusual case, the time lag was 13 years. The gear shift knob in an automobile had shattered when a passenger was thrown against it. There was evidence indicating that the plastic material used in the knob was subject to deterioration in sunlight. There was also evidence that the deterioration would not be apparent to the average person. The court said the jury could reasonabley conclude that the 13 year interval did not prove the knob's safety, but only that it hadn't really been tested until this particular accident.

Syphoning gas can prove to be fatal

Using your mouth when syphoning gasoline is extremely dangerous and can be fatal, the Medical Association of the State of Alabama warns.

Gasoline is a poison which acts as an irritant in the digestive tract. In the lungs, however, it is most often fatal.

Relatively small amounts of gasoline in the stomach will cause pain and discomfort, irritate the digestive tract and can cause ulceration and other complications. However, should a person who has swallowed even a small quantity of gasoline vomit, there is extreme danger of some of the gasoline entering the lungs.

Even one or two drops of gasoline in the lungs can be fatal. The gasoline causes chemical pneumonitis, a condition causing permanent damage to the lungs and frequently leading to death.

At least one death has already occurred as the result of a person using his mouth to syphon gas. With today's gasoline shortages there is the dangerous potential for more of these deaths.

If you do swallow gasoline or discover someone who has, do not induce vomiting. Keep the person calm and get them to medical care as fast as possible. But remember-do not induce vomiting. Gasoline is a pain in the stomach, but a killer in the lungs.

Coaches comment on practice

The 1974 high school football season is yet six months away, but already anticipations on the fall games are running high. This week marked the real beginning of the spring football practice for the county high schools as coaches and potential players try to put together the various teams.

A new item this year will add extra spice to the spring practice period. A county-wide football jamboree will be held on Friday April 5, at the Calera stadium. This will give football fans a first glimpse of the teams and players for the 1974 season.

At the jamboree, Shelby County will be paired with Thompson. Montevallo will play Vincent, and Chelsea takes on Calera.

Also a junior high football jamboree will be played at Calera stadium earlier in the week on April 2.

This week we contacted the football coaches of the various high schools in Shelby County and asked them for a progress report on the spring training programs as well as expectations for next fall.

Coach Ralph Bell's Shelby County High School Wildcats may well have the potential for being the strongest county team come September. To use Bell's phrase, if there is ever going to be a year for a Wildcat football machine, this will be it.

The Shelby County High football squad boasts 50 players -- 23 of them seniors. Eighteen of them are returning lettermen. Bell says that he has the best group of running backs, that he has ever coached. Bell added that he is developing replacements for the quarterback and center positions after having lost last year's starters to graduation.

Bell went on to say that the optimism about a winning team next year is being felt and shown by his players. He said that this enthusiasm has resulted in improvement of the team in practice until last Wednesday.

"We had a bad day Wednesday and had a skull practice in the gym Thursday because of the weather," Bell told the Reporter Friday.

Larry Simmons, head coach at Thompson High School said that he is losing 20 seniors from last year's play-off rated team.

"We're not going to cry about it," Simmons declared. "We've got nine games next year. They're (opponents) are not going to back off. We are just going to take them one at a time."

Simmons continued that he has some real good young athletes on this year's squad. Much of the young ability comes from good B team and ninth grade teams last year.

The Thompson team had been working out with pads for six days when we talked to Simons last Friday. He said that he was impressed with the hitting and enthusiasm, but most of the practice time up to that point was occupied with teaching fundamentals.

Ninety players came out for the team on the first day Simmons said, but now the number has dropped to 65. The task for the Warriors will be building a new offense and defense. This situation will be eased somewhat by four returning offensive linemen.

Perhaps one of the most improved teams in the county next year will be the Vincent Yellowjackets. Feared by opponents to be a revived powerhouse, the Vincent squad is having a good spring practice.

Yellowjacket coach Gary Garrett reports that he has 55 high school players out for practice and about that many junior high candidates. Garrett said Friday that the Vincent squad had been hitting for about a week and he felt like the team was coming along.

WATTS REBOUNDS - - Thompson High School coach Herman Watts grabs a rebound away from Vincent High School's coach Owen Butts (14) in the county coaches benefit game played last week. The event, sponsored by the Shelby County coaches raised money for the American Cancer Society.

East team wins charity benefit

The east side prevailed over the west side in the Shelby County Coaches Basketball game played last Thursday night, by winning 49-47.

Coaches from Calera, Montevallo and Thompson formed the west team while those from Shelby County, Vincent, Chelsea and Indian Springs played on the east team.

The benefit game to raise money for the American Cancer society netted nearly five hundred dollars according to Tommy Snowden, county campaign manager for the cancer drive.

Leading the scoring for the east team was former University of Montevallo player and Vincent High school coach Owen Butts by scoring 26 points.

Thompson coaches Herman Watts and Eddie Glasscock led the scoring 16 points each. Calera coach Rick Cairns followed with nine points.

The roster for the east side included coaches Woodward, Garrett, Reed, Martin, Butts, Elliott, Barnes, Gleasin and Vincent.

Playing for the west side were coaches Fleming, Gilliam, Cairns, Simmons, Glasscock, Lolley, Watts, Alverson, Spivey and Castanzo.

Running the scoreboard were coaches Ralph Bell of Shelby County and Fred Cameron of Indian Springs.

RECEIVE HONORS - - These members of the Thompson High School football and basketball team were honored at the Warrior athletic banquet last Saturday night. They are left to right Donnie Henry football captain and most improved player; James Tanniehill, most valuable back most valuable player; and basketball captain; Mike Oden, most valuable basketball player, first team all state; Randall Channell, football captain, most valuable lineman; and Don Collins, Warrior spirit award.

Thompson High honors athletes

Thompson High School held its Warrior Athletic banquet last Saturday night at the school cafeteria. The event honored the participants in Thompson's athletic program over the past year.

Instead of a speaker, films of various Warrior basketball and football games were shown to the banquet guests.

Player Mike Oden was the most recognized of the Thompson basketball team earning the honors of most valuable player on the team, most valuable player in the Shelby County tournament and named to the all county, all area and the first all state teams.

Steve Luker and James Tanniehill were also named to the all county basketball team.

James Tanniehill was recognized for being the captain of the basektball team.

Alabaster mayor Harold Davenport presented a placque to the coaches on behalf of himself and the city council in appreciation of Thompson's athletic program.

The 1973 Thompson football team finished the season with a 9-1 record and won a berth in the state play-offs. Receiving team awards were captains - Randell Channell and Donnie Henry, scholastic trophy - Bill Murphy, defensive trophy - Randell Channell, Warrior Spirit award - Don Collins,

Most improved player - Donny Henry, most valuable back and most valuable player - James Tanniehill and most valuable lineman - Randell Channell.

Coaches comment

Garrett said that one of his chief objectives this spring was finding a fullback, quarterback, guards and tackles. He says that he has already found the guards and tackles and several young prospects for the other positions who are looking good. He added that he had some more injured players that he expects to make a good showing when they recover.

Another priority will be training a new secondary.

Garrett declared that he has a better team this spring than he had last year. "People are after jobs," he explained. "Last year we appointed positions. There are some real battles going on."

Named as stalwarts during spring training are nine returning Vincent letterman: James Riggins, Daniel Yowe, John Lawson, Anthony McGuinn, Charles Honea, Tom Shaw, Terry Kincaid, Sonny Colson and Barry Brasher.

The Calera Eagles should also have another winning year. Coach Rick Cairns said he had 25 players including returning seniors Tommy Lucas, Frank Nix, Obie Huntley, Dale Palmer and Tony Baker.

Cairns said that the team is a long way from being as good as last year's, but he has some new boys who show a lot of potential. The new players are working on techniques since ten have never played before he said.

The Calera mentor says that he believes his team will have a faster break-away type offense than the Eagles had last year. He says his players have the best attitude and are the most aggressive bunch he has ever had.

Montevallo High school's young football team finished last year's season on the upswing after losing eight straight games by spoiling West Blocton's homecoming 16-13 and then downing Maplesville 36-30.

This same enthusiasm seems to have carried over into spring practice.

"We got off to a late start after AEA because of the state (basketball) tournament," said Montevallo head football coach Richard Gilliam. The MHS coach said that he has a lot of real good young athletes this time who are learning their assignments fast. However, Gilliam said Friday that he was not satisfied with the hitting.

Montevallo High began the spring practice with 59. The number has now been cut to 47 students from the eigth grade up. Of these 22 are in high school and 25 are in junior high.

Gilliam said that the majority of his starters will be sophomores and juniors. He expects three or maybe four senior starters. Gilliam also expressed the possibility of having two freshmen starters.

The Chelsea Hornets will be losing 14 senior starters from the team after sweeping a perfect 10-0 regular season in 1973.

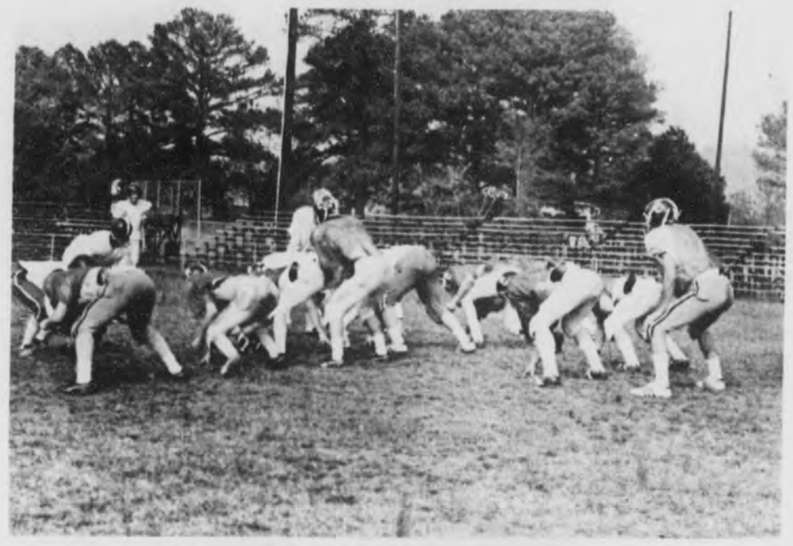
Chelsea coach Richard Conkle reports that he has a lot of young boys out for spring practice, but only three or four seniors. He continued that Chelsea will have only one halfback and one guard starter returning from last year's team.

"We'll have to start all over again," Conkle remarked.

However, being optimistic Conkle said that he has 42 players out, which is the most he has ever had.

DOWN, SET, HIKE! -- This was a familiar scene at area high schools last week as spring football practice gets underway (right).

UM hosts Special Olympics



The UM field will be the site of one of 13 district special olympic games for retarded children in the state of Alabama. District games played at Montevallo will be held on April 12.

This year's district games will involve 12,000 mentally retarded children in Alabama. The games will be hosted by major colleges and universities in the 13 district game sites.

Research has shown that physical activities, sports, and competitive athletics are a major means of reaching the retarded. Here is an area where he can succeed and start building a positive self-image gaining confidence and self mastery as well as physical development. As a child improves his performance in the gymnasium and on the playing field, he also improves his performance in the calssroom and at home.

Competing in the Montevallo district games will be retarded children from Shelby, Bibb, Chilton, Coosa, and St. Clair counties.

The coordinator of the Montevallo games is Dr. Ward Tichler of the Health, Physical Education and REcreation department of University of Montevallo.

TWO POINTS FOR THE EAST - - Owen Butts (14) of the east coaches team scores two points in the cancer benefit game last Thursday. Other coaches in picture are Rick Carins (55), Herman Watts (25), and Eddie Glasscock(13).

Topography may limit use

by R.E. Kelley
Soil Conservation Service

If you have walked over any parcel of land in Shelby County, you have probably seen many things that limit land use without realizing it.

Thousands of acres are changing hands every couple of years. Much of it is going into sub-divisions and residential development. There are certain natural characteristics that everyone should be aware of in order to decide what to buy in relation to the intended use.

First, will the topography lend itself to intensive development? If the slope is greater than 15 percent you need to figure on extra cost in controlling erosion, and in most cases grading and shaping.

Next, look at the soil itself; is it sandy, is it a heavy clay, is there a lot of rock in it, or is it layers of shale with only a small amount of soil?

All of these conditions exist in Shelby County, and they will all limit or increase cost of construction. Another major limiting factor has to do with wetness and flooding along natural depressions and creeks.

The county also has some of the best soils for construction and building sites. These are usually sandy loam or sandy clay loam soils. The cherty soils are usually good construction sites because they will absorb large quantities of water. Keep some of these factors in mind when you are buying or selling land.

For soils information contact the local SCS office. In Shelby County it's 669-7136.

Academies hold jamborees

Both Shelby Academy and Coosa Valley Academy hosted football jamborees last week at the end of their football spring training periods. Shelby Academy, Perry Christian and Bessemer Academy participated in the Shelby jamboree and CVA, Talladega Academy and Inglenook played in the Coosa Valley jamboree.

Playing in the first of three 12 minute quarters in the Shelby Academy jamborees last week were the SGA Raiders and Perry Christian. The Raiders won the quarter 6-0.

James Baker scored for Shelby Academy on a 25 yard run. The Raiders got inside the Perry Christian ten yard line two other times but failed to score.

Leading rushers against Perry Christian were quarterback Tim Edmonson with a 32 yard run and fullback Harold Mitchell with a 35 yard run.

Shelby Academy and Bessemer Academy then fought to a scoreless tie in the third quarter of the jamboree. In the defensive struggle, the Raiders stopped Bessemer in a goal line stand after Bessemer had penetrated to within a yard of a touchdown.

Shelby Academy coach Darrell Baygents described his team as being young and inexperienced. The team started with four ninth graders and two eighth graders.

"We showed a lot of poise and a lot of class," Baygents continued. "We're looking forward to next fall."

The Coosa Valley Academy Rebels held their spring jamboree Thursday night. In the first quarter the Rebels were paired with Inglenook. CVA came out on top by the score of 14-0. Theron Bearden scored one touchdown on a 12 yard run and Mike Clinkscales scored the second TD from four yards out. Bearden scored the two point conversion to round out the scoreing.

Talladega defeated Inglenook 16-0 in the second quarter.

The third quarter between Coosa Valley and Talladega ended in a 0-0 tie. Both teams mounted goal line stands to keep the scrimmage scoreless.

Coosa Valley coach Jim Lowrey described the Rebels spring practice as a good one despite a flu epidemic that prevented the team from practice for several days.

Lowrey said he was enthusiastic about the 1974 season and thought that the Rebels will be a good representative club.

The CVA junior high team also won in a junior jamboree game played Thursday night against Talladega by the score of 14-0. Ralph Wheeler and Ricky Keel scored touchdowns for the junior team.

PRETTY HONOREES - - Sabrina Bowling (left) and Toni McDade receive silver cups for being named outstanding cheerleaders at the Thompson athletic banquet last Saturday night. Debbie Harless was also named outstanding B-team cheerleader.

ALL SMILES - - Ten year old Randy Jordan of Pea Ridge is all smiles as he holds a string of crappie he caught while fishing on Lay Lake with his grandfather Robert Jarvis. Randy is the son of Charles Jordan.

OPENING DAY LUCK - - Jim Blair of the Spring Creek community near Calera holds at 18¼ pound gobbler he shot on the opening day of the spring turkey season last Wednesday.

Race is shortened to 450 mile run

The Winston 500 auto race at the Alabama International Motor Speedway in Talladega might well be re-named the Winston 450.

The Winston 500 race scheduled to start at 1 p.m. Sunday, May 5, has been cut 50 miles in order to comply with the Federal Energy Office's request that all liesure-time activities cut their energy consumption by 25 percent.

The winner of this year's 450 miles high speed chase could possibly win $30,000 in lap money.

"The pole position winner will get $1,000," says Don Naman, field boss of the sprawling 2.66-mile racing plant. "There also will be $8,400 in lap money. The leader of every odd lap will win $100."

Three-time Grand National champion David Pearson of Spartanburg, S.C., will be going for a third staight Winston 500 victory. The 39-year-old veteran averaged 131.956 miles per hour in the Wood Brothers Purolator Mercury last year.

Dick Brooks, 1969 Grand National Rookie of the Year, will be shooting for a second straight win at the world's fastest speedway. Pete Hamilton is the only driver to have won two straight races at Talladega. Hamilton, behind the wheel of a Petty Enterprises Plymouth, captured the Alabama and Talladega 500's in 1970.

Practice opens race week activities Wednesday, May 1. Qualifying for the pole and first 20 starting positions is set for Thursday, May 2. The remainder of the lineup will be determined in time trials Friday and Saturday, May 3 and 4.

'Pappy' Morris banquet guest

"Pappy" Morris, assistant coach at Auburn, will be guest speaker at the Shelby Academy athletic awards banquet Saturday night.

The banquet will be held at Rolling Hills, the camp of the Church of the Nazarene, north of Calera.

Boosters' Club president Billy Frank Knowles said that the banquet will begin at 7:30. Publicity chairman for the event is Jimmy Lee.

Women attend Farm Bureau meeting

Learning to motivate groups for goal achievement has a special meaning for Mrs. Claude Smith, State Farm Bureau Women's Committee Chairman, and Mrs. Douglas Kent, Shelby County Women's Representative.

They were among 100 women's representative from throughout the state attending the Women's Program Seminar, March 19-20 in Montgomery. The theme for the seminar was "you and Your Farm Bureau's Future".

A highlight on the two-day program was presented by Dr. Minnie Miles, Professor of Management and Industrial Relations at the University of Alabama in Tuscaloosa. Dr. Miles had the women participate in activities which illustrated how to motivate group action.

J. D. Hays, president of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, challenged the group to assist their husbands in working through the organization to accomplish their common goals.

UM Theatre presents 'Gamma Rays'

Playwright Paul Zindel's play, The Effect of Gamma Rays on Man-In- The-Moon Marigolds, will begin a three night run tonight at the University of Montevallo.

The play, presented by the University of Montevallo Speech and Theatre Department, will go before the footlights of Palmer Hall Theatre. Curtain time each night is 8:15.

Gamma Rays is a study of a cynical mother, Beatrice, played by Dru Minton of Warrior and her two daughters, Matilda, played by Wanda Britton of Birmingham and Ruth, played by Maggie Denison of Alabaster.

The play has been described as a study of something beautiful emerging from barren afflicted soil.

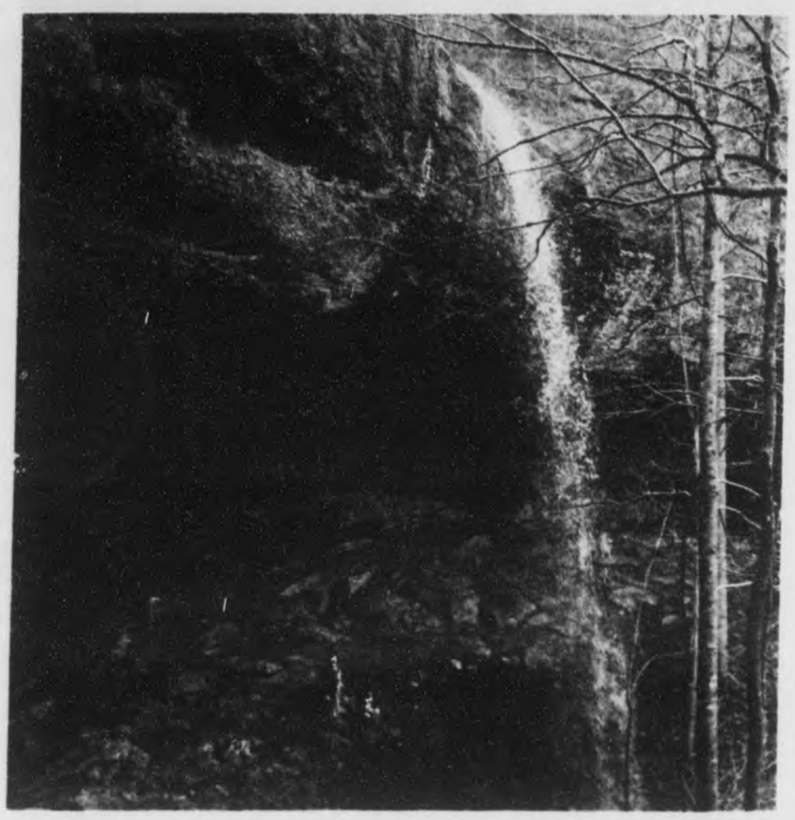
Also featured in the case are Cathy Crawford of Montevallo and Susan Noel of Fort Payne.

The Montevallo production of Gamma Rays will be directed by Philip Butler of Montgomery.

Fort Deposit schedules 'Calico Fort'

Months of hard work and planning by the Fort Deposit Arts and Activities Committee and other interested citizens will climax on April 6 and 7 as the third annual CALICO FORT Outdoor Arts and Crafts Fair gets into full swing. Around 200 exhibitors from seven states, are registered to show and sell their wares at the rustic, picturesque fair site.

Fort Deposit, a little town about 1,200 in population, got its name in the early 1800's when Andrew Jackson's troops under the command of General Claiborne established a supply fort here.



Trails to the Fort, just south of Montgomery on I-65, will be marked with calico flags. Ladies donned in calico aprons and bonnets will welcome the visitors. Food, including home-made biscuits for syrup-sopping, bar- be-que, hamburgers, hot-dogs, cakes and sweets, will be served from log cabins.

UM club sponsors blood drive

The University of Montevallo Physical Education Club in conjunction with the Shelby County Red Cross Unit will sponsor a blood drive on: Tuesday, April 2nd, 11 a.m. to ... in Napier Hall

Falling Rock offers beautiful picnic spot

When you feel the urge to take to the woods for a hike and a picnic, but you don't have the gasoline to drive many miles, Falling Rock near Dogwood is a lovely place to go.

It has waterfalls, rocks, hills and hide-outs to explore. Hiking and climbing must be done with some care, because there are dangerous precipices and sharp rocks. Don't take very young children. Wear rubber soled shoes for safe footing. You'll enjoy the great outdoors and some breathtaking views. You may see old friends and neighbors, and you will probably see college students, because it is a favorite with them.

To reach Falling Rock, drive west on county highway 22 through Dogwood. Top the hill in Dogwood. Pass one unpaved road on the right. Take the second unpaved road on the right. Bear left at the fork. Continue a short distance and there you are.

Food stamp signup draws crowds

Shelby County was one of 11 Alabama counties to be designated this week for the food stamp program by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Food and Nutrition Service (FNS).

Russell H. James, Southeast regional administrator of the Food and Nutrition Service, said that the designation is in keeping with the amendments to the Food Stamp Act of 1973 which makes a nationwide food stamp program mandatory by July 1, 1974.

Through April, Shelby County will provide food assistance for its needy people through the distribution of USDA- donated food. Each month around 3,311 people in Shelby County are given about 68,000 pounds of food.

Registration for the new food stamp program began Monday for Columbiana and Shelby residents.

Registration is held at the Community Service Bldg. from 8 to 5.

Anyone who wants to apply for food stamps under the new foods distribution program, should be at the Community Services building in Columbiana as soon after 8 a.m. as possible, according to Mrs. Nell Fulton, Director of Pensions and Securities.

The program has allowed only two interviewers and one supervisor for Shelby County. On Monday morning, when registration began for residents of Columbiana, there were 40 applicants in the office by 8:30 a.m.

Mrs. Fulton said that the interviewers cannot handle more than 40 applications per day.

Lengthy forms must be filled out by the interviewers for each person requesting food stamps.

The schedule for residents of other communities to register is:

March 28 - Kingdom
March 29 - Chelsea
April 1 - Sterrett and Westover
April 2 - Vandiver and Dunnavant
April 3 - Wilsonville and Fourmile
April 4 - Vincent
April 5 - Calcis
April 8 - Harpersville
April 9 - Harpersville
April 10 - Vincent
April 11 - Siluria
April 12 - Alabaster and Saginaw
April 15 - Alabaster and Saginaw
April 16 - Pelham and Valleydale
April 17 - Montevallo
April 18 - Montevallo and Wilton
April 19 - Helena
April 23 - Dogwood, Almont and Aldrich
April 24 - Maylene, Marvel and Pearidge
April 25 - Calera
April 26 - Calera

To qualify for food stamp benefits, households must meet certain nationwide eligibility standards that include income, resources, work registration and must have cooking facilities in order to prepare meals. Eligibility is determined according to uniform national income and resource standards (resources are such things as cash on hand, bank checking and savings accounts, stocks and bonds.) These standards apply to all households except those in which all members are getting public assistance. Certain household expenses can be deducted from income to determine costs of food stamps. According to Mrs. Fulton each applicant will need to bring the following information when applying for food stamps:

-- Names and ages of all persons who live in the home.

-- Social Security numbers for each member of the household who is 18 years of age or older.

-- Proof of all income of all those in family - latest pay slips, pay envelopes, pension award letters, (such as social security, railroad retirement, veterans administration, civil service retirement, etc.)

-- Current receipts from the office of the doctor or hospital showing the amount paid on bills each month.

-- Current rent, mortgage or house payment receipts, current receipts for gas, lights, water, telephone, garbage pickup and any other utility bills.

-- Current receipts from the drug store or health insurance office showing payments for medical supplies or health care.

Having this information ready for review will speed up the application for food stamps and will aid in determining the amount of money each person will pay for the stamps.

Mrs. Sarah B. Meadows will serve as supervisor for the food stamp program. Other employees are: Mrs. Verna C. Czeskleba, Mrs. Mary Nita Collins, Eligibility Technicians, Mrs. Myrtle Cupp, Clerk Typist I.

Zoning not dead; new election set

Another zoning election is scheduled in Beat 12 on the same day as the primary elections, May 7.

Zoning has been defeated in Beat 12 on three previous occasions, but another petition has reached the office of the Shelby County probate judge, requesting an election be held.

The required number of 25 resident landowners have signed the petition. A legal notice calling the election appears on page 10 of this issue of the Reporter.

Beat 12 is the northwest section of the county in the Cahaba Valley bounded more or less by Highway 31 and Highway 280.

These in favor of zoning generally argue that zoning will provide for a planned growth pattern whereby areas can be zoned and not allow business and industry to become scattered throughout the residential areas.

Those opposing zoning generally fear government control and regulation of their property.

Beat 12 is the area of greatest growth in the county at present. Hundreds of new homes have been built and are planned in the near future. But quarrying, mining, business and industrial interests are also seeking to expand in the valley.

Under the county regulations, if the voters were to pass favorably on the proposal, the beat would be subject to the Shelby County Planning Commission, which is composed of citizens from several parts of the county.

According to reports, some of those who voted "no" last time are disillusioned at the actions of others who have since sold their property very profitably to industrial interests, without regard to residential areas in the neighborhood.

The last election on the issue was held in January.

Green light given for Helena sewer

Helena's long-delayed sewerage system plan is finally beginning to make progress. Congressman Walter Flowers announced the awarding of a grant of $152,700 to the Town of Helena under the Federal Water Pollution Control Act.

The grant from the Environmental Protection Agency is part of a program of construction grants for wastewater treatment works. Flowers said, "This grant is a significant step in the efforts to improve the sewer system of Helena. These funds will provide seventy-five percent of the cost for planning and construction of a wastewater treatment plant."

Although an initial grant of $87,000 was awarded to Helena four years ago for construction of a sewerage system, the plan has been deadlocked. Mayor Charles Penhale told the Reporter that the town has been trying for three or four years to get permission to go ahead with the project. He said that Helena's sewerage plan has been tied up waiting to see if there is any developments on the north Shelby County sewage processing system.

Penhale stated that the town council has made trips to Montgomery trying to get permission to proceed with the project. The Water Improvement Commission would not grant such a go-ahead in hopes of further progress on either a countywide or north county sewerage system. Mayor Penhale said that with this new grant from the EPA, Helena now can work on engineering specifications for their project. He said that the Water Improvement Commission will then consider the plans and should give the town permission to seek bids on the project.

If Helena gets permission to proceed with the plans, they will also have to build the sewage treatment plant that will be used by both the town system and the future north Shelby County system. In addition a pipeline will have to be constructed to pump the processed sewage to the Cahaba River. Mayor Penhale added that when the north county system eventually gets into operation they will take over the treatment plant.

Penhale stated that the ori

'No improvement,' judge says

Warrant service hit

by Conrad M. Fowler

At a recent political rally the first question asked of a dozen candidates was "What is your source of income?" There after many questions followed that helped the voters in the audience gauge the candidates and permitted the candidates a chance to air their views on many public issues.

Most folks will agree that public issues should be aired in public so that citizens may know the arguments for and against.

With that in mind, let me again present an issue that was before you last summer; the issue of how alias warrants are handled in Shelby County.

An alias warrant is issued on the order of a Judge to rearrest a person who fails to come to court to answer for a traffic violation, hunting or fishing law violation, or some other criminal charge.

In 1971 Representative Stubbs passed Act No. 670, a local act, that provided that only Sheriff Walker or his deputies could serve alias warrants issued by Judge Payne of the Shelby County Inferior Court. The act also provided that only Sheriff Walker or his deputies could serve a search warrant issued by Judge Payne. Attorney General Bill Baxley on March 27, 1972, issued an opinion to the Administrator of the State ABC Board, the Commissioner of the State Department of Conservation, and the Director of the State Department of Public Safety to the effect that under Act No. 670 only the Sheriff of Shelby County or his deputies were authorized to serve such alias warrants and such search warrants.

The usual procedure in criminal prosecutions is that a trial judge gives the alias warrant to re-arrest an absent defendant to an officer of the law enforcement agency that first made the arrest. Where a State Trooper makes an arrest and the defendant fails to appear the Trooper gets the authority to re-arrest the defendant; or in the case of violations of hunting or fishing laws the Conservation Department officers serve the alias warrants. I believe that it is safe to say that this procedure is followed in all of the other 66 counties of Alabama.

Public attention was called to this statute, 670, last summer and to its restrictions. Several newspaper articles appeared and Mr. Stubbs ultimately agreed to change the 1971 act and remove these objectionable provisions. This change was made.

Yet, the procedure is still being followed. Judge Payne is still giving alias warrants in cases made by State Troopers and Conservation officers to Sheriff Walker. This has occasioned long delays in some cases, in other instances cases have been dismissed where the alias warrant is returned "not found". In other instances, the alias warrant is not being served.

Some important questions come to mind.

1. Is it wise to let one official have such control over who must appear and answer to a prosecution? The Sheriff already has this control over arrests

Located in Shelby County--

Ala. Power complex 25% complete

Construction of the 800 acre Alabama Power Company General Services complex located just off U.S. 31 north of Calera is now well underway. Last week the Reporter contacted Bill Hixon, project engineer for the construction of the facility, and arranged a tour of the complex. Hixon explained that at present 25 percent of the total job is now complete. He went on to say that not all of the 800 acres owned by the Alabama Power Company for the complex is being developed at this time.

The complex is the result of overcrowding at the company's Birmingham offices. When complete, the new development will be the major service center for all of the Alabama Power Comapny's north Alabama facilities.

Five large buildings are now under construction in the general services area. They are all designed to operate as separate units with each building complete with its own office space, and technical equipment.

A large 73,000 square foot garage building will service all rolling equipment. The garage is complete with an elaborate electrical system and a piping system for lubricant and hydraulic fluids needed to service the rolling equipment.

In addition the garage will have bays for washing the trucks, as well as the most up-to-date facilities for mechanical maintenance.

A 250,000 gallon water tank and pumping station will supply water for a fire loop of water lines serving all the buildings in the complex.

An automatic microwave station for radio equipment is located on a hill beside the water tank.

The largest building now being constructed in the general services complex is an 88,000 square foot shop building that will handle all work to maintain and rebuild the company's transformers. Two 250 ton bridge cranes are located in the shop building to handle the heaviest equipment.

A 13,000 square foot field services building will handle all construction crews and trucks while a 19,000 square foot field lab building will test all field equipment.

A grounds and maintenance building is located at the entrance of the complex and will be used as a base for all upkeep of the complex.

Two railroad sidings lead into the general services complex. In addition, the sites for a training center and a stores and salvage building have been prepared, but contracts for their construction have not been yet awarded.

When completed the Alabama Power Company general services complex will provide another boost to the already rapidly expanding Shelby County economy.

Harpersville bank planned

A new bank for Harpersville is in the planning stages.

Legal negotiations are underway to establish the "Alabama State Bank" at Harpersville.

A legal notice appears in this week's issue of the Reporter setting forth the proposals and intention to incorporate.

Listed as stockholders are Joseph A. Bratton, J.T. Stephens, D.E. Morris, C.G. Swatek, W.G. Florey, J.W. Donahoo, Mrs. Tera Baker and A. Nea Shirley.

Board re-activated; hears complaints

The Shelby County Personnel Board has been re-activated to deal with problems any county employees may have in connection with their employment.

One of the duties of the personnel board is to check on complaints registered by or about county employees. During election periods, county employees are prohibited by law from compaigning for political candidates. Persons who want to register complaints or raise questions may contact any member of the personnel board.

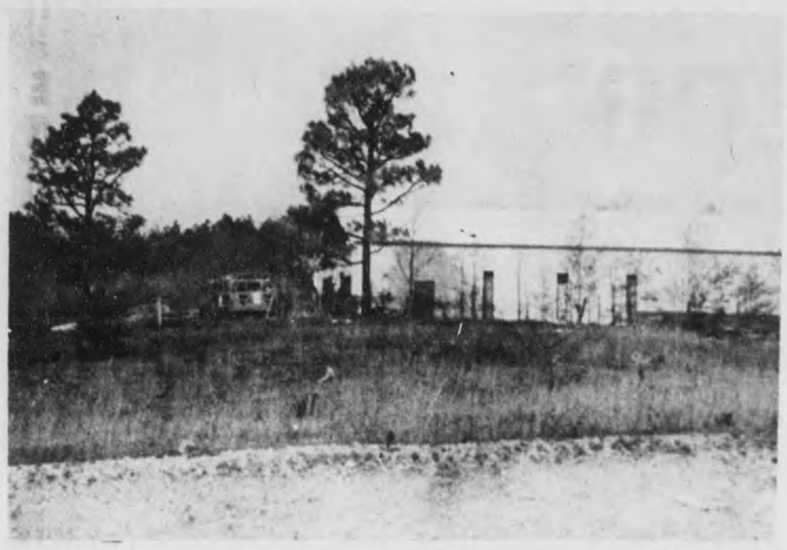
Appointments to the board are made by several different groups.

T.O. Smith of Wilsonville was appointed to the board by circuit Judge Kenneth I. Ingram and Judge James Sharbutt. Kermit Mathison of Montevallo and Oscar Harris of Helena were appointed by the board of education.

I.C. Whittle of Columbiana was selected by the Shelby County Bar Association.

A.A. Lauderdale was the nominee of the Shelby County Commission.

The five man board will be available to discuss any irregularities in procedures relating to the employment of county employees.



The law prohibiting county employees from campaigning does not include the chief clerk or chief deputy or first assistant of any elected county officer. This exemption was made in order that the official might select a person of his or her own choosing as first assist-

Wind storms hit again

Stormy weather hit Shelby County again this week as a powerful windstorm blasted the area. Eight days after last week's destructive weather, a similar storm swept through the county early Friday morning about three a.m., totally destroying a mobile home outside of Wilsonville.

The trailer home of Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Etress was demolished by the storm as it dipped down south of Wilsonville. No one was in the mobile home at the time. The Etresses had left only five minutes before, having been warned of the approaching storm by a relative. The couple's new 1974 automobile was also smashed by the storm.

The Etresses said that neighbors across the street were in a car when the storm hit. The neighbors said that it was a tornado that dipped down to hit the mobile home while Linda and Bobby Etress were next door at her mother's home. They and their two children heard a loud roaring amid the thunder and lightning, resembling the "sound of a bulldozer pushing through the house."

Quite a bit of other damage was apparent in the area near the junction of county roads 7 and 9 near Old Chapel Church. The storm destroyed two barns on the Clifford Moore farm, and the nearby Hilton family reported damage to their chicken house. Several other houses were damaged, and trees were uprooted and broken all around the area near Wilsonville. The new storm damage was scattered among the borken trees and other damage from the killer tornado that plowed through the town last May.

Following the pre-dawn storm was a flurry of activity as people cleared the storm damage and began erecting storm shelters. After the number of tornadoes and storms to hit the county in the past year, many families from Wilsonville and elsewhere have apparently decided that they don't want to take a chance if another one hits.

Vehicles for fire defense given to communities

Montevallo and Pea Ridge recently received rural fire defense vehicles through the Alabama Forestry Commission. Dr. Mike Mahan, Chief, Montevallo fire department, J.G. Lawley, Chief, Pea Ridge fire department, and David L. Duckett, County Forester joined in making the announcement.

The project is part of a statewide program conducted by the Forestry Commission to provide brush fire defense for the residents of small communities. Mr. Duckett explained that the 2½ ton units were located by the commission's fire suppression section among Federal Government surplus property.

Volunteer firemen will make necessary modifications and equip the vehicles for rural fire control. The firemen have entered into a contract with the forestry commission to maintain the trucks and keep them available to fight fires in their area. There are now three such units located in Shelby County.

Other units are planned for neighboring communities in the county that qualify for participation in this program.

Further information concerning the rural fire defense program may be obtained by contacting Mr. Duckett at his office on McDow Road in Columbiana, or by calling him at 669-7605.

Resource group formed

Eighteen prominent Shelby County citizens were invited to attend a re-organizational inner meeting of the county Resource Development Committee at the University of Montevallo.

Committee members were elected after consultation with various government agencies and local citizens, they were invited to the meeting by W.M. "Buck" Clark of the Cooperative Extension Service.

A committee of this nature has been inactive in Shelby County since 1970, Clark said. Resource Development Committee is needed for the implementation of some federal programs. In addition such a committee can voice the opinions of the citizens of the county and take some of the load from the county planning commission.

Invited to become a part of the Shelby County Resource Development Committee were Joe Dickart; Mrs. Bill Cosper; Sterling Baker; William D. (Bill) Dobbins; Jim Strickland; William E. (Bill) Schroder; Doug Ballard, Jr.; Otis H. (Sonny) Moore, Jr.; Hugh Sims, Jr.; Jimmy King; R.M. Byrd, Jr.; Douglas M. Kent; Charles W. Pittman; M.M. (Buddy) Argo, Jr.; Mrs. J. Claude Smith; Earl Cunningham; Mrs. Elorise Underwood; and H.L. (Sonny) Conwill.

These committee members will form an independent entity which will advise and work with different county, state and federal officials and agencies on any community improvement matters the committee chooses to presue.

Bill Wilson, Resource Development Specialist of the Auburn University Extension Service, spoke to the assembled committee members. He said that resource development was a process rather than a program by which local citizens could implement community services as they are needed and desired.

Wilson said resource and development programs should work in the following four areas: people building through education, health, nutrition, social outreach and leadership; economic development; community facilities such as water, fire protection transportation and telephone service; and environmental improvement such as clean air, clean water, land use and soil and water management.

The committee members present chose Joe Dickert as temporary committee chairman. The committee plans to meet again in the near future to elect officers and discuss future projects and priorities.

County Baptists contribute heavily

Baptist churches in Shelby County were heavy contributors to the cooperative program during 1973, according to Dr. George E. Bagley, secretary- treasurer of the convention's Executive Board.

The cooperative program is unified budget plan that upports missionary, educational and benevolence causes of the Alabama Baptist Convention and nationwide Southern Baptist Convention.

Churches in the Shelby Baptist Association which gave $500 or more to the Cooperative Program are: Calera, $10,627.46; First, Alabaster, $9,518.79; First Columbiana, $9,367.51; Wilsonville, $7,266.41; Montevallo, $5,850.64; Siluria, $5,799.64; FourMile, $4,648.70; Wilton, $4,555.19; First, Pelham, $4,279.87;

University, $4,228.22; New Hope, $3,161.50; First, Shelby, $2,978.43; Enon, $2,629.28; Liberty, $2,572.53; First, Vincent, $2,264.42; Oak Grove, $2,203.85; Helena, $1,835.71; Bethel, $1,648.42; Bay Springs, $1,434.99; Aldrich, $1,404.08; Harpersville, $1,260.49; Antioch No. 1, $1,201.20; Dogwood Grove, $1,189.36; Prospect No. 1, $1,141.18;

Underwood, $1,118.40; Beulah, $974.67; North Macedonia, $967.69; Brantleyville, $962.14; Mount Signal, $955.38; Mayberry, $932.67 Calvary, $881.88.

Cheaper by the Dozen' goes on THS boards

A popular play, "Cheaper by the Dozen" has been selected as the Thompson High School Spring Play.

It will be performed next Monday, April 8 at 7:30 p.m., in the high school auditorium.

The play is a comedy drama by Frank B. Gilbreth, Jr., and Ernestine Carey. The plot revolves around a father who has 12 children. He tries to run his household in the same way as is factory runs. The result is both comic and deeply moving.

The cast includes Jeff Munnower (father), Lori Lackey (mother), Camille Hines (Anne), Cindi Key (Ernestine), Ben Montalbano (Frank). The rest of the case includes: David Finley, Don Ray, John Richardson, Susan Hill, Kim White, Shawnee LInt, Apryl Bunshee, Karen Swain, Wade Martin, Jackie McGuire, Jack Harris.

All proceeds from the play go to the Thompson Junior-Senior Prom.

Pughs awarded $14,500 in court case

Roland Pugh and his wife Marline were awarded damages and compensation of $14,500 in a jury trial held in Columbiana last week.

The case was brought against the State of Alabama and concerned property for a right of way for the new projects along U.S. Highway 280.

A total of 6.40 acres was involved in the decision. Foreman of the jury that studied the evidence in the case was Robert A. Hodges.

Mysterious circumstances surround Patterson death

Lonnie L. Patterson, Sr., age 67, of Harpersville died by apparent gunshot wounds early Tuesday.

Sheriff's deputies were called to the Patterson home around 8 a.m. Tuesday and an investigation into the death continued throughout the day.

Patterson had apparently been shot several times. Officers suspected a 22 calibre rifle was the weapon used in the attack.

Patterson lives with his wife in a home off Highway 280, west of Harpersville. Their son, Lonnie Patterson, Jr., 28, had been staying with them in recent weeks.

The younger Patterson met sheriff's deputies at the highway and directed them to the home. Evidence was investigated by state toxicologists but their reports were not concluded by press time.

Officers investigating the mysterious death were Deputies Cecil Nummy and Bill Jones, Lt. Buddy Glasgow and Bill Davenport.

Valley School raises funds at singing

Small contributors can improve system

This may be the year to make a financial contribution to a political campaign, especially if you have never even thought of doing it before.

Only when the general population helps support the election process can we stamp out the heavy political contributor and the obligations that have led to the present Watergate mess in Washington.

"Little Watergates" can exist at the local level in the United States. One good way to prevent them is for individuals to help financially support a candidate. Many candidates who would be good elected officials do not have the money to make a campaign without being tempted to take large sums from special interests.

Many good men and women are encouraged to run for office and then find, too late, that lack of money is a real hindrance to a winning campaign.

New laws on the books in Alabama are aimed at the problem and are a great improvement in the way the present campaigns are being run.

However, the laws do not lessen the need for a candidate to spend money on his campaign. They only make the reporting of financial activity more accurate and above-board.

Anyone may contribute up to $10 to a candidate and never have his name reported on the candidate's financial report. If a person contributes more than $10 his name will appear with the amount of his contribution on reports the candidate must file at the close of the campaign.

Then everyone can see who his heavy contributors were.

When candidates and the election process receive financial support from many people, the people will be better represented, and the special interests will have to find some way other than money to get what they want.

Teachers endorse Gilmore, Littleton

The Alabama Voice of Teachers for Education (A-VOTE) has endorsed three candidates who are running for election or re-election in Shelby County.

The Senate District 17 coordinating committee of A-VOTE has endorsed Sen. Eddie Hubert Gilmore, of McCalla for re-election to the Alabama State Senate.

Gilmore is running against Tom Stubbs of Helena and Doug Cook of Birmingham.

The Senate District 18 coordinating committee of A-VOTE endorsed Senator Obie Littleton of Clanton, who is running against Lister Proctor of Sylacauga.

The endorsement statements said that both Sens. Gilmore and Littleton have a proven record of service in the Senate for education. The teachers' endorsement said that both have been outstanding advocates for education.

The House District 51 coordinating committee of A-VOTE endorsed Rep. J.T. (Jabo) Waggoner, Jr. of Birmingham for re-election to the House. Waggoner's opponents are Jake R. Vaughn and Charles A.J. Beavers, both of Birmingham.

A-VOTE is the political action arm of the Alabama Education Association.

Impeachment attitude changes

by Jack Anderson

(Copyright, 1974, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON — The impeachment of President Nixon, which used to be the pipedream of a small group of liberal congressmen, now seems almost certain. Even after the firing of Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox, the secret count for impeachment in the House was less than 80 votes. But today, a majority are expected to vote for impeachment.

Several factors have brought about this change. First, the incessant public debate has lessened the fear of the process. Previously, many congressmen were afraid the move would weaken the political system. Now they have become convinced that the best way to preserve the system is to impeach the President.

Other congressmen are guided by pure politics. In this election year, they have more to lose by supporting the President than by repudiating him.

But the justification most often given privately for impeachment is that the congressmen are merely grand jurors. They determine only whether there is enough evidence to warrant a trial. They don't judge the President's guilt or innocence. It will take a two-thirds vote of the Senate to convict him.

Meanwhile, more than 100 lawyers, investigators and research assistants are now studying the evidence behind the tightly closed doors of the House Judiciary Committee. Enough evidence has already leaked out to justify a Senate trial. So the House is expected to vote for impeachment.

Even the President himself, according to my White House sources, is now concentrating on winning the final showdown in the Senate.

Soviet Oil: For six months, Radio Moscow has called upon the Arabs to use their oil as a weapon against the West. Even today, Soviet broadcasts in the Arabic language are still urging the Arabs to resume the oil embargo.

Yet strangely, the Soviets haven't followed their own advice. They could have used their own oil as a weapon. But unaccountably, they never did it.

The Soviet Union exports about 100 million tons of oil a year. Half of this goes to its Communist satellites. But the other half is sold to non-Communist nations.

The Arabs reduced their oil flow to the West last October. Had the Soviets turned off their spigot as well, the effect could have been devastating. Yet the Soviets continued to supply oil to the West at the same time that Radio Moscow was goading the Arabs to shut off the oil flow.

Intelligence reports suggest that the reason was twofold. First, the Kremlin was worried that the Soviet oil boycott might wreck the detente. Even more important, the Soviets deperately need hard currency and oil exports are their single greatest source of it.

Therefore, the Soviet broadcasts supporting the oil embargo were beamed only to the Arab world. The broadcasts to the West were silent on the subject. Meanwhile, the oil from Soviet fields continued to flow from East to West.

Europe's Complaint: A petulant President Nixon has complained that our European allies have rewarded us for our past generosity with economic confrontation and open hostility. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger has also made no secret of his irritation with Western Europe.

In fairness, I have talked to European diplomats on both sides of the Atlantic to get their side of the story. Their chief complaint is that Washington embarks on a diplomatic course without consulting them, yet expects them to follow obediently.

They object to the way the Nixon Administration practices diplomacy by secrecy and surprise. Not even American diplomats know what is going on at the Nixon-Kissinger level. The people at the lower levels are unable to implement policies they know nothing about. Therefore, they can't discuss problems and policies with their European counterparts.

Our European allies often are left in the dark until a new policy has been adopted. Then they are taken by surprise after it is too late to contribute their ideas. This sort of diplomacy, the Europeans have told me, breeds suspicion and resentment.

I can now report, however, that Kissinger is taking time from the Middle East crisis and the Soviet detente to deal more with Europe. He is quietly working out new modes of advance consultation with our allies, particularly Britain, France and West Germany.

Pipeline Manipulation: Oil pipelines, like a vast underground highway network, pump crude oil around the country. These underground rivers of oil are controlled by the big oil companies through joint ownership of the pipelines.

Thus, the major oil companies have been able to control oil and gas deliveries to virtually every area of the nation. They can also squeeze out competition by making less oil and gas available to the independents.

The pipeline monopoly has caused scattered shortages and higher prices all across the nation. Congressional investigators now have evidence that the heating oil shortage of last winter was created by manipulating the pipelines.

The effort to squeeze out heating oil retailers forced some schools, hospitals and homes to go without heat. Many independent gas station owners were also cut off by the pipeline owners when the gas pinch began to be felt.

Yet despite this obvious monopoly condition, the Justice Department has failed to take action. The congressional sleuths suspect that political influence may be the reason. They recall that President Nixon collected more than $5 million from oilmen during his 1972 campaign.

Up, Up And Away: President Nixon's economists, with their charts and slide rules, have made some disturbing calculations. They have concluded unhappily that food and fuel bills will continue to climb this year.

At the same time, wages aren't expected to keep pace with prices and profits. This means the purchasing power of the average American will drop still more this year.

The economists have given the President the bad news, but he is reluctant to reveal it to a Watergate-weary nation. Instead, he told businessmen in Chicago that the rest of the world has even worse inflation. The truth is that at least eight industrialized nations have lower inflation rates and most industrialized countries have less unemployment than does the United States.

The food and fuel industries, meanwhile, are ringing up record profits. Food processors and supermarket chains are paying the farmers less and charging their customers more for many basic foods. And the outlook is for still higher food prices.

The oil companies are raking in even bigger profits. Yet they are now hungrily eyeing prices in Europe where gasoline has gone from an average 85 cents to $1.50 a gallon in the past year. Gasoline is selling from $1.15 a gallon in Britain to $1.92 a gallon in Portugal.

Now the oil companies are trying to figure our how they can push prices in the United States closer to the European level.

Canvass made for garbage drive

Every rural home and business within franchise area Three of the new Shelby County Solid Waste collection system will be visited by a team of professional canvassers starting work immediately. Area Three is the east-northeast section of the county.

The purpose of this all-out effort is to offer reasonably priced collection of "garbage" to every household as required by State Law (Act 771) and obtain information that will help make the program efficient and effective.

Other franchise areas were already fairly well covered by collection routes, but much of this large area -- half the geographical area of the County -- has never had such service available. This created special problems for NEC of Alabama, Inc., holder of the franchise.

The Shelby County Commission, the Department of Public Works and the Health Department expressed to NEC their concern about the rather slow start of the new program in area Three. The management of the company immediately decided to incur considerable expense to have made a house-by-house canvas of the whole area.

Frank Sloan, County Health Department and James L. Ray, Jr. Director of the Department of Public Works urge the public to cooperate fully with the canvas workers.

The area's west boundary generally follows a line extending North and South through Simmsville to Shelby County Highway 26, following that route Southeast to Columbiana's city limits, then southward to the county line at Waxahatchee Creek.

Persons living within the city limits of Columbiana, Wilsonville, Harpersville and Vincent, all within area Three, will not be contacted as they are served by these incorporated municipalities.

Wallace-watchers foresee shake-ups by governor

by Don Wasson

There is a growing suspicion among close Wallace-watchers that the incumbent governor may, should he win a third term, be more of a governor in his first two years than he has been to date.

If the governor is campaigning nationwide in 1976, and there is every good reason to feel that he will, then it would be reasonable to expect that he would want a solid record of achievement in his home state.

The governor is anxious this year for newspaper endorsements where in races past, it is probably true that he relished the idea of NOT being endorsed, especially by the larger daily newspapers.

Why the switch? It is simply because he feels he would be a more viable national candidate if the press in his home state was backing his effort and singing his praises.

Likewise, a major turnaround in state administration would be something he could point to with pride. A reorganization of state government could be explained to the nation with the promise that what can be done in Alabama could likewise be done in the federal establishment.

When the governor caused the Cost Control Survey to be made, and launched a gaggle of high-priced management experts against state government ineptness, he was roundly applauded, and rightly so.

But despite all the implementation, and the unquestioned savings of many dollars, the truth remains that he hasn't yet touched on the one Cost Control recommendation which could really save the state the many millions of dollars which were forecast when the study first began.

That wasn't really a recommendation of the Survey team, merely a proposal that the state start consideration of a major overhaul of state government organization.

The more than 140 commissions, boards and departments prevent having direct lines of accountability between the agencies and the administration and also limit efficient management of state services.

The study proposed five major units of state administration - - finance and administration; human resourses; education; commerce, Industry and natural resources; and transportation.

It would take much work and legislative action to effect such a reorganization, the study noted but it also says, "long-range redirection of the functions and services included in the Executive Branch's operations is needed before Alabama's state government can realize the full potential from recommendations contained in this report."

That simply means that before really big savings can be realized, state government is going to gave to undergo a really traumatic shakeup.

And there is growing suspicion that Wallace may launch such an undertaking in his next administration, if he is elected.

In the first of what promises to be a number of "policy statements" we will see during the coming campaign, Wallace said last week:

"Sometimes, in the discussions about reform of institutions, it has been forgotten that such institutions are reformed not simply for the sake of reform, but for making them more effective servants of the people."

To streamline state government will require a lot of strong-handed administrative decisions, something Wallace has not exactly been noted for as governor. The state government hiearchy will fight it all the way and it is doubtful that the governor will have enough control in the legislature to push much controversial legislation through. But it needs smoothing out around the edges, he just might give it a try.

COURTSHIP, MARRIAGE AND THE FAMILY

By Herbert J. Miles, Ph.D.

APPROPRIATE GIFTS DURING COURTSHIP

Q. Our high school and college Sunday School group has been meeting in homes once per week for devotions and group discussions. The first half of the meeting is a Bible study followed by prayer. The last half of the meeting is a discussion of problems related to our age group. Often the discussion involves courtship procedures. Several times we have used one of your columns related to courtship as a launching pad for our discussion. Recently the group requested that I write and ask you to write a column on appropriate and inappropriate gifts during courtship. What problems may be involved? (Group Secretary).

A. When a boy and girl love each other, or think they love each other, or would like to develop love for each other, the matter of giving gifts is important. It is a must!

When deciding what gifts to give during courtship, consider asking the following questions: (1) At what stage is your courtship -- casual dating, going steady or engagement? (2) Why do you want to give a gift? (3) How much money should you spend? (4) What will fit the receiver's personality, values, and needs? (5) What will the receiver not hesitate to accept? (6) What will the receiver's parents and friends think about the gift?

In beginning casual dating a gift indicates that one is not only happy with the new relationship but that he is interested in continuing it. In casual dating, a gift should be meaningful yet not too personal. It should be inexpensive. A gift that is too expensive seems to say "I'll buy your love with this present," or "I've given you something expensive, now you owe me something expensive in return." A gift that is too personal, such as underclothing, is very poor taste. It causes embarrassment, parental objection, and implies too intimate implications or suggestions. In the beginning of casual dating the first gift should probably be a carefully selected greeting card appropriate for the occasion that expresses a compliment and indicates a further personal interest. Other suggested gifts could be a record, candy, inexpensive jewelry, books, key chains, homemade cookies, minor car accessories, and stationery. A boy should be careful about giving a girl flowers during casual dating. They seem to say "I'm really falling in love with you" or she may read much more into them than he meant.

When a mature couple is going steady, it is acceptable to give more expensive and personal gifts. Gifts included during casual dating are still acceptable. To that list can be added flowers, Bibles, rings, outer clothing, such as sweaters, jackets, ties, scarfs, gloves, and belts, pocket books, wallets, cosmetics, perfume, cologne, pictures, engraved jewelry, a musical jewelry box, poetry, long distance calls and tapes.

During engagement all of the above mentioned gifts are in order. Other gifts would include things both of you can use together in the future such as towels, shaving kits, radios, record players, tape recorders, television sets, and minor household items.

At any period during courtship a boy should be careful about giving candy if his sweetheart is a "weight-watcher." She might be insulted. Gifts given during the going steady period should be meaningful at the time and yet, easy to live with should the couple break up. Monographed gifts for girls during engagement are not recommended since it is assumed that her initials will soon be changed. The giver during engagements should consider the facts that from one-third to one-half of all engagements are broken. The giver would consider whether the engagement was "skating on thin ice" or whether it was solid and certain to culminate in marriage. Some engaged couples agree on inexpensive gifts in order to save money for the expenses of the wedding and honeymoon. It is meaningful for sweethearts to give each other surprise gifts for no special reason except to show love and appreciation.

It is rather difficult to draw a line between casual dating, going steady, and engagement. Yet these three levels of courtship are meaningful in discussing the procedures and problems involved. Courtship and love go together. Love and giving go together. Tactful thoughtful giving at the right time promotes and develops love on the part of both the giver and the receiver. We may give without loving, but we cannot love without giving!

UM choir to hit road

The University of Montevallo Concert Choir takes to the road Friday to perform for three central Alabama audiences.

Traveling by bus, the choir will begin its series of appearances with a 9:10 a.m. performance at Chilton County High School in Clanton. Then after a short ride across Chilton county the choir will present a 10:45 a.m. concert at Maplesville High.

At 2:00 p.m., the UM choir will perform at Selma High School.

Choir director and UM music professor Bruce Tolbert will then give his charges the weekend off to prepare for a special presentation on the Montevallo campus Monday night.

The first part of the campus concert will be devoted to classical religious music, including Handel's "Let their celestial concerts all unite."

After intermission James Williams, choral director at Stillman College, will direct the UM Concert Choir singing a number of Negro spirituals such as "Rocka ma soul," "In bright mansions," and "Hold on."

The program begins at 8:15 p.m. in the recital hall of the New Music Building on the Montevallo campus. The public is invited.

Health committee studies county water

The county Health Advisory Committee heard reports on water problems in the county at its meeting last Wednesday.

Bill Weems of the environmental committee of the Community Service Council discussed the Wilton Water System, and the facilities plan for Buck Creek and Cahaba Valley Creek drainage areas of the Cahaba River.

The committee endorsed the Wilton system and agreed that a sewerage treatment plan is needed in the Cahaba Valley. They also said that Spring Creek which flows into the Coosa River should have a sewerage treatment system.

At the meeting Mr. Del Hyche, administrator of Briarcliff Nursing Home was added to the committee as a member.

Bob Merrell, assistant to the County Commission, was named to replace Frank Sloan on the project review committee.

Alias warrants made by county deputies. Should he have such authority over Trooper cases and Conservation officer cases also?

2. Troopers and Conservation officers are the officers most concerned for their cases. The fines collected go to the State Departments. Is it not reasonable to expect that they will be more diligent in the serving of such alias warrants?

3. Why add these alias warrants to the work load of county officers?

4. Why burden Shelby County with the cost of making re-arrest in State cases?

5. How effective has the Sheriff's Department been in serving these alias warrants?

6. If this procedure whereby the Judge of the Inferior Court give alias warrants in state cases to the Sheriff to be served is the best, would it not be in order for the Judge or the Sheriff to explain their position to the people of Shelby County?

Life preservers lead violations

Water Safety Patrolman Raymond Webster reports that activity on Lay Lake has increased considerably in recent weeks.

During the past month Webster has written 18 citations and given 23 written warning tickets to boaters on Lay Lake.

Webster told the Reporter that most of the violations are for not having proper life preservers in boats and for not having boats properly registered.

creasing rapidly in the county. A branch of the First National Bank of Childersburg was established very recently in Vincent.

Other banks within the county have added or applied for branch banks.

Rumors continue to circulate in the Pelham area that a new national bank and another state bank are making plans to open in Pelham.

Helena grant

ginal sewerage plan was estimated to cost $300,000 four years ago. However with all of the delays and additions specifications needed to hook up with another system, he estimates that the final cost may run to more than a million dollars He said that with the new grant announced by Flowers, Helena will be able to get on with the paperwork to be presented to the Water Improvement Commission.

If the state commission approves the specifications, the mayor thinks that the actual bidding and construction could begin by summer. On the other hand, additional obstacles could delay the project for many more months, he said.

HELP ELECT
CURTIS SMITH
To The ALABAMA HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

District 53 (Shelby - Chilton Counties)

Your vote and influence will be sincerely appreciated

Subject to the action of the Democrat Primaries of May 7 and June 4, 1974.

(Pd. pol. adv. by Committee to elect Curtis Smith, Bobby R. McAfee, Chrmn. Rt. 1 Box 43, Maplesville 36750)

IT'S TIME FOR A CHANGE

Under Bill Thompson - - -
The Sheriff's Department will be different.

FEES: Bill Thompson believes that fees paid to the Sheriff's Department should be turned over to the County General Fund. Alabama Constitutional Amendment No. 249 provided for the placing of all Shelby County officers on a salary and for the payment of fees collected by these officials to the County General Fund. This procedure is being followed in the Office of the Tax Assessor, Tax Collector, Probate Judge, and Circuit Clerk. Only the Sheriff's Office continues to retain some fees that are not paid to the County General Fund.

Under Bill Thompson the following fees now retained in the Sheriff's Office will be turned over to the County General Fund:

Pistol permit fees ($5.00 each) about $7,500.00 per year; Fees for feeding prisoners -- about $4,500.00 per year; Fees for issuing warrants during office hours -- about $4,500.00 per year.

OFFICE PERSONNEL: Bill Thompson believes that there is no justification to employ four secretaries in the Sheriff's Office. The number of secretarial positions in the office will be reduced and additional man power will be obtained to help in the area where burglaries are occuring frequently.

AVAILABLE: Bill Thompson will be a full-time Sheriff in Shelby County. He will be available personally to receive your visits and your phone calls.

DEPUTIES: Under Act No. 247 of the 1965 Legislature as amended in 1971, Shelby County Deputies are prohibited from taking an active part in any political campaign. In return they are given job security. Bill Thompson believes that this is a good policy. Present deputies would continue to serve so long as their performance of duty is adequate. Bill Thompson is running against the Sheriff -- not the Sheriff's Department.

LET'S ELECT BILL THOMPSON
SHERIFF OF SHELBY COUNTY

Pd. Pol. Adv. by Bill Thompson Committee, Rick McDow, Chm., F.L. (Sonny) Dorough, Co-Chm.

Advisory council finds state vocational education program lacking

Shelby and Talledega County and all of Alabama should inject job training into all education, the State Advisory Council on Vocational Education has urged in a report to the state.

With 50 per cent of those leaving or graduating from Alabama high schools in 1972 entering the work force, only 28.8 per cent had job related vocational training, the council reported.

Completing its annual evaluation of Alabama's ovcational education programs, services and activities, the council is citing its findings to Congress, the Alabama Legislature and the state education department.

Dr. Richard A. Baker, executive director, said the council emphasized the need to make career education a part of all schooling in the state and said the programs should be more closely matched with employment opportunities in this and each other county.

The report calls for a commitment by all the people of Alabama "to an educational program with primary emphasis on preparing people for gainful employment."

Schools were also urged in the report to accept the responsibility for the successful placement of the student whether it is continuing education beyond high school, full-time employment or homemaking.

Noting that in "our rapidly changing world, a person is apt to change occupations three or four times throughout his working life," the council also emphasized the need of students to "explore career opportunities, to make a career choice with the opportunity to change directions at any time, and finally, to develop a marketable skill in keeping with his aptitudes, interests and desires."

Job "retraining" is often needed for adults changing career fields, the report states.

The need for educators to consider the "attitudes" of students was noted with studies cited showing the reason most employees lose their jobs is their inability to get along will with their fellow workers.

"Once an employee is hired, both his on-the-job performance and his ability to get along with people are significant factors in his success," the report states.

The Alabama Advisory Council on Vocational Education is required by federal law to make the annual evaluation of the state's program and make recommendations. The council is appointed by the State Board of Education and consists of laymen and educators familiar with management of labor, industrial and economic development and vocational education.

G. Ray Jeffcoat, president of Opp and Micolas Cottor Mills, is chairman of the council.

TRAILER DEMOLISHED - - A mobile home doesn't have much of a chance in a bad storm. That's what Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Etress found out when a Friday morning tornado completely destroyed their house trailer, near highway 25 south of Wilsonville.

Estate taxes on rise

"Each year more and more taxpayers are accumulating estates exceeding $60,000, which come under Federal estate tax laws," Dwight Baptist, IRS District Director for Alabama, said today. "Those with sizable estates, and particularly administrators and executors, should be aware of the provisions of the laws.

"For example, a change in the law reduces the time allowed for the administration of an estate for tax purposes from 15 months to nine months."

IRS Publication 448, "A Guide to Federal Estate and Gift Taxation," available for 50 cents from IRS offices, covers the requirements for filing estate and gift tax returns. "The booklet is written in relatively nontechnical language and covers both the legal provisions and practical matters, such as who must file, what property is taxable and how to file," Baptist said.

Parents view projects at MHS Open House

Parents poured into the Montevallo High School gymnasium Monday to view activities and projects undertaken by students at the school.

The annual PTA open house featured the three bands, directed by James Weese.

A girls gymnastics team composed of Lynn Nix, Pam Pruitt, Tammy Harris and Tricia Corbett performed, under the direction of Miss Dot Bishop.

Beth Anthony led a group of eighth graders in a choral presentation.

The Spanish class under teacher Dan Martin presented "The Three Bears" in Spanish. Performing were Lynn Davis, Greg Merijanian, Lori Merijanian, Micky Williams and Nancy Nix.

The cheerleaders presented two of their routines, followed by a presentation of the MHS state basketball champion team by coach Gary Fleming.

On display in the school were safety posters, drug abuse posters, an art display, a garment display and an exhibit of the prizewinning MHS newspaper "Spotlight".

Boating law changes briefly explained

Marine Policeman Raymond Webster of Columbiana said today that several changes in the Alabama Boating Regulations were recently made to bring the Alabama Law into conformance with the U.S. Coast Guard regulations.

Webster pointed out that one significant change involves the responsobility of livery operators and persons renting or leasing a boat.

The regulation reads as follows: Regulation 3 section 3.

"Any vessel that is rented or leased, must have on board a copy of the lease or rental agreement, signed by the owner or his agent and by the person leasing or renting vessel that contains the following:

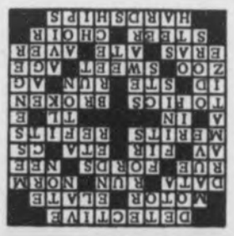
(1) The vessel number that appears on the certificate of number.

(2) The period of time for which the vessel is leased or rented.

(3) Number of persons on board at time of departure from livery."

The Water Safety Law does not require the registration certificate to be on board rental boats, but they are to be kept at the place of business ready for inspection by the Marine Police Officer Webster indicated.

Academy wins golf, baseball, and tennis



Shelby Academy opened its spring athletics with a triple win last Monday.

The Raider baseball team took a 3-2 decision over Faith Academy. Winning pitcher Kenny White pitched a two hitter while Robert Lacey drove in one run for Shelby on a double and Jim Holcombe drove in two runs on a single.

Shelby Academy swept a golf match with Faith 5-0. Ted Falker and Jeff Robbins were the low men in the match while Tony Acre and Ricky Ingran also won for the Raiders.

The Raiders also swept tennis play with Faith. Richard Moore, Douglas Jones, Katherine Turner and Kathy Brown all winning matches.

EDDIE HUBERT

GILMORE

ASKS FOR YOUR VOTE AND SUPPORT

The folks in Eddie Hubert Gilmore's old district have voted for him and for his father, Eddie Gilmore many times. Their faith and confidence has been rewarded because the Gilmores have served well and honorably.

Now Eddie Hubert Gilmore is asking the voters in north Shelby County to vote for him in the new Senate District 17- portions of Shelby, Jefferson, and Tuscaloosa Counties.

Eddie Hubert Gilmore has served 12 years in the state legislature and wants to use his experience to represent north Shelby County in the Senate.

WAS A LONG DAY - - embers of the Pi Kappa Phi iternity at the University of ontevallo and the University Alabama in Birmingham ld a sucessful fund raising ive for the Red Cross last eekend by pushing a bed uipped with three bicycle heels from the UAB campus Montevallo. The event began 8:30 p.m. and by early ternoon the bed was rolling errily down highway 31 bove). At 5 p.m. the tired oup of bed pushers neared eir destination (right).

Art show graces depot opening

A student - conceived and operated art extravaganza will open Sunday at the depot in the Montevallo city park. The students from the University of Montevallo's College of Fine Arts are taking steps to insure that the atmosphere surrounding the opening is festive rather than subdued.

In addition to the paintings, sculpture and ceramics on display, visitors will be treated to oranges, watermelon, bread and cheese and live music. Drama students will offer an original improvisational skit.

The opening day festivities will run from approximately 2 to 7 p.m. Sunday. The show will continue on exhibit in the depot through April 20.

Originally a brainstorm of a handfull of Montevallo art students, the show aims at two prime objectives--first, to get college art on view for the community, and, secondly, to give the students the experience of participating in a selective "juried" art show.

A jury of three professional artists, Montevallo painter Lenora Berman, Northport graphics illustrator Lee Bain, and well known Birmingham painter Ron Moore, screened more than 330 pieces of student art in selecting the 76 works to go on display. The students art was thus subjected to stricter criteria than is sometimes the case with student exhibits.

Finally, the show will give the UM students practical experience in producing the exhibit. Starting with a $150 grant from the university, the young artists raised an almost equal amount through entry fees and contributions.

The fruits of their creative efforts will be on display April 7-20 at the Montevallo depot--and especially this Sunday at the distinctive kickoff party.

CARD OF THANKS

The brothers of the Pi Kappa Phi Fraternity at the University of Montevallo and UAB would like to express their appreciation to all Shelby Co. residents who doanted money to the Red Cross during their charity bed push March 30.

Successful Walk-A-Thon brings $2,000 to MOD

The 1974 March of Dimes Walk-a-Thon was hailed as "a great success" by Randie Sears, Teen Chairman for the event. Over $2,000 was raised for the March of Dimes by the Saturday Walk-a-Thon.

Miss Sears credits the Shelco Unit One Rescue Unit, the Cahaba Valley Jaycees, the Montevallo Fire department and the University and City of Montevallo police departments for their "tremendous assistance" in making the walk a success.

She especially praised the 77 enthusiastic walkers who had solicited contributions from sponsors for each mile walked.

The Walk-a-Thon began on the University campus at 9:30 a.m. Police cars, and Shelco Unit One fire truck and supply van supervised by Doug Ballard, Jr., accompanied the walkers throughout the 15 mile walk through Spring Creek.

Traffic was controlled by police officers and volunteers as the walkers covered the distance. Check points along the way were provided for rest and refreshments.

The Cahaba Valley Jaycees manned the check points.

Five members of the Cahaba Valley Jaycees, headed by president Tom Murphy, manned the check points.

Mrs. Jane Ann Swearingen of Alabaster, Shelby County March of Dimes chairman, was on hand to help the walkers get started.

Bobby Wyatt was the first to finish the 15 mile walk.

Twenty-nine walkers represented Montevallo High School. Lori Merijanian, Becky Hood, Susy Hernandez, Nancy Nix, Debbie Payne, Dorothy Johnson, Mary Thompson, Harry Martin, Roxanne Elliot, Michele VanLandingham, Marla Maines, Vivian Hernandez, Anita Crowe, John Boothe, Cindy Holsombeck, Clarice Purnell, Delilah Brown, Bobby Wyatt, Amy Knowles, Tricia Corbett, Betsy Hood, Jan Corbett, Beverly Brazzell, Debbie Hatcher, Kay Ward, Ricky Williams, Benjie Dailey, Tammy Reeves and Rita Harris. Ken James and Cindy Lunsford participated from Montevallo Middle School, bringing the combined sum of money from Montevallo to approximately $803.

About $610 will be collected from Shelby Academy's 34 walkers. Kathleen Madden, Dale Vernon, Jo Ellen Robins, Ricky Ingram, Susan Minor, Beth Hurt, Karen Kelly, Len Lacey, David Thomas, Tom Gurley, Charlene Garrett, Paige Watson, Lee Turner, Elizabeth Lee, Jeff Connell, Tony Acre, Tracey Hardison, Roy Cunningham, Ricky Mitchell, Terry Roberson, James Robinson, Tammy Crouse, Ranay Winslett, Jane Nunnally, Kathy Brown, Kathy Lacey, Debbie Carden, Judy Cunningham, D'Andrea Cardone, Rosemary Roberts, Mike Galloway, Stephanie Cowart, Sandra Barrett, and Philip Kimbrell represented this school.

Calera High School's six walkers raised $245 for the March of Dimes, they were Lori Wisdom, Debbie Phillips, Sharon Wade, Debra Dawson, Lynn Moon, and Elaine Staton.

Becky Miller, Betsy Yon, Debra Boulware, and Tina Salson from Chelsea High School together raised approximately $217.

Susan Worrell represented Thompson High School and Brenda Nix walked from the University of Montevallo.

All of these people helped to make this years Walk-A-Thon total near $2,000.

The first ten walkers to complete the 15 mile trip were, in order, Bobby Wyatt, Ricky Ingram, Jeff Connell, Lee Turner, Harry Martin, Tony Acre, D'Andrea Cardone, David Thomas, Dale Vernon, and Paige Watson.

CAHABA VALLEY JAYCEES MAN CHECKPOINTS - - Ray Hamilton, Dan Spitler, Tom Murphy and Bob Gerchow set up the first checkpoint at the Crystal station at Moore's Crossroads to register the hikers.

ONE MORE TO GO - - Kathy Lacey checks in at the next to last checkpoint on Selma Street with just a few more blocks to go. The Shelco Unit 1 fire truck accompanied the walkers throughout the five hour walk.

AT THE FINISH LINE - - Girls line up to receive their certificates on successfully completing the Walk-A-Thon.

OH, THOSE FEET - - Jeff Connell, Ken James, Ricky Williams and Michells Van Landingham pull off shoes and wiggle their tired toes in the sunshine at the completion of the hike.

AND AWAY THEY GO - - Seventy-seven enthusiastic teens take on a fifteen mile walk for the March of Dimes. They leave the college campus headed out toward highway 119 in this photo by Willard Harrison. Their efforts brought in $2,000 to the M.O.D.

CONGRATS TO NUMBER ONE - - Jaycee Bob Gerchow, right, congratulates Bobby Wyatt, who was the first to finish the Walk-A-Thon hike. Jaycee John Douglas, left, talks with Harry Martin who came in seventh.

The Philathea class of First Baptist Church of Columbiana met on Saturday afternoon, March 30, at the home of Mrs. Louis O'Conner. This ladies class has the distinction of having the oldest members in the church.

Each person was asked to bring the youngest picture of herself available to the party. The pictures were numbered and placed in a row so that members could look the pictures over and decide who was who. Mrs. Edna Verchot was the prize winner, guessing the most faces correctly.

The highlight of the party was seeing Mrs. Jessie Mae Jones, teacher of the class, open her surprise from the class. The gift was fabric for a spring frock.

Cake and coffee was enjoyed by sixteen members and friends.

New Catholic church meets in Valley

by Linda Hinds Conn

Father James Mulvaney, pastor of the newly formed Roman Catholic church, Our Lady of the Valley, announces that the first mass for the newly formed parish was held on Saturday, March 30. The new parish includes 120 families and encompasses the area south of the Cahaba River to the north Alabaster city limits.

The church has purchased 17 acres on Cahaba Valley Road (across the road from New Hope Presbyterian Church). There are no buildings on the land at the present time but, construction plans are in process.

Joe Garity of Indian Springs Ranch was elected chairman of the building council on March 28. He will work with the members of the eight various committees formed to determine exactly what should be constructed on the property.

For the present time, Father Mulvaney will be conducting services in the trailer chapel of the new United Methodist Church on Caldwell Mill Road. Mass will be held each Saturday afternoon at 5:30 in the trailer chapel. St. Peter's Catholic Church in Hoover will provide religious instruction for the children each Sunday morning at 10 following the 9 o'clock mass.

Father Mulvaney extends thanks to the members of the new Caldwell Mill Road United Methodist Church (not the official name) for inviting the new parish to use their facilities.

UM sets music programs

A widely varying series of music programs, open to the public, will be presented by the University of Montevallo during a four day period, beginning Sunday.

Programs will feature chamber music, the UM Concert Choir and the appearance of a prize winning violinist.

The three part series of programs will begin with a chamber music concert Sunday afternoon beginning at 4 p.m. This concert will feature the 16 member University Brass Ensemble under the direction of L. Spencer Shaw.

Included in the concert will be selections by such composers as Handel, Wagner, Poulenc and Copeland. Also included is a selection, "The Three Psalms for Brass Quintet and Tenor" by Peter Sacco. Tenor soloist will be Bruce Tolbert, Professor of Music.

The Chamber Music concert will be presented in the University's new music building.

A concert of spiritual and traditional music will be sung by the UM Concert Choir, Monday evening, beginning at 8:15. This program will also be presented in the new music building.

The first part of the concert will be conducted by Bruce Tolbert and will include traditional music by such composers as Lassus, Handel and Avshalomov. Also featured in the first part of the concert will be selections from "My Fair Lady".

The second half of the concert will be devoted to spiritual music and will feature guest conductor James Williams, director of the Stillman College Choir of Tuscaloosa.

Williams will be on the Montevallo campus two days prior to the concert to rehearse and lecture the performing choir on the history of black ethnic music in America.

Prize winning violin soloist Nejmi Succari, will be featured in a Wednesday night concert, also beginning at 8:15 in the school's new music building.

Succari, a citizen of Syria and now a resident of France, studied at the Conservatory National de Musique in Paris with Roland Charmy and Miguel Candela. He continued his study at the Tschaikovsky Conservatory under Professor Boris Bielynki.

Succari's Montevallo appearance is a part of the UM Concert and Lecture Series for 1974.

Training program plays role in state's growth

Lieutenant Governor Jere Beasley announced today that Alabama's Industrial Development Training Program created in June of 1971 has played a major role in the state's industrial growth during 1971, 1972 and 1973.

This program which is 100 per cent state financed has either trained or is in the process of training over 16,000 Alabama citizens for specific jobs in industry throughout the State.

Since the inception of this program, one industry in Shelby County has used the program. The total capital investment for this one industry, Dixie Alloy of Calera, amounts to over $950,000 with 25 employees involved in the training.

Beasley said, "This program has been a great asset to the state industrial development activities. 2.6 million was appropriated in 1973 to fund this program which is available to both existing industries and new industrial plants.

Alabama's future as an industrial state is very bright and the training program will continue to provide the necessary skilled labor to insure good jobs with good pay for all Alabamians."

Alabaster company gives employee service awards

Specification Rubber Products of Alabaster recently inaugurated a Service Award program. Sixteen employees were honored for having completed five years of satisfactory employment.

Each employee received a gold pin set with a red ruby. The pin incorporated the red and grey letter "S" used as a company trademark.

E.W. Quiggle, president of Specification Rubber Products told the employees he hoped he could also present them with ten year service pins at the appropriate time.

Museum opens near Chelsea

The Maffett-Parker Museum was opened to the public on Wednesday April 3, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., followed by a brunch in Giltner Hall. The museum was the home of Dr. and Mrs. Estes Hargis for many years. The country store was the home of Jessie and Turner Smith, who were loyal servants of the Hargis family. These buildings are filled with furniture and artifacts of their family.

Everyone was invited.

The Museum and store will be opened every Saturday and Sunday afternoons in April and May, during the hours of 2 p.m. until 4 p.m., and for other times by appointments only.

Joe Dean elected pharmacy head

The Shelby County Pharmaceutical Association met on Monday night, April 1, at an Alabaster restaurant and elected new officers. Joe Dean, associated with Gillis Pharmacy in Alabaster, was elected president. Mike Nelms, staff pharmacist at Shelby Memorial Hospital was elected vice-president, and Mrs. Donna Smitherman, co-owner of Smitherman's Pharmacy in Calera was elected secretary-treasurer.

Mr. Dean is currently vice-president of the Jefferson County Pharmaceutical Association, served on its board of directors for four years, and has served as treasurer. He has served two terms as speaker of the house of delegates for the Alabama Pharmaceutical Association and was the recipient of the Hygeia award for community service in 1972. He is a member of the Shelby County Board of Education and a member of the board of directors for the Shelby-Chilton Mental Health Board. He is also a member of the American Pharmaceutical Association and the National Association of Retail Druggists. Mr. and Mrs. Dean and their two children live near Helena.

Jim Davis of Davis Drug in Columbiana, who is a member of the Alabama State Board of Pharmacy, presented a program on the role of the pharmacist in community practice. Discussion was made about inter and intra professional relations.

Every drugstore in the county except one was represented at the meeting. Those attending were Joe Dean and Dan Gillis of Gillis Pharmacy, Mike Nelms and Jay Stuman (chief pharmacist) of Shelby Memorial, Linton Porter of Porter Drug in Alabaster, George Johnson of Naish Drug in Alabaster, Jim Curtis of Columbiana Drug, Larry Smitherman of Smitherman's Pharmacy in Calera, Jim Davis of Davis Drug in Columbiana, Steve Cowart of Cowart Drug in Calera, and Jack Sims of Montevallo Drug.

Liquor licenses granted to three clubs

The County Commission voted favorably to grant three requests for liquor licenses in the county at a recent meeting.

Two licenses were granted to Jack Caddell for operations at Oak Mountain State Park. One restaurant will operate under the name "Jackque's Clubhouse Restaurant" and the other will operate as "Jackque's Foothills Restaurant."

The third license was granted to Indian Valley Country Club.

Voting machines ordered

Planning ahead for the primary elections, the Shelby County Commission has ordered six new voting machines to help take care of the increased number of voters expected at the polls.

In the Indian Springs area alone, four of the new machines will be used. Places are not yet designated for the other two, and may not be needed for the first primary. However, the Commission wanted to be prepared with sufficient voting machines, and expects the additional ones will be needed by the November general election.

New voting machines cost $2,250 each. An attempt was made to find used machines of the same type the county already has, but none were available. The state's competitive bid law allows counties to buy additional voting machines without going through the bidding process.

Wants You To Have The Facts On Microwave Oven Safety

FACTS Here are the facts:

During an estimated 100 million hours of microwave oven use, there has never been an injury due to microwave exposure from over 700,000 microwave ovens.

The standards established in 1971 by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare allow a maximum emission level of .005 watts (or 5 milliwatts), thereby providing a minimum safety factor of 20-40 times.

All of the 15 brands of microwave ovens tested in the Consumer's Union report, by their own findings, were well within the Federal safety standards.

Scientific studies on the biologic effects of microwave ovens has indicated no danger of short-term or long-term effects from low level microwave emissions.

Microwave emissions are not cumulative — two exposures add up to one . . . so there is no known danger of continual exposure at minimum emission levels.

H.E.W. has stated its confidence that "the standard is adequate for good safe use in the home."

Microwave ovens are one of the safest appliances in the kitchen.

Valley Mills shares award for Buck Creek plants

Columbiana's Valley Mill shared in the Department of Commerce energy- saving award recently presented to Buck Creek Industries, Inc., Valley's parent company.

James V. Corr president of Buck Creek received the award from Department of Commerce official Irvine E. Morris in Buck Creek's Atlanta office.

The award cited Buck Creek's plants "For responding to the nationwide appeal to conserve energy." Buck Creek, producers of synthetic yarn for the carpet industry, operates plants in Fort Oglethorpe, Georgia, and Dillon, S.C. - - in addition to the Columbiana facility.

Valley general manager Lloyd Gathings said in Columbiana, "We are extremely proud that our energy saving program has been recognized. We have had excellent results at Valley. Our people have cooperated to the fullest extent. We will continue to conserve energy in every way we can."

Buck Creek is a part of the Sperry and Hutchinson Company.

Friendship Club meets at church in New Hope

The Friendship Club of New Hope Community met at the Baptist Church March 28 with twenty people present.

Singing, Bible study and crafts were included in the program for the day.

Mrs. W.J. Stephenson led in the study of the sixth chapter of Mark. Mrs. John Morton and Mrs. W.A. Jones were in charge of crafts which included making yarn dusters that resembled rag dolls on a stick.

A delicious lunch was enjoyed.

The Club meets the fourth Thurs. of each month and is open to anyone of the community who wishes to attend. Retired people are especially encouraged to attend, but anyone is welcome.

Of county towns--

Group collects history

A team of local historians are gathering to compile the history of Shelby County. The county historical society has created a new committee to gather the history of the county municipalities, in order to collect the history of the whole county.

The new committee, chaired by Barbara Baker Roberts, has volunteers from most parts of the county who have consented to collect facts into a history of their individual areas. Persons should contribute bits of their historical knowlege to the committee member in their town.

Alabaster's history is being compiled by former teacher Lavada Harper; Calera is being researched by Barbara Roberts; Malcolm Turner and Mrs. E.B. Turner are teaming up to collect the history of Cahaba Valley. Columbiana archives are being studied by Fay Nix and Thelma Vincent; Jewell Clinkscales is in charge of the Harpersville area.

Eloise Meroney and Roy Cunningham are working on the history of the Montevallo area, and Sara Redfield has taken charge of Saginaw. Representatives are still needed from Shelby, Vincent, Chelsea, Pelham, and all other areas of the county. Society president Kenneth Penhale can be contacted with Helena history, and Westover history should be related to Mrs. Elsie Archer Jones.

Each member of the committee is interested in any historical material from his area, including old letters, maps, deeds and other written history. They are also seeking facts found only in the memories of longtime residents of their towns. To contribute to the history of the county and your town, contact the members of this committee of the historical society.

It's springtime in Dixieland

y Mildred White Wallace

When the redbud blushes to greet the sun,
And the world is fair to see,
And the little green leaves from the whispering trees
Are whispering soft to me-
And I hear a sweet note from the mocking bird's throat.
As he flits from tree to tree,
And the blue bird sings a tender song
As he calls to you and me
Then - my friends, you may rest assured - -
It is Springtime in Dixieland
And life indeed becomes an even more glorious privilege! As someone - more erudite than I once said: It is good to be able to know, to listen, to sing, to love, to work, to look up at the blue sky; to watch the sun slowly sink beyond the western horizon; to feel the breath of Spring, to watch the unfolding of flowers, to see the dogwood trees spread their white tents along our highways. To be a veritable part of this great universe - - is truly a privilege." Even the leaves we turn in Memory's Album are brightened by the return of another Spring.

And - what is that old adage about a young man's fancy lightly turning to thoughts of love at this particular season? Better be careful of that little pagan love - god. He seems to be shooting his arrows pretty straight around this town judging from several sparkling gems we have noticed on the third finger of the left hand of certain folk whom you and I know. Our mail box also each week holds many bridal announcements scheduled for Spring, presenting further evidence that Cupid is still very much in the spotlight despite the utter confusion we sometimes find in this fast spinning ball of a world.

Miss Lefkovits elected head of SCHS council

Marsha Lefkovits, pretty and personable duaghter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Lefkovits of Columbiana has scored another honor in her star-studded high school record. In a heated race for President of SCHS Student Council last week, Miss Lefkovits defeated all contestants and walked off with the honor of breaking a precedent extending back to 1958 when Linda Ellis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ellis Sr., defeated all male candidates to serve in this capacity. Not since these years - - 16 to be exact, has a girl been awarded the coveted honor of being elected President of the Student Council. The office has always been won by the male contestants. However, Miss Lefkovits' outstanding record of achievement in many phases of school life coupled with her beauty and brains won for her the distinction of defeating all candidates and receiving the coveted award.

In addition to being elected president of Shelby High Student Council for next year, Miss Lefkovits has been a long time member of the 4-H senior club and is currently serving as its president. She is also a member of the Senior Beta Club; member of Junior Civitan Club, member of school Science Club and past president of homeroom for two years.

Miss Lefkovits says she "loves animals and loves working with people and becoming involved". She also said that she considered being accorded the privilege of serving as president of the Student Council of Shelby High the greatest honor she had ever received.

Elected to serve with Miss Lefkovits on this new assignment were: Tim Moody, vice- president; Pam Horon, secretary; and Melissa Thrasher, treasurer.

News about your friends and mine

by Mildred White Wallace

Several folk have commented on the article regarding our "home town boys returning to their native heath to live" that I mentioned last week. And all join me in just "being happy about the whole thing".

This morning, we were enjoying a coffee break with our good friend Jim Curtis who was taking a sip - - then jumping up to fill a prescription in his busy drugstore. Between the "ups and downs", and before we finished the coffee, we both were visualizing what Columbiana might have been in the medical field for instance, if all our "doctors" had decided to return home after finishing their collegiate, residential and internship. Had this happened our own beloved doctors Harold Hall and Harry Phillips, would not now have to be exceeding any human endurance record in their conscientious desire to serve humanity and carry forward the oath of Hippocrates as their profession demands.

At any rate, it does no harm to "imagine what might have been"! Just suppose Doctors Hall and Phillips were called upon to enlarge their clinic to include:- Pediatricians, RAdiologists, Specialists in various fields, and the following M.D.'s from Columbiana were associated with them: Dr. Bob Mullins, Dr. Robert Bentley, Dr. Larry Skelton, Dr. Kenneth Skelton, Dr. Frank Hatchett, Dr. Earl Riley, Dr. Merle Meyers Salter, Dr. June Fore Shaw et cetera.

Shelby County is growing in every direction and it is not unreasonable to surmise that just such a facility may become a feasible project. At any rate, Jim and I enjoyed sharing the possibility as a "happening" for future years. This is just one example of what Shelby County - - more specifically mentioned - - Columbiana, has contributed to the medical profession.

In the legal profession there are also quite a few "returnees" - - and in ministerial circles - - from both churches here in town have been ordained some of our state's greatest preachers. We hope the cities and towns in which they are located appreciate them as much as we do.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Jones of Shelby announce the arrival of a son who was born March 23 in Shelby Memorial. They have named the new arrival Jason Ward Jones and he weighed in the hospital on last Saturday morning eight pounds and seven ounces.

Grandparents include: Mr. and Mrs. John Ward of Shelby and Mrs. Edna Jones of Jonesboro.

It seems such a little while since Rick Smith - - about four years of age - - donned his cowboy suit and came to church with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Basil Smith. Rick evidently became bored with the proceedings and got away from his parents out into the aisle and began giving a demonstration of the newest dance crase - A cute little "show-off"! Naturally, the family made a quick exit with their young hopeful.

Today, Rick, another home town boy who holds a degree from Auburn University is home and in business with his father, co-owner of the Smith-Franks Store in Columbiana. Speaking of Rick today his Dad said: "I don't know how I ever got along without Rick in my business. He truly is a great help to all of us".

The Mike Hills and the Rick Smiths, all Auburn graduates, live side by side in the old home town and a more congenial foursome would be hard to find. It's good to have the privilege of calling them our friends!

More and more people are investing in bikes and are enjoying two- wheeling it after work hours. It is good that we here in America can own bikes. In a new book, - "China Journal" - it is stated that there are 1.7 million bicycles registered in Peking alone. But in Communist China hardly any citizen is able or even allowed to own an automobile.

Daughter born to Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Peeples

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Peeples are happier this week due to the arrival of a daughter who was born March 27 in Brookwood Hospital and whom they have named Sonya Renee.

Grandparents sharing in the welcome home demonstration were her grandparents: Mrs. J.C. Peeples of Columbiana and Mrs. Leslie Bean of Billingsley.

Mrs. Lokey honored by Wilsonville church

Although the official date was March 27th, it has been "Happy Birthday to You" practically all month for Mrs. Owen F. Lokey of Wilsonville. It began with an early birthday dinner and gifts at the home of Mr. and Mrs. N.E. Revis (Mary Lokey) with their entire family, and Mrs. Albert Lokey and Anne Phelps Kemp in attendance.

On Sunday a dozen long stemmed red roses graced the altar of the Wilsonville Baptist Church, and Mrs. Lokey was surprised when she read the notice in the Church Bulletin that they were in honor of her 88th birthday. The roses were a gift from her daughter, Frances Phelps and family of Vienna, Va.

Since that date she has been showered with cards and best wishes.

Mrs. Lokey is the oldest active member of the Wilsonville Baptist Church, attending regularly both morning and evening services. She was recently awarded a certificate of appreciation for more than 50 years of service as a Sunday School Teacher or Associate.

For hobbies she likes to knit, but her special delight is to sew for her great-grandchildren. In her spare time she enjoys "talking Books", to which she subscribes, and television, and most of all people!

Mr. and Mrs. Rux Carter and Miss Carolyn Carter have returned home after enjoying a visit with their daughter Mrs. Sam Roberts (Judy Carter) and Dr. Roberts in their home in Dallas.

In Columbiana--

Churches plan for Easter

Holy Week Services will be held at the Columbiana United Methodist Church on April 8 through April 11.

Services each day will be from 12 to 12:30 in the chapel.

At the conclusion of each worship service a meal will be served in the fellowship hall, according to Mrs. Robert Letson, secretary.

Guest preachers for the week are:

Monday, Apr. 8 - Rev. James Bailey, Cahaba Heights United Methodist;

Tues., Apr. 9 - Rev. William Blount, Jonesboro United Methodist;

Wed., Apr. 10 - Rev. Cliff Winefordner, Bessemer First United Methodist;

Thurs., Apr. 11 - Rev. Gordon McKinney, West End United Methodist.

Members of the Baptist Church in Columbiana and their friends are looking forward to the pre-Easter banquet to be held on the evening of April 10. Reservations are now being taken at the church office.

Friday evening, a Clinic will be held for Vacation Bible School Workers at the church.

Saturday evening - Walt Disney's "Follow The Boys" will be shown and everyone is cordially invited to share this film with the Youth of the church.

An impressive baptismal service was held in the church last Sunday evening when Rev. Charles Stroud baptized eight new members.

Friends give shower for Miss Edmonds

The home of Mrs. Norbert Revis in Wilsonville furnished the setting of a miscellaneous shower Sunday afternoon honoring Deborah Hope Edmonds, bride elect of Billy Ray Pickens. Co-hostesses for the event were: Mrs. Joseph Barnes, Mrs. Hamilton Cosper, Mrs. Mertye Daniels, Mrs. Paul Edwards, Mrs. Babby Garst, Mrs. Martin Jones, Mrs. Sammy McEwen, Mrs. Austin Mitchell, Mrs. Everett Scruggs and Mrs. Herbert Sims.

The appointed table was covered with a white lace-edged cloth. Floral arrangements of daisies and carnations centered the table and candles in crystal holders were placed at each end. Janet Armstrong and Karen Garst presided.

Anne Kemp registered the guests who were greeted by Mrs. Revis, the honoree, Mrs. Larry Edmonds and Mrs. William Franklin, mother of the groom and Mrs. Henry Leroy Edmonds, mother of the bride.

A number of friends called during the party hours of 2 - 4.

Too confusing--

'Why balance checkbook?'

By Mildred White Wallace

This writer has never, nor could she ever be, a bookkeeper or be responsible for any type of mathematics. We have never yet balanced our bank book with our banker's figures -- but we feel sure were we to take issue with him -- we would come out the "dummy" for not being able to correctly add or subtract as the case might be. Therefore, we just accept it and go our merry way -- until the next time he calls us to "please call and settle same". So, the following incident which came to us across the miles proved interesting. "A depositor in a certain bank was credited with $5,800 extra, due to a bank error. He did not bother to report it but just left the money in his checking account. Three months later, the bank discovered the error and deducted the amount from his balance. The depositor was philosophical about the incident. He said -- 'It's kinda like the story of the farmer who paid $15 for a pig, spent $18 for feed until it became a hog and then sold it for $23. He did not make any money but he had the company of the pig all summer'.

DKG Society meets in UM's King House

The Alpha Nu Chapter of The Delta Kappa Gamma Society held its March meeting at the University of Montevallo's King House. Hostesses included Dr. Frances Cannon, Mrs. Bobbye Lightfoot, Miss Eleanor Johnston, Dr. Besse Terry and Miss Minnie Dunn.

Mrs. Nell Malone presented the program centered around the Society's theme -- "Changing Times -- Challenge or Dilemma." The notable film, taken from the book by Alvin Toffler, "Future Shock", was shown. The film is a blend of technological achievements and shows the range of choices being made by scientific advancement, the breakdown of traditions and institutions, and the vast need to control in impermanent transcient world.

Mission Fair set in Montevallo

Shelby County's annual meeting for members of the Womens Missionary Union will take place at Montevallo Baptist Church, Thursday, April 11 beginning at 6:30 p.m. It will take the form of a Mission Fair. Tickets for the fair and the supper are available from the church office or one of the W.M.U. leaders. For further information contact Mrs. Ruby Calloway of Mrs. Otha Cagle.

MRS. CHARLES FELTON JONES
. . . formerly Margaret Bailie Scott

Miss Margaret Scott weds Mr. Jones in Alabaster

Miss Margaret Bailie Scott became the bride of Mr. Charles Felton Jones in ceremonies at Central United Methodist Church of Alabaster on Saturday evening, March 30.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Lafayette Scott of Montevallo. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Felton Jones of Birmingham.

Officiating at the marriage was Rev. Tom Roberts. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Her wedding gown was of candlelight delistered satin designed on princess lines. The high jewel neckline was embroidered with silk flowers trimmed with pearls. Motifs of the same flowers cascaded down the front of the skirt which extended to a chapel length train. Her veil of imported silk illusion was adorned with silk flowers and was worn mantilla style.

She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses, gypsophilia and snowflake poms.

Serving as matron of honor was Mrs. John B. Walters III of Jacksonville, Fla., sister of the bride.

Her attendants were Mrs. James P. Lawley, Montevallo; Miss Susan Nunnelly, Auburn; Mrs. Michael Pickett, Montevallo and Mrs. William Scott of Tuscaloosa. The attendants wore gowns of royal blue silk fashioned on empire lines.

The groom's father, Robert F. Jones served as best man. Groomsmen were Richard Jones of Birmingham, brother of the groom; Criag McMahan, Gadsden; Albert Scott, Jr. Atlanta and William Scott of Tuscaloosa.

Following the ceremonies a reception was held in the church parlors.

The couple will make their home in Birmingham.

Recreation program needed in city

In the "Casual Comment" department, a citizen considering moving into Columbiana states he regrets the fact that the city has so few recreational activities, and no paid city director, which is the only way a diversified program all year round can be planned and worked out satisfactorily.

This is something to be thought about for future years. Currently there is only a limited program in force through the summer months, and very little variety to that. Only one swimming pool in Columbiana and it is privately owned. New comers in our town are justified in calling attention to these things and if sufficient funds can be found to finance them they should be on the agenda for future improvements and attractions--or we will lose some mighty fine people who would like to live here if we can provide their children with adequate educational and recreational facilities.

The idea is truly worth consideration by our civic minded people. M.W.W.

Parties given for couple

Among the parties preceding the wedding of Miss Margaret Bailie Scott and Mr. Charles Felton Jones was a luncheon given on March 12 by Mrs. William G. Scott at Cobb Lane.

On the 16th, Mrs. George Towery, Mrs. George Scott, Mrs. Victor Scott, Mrs. W.M. Farris, and Mrs. Donald Latham were hostesses at a luncheon at Vestavia County Club honoring Miss Scott.

Dr. Lois Ackerly and Mrs. Milton Orr Jr. entertained at luncheon on the 23rd at the home of Mrs. Orr in Montevallo.

A double shower was given in Miss Scott's honor by Mrs. Michael Pickett and Mrs. Jimmy Lawley at Mrs. Pickett's home.

On the 28th a party for the bridesmaids and groomsmen was held at the home of Mrs. J.B. Walters, Jr. in Montevallo with Mrs. J.B. Walters, III as co-hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jones entertained the bridal couple at an after rehearsal dinner at the Holiday Inn in Hoover on the evening before the wedding.

Old age problems may be all in mind

by Mildred White Wallace

The grim category of middle age sometimes catches up with people even in their early 40's. It can be a depressing feeling if you want to dwell on the fact that you have already perhaps lived over half your allotted years. But do not despair. You may not have tired blood after all -- and if you think you do -- it may all be in your mind.

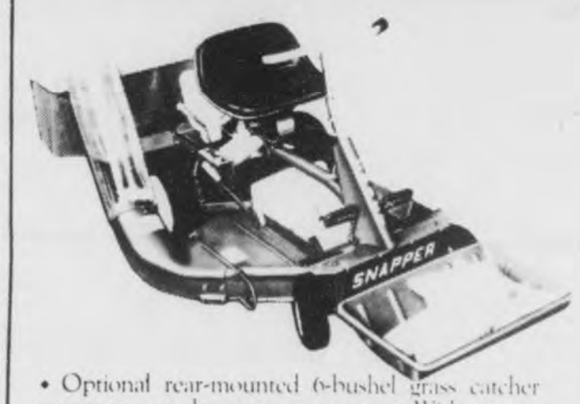
I scanned a news report out of San Francisco this morning telling of a gentleman who had passed away at the age of 106. He took his last job as a waiter at a St. Francis Hotel at the age of 80 and worked there for 25 years until his retirement at the age of 105. He liked to run seven miles every day, and the article said - he polished off the 100 yard dash in 17.3 seconds.

Bored after retirement at 105, he took a job as a good will ambassador for a temporary help employment agency. Maybe there is hope for us all in this gasoline-short day and age. Perhaps it would be more healthful to run to work anyway. What do you think?

* * * *

We recently heard of a certain business manager for a large factory who came up with a financing plan which went something like this. He collected 25 cents from each of the 2,000 employees to purchase a gift for the big boss who was getting married. With this $500 he purchased 2,000 packages of Raleigh cigarettes -- removed the coupons and traded them in for a silver serving set for a gift for the boss. Then he gave every employee a package of Raleigh cigarettes -- for the two bits he donated, thus no one was out a single red cent.

When the big boss learned of this clever and satisfactorily manipulated deal, he wanted to compliment the business manager but was told he was on a fishing trip -- trying out the fishing gear he had received for the trading stamps he got when he purchased the cigarettes.



Nice work if you can get it don't you think?

PTO hosts Open House in Columbiana

The Columbmiana Parent-Teacher Organization will close its 1973-74 year with Open House Tuesday Night, 7:30 o'clock, at the Columbiana Middle School. Installation of 1974-75 Officers will be held and a resume of the organization's program and accomplishments for the year will be presneted.

Following a brief business meeting, Open House of the Columbiana Middle School will exhibit a sample of the total school program and student involvement. Along with classroom visitation with teachers, there will be a musical presentation, art exhibit, and Career Pilot Study presentation. During Open House hours, the Hospitality Committee will serve refreshments. Parents and friends of the three Columbiana Schools are cordially invited to attend.

Westover news

by Elsie Archer Jones

From all the reports which I am getting from different sources, all the Westover activities are on the up-and-go. Every church is reporting unusual gains in attendance and memberships. There is a wide variety of interests in other matters, also.

Just from the appearance of the two young "dandies" which I happened to see Saturday afternoon who were dressed for the Chelsea High School Junior- Senior Prom, that was indeed a gala event. I have been observing the colorful attire of some of our gentlemen -- young and old, but "gollee", I didn't ever dream of seeing such dressed up young blades. I didn't get a chance to see any of the young ladies who were being escorted by these gentlemen, but I am certain that they were equally attractive. I really suffered some pains of nostalgia for some more days in the classrooms with these wonderful people. I also envied the photographers who were on hand for that event, even though a picture cannot reveal all the vitality of these groups. My sincere compliments go to each one of them.

Harold Wortham joined a group of "The Magic Frogmen" from Birmingham to St. Ann's Bay, in Jamaica, last Friday for a five-day vacation. The group met in Birmingham and motored to Atlanta where they boarded a plane for the Island. They stayed at the Sub Sea Resort while on the Island. Of course, their purpose was to enjoy some scuba diving in the beautiful Caribbean waters.

We are glad to report that Mrs. George Collins has returned to her home from Shelby Memorial Hospital where she spent some time.

* * * *

We still have several sick people at Shelby Memorial, including Mrs. Ida Holliman, Mrs. Audrey Suggs, and Mr. John White. Mr. George Eggler, who was at Shelby Memorial, was transferred to St. Vincent's Hospital on Saturday where he underwent surgery on Monday morning. At the time of this writing, his condition was undetermined, but I understand that the surgery was critical. Our prayers and best wishes are with each one of these. Mr. Silas Dobbs continues critically ill at Brookwood Hospital.

The writer has just been informed of the death of Mr. Oliver McManus this morning. The funeral arrangements have not been completed at this time. Our sympathy is extended to the members of his family.

Mrs. Nell Wallace McDaniel, of Birmingham, showed slides of her trip to the Holy Land at Mt. Tabor United Methodist Church on Sunday night. Mrs. McDaniel is a native of Shelby County. Her father was the late Wallace Roper of Fourmile and her mother was the late Mrs. Ollie Shelton Roper who taught school in our County for several years. Her late grandfather Shelton was also a former teacher in our County. A group of men from Union United Methodist Church were invited by a group from the Cahaba Heights United Methodist Church to participate in a Retreat which was held at the "Funny Farm" near Sterrett last weekend. There was also a similar group from some churches in Georgia there. Mr. Preston Moore reported that it was a marvelous experience to have attended this Retreat.

* * * *

The Union United Methodist Church is making some extensive additions to its building. This will include a nursery, a kindergarten room, and four additional Sunday School rooms, with a large storage space.

Mrs. Myra Keef assisted her sister, Mrs. Charles Abbott, in Leeds, with a tea honoring Mrs. Melba Till Allen last Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Keef has recently moved back to Westover from Fort Walton, Fla. She is doing some extensive repairing to her home. Unfortunately her son, Tim, was struck by an automobile on Friday afternoon while riding his bicycle on Highway 280. He was rushed to Brookwood Hospital for emergency treatment and then returned home.

* * * *

Tim Brooks has been released from Shelby Memorial Hospital where he had been taken for a severe case of the flu. Tim is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J.W. Brooks.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Green has as their guests for the weekend her brother and sister Mr. and Mrs. James Arthur Morgan and their daughter Laura Michele of Selma.

FFA contest finals set

The North Central district FFA contest eliminations will be held Saturday, April 13 at Columbiana. Winners in this district competition will have a chance to participate in the state finals to be held in MOntgomery on June 4-6.

Mr. George White, District Supervisor, will be in charge of the days' activities. The program will begin at 9 a.m. in the Shelby County High School auditorium and conclude at 3 p.m. White has announced that contests will be held in livestock and dairy judging, forestry judging, land judging, agricultural mechanics, public speaking, string band, and quartet. Future Farmers entering these contests have come up through the ranks of chapter, county, and in some cases, area competition.

Agribusiness Education teachers from Bibb, Chilton, Clay, Coosa, Perry, Randolph, Shelby, Talladega, and Tallapoosa counties will accompany the Future Farmers to Columbiana.

This event represents an opportunity for advancement as the Future Farmers display their skills and abilities learned in the classrooms and shops of their local agribusiness education departments.

Homemaker clubs celebrate FHA week

Future Homemakers of America throughout Alabama are observing National FHA Week, this week.

Using the theme, Impact '74, they join some half-a-million other young men and women across the country in showing and telling about local projects that are challenging, stimulating, and of real value to youth in preparation for future responsibilities.

"We have a new approach to program planning," according to Jan Cook, State President. "Working with our Program Action Impact kit, developed by youth and introduced to chapters this year, is ex citing. We analyze member concerns and then develop what we call "in-depth" projects that are related to our home economics classroom study. During National FHA Week, we want in impress on people that Future Homemakers of America, as a part of home economics education, provides opportunities for us to learn, to know, to care and to do the things that help prepare us for future living."

All the high schools in Shelby County have FHA chapters, who ar joining in this observance.

Youth club meets

The Chelsea Youth Club will be holding a spaghetti supper on Saturday, April 6, from 5-7 p.m. in the school lunchroom. Bingo will begin at 7 o'clock.

Shiloh Baptist holds singing

Shiloh Baptist Church of Route one, Maylene will host a singing on Saturday, April 6th, at 7 p.m. Guest singers will be the Dodson Family. Rev. David Blake, the singing chairman, invites everyone to come and enjoy the music and fellowship.

Why is your A.D. Pharmacist called "personal"?

Because he's always available for personal consultation. He makes sure you understand your doctor's instructions, for instance.

It's a very good idea to check with him on non-prescriptions too. The fifth largest cause of hospital admissions is drug misuse resulting from self-medication. Be sure. Be safe. Ask your A.D. Personal Pharmacist.

Prep football program modified

The state high school football program has undergone a change in its scheduling and championship play. The Alabama High School Athletic Association has recently announced a regional and area football championship program somewhat similar to that used by state basketball teams.

Class A, 2A and 3A high school football teams will compete in one of sixteen geographical areas. Area teams will play each other and the school with the best record will be determined the area winner.

Areas are paired to form regions. Region winners will play each other to determine a north and south Alabama champion. These two schools will then play each other for the number one spot in their division.

Four A schools are classed into ten regions. Winners will then play in predetermined brackets to produce the champion.

Shelby County 2-A high schools will be located in area seven and region four. Schools in area seven are Shelby County, Vincent, Montevallo, Talladega County Training, Winterboro, West Blocton, Jemison and Marion.

Calera and Chelsea will be located in 1-A area eight and region four. Other teams in their area include Verbena, Thorsby, Maplesville and Isabella.

Thompson High School will be located in 3-A area eight, region four along with Sylacauga, B.B. Comer, Childersburg, Pell City and Talladega County.

After the first two years of area and regional competition, all A, 2-A and 3-A schools must play all schools in its class and area, and class 4-A schools must play all class 4-A schools in its region to qualify for the championship program.

If a given school in an area or region fails to qualify for the play-off program the number of required games to be played in the area or region by the remaining schools will be reduced accordingly.

Herman L. "Bubba" Scott, the executive secretary of the Alabama High School Athletic Association, explains that the aims of this new championship program are threefold.

The first is to add more flexability to the school's schedules. This is a consideration much desired by the coaches, Scott said.

The second aim is to establish geographical play. Scott explained that in order to be successful, a school's schedule must involve its neighbors and communities.

The last aim is to keep travel to a minimum. In the past schools from the southern portions of the state would have to travel to north Alabama for playoffs. Except for the championship games, this will be eliminated.

This new program should produce a higher degree of localized interest in prep football and end regional domination .

Turkey season in progress

State wildlife management areas offer excellent opportunities for turkey hunters as the late turkey hunting season gets underway.

A $3.15 management area deer and turkey is required to hunt in these areas in addition to a management area permit and regular hunting license.

Thelegal time for spring turkey hunting is from daylight until 12 o'clock noon in all state management areas except Cahaba, Demopolis and Oakmulgee.

Three such management areas are located only a short distance from Shelby County. These are the 36,342 acre Hollins management area located in Talladega and Clay Counties, the 22,000 acre Cahaba management area located in Bibb county, the 39,000 acre Coosa

Athletes and band honored at Shelby Academy banquet

Shelby Academy held its annual athletic and band recognition banquet at RollingHills camp last Saturday night.

Speaking before the assembley of students, faculty and parents was Auburn University assistant football coach "Pappy" MOrris.

Athletic team members, band members and the cheerleaders were honored by their coaches and directors.

Basketball coach David Kirk presented letters to the basketball teams and the most valuable basketball player award to senior Tom Reynolds. Reynolds was named to the all district basketball team along with Shelby Academy players Steve Acre and Richard Norton.

Kathy Brown was honored as the most valuable player on the girls basketball team.

Band director Doug Jackson gave letters to the band members. The band also presented Jackson with a gift in appreciation for his work.

Coach Darrell Baygents presented letters to the Raider football team that was 9-1 in regular season play and advanced to the semi finals of the state private school play-offs.

Graduating senior football players honored were George Otts, Kenny Hall, Tom Smitherman, Tom Reynolds, Richard Norton, Chuck Martin, Danny Chadone, Steve Acre and Joey Lovelady.

The most outstanding defensive football player was Joey Lovelady while the most outstanding offensive man was Danny Cardone.

Didn't hold mouth right--

Fish not biting Thursday

by Rick Moore

I didn't hold my mouth right. At least that's what they tell me. Anyway, my first fishing trip to Lay Lake this spring didn't provide anything more substantial than a good time.

Another reason for my failure might be summed up in a statement an uncle of mine - a true fisherman - once said. There are few weekends come rain, wind or cold that he isn't out in his boat fishing on one of Alabama's rivers or lakes. One day I asked if he and I could go out and catch a few. His reply was, "Hell, boy, I've never known a Moore who could sit still long enough to catch a fish, and you're not any different from the rest of them." I guess he was right.

Back to the story. Three weeks ago my desk was flooded with notes to call so-and- so about a whale pulled out of Lay Lake or somebody else who had caught the limit of crappie, but on the way in to shore, fifty more jumped into the boat.

Figity or not, I was determined that I was going to get into the action. I made arrangements to go on a fishing trip with some friends down in Henry County of Lake Eufaula that weekend, but the weather turned cold and we didn't go.

Along the middle of last week I was feeling a little tired after working on the unprescendented 44 page edition of the Shelby County Reporter so I decided to take Thursday off and sleep.

The neighbors dog cornered a cat right under my bedroom window about the middle of the morning and woke me up. I couldn't go back to sleep. It was then I decided that I would finally go crappie fishing.

I called up a friend of mine who is a University of RED SCORE - - Members of the Red team raise their arms in the sign after scoring six points in the Shelby County High School intersquad Red-White football game last Friday. The Red team won the game 12-8. Next Friday night, April 5, all six Shelby County high schools will play in the county football jamboree in Calera.

Spring games

Students at Shelby County High school (left) file into the stands before last Friday's red and white intersquad game. Spectators who have missed the various spring practice scrimmages still have a chance to see their favorite county teams in action this Friday night at the county football jamboree in Calera. Shelby County takes on Thompson, Vincent meets Montevallo and Chelsea plays Calera.

THIRTY–FIVE MILE HIKE - - Members of the Pi Kappa Phi fraternity from the University of Montevallo and UAB pause to rest last Saturday as they pushed a bed from Birmingham to Montevallo to raise money for the Red Cross. The students collected $382 from passing motorists.

Montevallo student. (I use the term loosely.) It just so happened that he was at his home in Shelby cutting classes and sleeping all day so we decided to head for the lake.

On the way I outfitted myself with a card of jiggs, three dozen minnows, a guaranteed super-dooper snagless bass lure that cost a dollar and assorted hooks and corks.

I won't go into any details of the fishing part. Briefly, the line on my rod was so old that it had dry-rotted, I left the jigs in the car, I lost the lure on a snag and knocked the minnow bucket out of the boat.

I didn't even have a nibble all afternoon. The most exciting part of the whole trip was watching the sheriff's cars drive around the shore of Spring Creek looking for two escaped convicts.

After three and a half hours of that I was ready to go home resigned to the fact that my wise old uncle must have been right.

I didn't even get a sun tan.

Alpha Kappa Psi helps file income tax forms

Help with income tax is being provided by the business fraternity at the University of Montevallo, Alpha Kapp Psi, in cooperation with the university and with the Internal Revenue Service.

Students will be on duty to help those who seek assistance in filling out their federal income tax forms on Monday in Montevallo from 2 to 10 p.m. at the Community Relations Council office in the Scott-Long building.

They will be in Calera in the town hall of Mondays from 6 to 10 p.m. and on Thursdays from 2 to 6 p.m.

In Alabaster the students are located at the Y building on Tueadays and Wednesdays from 2 to 6 p.m.

Here's an energy hint. Clean your clothes dryer lint filter after each load. It cuts drying time. That's just one electricity-saving hint from Alabama Power's free booklet.

UM golfers win five

The University of Montevallo golf team boosted their overall record to 5-3 after splitting 3-3 at Troy State University's mini- tournament Tuesday, March 28.

In that action Montevallo defeated Huntington, Spring Hill and Enterprise Junior College after losing to Troy State, South Alabama and Chipola Junior College. Robby Tibbs was the low scorer for Montevallo with a 77, but he was closely followed by Terry Reynolds, Cal Stanford and George Walker, all 78's.

Earlier in March the Falcons golf team had run their record to 2-0 with victories over Samford and Marion Institute. They also finished ninth in the 12 team Alabama Collegiate Tourney played at the University of Alabama.

Braves TALK

Official Report From The South's Big League Team

One of the greatest sports spectacles in the history of the Southeast will take place on Monday night, April 8th, when the Atlanta Braves open their 1974 home season against the Los Angeles Dodgers and the entire nation pays tribute to Hank Aaron in a special half-hour nationally televised pre-game show.

The pre-game show from Atlanta Stadium's field will be the most elaborate in major league baseball history. It will be a musucal salute to Aaron's life, and the list of special guests includes Hank's first manager, Charlie Grimm; the scout who signed him to his first pro contract, Ed Scott; the man who signed him for the Braves, John Mullen; Hank's family; the Mayor of Atlanta; the Governor of Georgia; Georgia's U. S. Senators; and many others. Miss Pearl Bailey will sing the national anthem.

The highlight of the pre-game show will be special presentations to Hank on behalf of his fans throughout the Southeast by the president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, Brad Currey.

The special pre-game opening night show will start at 7:30 with the first pitch scheduled for 8:05.

The excitement generated by the Braves first few games of the season should be unmatched by anything else in recent baseball history. Two of the first four Braves games are being nationally televised by NBC. All three of the Braves road games in Cincinnati will be on TV back to the Southeast.

When Hank hits his record tieing and breaking homers, the games will be stopped for presentations on the field by Braves Chairman Bill Bartholomay and Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

The homers are hit in Atlanta, each will be followed by a giant fireworks display, and everyone attending the games will be given full-color certificates to officially verify that they saw the homers in person.

For anyone who wants a souvenir of greater value than the certificates, an official set of commemorative steins has been designed with a place to inscribe the signature of the homer witnesses in gold.

The entire Braves opening homestand of the season should be something to remember. There will be 11 straight games at Atlanta Stadium, and special pre-game entertainment will be provided on the field before each game. The game dates are April 8-11 against the Dodgers, April 12-14 against the Reds, and April 15-18 against the Padres. Tickets are on sale at nearly 50 Braves ticket agencies throughout the Southeast and at Gate G of Atlanta Stadium.

TEEPEE TOPICS: When will Hank Aaron hit his historic homers? Well, a clue might be that he has hit a homer one time for every 15.8 times he has come to bat during his career.

The most impressive home run hitter in baseball this coming season may be young Darrell Evans of the Braves. After hitting 41 last year, he hit four during the first two weeks of training games this spring.

One more record set by Hank Aaron this year is for bubble gum cards. There are six Hank Aaron cards in this year's series.

Novella Club sponsors drive

The Novella Club members are again sponsoring the Cancer Fund Drive in Columbiana. They have chosen Adele Edmondson and Betty Jones to spear head this important work. So many cases of cancer have been reported that the need for funds for research in an attempt to drive out the dread malady is too obvious for further comment.

The representatives from this club will contact you diring the month of April. Please respond generously!

Creel strikes back at remark from Beasley

MONTGOMERY — Ron Creel, seeking the Democratic nomination as lieutenant governor, took a broad swipe at his incumbent opponent here this week with the formation of "Insignificant Clubs," of supporters.

The title is drawn from Beasley's classification of Creel as an "insignificant" candidate a few weeks ago.

Both candidates were invited to appear before the Alabama Press Association, to make a brief statement and then submit to questioning by the editors of Alabama weekly newspapers.

Creel accepted and appeared but Beasley asked for a special position on the Alabama Press Association convention program, an aide saying that the lieutenant governor did not feel he should appear on a panel with an "insignificant" candidate.

"We will let the people's poll — the vote on May 7 — decide who is an 'insignificant' candidate," Creel said in announcing the formation of the clubs.

Those who join will be presented a membership card, which will also point out some of Creel's criticism's of the incumbent Beasley.

"We will ask whether or not the lieutenant governor considered the people at Mobile, and indeed the entire population of the state insignificant when he managed to tie up the legislature, seeking to enlarge his own office and to secure a large salary for himself, and let the State Docks Bond Issue die in a logjam he couldn't control on the last day of the 1973 session, "Creel said.

"We will also ask if he considered the people insignificant when he stuck the "no fault" insurance bill in his pet "holding" committee and kept it there while telling the people he favored such a bill.

"We will also ask if he considered the people insignificant when he assigned several bills of the Wallace administration into hostile committees and kept them there in order to win concessions on his own pet legislation.

"We will also ask if he considers the senators themselves and the 106 members of the House insignificant when he deliberately tied up the legislative process with arbitrary bill assignments while he bargained for more personnel and more money for his own office.

Creel said the idea of the "Insignificant Clubs" was first formulated by a letter to The Montgomery Advertiser citing the Beasley remark and likening it to the "Peckerwood" remark which was applied to Frank Dixon in his gubernatorial campaign.

"Peckerwood Clubs" sprang up all over Alabama and were credited in large part for Dixon's eventual victory.

"I certainly don't classify myself as an 'insignificant' candidate," Creel said, "and I am finding out as I campaign throughout the state that the people don't either."

He said that more and more people throughout the state are vowing to vote the incumbent out for what they call Beasley's "power mad" grab for money and prestige.

A series of advertisements will inform the people how they may join a Creel "Insignificant [illegible]," the candidate said.

Airman Smith completes AF basic training

Airman J.D.I. Smith, Son of Mrs. Hazel F. Smith, Rt. 1, Calera, has been assigned to Keesler AFB, after completing Air Force basic training.

J. D. I. SMITH

During his six weeks at the Air Training Command's Lackland AFB, Tex., he studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special instruction in human relations.

The airman has been assigned to the Technical Training Center at Keesler for specialized training in communication-electronics systems.

Airman Smith, a 1973 graduate of Calera High School, attended the University of Montevallo.

Act pays those hurt on govt. property

Millions of American tourists will be visiting the nation's capital this year for a close-up look at their government. Although most of them won't realize it, they should be grateful for an unusual law called the Federal Tort Claims Act.

This Act, overturning the ancient doctrine that "the King can do no wrong," allows a citizen to hold the government liable in case he gets hurt on federal premises. For Example, claims have been filed by:

a men who stumbled on uneven flooring in a Senate corridor;

a woman who skidded down the steps of the National Gallery of Art;

a woman who fell on ice behind the White House during a Christman pageant; and, a woman who slipped in the lobby of the Smithsonian Institute.

True, payment under the Act is not automatic. The victim must be able to establish some measure of fault on the part of the government.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Thus, a woman tourist who stepped into a hole beside the Washington Monument won her claim because she proved governmental negligence. It seems that some faulty plumbing, installed by a government crew, had undermined the paving and caused it to sink.

But a man who stepped into a hole near the Jefferson Memorial (at Cherry Blossom time) was denied damages because he had ventured into an area where the public was not supposed to go. The court said the government was not required to be as careful in places where visitors were not expected.

Of course, the Act applies equally to federal premises all over the country. You have its protection in courthouses and post offices, military bases and national parks.

In one case, a boy won damages under the Act after a wobbly mailbox toppled over on him. The court felt that the mailbox was a federal "place of business," just like the post office, and should be kept just as safe.

On one tank of gas--

Take a trip to Moundville

by Doris E. Davis
Reporter feature writer

Even before the first white explorer set foot in Alabama a city had already flourished and faded. It was located on the Black Warrior River in Present day Greene county. Peace loving industrious citizens occupied this ancient metropolis covering over three hundred acres.

The Alabama woodlands provided bountiful game to sustain these people. The Black Warrior river was well stocked with fish. The soil yielded up corn, squash, beans and pumpkins.

Since the land literally flowed with sustenance the citizens of this city had leisure time. But they did not spend their days in leisure. They carried basket upon basket of dirt, piled them one upon another and built enormous mounds.

On top of these mounds they built structures for worship, for council and residences for important leaders of the society. The mound building Indians were very religious and spent much time in worship. They were also very creative. From the clay of the Black Warrior River they fashioned delicate pottery. Intricate designs were carved in the soft clay before it was baked to a hard and lasting finish.

For some reason unknown this city of mounds had already been deserted when DeSoto passed through the area in 1540.

In 1905 archaelogists began excavating the ancient mound city. The State of Alabama later purchased all the land where the Indians had built mounds and established Mound State Monument.

If you are interested in learning more about the first Alabamians, Mound State Monument is an intriguing place to spend a day or two.

Archaelogists uncovered many burials beneath the soil of the ancient city. A museum was built over two groups of burials exposed and left as the scientists found them. The museum also houses exhibits of many of the relics found in the excavations.

Atop one of the mounds a temple has been reconstructed much as it must have looked when the Indians lived there. Inside lifesize Indian figures can be seen conducting a religious ceremony.

A small Indian village consisting of five huts has been reconstructed in the park. In each hut is a lifesize scene depicting everyday life as lived by the mound building Indians.

A picnic area and gift shop are located on a bluff overlooking the Black Warrior. The view of the river and surrounding scenery is beautiful from this location.

Campsites are now available at Mound State Monument. They can accomodate trailers, campers or tents. Water, electricity, bath houses, rest rooms bar-b-que grills and picnic tables are provided. Sewage connections are available at a few of the spaces. A separate area has been set aside for scout troops who wish to camp overnight.

Mound State Monument is located 13 miles south of Tuscaloosa on Alabama highway 69. Shelby County residents may wish to take I-59 out of Birmingham to Tuscaloosa or go by way of Montevallo and Centreville to Tuscaloosa. Either way provides a good road and an enjoyable ride of about 1½ to two hours.

Admission to the park if $ .50 per student and $1.00 per adult. Camping fee is two dollars per night and campers are charged the usual admission rate to the park only once during their stay.

With the price of gasoline soaring and its availability dubious, many of us will have to spend our vacation time seeking places a tank of gasoline away. Mound State Monumnet is such a place. It is interesting, educational, enjoyable and only a full tank away from Shelby County.

INDIAN HUT - - Visitors entering one of the five huts located in the Indian Village at Mound State Monument at Moundville, Alabama. These huts contain life size Indian figures performing the everyday tasks of the Moundville Indians.

FISHERMEN - - Interior view of Fishing Hut showing the activities of the Moundville Indians following a fishing trip. The Moundville Indians were mainly farmers, but they also took a good deal of their food from the Black Warrior River.

Chelsea PTA hosts student art show

The Chelsea School P.T.A. will hold its regular monthly meeting, Monday night, April the 8th at 7:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

Mrs. Fay Dunlap and Mr. Mickey Humphries are in charge of the program for the evening. Mrs. Dunlap's 5th and 6th grade Art classes will have a "Show Off" in which they will exhibit art work they have done in class this year.

The Arts and Crafts exhibit will be on display all this week at the school in Room 9, and open Monday night during the P.T.A. meeting. Of special interest will be the Indian Art display, and an exhibit of some marionettes and hand puppets the students have made themselves.

Mr. Humphries is sponsor for the F.F.A. Singing Quartet Group which will perform at this meeting. This group has already won the first place in the Shelby County Chapter competition, and will go to the district meeting to be held April 13th at the Shelby County High School.

Student members of the F.F.A. Singing Quartet Group who will sing Monday night are as follows: Donnie Davis, Denise Bradley, Mike McDaniel, and Jeff Brasher.

Vets should obtain release to sell GI loan home

The Veterans Administration warns veterans and servicemen who sell homes purchased with GI loans to make certain they obtain a "release from liability" if the purchaser assumes their loans.

"Otherwise," officials explained, "the seller (the veteran) could be held financially liable should the purchaser default on mortgage payments." It was noted VA granted 9,270 "releases" last fiscal year, about the same number as the year before.

VA will grant a "release" provided the veteran's loan is current, the purchaser agrees to assume the veteran's liabilities, and the prospective purchaser is a good credit risk with sufficient income to meet GI loan mortgage payments.

Officials made clear, however, that a "release from liability" does not automatically restore GI loan entitlement the veteran utilized to purchase the home sold. Restoration can be made, it was stressed, only for what the agency describes as "compelling reasons" for disposing of the property -- provided the GI loan has been paid in full.

Where purchasers agree to assume loans, officials urged veterans to apply promptly for a "release" from VA offices which guaranteed their loans.

On the lighter side of new home building

A New Jersey couple whose new home was completed very recently had hardly moved in before the neighbors came over to inspect it. Naturally, the conversation was on the subject of the new house. "It's very nice," commented one visitor, "but I don't see why you call this type of house a bungalow." "Well," explained the owner, "we just don't know what else to call it. The job was a bungle, and we still owe for it."

Egg Baskets

Children favor "finger" foods. Being naturally curious, little ones like to know exactly what they're eating. Egg Baskets offer a handful of familiar foods in a delightfully new way.

To form a basket, Mother shapes yeast dough into round "nests" and places an egg in the center of each. Two strips of dough cross the egg forming handles. In the oven, the egg bakes along with the dough so that this meal-in-one comes to the table in very "edible" form.

Protein-rich eggs resting in a nutritious basket made with enriched self-rising flour provide your family with the basis of good health. Enriched self-rising flour means that three B-vitamins – thiamine, niacin and riboflavin – plus the minerals, iron and calcium, are in all your baked products.

Easter Baskets
9 small loaves

4½ to 5 cups enriched self-rising flour*	½ cup water
2 packages dry yeast	½ cup sugar
½ cup milk	¼ cup oil
	11 eggs

Stir together 1¼ cups flour and yeast. Heat milk, water, sugar and oil over low heat until warm (120 to 130°). Add liquid ingredients to flour-yeast mixture and beat until smooth, about 3 minutes on medium speed of electric mixer. Blend in 2 eggs. Add 1 cup flour and beat 1 minute on medium speed of electric mixer. Stir in more flour to make a moderately stiff dough. Turn onto lightly floured surface and knead until smooth and satiny, 5 to 10 minutes. Shape into ball and place in lightly greased bowl, turning to grease all sides. Cover and let rise in warm place (80 to 85°) until doubled, about 1½ hours. Punch down. Cover and let rest 10 minutes. Divide dough into 10 equal portions. Shape 9 portions into balls; flatten into ½-inch thick round loaves. Place on greased baking sheets and gently press egg in center of each loaf. Divide remaining portion into 18 small pieces. Shape each piece into a 6-inch strip. Cross 2 strips over each egg and seal ends to underside of loaf. Fold aluminum foil and join ends to make collars about 6 inches in diameter and ¾-inch high. Set one around each loaf. Let rise in warm place until doubled, about 1 hour. Bake in preheated 350° oven 20 to 25 minutes, or until done. Remove foil from loaves and cool.

*Spoon flour into dry measuring cup; level. Do not scoop.

Candidates speak in Saturday rally

Bill Thompson got down to cases Saturday in his campaign to unseat Shelby County Sheriff C.P. "Red" Walker.

Speaking at the political rally at Shelby Academy Thompson hit the sheriff's record on handling narcotics in the county.

Thompson said, "The sheriff says there are no drug pushers in Shelby County - that young people just sell it to one another. Yet, only last week in Alabaster a man was arrested with 850 pills. I ask you, what is anybody doing with 850 pills if he isn't selling them."

Thompson then hit record keeping in the sheriff's department. He said if he were sheriff, proper records of recovered stolen property would be kept, and the recovered property would be kept in the sheriff's office, not in his home.

Thompson lashed out at the number of cases that are dropped for lack of carefully compiled evidence in Shelby County courts. He said, "The judicial system is only as good as the men in the field who conduct the investigations."

Thompson said he would require detailed investigations and careful record keeping if he were elected to the office.

He also raised the question of the cocks who prepare meals in the jail. Thompson said that inmates prepare the meals without training and without prior physical examinations. He warned of the dangers of communicable diseases spreading through the jail.

He also stressed that he would enlist the cooperation of state and municipal law enforcement officers including ABC, Troopers and Conservation officers.

Sheriff Walker chose not to reply to the charges when he spoke, other than to state that he installed a system of keeping the first criminal records that ever were kept in the county.

He said he was responsible for bringing thousands of dollars worth of equipment into county law enforcement through LEPA grants, and he stressed his 15 years of experience as sheriff of Shelby County. He reiterated the number of law enforcement schools he has attended.

Allen Wilson of Pelham did not make a formal speech at the rally, but instead obtained a country music band to perform for the gathering featuring Charles Reeser, Steve Dupree, Bobby Clark, Bill Blankenship and Edward Cofer.

Wilson said in an interview, "I can't promise too much. If I have to lie for this job, or if I

Flowers predicts--

Impeachment to be "very close" issue

by Marcia M. Sears, Editor

In an exclusive interview with the Shelby County Reporter, Congressman Walter Flowers predicted that the vote on impeachment proceedings against President Richard Nixon "is going to be very close," in the House Judiciary Committee.

Flowers represents Shelby County in the U.S. Congress and has been described by some members of the media as the "swing man" on the Judiciary Committee, which is now looking into charges against the President.

Questioned on how he is going to vote, Flowers said, "I am going to listen very hard and intently and then make up my own mind."

The committee will begin studying evidence on the charges after Easter, he said. Up to now the committee has held hearings on the technicalities of the impeachment process, and on the general charges.

The Alabama Congressman said the hearings have taken up about five to six hours of his time each week, but when the committee begins to study the actual evidence, he expects the sessions to be very long.

Flowers said that the attention the members of the Judiciary Committee have been receiving from the national press is "unbelievable." He said that talking to the press is taking more time than the hearings.

He has turned down interviews with many major national newspapers, he said. He emphasized that he thinks it is inappropriate for a member of the committee to discuss any of the charges while the hearings are going on and before all the evidence is heard.

He commented on Newsweek magazine's recent story in which Flowers was referred to as a "persuadable" member of the committee.

He told the Reporter he hopes he is "persuadable" in the sense that he will listen to all evidence and all sides of the story before casting his vote on the committee.

There are 21 Democrats and 17 Republicans on the Judiciary Committee.

Flowers laughed at being referred to as the "ranking Southern Democrat" on the committee. He said he is number 10 in rank on the Democratic side, but of the three Southern Democrats, he is the ranking member.

The national press is pushing to find out how the Southern Democrats on the committee will vote, and speculation is occurring that the thinking of the Southern Democrats will have a lot to do with whether or not the President is impeached.

Flowers did not speculate on that, but he said that he thinks the three Southern Democrats can look at the evidence more independently than others on the committee.

The Congressman was in Shelby County last Saturday on a campaign tour.

Six immunizations--

New law affects entering students

All children entering school for the first time next fall must show proof that they have been immunized against six diseases.

In Shelby County, that means about 900 to 1,000 children, according to Mrs. Betty McClure, supervisor for the county board of education.

Under a new Alabama law, school officials will not be allowed to admit a child who does not present a certificate of immunication or a certificate of exemption.

The Alabama Legislature passed a law in 1973 which requires children initially entering public or private schools in Alabama to be immunized against diseases designated by the State Committee of Public Health. The committee established a requirement for immunizations against diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus, polio, rubeola, and rubella. There has been no uniform statewide requirement for immunizations until this time. Mrs. McClure urges parents to begin updating their children's immunizations immediately to avoid a rush in late summer.

Immunizations, as well as the necessary certificates for school entrance, may be obtained from private physicians, or from the county health department. The certificate or immunization for school entrance must be signed by an authorized official at one of those health sources.

Parents whose children have already received immunizations need to get certificates signed to present to school authorities.

If the children have not been immunized, parents should make plans now to have the necessary shots taken.

The county health department maintains medical clinics where children may be immun-

Fires strike

Brantleyville

Fires struck twice on succeeding nights in the Brantleyville community. The Brantleyville Baptist Church was totally destroyed on Friday night, April 5, and an abandoned house was burned to the ground the next night. Both blazes occurred at about 1:30 a.m. on Friday and Saturday nights, bringing fire trucks from many several surrounding towns.

According to Brantleyville residents, the church fire had been burning for several minutes before anyone noticed it. Several fire departments were called, and within a short time trucks arrived from Alabaster, Helena, Pelham, and Pea Ridge. Rescue vehicles were also on hand from Shelco Unit No. 1 and West Shelby. The church was a total loss, with nothing but burned walls remaining after the fire.

According to Kenneth Mullins of the Helena rescue and fire squad, the Alabaster fire department deployed the High winds blamed in lake drowning

A motor failure, high winds, and lack of a life preserver resulted in the death of Oliver F. Hays on Lay Lake last Wednesday.

Hays, who resided at 614 Bell Street, Bessemer, died after the wind flipped his 16 foot aluminum cabin fishing boat, according to a Sheriff's report. Hays and his wife were fishing in the vicinity of the public boat launch in southern Shelby County when the disaster occurred.

The two were on the river Wednesday afternoon when their motor failed, blowing the boat into a line of stumps. A gust of wind then apparently capsized the craft throwing Hays and his wife into the water. Mrs. Bell, who was wearing a life jacket, swam to a nearby island about 150 feet from where the accident occurred.

Bill Henke of LaCoosa Marina said he received a report that a boat was caught in the stumps between his place and the public boat launch. Further investigation revealed that the boat had capsized.

Because of high winds Henke decided to reach the capsized craft by taking his boat to the opposite side of the island and crossing it to the other side.

He found Mrs. Hays on the island lying in a state of shock under a picnic bench. Henke says that she told him that her husband had drowned.

Henke took her back to LaCoosa and called the sheriff's office. Deputies Gene Hamby and Wayne Lucas arrived on the scene at 5:45 p.m. and called for the rescue squad and an ambulance.

Mrs. Hays was taken to a Bessemer hospital.

Board goes ahead with PHS opening

Will the new Pelham High School be ready for students when school opens in late August?

The Shelby County board of Education met at the new school site on April 3 with representatives of Sparks Construction Company, and reached the decision to go ahead with plans to open the school as scheduled.

The contract called for completion on August 15, with hardly a moment of time to spare.

Classrooms will be ready, according to Sparks Construction spokesmen, although most of the rest of the building will not be finished. Delays in delivery of prestressed concrete have presented a problem to the builders.

County superintendent of education Elvin Hill told the Reporter that when the school opens, it will not only take ninth grade students, as originally planned, but will also take seventh and eighth grade students.

Hill said that population pushed the Valley School to its limit of 1,000 students. Valley School has grades one through eight. It now appears, Hill said, that Valley School will have 1,000 students next fall in just the first six grades.

He said the board decided the best way to handle the problem was to admit seventh and eighth graders to the new school, along with the ninth graders.

The original plan was to start the Pelham School with a ninth grade class and each year admit another ninth grade class until the school was a four-year high school.

It now appears that the school will open with three classes in order to relieve the crowding at Valley School. Ultimately, the school board may consider building a middle school next to the high school, Hill said.

Hill said that no additional building can take place in the Valley School location without infringing on the playground areas and the board does not want to do that. The school has reached its capacity at

SEEKING ACCREDITATION- - The Montevallo Elementary School is being examined this week by a team of educators representing the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools. The week-long series of interviews and inspections began with a dinner meeting held Sunday night in the University of Montevallo dining rooms. Pictured at the dinner meeting are, (seated, Left to Right) Mrs. Doris Jeter, principal of the Montevallo Elementary School; Mrs. Ann Parker, vice president of the Montevallo P.T.A.; (standing Left to Right) Mr. Ewell Parker, principal of the Cleburne County Elementary School of Heflin and chairman of the visiting committee and Elvin Hill, Superintendent of the Shelby County School system. More than 50 Montevallo and Shelby County school officials and interested citizens attended Sunday night's dinner. If the visiting accreditation team turns in a favorable report, the school will be accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools

PROTESTER S ENTERTAIN RALLY - - All in fun a parade of "protesters" helps entertain the crowd of politicians at the Shelby Academy rally Saturday. Country music bands enlivened the proceedings between speeches by more than 37 candidates for local and statewide offices.

Accidental hanging takes youth's life

A fatal accident took the life of ten year old Kelvin Goode of Route 1, Box 275, Montevallo Sunday night.

According to Montevallo police who investigated the accident, the youngster was playing on a porch in the Almont- Aldrich area about 7 p.m.

Kelvin put a rope around his neck, and then accidentally fell off the porch on which he was playing. The other end of the grass rope caught on a ratter.

Montevallo physician Dr. Leslie Hubbard pronounced the boy dead.

Kelvin Goode was the grandson of Henry Goode.

most fire trucks to the scene and arrived before the other departments. Chief Ronald Johnson and his men arrived in three trucks shortly after the call at about 2:00 a.m. Friday night.

At about 1:50 a.m. the next night all of the fire departments sent out the call again, as their volunteers jumped out of bed to rush to the fire at the old Lacey farm on county road 17 in Brantleyville. The abandoned farmhouse had recently been used for the storage of hay. The old wooden structure burned fiercely before the firemen were able to make an effort to save it. Like the church, it too was a total loss.

Arson is suspected in the two fires. Local residents feel that two fires in such a small area is more than coincidence, especially since they occurred at about the same time on Friday and Saturday nights. Luckily both buildings were empty of people when the fires occurred.

The people of Brantleyville are planning to get busy at building a new Baptist church at once. They had been planning a new building, but had delayed it because of lack of funds. Donations for the church can be sent to Brantleyville Baptist Church, Route 1, Maylene 35114, to the attention of Jack Brantley.

Rescue

Shelby rescue squads were alerted to the scene but were prevented from searching for Hays that evening by the tornadic weather that prevailed over north Alabama.

The rescue squads began dragging operations and an underwater search by skin divers by mid-morning the next day. Hays' body was recovered at 12:50 p.m.

The Rip Tide skin diving center of Birmingham also aided in the rescue operations by loaning skin diving equipment to the rescue squads according to Rev. Fred Holmes of the West Shelby unit.

Three cushion life preservers were found in the cabin of Hays' boat when the rescue unit volunteers righted it and towed the boat into shore.

have to buy it, I don't need it. I want to make the people a good sheriff, and I still want everybody to be my campaign manager."

Candidates for statewide and county offices converged on the Academy to make speeches and to campaign.

Doug Ballard, candidate for County Commission District 2 served as emcee of the rally, which included bands, jokes, a flying saucer and several other entertainments to please the crowd.

Two of Ballard's opponents, in the District 2 race, Victor Scott of Montevallo and Curt Payne of Alabaster were on hand to make their speeches to the gathering.

Scott stressed his experience in business and came out for increasing industry and business in the district. He said "If industry does not keep up with our residential explosion, our taxes will go higher and higher. Our residents now pay only 20 percent of the taxes and require 80 percent of the services."

Curt Payne also stressed his experience in government and business and urged the crowd, "Don't believe everything you read in the papers."

A complete list of candidates who attended the rally:

Walter Flowers, Doug Ballard, Obie Littleton, Tom Stubbs, Jabo Waggoner, Curt Payne, Red Walker, Pig Headley, Bill Thompson, Jake Vaughn, Kyle Lansford, Conrad Fowler, Charles Beavers, Victor Scott, Lister Proctor, Tom Walker, Calvin Smith, Eddie Gilmore, Frances Davis,

Music festival planned

Over 140 outstanding band students from four Shelby County high schools will gather in Montevallo this Friday and Saturday for the annual Shelby County Music Festival.

Band students selected from auditions at Thompson, Calera, Columbiana and Montevallo bands will participate in the festival. All day Friday will be taken up with practice sessions, and another practice will follow on Saturday morning.

A public concert will conclude the Festival at 7:30 Saturday evening in Palmer Hall on the University of Montevallo campus.

The students will perform in either the All-County Band or the Festival Band. The All-County band will be directed by Dr. John M. Long, associate dean and director of bands at Troy State University.

The Festival will be coordinated by all band directors in Shelby County public schools, with Elson Hood as chairman.

MHS basketball team wins city recognition

Montevallo High School's basketball team, winner of the 1974 state champtionship, received another honor this week, when the Montevallo City Council unanimously passed a resolution praising team members for their accomplishments.

Copies of the resolution are being sent to each member of the team. The original resolution will be framed and presented to the school.

Team members commended are, Percy Brown, Thomas Brown, Bryant Cottingham, Ervin Cottingham, Lorenzo Mitchell, Roger Moore, Willie Moore, Recardi Nelson, Lewis Prentice, Eddie Tyus, Ronnie Tyus, Henry White, Bobby Wyatt.

The council also extended gratitude and compliments to coach Gary Fleming, manager Jimmy Tally, athletic director Richard Gilliam and principal W.C. Corbett.

More teachers than positions in county

What's the teacher lineup for the schools next fall?

According to Shelby County superintendent Elvin Hill, there have been very few teacher resignations, but he has about 150 applications from qualified teachers who are seeking jobs.

Hill expects that the county may need 12 to 15 new teachers next year throughout the system, including new teachers at the Pelham High School.

Cook seeks Senate seat

Ed. Note: The Shelby County Reporter normally provides news space for every candidate who declares for a Shelby County office at the time of qualification. In the rush of candidates, The Reporter failed to present a biography of Senator Doug Cook who is running for the Senate in District 17. His opponents in the contest are Eddie Hubert Gilmore and Tom Stubbs. The district includes five beats in Cahaba Valley area of northwest Shelby County.

In announcing his candidacy Senator Cook said, "After the urging of so many people and a great deal of soul searching, I have decided to seek a second term in the Alabama State Senate. I am acutely aware of this area's needs after serving a full term in the Alabama State Senate."

While in the legislature, Cook supported legislation on ethics for the state office holders that passed in the last session. In addition, he served on the Ethics Committee appointed by the Governor that recommended ethics legislation.

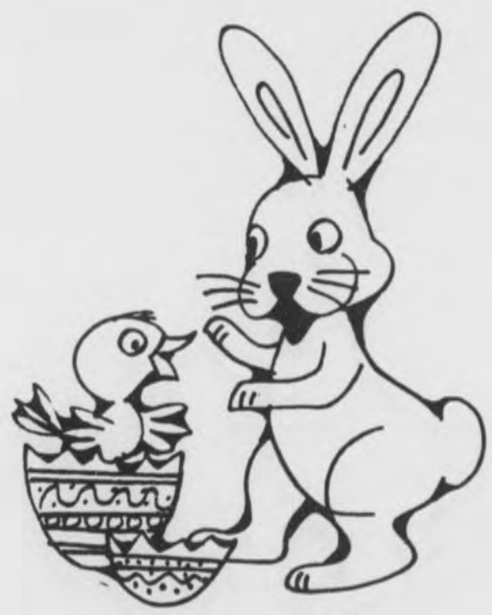
He as been active in educational legislation and served on the Educational Study Commission. He has sponsored drug abuse programs and health legislation. While serving in the House, he was the chief sponsor of the Aviation Fuel Tax Reduction. He was elcted by the Senate to be a member of the Legislative Council of the State of Alabama and the Council of State Government.

Cook is vice-president for sales and commerce of Eagle Motor Lines, During his last term in the Senate he refused the Charimanship of the Commerce, Transportation and Common Carriers Committee.

In refusing the Chairmanship, Cook said, "I have always abstained from voting on any truck bill and I felt that serving as chairman of this committee would be a flagrant conflict of interest."

Currently President of the Birmingham Convention and Visitors Bureau, he has also served as head coach of the Birmingham Touchdown Club and past vice president of the Birmingham Jaycees. He is married to the former Patsy Elliott. The Cooks have a daughter, Pam, and are members of St. Mark's Methodist Church.

Marijuana plants seized



After a covey of law enforcement officers found 100 baby marijuana plants growing in sunlamp-heated incubators, two University of Montevallo students were arrested Tuesday morning.

UM police chief Doug Jackson, Montevallo police chief Troy Kirkland, Sheriff's investigator Jack R. Neely and other officers conducted the raid leading to the arrest of Robert G. Carlisle, 20, Vestavia Hills, and Grantham James Mayton, 19, Uniontown. They are in the county jail in lieu of $5,000 bond each.

Also confiscated in the raid were 40 pieces of marijuana paraphernalia, seeds and fertilizer, according to investigator Neely.

Capitol Comment

By Don Wasson

One of the most interesting facets of the current political campaign is the role blacks will play and despite the fact that the racial question is not the overiding factor, the black vote is extremely important.

It is important to George C. Wallace because he is trying to establish himself more firmly as a national candidate and he knows the National Democratic Convention will never give him its nomination, at least not for president, until he has visibly demonstrated that he is not a racist.

He keeps saying that he is not a racist, and that he has never been one. And while Alabamians may swallow that whole, it isn't going to be accepted on a nationwide scale.

Wallace is going to have to make some overt demonstration of a lack of prejudice and the most emphatic way this could be done would be to have a black cabinet member, or at least a few blacks appointed to state boards, commissions and committees where policy is made.

The governor is a defendant in a suit at this time which seeks to force him to make such appointments. It notes that there are but three blacks among Wallace's 768 appointees to some 61 boards and commissions.

It could well be that the governor wants the court to order him to appoint more blacks, so he can tell his traditional support that he was forced into it. But there is little doubt that the governor wishes the court action could be delayed until after the May 7 primary.

Word around the Capitol is that Wallace will have a black cabinet member or two, and that there will be a few other blacks scattered around in administrative posts where the governor has the power to appoint.

In this respect, Public Service Commissioner Kenneth Hammond beat all the other politicians to the punch when he named John F. Knight Jr., a black man, as his executive assistant effective April 1.

In doing so, Hammond was acknowledging the support he received from the black voters in his 1972 race in which he defeated Eugene "Bull" Connor, the longtime nemesis of the blacks in Alabama.

But he was also looking far down the road to 1976, when he must stand for re-election. He had the foresight to see the inevitable--that if state government leaders do not put blacks into responsible positions, then the federal courts will do it for them.

Hammond is also smart enough to realize that by 1976, there will be a number of blacks in leadership and policy-making posts and that his appointment of Knight will be largely forgotten as the first of such appointments.

Attorney General Bill Baxley has also named some young black attorneys to his staff and he too is looking far down the road and expressing his appreciation for previous black support.

The black vote is going to be all-important in the races for lieutenant governor and those for state treasurer, state auditor and secretary of state. Candidates for those offices are today beating a path to the doors of black leaders, actively seeking their support.

The influential Alabama Democratic Conference, led by Montgomery's vigorous and vociferous Joe Reed, meets in Birmingham April 20 to make its endorsements.

What they decide might well decide the winners of several offices this year. At least they will decide who makes the runoff. And in 1974, we may see the most convincing sign that times are changing if the candidate who didn't get the ADC endorsement, facing a runoff with the candidate who did, does not go around screaming about "the black bloc vote."

Sparkman answers queries

Dear Senator Sparkman: In a recent news announcement you did not clarify whether or not you favor giving away the Panama Canal. I would appreciate your letting me know your position on this matter. H.D., Birmingham Sparkman: I do not favor "giving away" the Canal. In fact it is my hope that an agreement can be made whereby we will have continued full use of the Canal Zone area.

Dear Senator Sparkman: Our local police organization has asked me to solicit your support for the bill to revive capital punishment for certain crimes. Although there have been convincing arguments against capital punishment for many years, the present alarming increase in kidnappings, air priacy, bombings, and other violent crimes has made a more convincing argument for capital punishment than any other we have heard. N.A., Opelika Sparkman: I support this legislation, and, accordingly, I was pleased when the measure passed the Senate. It is now in the House of Representatives awaiting consideration.

Dear Senator Sparkman: I would like to object to the proposed $300 billion federal budget which is the largest budget in the history of our nation. Fiscal sanity is long overdue in Washington, and should start with the Congress. B.G., Mobile Sparkman: I am sure you realize that this $300 billion figure comes from the Administration which has been talking a great deal about fiscal responsibility for several years. I am confident that the Congress will reduce the figures in this budget substantially.

Letter to editor....

Blacks killing blacks called senseless: brutal

In recent months I've been alarmed and ashamed of the increase in the number of senseless and brutal killing of black by blacks in the Alabaster area. I keep asking myself, why? Is this what Freedom and Civil Rights means to us? Our foreparents toiled and prayed that we might be "free and have equal opportinities, to raise our standard of living through better education and jobs.

Did King and the Kennedy brothers and many more to numerous to mention here die in vain? Did they die that we could gun down and knife each other in stupid senseless brawls?

Black's have become a symbol of violence. The public thinks all blacks carry guns and knives and are ready at a moment's notice to start shooting. It is not true. The "gun toters" are in the minority.

When a white man kills a black, it's inhuman, sad. Our grief is heard nationwide TV, newspaper. We riot, we burn, our grief is almost unbearable, we are being mistreated because of our color.

But when we kill each other in 24 hours it's forgotten. It takes a small section of the paper if mention at all. Why outlaw the Klan? We kill each other anyway! What difference does it make if the killer is wearing a bed sheet or a Superfly hat?

It's time for black leaders in the community to speak out against these killings. Where are the answers?

Is it the ministers who come in on Sunday driving fine cars, using big words they learned at some Theology Seminary, pocketing their salary and going on their way until next time? Why not go where "it's at- -" and tell it like it is"?

The lost are not always in the church pew. What became of preaching in the streets and homes?

Are the churches becoming too materialistic and modern? Are ministers failing to provoke one another into love and good works due to material wealth replacing that which is spiritual?

Alabaster Suburban League : Is not your creed to promote Human Welfare, to establish better relations in the community on all social and economic levels?

Have you spoken out against these killings? Has the law become lenient with homicide where only blacks are involved? In most cases when the killing is done Saturday night the killer is out by Monday.

Parents, I know we are failing. We fail when we don't ask little John or Mary where they are going - what are they doing - Who are their associates.

Anytime we as parents don't know where our child is every hour until he becomes an adult (to the best of our ability) we are failing. We let our kids go and come when they please in the black community. Children are in droves standing, walking along the street from age one up to 18 they line the streets. When school is out you can't drive for fear of an accident, and if you expect them to let you pass, forget it. Just stop and wait until they decide to swagger across the street.

I saw a small boy, (appeared to be six years or less) stretch "spread eagle" in streets with my heart in my mouth I braked and dared to honk my horn. He rose slow as molasses in January morning as he barely moved over to let me pass. He spoke out a stream of profanity that would make the devil blush. My first thought was to tell his mother but there was no need, she was sitting on the porch watching it all. She was unruffled. Parents, our children are the citizens of tomorrow unless we teach them now, will they know. Are we rasing potential murderers?

Let's resolve from this day forward to teach our kids respect for authority and respect for all adults. Some of us are complaining about our black kids failing grades under white teachers.

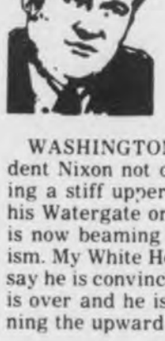
Perhaps they are afraid, they are wondering if that bulge under little John' or Mary's coat is a peanut butter sandwich or a .38 special. Let's dust off the Bible and read about Love being the greatest commandment.

How will they know unless we teach them? Pray with them at night instead of letting them fall asleep in front of the T.V. Stop your children from lining the streets in idleness. Insist that they work after school and during the summer. Go to church and take your children with you every Sunday.

On Sunday the kids in the black community are shooting marbles, flying kites, playing ball in the streets. And why would a parent let a child play in the street? It is too dangerous to cross let alone play.

Get our kids out of the streets and give them work to do - cut grass, wash windows. Some of our garbage is piled so high in our yards until we could start a plague. Let's put our kids to work - paint the house - plant a garden - there are plenty of constructive projects.

When we move in a white neighborhood, the whites start an Exodus - we bring suit against them. Our pride is wounded. You don't want to live next door to a bunch of trigger happy shiftless people regardless what color they are.



If you can work long enough to buy a gun you can work long enough to buy a house. Are we as parents pleasing God when we fail to do everything in our power. Put forth every possible effort to raise decent law abiding citizens. Lets get our children out of the street, put them to work if the job doesn't pay what it should isn't something better than nothing? (Have you forgotten working for two dollars per week?)

Your child will be a better man or woman if you teach him to work. Let's bring back Chrisitanity in the home. Black parent of Alabaster are we failing? Stop letting your kids live in the streets in idleness. If they have nothing to do, let they do it in their own back yard. Teach them daily what thus saith the Lord, if we don't teach them how will they know?

Has Alabaster become Little "New York" where the homicide rate is the highest in the nation, 90 percent black killing black. Like Detroit, Michigan called "Murder In Corp" where black killing black is a way of life?

Along with the Bible lets get back to our hickory switches and start bending the sapling while it's young."

Nixon's optimistic

by Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — President Nixon not only is keeping a stiff upper lip through his Watergate ordeal, but he is now beaming with optimism. My White House sources say he is convinced the worst is over and he is now beginning the upward climb.

As he has explained it to aides, he believes the case against him has now been presented in the worst possible light. Hereafter, his side of the story will start receiving national attention.

The President is cheered by encouraging reports from local party leaders about his recent TV appearances. He is planning a whole series of speeches and question-answer sessions to lay his case before the nation.

He will combine these with other activities to dramatize that, despite Watergate, he is still governing the nation. As a climax, he hopes to hold a triumphant summit conference with Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev in Moscow.

The President still believes the House may impeach him, but he is convinced the Senate won't convict him by the necessary two-thirds vote. My sources say he is positively enthusiastic over his prospects of remaining in office until the end of his term.

There is only one drawback. His optimism is matched by deepening pessimism inside the Republican hierarchy. An increasing number of party leaders simply disagree with his assessment.

Meanwhile, up and down the country, Republicans are running for cover from President Nixon. They don't want to get caught in the Watergate crossfire which, they believe, has mortally wounded him. The charge that he owes $476,431 in avoided taxes may be the final bomb-burst that will destroy him politically.

But the President is still fighting from his political bomb shelter in the White House. He is eager to prove to the party that he isn't a political liability. He has asked aides to try to persuade Republican congressional candidates to invite him to campaign for them.

At the President's prodding, White House counselor Dean Burch and Republican national chairman George Bush flew out to Michigan and put quiet pressure on the state chairman, William McLaughlin, to invite the President to Michigan to campaign for James Sparling in a special congressional election.

My sources say McLaughlin warned the White House representatives that a presidental visit would hurt more than it would help Sparling's chances. McLaughlin reportedly argued that the President, himself, would be better off staying away. Otherwise, he would be blamed in case Sparling was defeated.

But Burch and Bush were insistent, and Sparling finally agreed to invite Nixon to Michigan. The President's press spokesman, Gerald Warren, immediately announced that the initiative for the invitation had come from Michigan not Washington and that the President would seriously consider a Michigan visit.

But like so many other things the White House says, Warren's statement wasn't entirely true.

Probe Drags On: The House Judiciary Committee has imposed the tightest possible security on its impeachment inquiry. Guards with walkie-talkies guard all the approaches to the offices, where investigators are sifting through the impeachment evidence. The hallways and fire escapes are closed off. Visitors can reach the offices only by elevator, whose doors are closely guarded.

Yet behind all this secrecy, I can report that the 100 attorneys, investigators, clerks and secretaries still can't find useful work to occupy their time. Only a dozen hard-core lawyers are trusted, apparently, to go through the secret evidence. Some of the secretaries fill their spare time by clipping newspaper articles for their bosses' scrapbooks.

The investigators have gone ahead with informal interviews with some Watergate figures such as dirty trickster Donald Segretti and Nixon campaign aide Hugh Sloan. But the taking of sworn depositions has been suspended, while the committee tries to make up its mind whether to let the President's attorney, James St. Clair, cross-examine witnesses.

The slow progress behind the guarded doors almost certainly means that the impeachment inquiry will drag on into the summer.

Henry and the Hill: Secretary of State Henry Kissinger is famous for his diplomatic detentes in Peking, Moscow and the Middle East. What has gone largely unnoticed, however, is his political detente right here in Washington.

Kissinger has succeeded where President Nixon has failed in establishing good relations on Capitol Hill. He is constantly giving congressional leaders closed-door briefings. He has also gone out of his way to appease congressional potentates in other ways.

Kissinger has 25 employes who do nothing but handle congressional requests and complaints. Over the past 12 months, they have answered more than 19,000 letters and 200,000 phone calls from Capitol Hill. Each congressional letter is logged in and out, and the responsible bureaucrat is allowed no more than three days to prepare a reply.

The State Department is also burdened with the task of arranging overseas trips for junketing congressmen. One official complained that embassy personnel don't have time for their diplomatic duties because they are too busy carrying luggage and conducting sightseeing tours.

So many junketeers are tramping through Taiwan, for example, that the U.S. ambassador there felt compelled to protest to the home office. His classified cable read, "This influx of visitors...is straining Embasssy resources to the full."

Discouraging Word: Secretary of State Henry Kissinger brought back discouraging news from Moscow. He urged the Soviets not to interfere with his peace efforts in the Middle East until he can arrange a Syrian-Israeli disengagement. He received no such assurance.

He knew from intelligence reports that the Soviets had been quietly goading the Syrians to stand up to him. Apparently, the Kremlin fears that Kissinger is squeezing the Soviets out of any Middle East settlement.

According to the intelligence reports, Soviet diplomats had encouraged the Syrians not to attend the peace talks in Washington. The Kremlin strategy, apparently, was to force Kissinger to include the Soviets in the peace negotiations.

So in Moscow, Kissinger pleaded to be left alone until a disengagement can be arranged on the Syrian-Israeli border. This can best be accomplished, he argued, by his own shuttle diplomacy. Once the shooting has stopped and the opposing troops have been separated, he agreed that the Kremlin should play a role in the final settlement.

Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev couldn't have been more cordial. He was dressed, according to those present, in a black suit with a pearl stickpin and three medals pinned to the suit. He bantered about the medals and heaped hospitality upon Kissinger.

But in the give-and-take, he gave no meaningful promise of Soviet support in the Middle East.

Silenced by laryngitis, other problems appear

by Fred Cooper

I slip paper into typewriter, reflect momentarily, and then begin to record my thoughts.

That's about the only way I CAN record them.

I've been hit by a monster, an unyielding enemy that has sapped me of one of my most prized amusements - - talking.

I have laryngitis.

I suppose it's my fault. I had a sore throat last week and had been alternately gulping antihistimines and garbling a mouthwash that must have had an acid base. I should have stayed home and recovered but this was the final week of rehearsal of a play I have been directing and it had to get together, so I forged on.

I really think everything would have been all right if I hadn't tried to outshout that band.

My week ended with the option of a party on Friday night which featured a musical group that are not only good but are close friends. Naturally, being worn out from fooling with the play all week in addition to the sore throat, I selected the option and went to the party. I found myself seated next to one of the band's amplifiers and in order to be heard by my table mates, it was necessary to yell.

I lost my voice at 9:30. I stopped talking at midnight.

Once stopped, however, my abused vocal cords have steadfastly refused to crank up again.

It's a curious experience to open my mouth and instead of hearing the tinny tones I've been listening to for years, something makes its way from the depths of my throat that sounds like I swallowed a frog.

My boss sent me to her doctor when I showed up silent on Monday, thinking maybe a touch of throat spray might clear up my problem enough to get some work out of me. It didn't give me my voice back but the trip did offer something to worry about in place of it.

The doctor said that the tissues in my nostrils are growing together.

I don't know exactly what this means but I sure know what it sounds like. Since he gave me this information, I've learned that it's a fairly common problem with people who have allergies (which I didn't know I had) and a minor operation can clear it up. A minor operation is one that isn't generally fatal. I've also learned that if I can avoid the surgery, do it.

So here I sit, my nose growing together and no voice to tell anybody about it. This silence, however, HAS given me the opportunity to make a decision on my next move. If I have to have surgery to open my nostrils, I'm going to be sure this doesn't happen again.

I'm going to have zippers installed.

Commission studies new resolutions for water, roads

One item of business taken by the Shelby County commission at its Monday meeting was to do preliminary work for a study of tying the county water systems together.

The commission also passed a resolution to draw new truck routes for county roads.

The hiring of two additional workers for the county food stamp program was approved by the commission.

The county governing body agreed to allow the Morris-Shea Bridge Company to remove the old Lake Purdy bridge on county highway 119 for the material in the old bridge. There would be mo other cost to the county for its removal.

The county engineer received authorization by the commission to seek bids for four new dump trucks needed by the county highway department.

Community Theatre--

Theatre plans agenda

Friends of theatre enjoyed a pleasant Sunday afternoon last Sunday when the Shelby County Community Theatre entertained at a tea at King House on the University of Montevallo campus.

Invited guests from all sections of the county attended the tea and were conducted on tours of the recently restored King House, the oldest building in Shelby County.

The Community Theatre has produced "Life With Father", Butterflies are Free", and most recently, "Autumn Garden."

A children's theatre production is planned for this summer, and discussions are underway on the subject of reader's theatre productions during next year.

The theatre group has always sought participation from persons throughout the county and hopes to schedule plays that can be presented in various communities, in the future.

Hosts at the Sunday tea were: Mrs. A.C. Anderson; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ballentine; Dr. and Mrs. Bill Fancher; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hughes; Mr. and Mrs. Ashley Jeter; Dr. and Mrs. Lewis Kirkland; Mr. and Mrs. Teamon McCulley; Mr. and Mrs. Grady Parker; Dr. and Mrs. Eugene Sledge; Dr. and Mrs. Ward Tishler and Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Tolbert.

IN MEMORIAM

"Shall we triumph over little things?"

All the mistakes we have made throughout the year will perhaps soon be covered by the joys and laughter of Spring. The budding of green grass and tiny colorful flowers. Oh! The loveliness of Spring. The Spring flowers telling a story in the coming months to our dreams - our highest goals.

The magnificent start shining clearer than ever will brush the roof overhead in a world of ttiumph.

A fisherman will have his joy in the early morning catch. The frogs breaking the silence occasionally of the morning - still delioious from the night.

And soon the gorgeous pink, blue and white morning glorys will be seen blooming at the door, entwining the thorned stems of lovely crimson Roses. Purple violets already peeking out of the soft brown earth.

What precious memories we all have today.

How great - how swiftly come's peace and love into one's heart. The beauty of little things and spring covering sorrow in one's heart. God ruler over all the universe.

In memory of the mother who picked violets with me when I was a child and I lost in Oct. And to the many wonderful friends in Shelby County.

Girl Scouts lead town in 'Clean Up Calera' day

It all started with three Cadette Girl Scouts working on their Active Citizenship Challenge to make first class.

Denise Carden Katie Jernigan and Tyra Holcomb approached Mayor George Roy, of Calera with a plan to clean up Calera.

They designed a patch for those participating. The plan was approved by the city council and Mr. Roy ordered the patches.

Last Saturday, April 6, was officially declared "Clean up Calera" day.

Sgt. Harris from the Calera Armory volunteered trucks and drivers and with the help of all three Girl Scout Troops, Cub Scout Pack 530 and the Boy Scout Troop, adult scouters and the National Guard, the clean up went on its way.

Cadette Troop 181 wants to thank Mayor Roy and the city of Calera. Sgt. Harris and the National Guard and all Scouts and Scouters for their cooperation and a job well done.

Dr. Martha Tack, fellowship chairman of the Tuscaloosa branch of AAUW, spoke to the senior girls and the AAUW members about "Women in Action" and fellowships being offered by the AAUW. She was assisted by Mrs. Gaylen Pugh, chairman of the committee of the Tuscaloosa branch.

Mrs. Elizabeth Rodgers president of the Montevallo chapter, presided at the meeting coordinating the meeting were Mrs. Ruth Coffman, Mrs. Laura Frances Mathison, and Mrs. Mamie Yarbrough.

BOARD REACTIVATED - - The reactivated Shelby County Personnel Appeals Board held its first meeting last Thursday. New members of the board are, left to right, I.C. Whittle, Columbiana; Oscar Harris, Helena; Kermit Matheson, Montevallo; board clerk Mary Nivens; T.O. Smith, Wilsonville; and A.A. Lauderdale, Columbiana. The board's duties are to handle complaints by or about county employees.

Fund opens in Alabaster for recreational facility

Robert Tolbert, chairman of the board of directors of the Alabaster Suburban League, announces that the League will not be able to hold its annual tea and banquet this year due to the unavailability of the Thompson Middle School.

Tolbert criticized the regulations that the school requires before making the building available to meetings. He said that one of the three trustees or the principal of the school must be present during any meeting held at the school. This year one trustee is out of town on weekends, another trustee is recuperating from an illness, and the ohter who sanctions the annual tea cannot commit himself in advance.

Tolbert noted with regret that Alabaster has no recreational facilities or center in which to hold meetings. He pointed out that the crime rate is higher in Alabaster among blacks than in any other town in the county.

One of the projects of the League for several years has been to build a recreational center, and Tolbert asks anyone who wants to make a contribution to mail it to "Alabaster Suburban League, P.O.B. 8067, Siluria, AL 35144."

IT'S TIME FOR A CHANGE

Under Bill Thompson - - -
The Sheriff's Department will be different.

BURGLARIES

Bill Thompson believes that the Sheriff of Shelby County should work with State Investigators and Sheriffs in other Counties to identify, arrest, and convict people who are in the business of buying stolen property. A burglar without a quick sale is likely to be less active.

Bill Thompson will invite State Investigators into the County to assist County Deputies in solving burglaries of homes and businesses, and thefts of automobiles. Victims of these crimes are denied the services of these highly trained State Investigators. Under Bill Thompson, Shelby County Deputies will gain valuable experience as they work side by side with State Investigators for a solution to crimes committed in Shelby County.

Bill Thompson will purchase an electric pin that will be loaned to citizens so that they might engrave their drivers' license number on their televisions, radios, stereos, cameras, and other valuable personal property. A gummed label to be placed on the doors of the place where the property is kept, will be provided on which will be printed a message about the marking of the property. This method has reduced the number of burglaries in areas where it has been employed.

Bill Thompson will organize the schedule of County Deputies to provide greater patrol activity in the areas where burglaries occur most frequently. He will get additional manpower for the Sheriff's Department by reducing the number of secretaries presently employed in the Department.

LET'S ELECT BILL THOMPSON SHERIFF OF SHELBY COUNTY

Industry Day is April 16 at University of Montevallo

Representatives from 17 Birmingham- area industries will converge on the University of Montevallo campus Tuesday, April 16, to participate in the school's annual Industry Day activities.

Thornton Nelson, Alabama Power Company's vice president for industrial development, will speak to the gathering of businessmen, Montevallo students, and students visiting from a number of high schools in Jefferson and Shelby counties at 10:15 a.m.

INdustry Day involves seminars for both business leaders and college students, a convocation of businessmen, college and high school students, exhibits through which companies introduce themselves and their products, and recruiting interviews for outstanding business students.

Seminars in accounting, finance and management are scheduled to begin the day's activities at 9 a.m. Robert Farr, treasurer of Vulcan Materials, will conduct the accounting seminar and Robert Woodrow of First National Bank of Birmingham will head up the finance discussion.

After the arrival of high school students, Mr. Nelson's remarks, and lunch, the afternoon will be devoted to informal visits and touring the exhibits set up in Bibb Graves Hall. The exhibits will be open to the public from 1 to 4 in the afternoon.

Organizations interested in participating in Industry Day can reserve display space through the College of Business at the University of Montevallo, 665-2521.

Montevallo adopts fire zoning plan

Montevallo's City Council has extended the area in which only fire resistant or fire proof buildings can be built.

Council members voted unanimously Monday night to extend the municipal fire zone to all areas zoned for business. Monday night's action took the form of an ordinance. The complete text of the ordinance will be found in the legal notices section of this issue of the Reporter.

Most of Montevallo's business district has been covered by an ordinance that was adopted by the city on July 22, 1947. The effect of Monday's action extends the limitation of fire resistant or fire proof buildings to all areas zoned for business. Generally, this includes all of Main Street and Selma Road.

In other business to come to the council's attention Monday night, James Seaman, chairman of the streets committee, announced that the current street improvement project is now complete.

The 1974 streets improvement project is now under consideration.

Kenneth Bailey, city clerk, is currently seeking cost estimates on resurfacing the bus parking area at Montevallo High School, on reshaping and resurfacing basketball courts at the Montevallo Middle School, on construction of a sidewalk from Island Street to Montevallo Elementary School and replacing washed out segments of the road in the new municipal park.

Councilmen Grady Parker and J.A. Brown informed the city governing body that construction of the new fire department building is now underway. A contract for the building was awarded to the Butler Building Company of Birmingham. The concrete slab foundation for the new fire hall is scheduled for pouring later this week.

Gerald Bullock, operator of recreation centers in Bessemer, appeared before the council, requesting permission to apply for a license to operate a recreation center in the now-vacant service station building located on Highway 25 near the Southern Railway viaduct.

Bullock's first request was received by the council several weeks ago. Since the initial request, the city inspector, T.C. Latham and city fire chief, Dr. S.M. Mahan inspected the building and approved the structure for its proposed use.

After extended discussion council members voted to grant Bullock a license. Bullock indicated he planned to open the center within a few days.

City Clerk Kenneth Bailey informed council members that city crews are behind schedule on clearing tree limbs and branches as well as other trash from city streets, chiefly because of an unusual amount of recent storm damage.

Bailey also told the council that a project to rebuild storm sewer manhole supports would get under way as soon as city crews completed clean-up operations.

In other Monday night action, the city governing body accepted the resignation of police officer Odell Caputo. In a follow-up motion, Steve Taylor, a member of the city's auxiliary police force, was promoted to full time status to replace Caputo. Caputo's resignation and Taylor's appointment become effective April 12.

Westover news

by Elsie Archer Jones

During the past few weeks our lives have been filled with the tensions of the news of the tornadoes, with their vicious paths of deaths and destruction. Also, during the same period of time, we have been saddened with the passing of several of our friends and citizens from natural causes. We are indeed thankful that we have been spared great losses from the violences of nature and sympathize deeply with those who have lost their loved ones and for those who have lost all or part of their material possessions.

But today as I try to write a few words of encouragement and thankfulness to those who have escaped these tragedies, my thoughts turn to the thoughts which began with Palm Sunday and continue through this week with the plans for the coming Easter Sunday, when all of our thoughts turn to the resurrection of our Saviour Jesus Christ and his promises of greater rewards for all of us. I contacted several churches to see what plans had been made for their Easter Services. At the Prospect Baptist Church, they will have Sunrise Services at 6 a.m. At the regular church service, the children will have an Easter Pageant. There will be an Egg-Hunt for the children on Saturday afternoon, about 2 p.m.

The Union United Methodist Church will have the traditional Egg-Hunt on Saturday afternoon for the children. For the Easter Services, there will be the usual preaching hour, with special music by the choir, which will include two special songs --"Open the Gate to the Temple" and "He Lives." Last Sunday 92 were present for Sunday School, and they are praying for at least 125 on next Sunday. On Sunday evening, the regular second Sunday night singing will be held. The Deep South Quartette will be the guest singers. Everybody is welcome to all the services.

* * * *

The Mt. Signal Baptist Services will begin with a Sunrise service in the parking area. The participants may stay in their cars, or there will be chairs available for those who do not stay in their cars. This service will be followed by a church-wide breakfast. There will be the regular preaching service at 11 a.m. Sunday evening, the Easter Cantata "No Greater Love" by John Peterson will conclude the week's revival services, which have been conducted the whole week by Evangelist Rev. Hutchins, pastor of the Tenth Ave. Baptist Church in Birmingha. Special music was furnished each evening by the music director Tony Blackerby and the organist, pianist, and choir.

Jimmie Landers is enjoying a fishing trip to Florida with friends while he is recuperating from surgery at St. Vincents Hospital.

The opening of Hargis Retreat on Wednesday of last week was well attended. An estimate of 700 visitors was calculated for the visits to the home and country store, followed by the brunch. The Retreat will continue being opened on each Saturday and Sunday evening from 2-4 p.m. through the year. There will be a donation accepted. Laymen from First Christian Church will serve as guides during these hours.

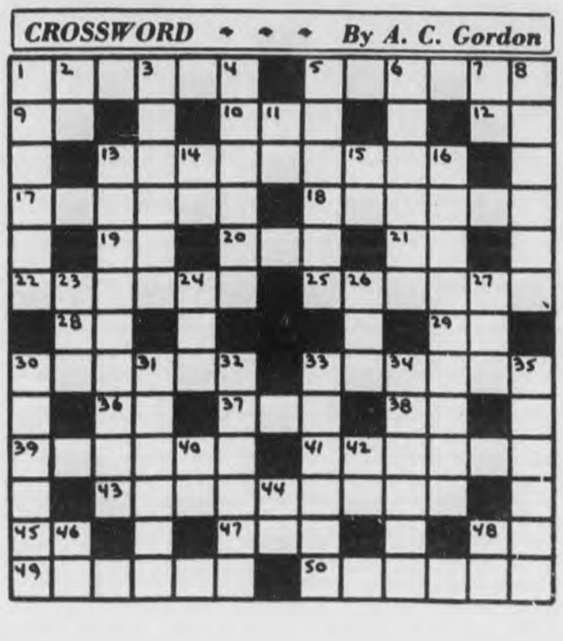
Miss Mary Goodwin is a patient in Shelby Memorial at this time. Mrs. Ida Holliman has returned to her home after several days in this hospital.

* * * *

Mr. George Eggler returned home for a few days, but will be transferred to the University Medical Center for further tests and treatments this week. Mr. Hubert Robertson has returned home, but is anticipating having to re-enter the hospital for further treatments. OUr best wishes go with both these persons.



Mary Coshatt survived by 50 descendents

Mrs. Ethel Mary Coshatt, 77, of Rt. 2, Montevallo, died on April 6 at Chilton County Hospital.

She is survived by five daughters, Mrs. Carrie Noe, Alabaster; Mrs. Daisy Horne, Montevallo; Mrs. Minnie Kicker, Tuscumbia; Mrs. Margaret Poreter, Clanton and Mrs. Mildred Grayson, Ruston, La.; two sons, Frank Coshatt, Verbena, and Harliss Coshatt, Calera. 19 grandchildren and 24 great grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Sunday at Enon Baptist Church with burial in the Enon cemetery. Rev. Trines and Rev. Pat Minshew officiated. Hoffman-Rockco directed.

WINS SPACE DERBY - - Mrs. Jerry Price holds the trophy she won for building the best rocket in the recent den mothers competition at the Calera Scouts space derby.

Calera holds space derby

The space derby drew the interest of Calera Cub Scouts pack 530 when it was held on March 30.

Winners of the individual dens were David Phillips, Derrick Merritte, Randy Cottingham, Bobby Jones and Mark Carden.

Winner of the pack and recipient of the large trophy was Derrick Merritte.

Six den mothers also built their own rockets and had a run-off. Mrs. Jerry Price took home the large trophy. Mrs. Lalia Horton came in second and Mrs. Hazel Ryan came in third.

Other competing den mothers were Mrs. Gail Beasley, Mrs. Jean Holcomb and Mrs. Ernestine Miller.

Judges for the derby were Buddy Glasgow, Prof. Jack Thomas, Arthur Brunice, Arthur Lee, Bill Watts, Cecil Harris and J.B. Denahm.

Cubmaster S.A. Jernigan announces an upcoming pinewood derby for the latter part of April.

Court report

Andrea Burgess, assistant Alabaster city clerk, reported that the Alabaster municipal court considered 63 cases last week. Of these, 33 were new, nine were continued from previous court sessions, and 21 were old alias cases.

The 63 cases were disposed of as follows: 23 continued, 10 paid, three nol prossed, eight new alias warrants issued, and 19 old cases were outstanding.

FAMILY PORTRAIT - - The Gilbreth family poses for a group picture in Thompson High's spring play, "Cheaper by the Dozen." The parents, their twelve children, miad, and teacher gather around, all decked out in their turn-of-the-century clothes. The play was a big success at the Monday night performance on April 8th. The proceeds from the comedy-drama will go to the Junior-Senior Prom set for next month. (Photo by Willard Harrison)

Wildflowers bloom in county

by Willard Harrison

Spring has definitely come to Shelby County in the form of wildflowers. It seems that everywhere one looks nature has painted a spot of color. Shades of red, yellow, violet, white, and other rainbow hues pop up amid springtime's greenery along the county roadways.

Now's the time of year to ride around the county's scenic countryside to see the beautiful blossoms. Violets are bursting out in clumps in the woods and backyards. One finds small violets, dogtooth violets, birdfoot violets, and even white violets.

Sweet Williams are already in bloom along Shelby County byways with their distinctive light magenta color. They bloom in bunches atop foot-high stalks, and they too can add a touch of wildflower charm to a home garden. Trilliums are blossoming in shady woodlands, with flowers in several colors; they can be identified by three large leaves that surround the bloom on the short plants.

That big prickly plant beside the road may be an Indian paint brush, a member of the thistle family. Or it might be a near relative called Devil's shaving brush, because of its resemblance to the old-fashioned barber's brush.

Slow down along the roadway and look at a spot of red buckeye flower, or a trailing vine of yellow jasmine, and other brightly colored weeds. And flowering trees and shurbs also brighten up Shelby County roadsides. Dogwoods and redbuds are the most numerous of the blooming trees, but honeysuckle, wild plum, crabapple, and others are blooming as well.

A walk in the woodsy wetlands also reveals many new wildflowers, such as purple wild irises, lilies, and yellow and white water lilies in streams. The greenery of ferns is also beginning to appear, although they have no flowers. Many of these plants are good for potting or for landscaping purposes, although most people do not want to go to the trouble of making a concrete lily pond.

EVen our yards are dotted with color. The yellow of dandelions magically turns to white fluff. Wild onions add a touch of color to lawns. But be careful not to confuse wild strawberries with rattlesnake berries; wild strawberries have white flowers while the poisonous rattlesnake berry plant has small yellow blossoms. Both have small strawberry- like fruit, but one is extremely poisonous.

Now that spring is really here, take a woodland excursion and look for wildflowers. Whether you collect them for vases, for pressing in books, or for transplanting in the yard, at least go out and see Shelby County's flowers as they grow out in the wild.

Health department hires solid waste supervisor

Shelby County's new garbage pickup program is moving ahead under the supervision of a new health department employee. The now solid waste supervisor, Don Wheeler, will be in charge of the countywide program.

Don Wheeler

Wheeler graduated from Jacksonville State University with a degree in biology. He and his wife Margie and daughter Christie have moved to Columbiana. Wheeler told the Reporter that this is his first job in this area, having come originally from Flatrock, Alabama.

"There is a real need in the area of garbage removal," said Wheeler," judging from all the complaints that are coming in. He adds that he thinks the garbage pickup system should run smoother in a few months, after all the bugs are worked out. His plans for the moment are "to do the job and do it well."

THS players give spring performance

Thompson High School's spring play played to a full house in the Monday night performance on April 8th. The comedy "Cheaper by the Dozen" was a rousing success, according to playgoers.

Playing to a packed auditorium, the school performed Frank B. Gilbreth and Ernestine Gilbreth Carey's popular comedy-drama. The plot concerns a father with twelve children who tries to runs his household like he runs his factory. Monday night's performance was highlighted by many moments of comedy and several deeply moving scenes.

The St. Bernard named Sugar Bear virtually stole the show from the rest of the cast. Starring in the play were Jeff Munford (father), Lori Lackey (mother), Camille Hines (Anne), Cindi Key (Ernestine), and Ben Montalbano (Frank). Other cast members include; David Finley, Don Ray, John Richardson, Susan Hill, Kim White, Shawnee Lint, Apryl Bunshee, Karen Swain, Wade Martin, Jack Guthrie, and Jack Harris.

The play was also performed on Tuesday morning for Thompson Elementary school students. Proceeds for the play go to the school's junior-senior prom.

Go fly a kite in April winds

by Willard Harrison

So March has gone out like a lion and you never got a chance to fly a kite? Cheer up. Although March is considered kite flying month, experts say that it is actually one of the worst months to fly kites. After the rough weather the county has been having recently, the steady breezes of April will be a relief to Shelby County fliers.

Kite flying is rising to new heights around the county in vacant lots and parks with enough space free of trees and power lines. In fact, many children who live outside of towns are even flying kites from cow pastures, although they are careful to watch their step.

Alabaster seems to be getting involved with the activity, especially around the city ball field. Mrs. Carol Murphy says that Alabaster people of all ages are kiting, from pre-schoolers to adults. She said that she and her sons have gone to the ball field to fly kites on clear windy weekends, joining many other kite-flying neighbors.

Helena's Joe Tucker Park has also been the site of recent kite flying, as have parts of the University of Montevallo campus. The annual ritual of kite flying is happening all around the open spaces of the county, wherever one can find the young and young at heart.

Manufactured kite kits are apparently the most popular among the county's kite flyers. It seems that they are available wherever one turns in the various towns, from drug stores to variety and department stores, to supermarkets and convenience stores. These plastic or paper kites appear to be selling in whatever place they are offered. One new type of kite that is catching on is an inflatable kind which combines ballons with the traditional kite. Box kites are also a favorite, and more offbeat ones are occasionally seen. Nylon fabric is being used today in some of the kites available.

Homemade kites are fun for many county youngsters who find that making them is as much fun as flying them. Newspaper, tissue, and light fabric are the basic materials which are combined with glue, sticks, and decoration. A number of books about kites are available in county libraries, telling their history and facts about how to make different kinds of kites.

Cotton or nylon kite cord is generally recommended, although some enthusiasts are trying fishing cord. Of course this is not recommended, since this tough, near-invisible cord could be dangerous if it were accidently draped across a town.

Most dedicated kite flyers find that some sort of device is needed to reel in the line to control the flight. Some have made their own from spools and other odds and ends, while others are experimenting with flying kites on lines controlled by an ordinary fishing rod and reel.

Ever wonder what to do with a kite once it's in the air? Some groups stage kite fights, as they tangle strings trying to destroy an opponents kite. Kites are also useful in lifting objects. Try putting a line with a baited hook on a kite and combine kite flying with fishing like the Japanese do.

Kites have also been used to raise cameras for aerial photos, or weather instruments to test weather conditions in the upper atmosphere. Some kite flyers have also attached another kite and line to do one already in flight, so that they have two or more flying in tandem from one line.

Once the basic knack for kiting has been learned, try a variation instead of the same method. Use some imagination. Make your own kite. Add a wind whistle to the kite to make it sing. Decorate it with aluminum foil for sparkle. Try a new kite design. Whatever choice is made, try a new, personalized kite for some outdoor fun with friends and family.

Science fair winners named

A group of Thompson Middle School science fair winners recently went to Birmingham to compete in the regional science fair finals. Several students placed high in the finals, including eighth-grader Brett Winford who won third place in the Birmingham competition.

Brett won this prize for his project in the earth science division. His project consisted of growing plants in six different types of soil and measuring the growth obtained in each soil sample.

Other winners in the middle school contest were Robin Burgess, first prize winner in life sciences; Buzz Harris, first place in physical sciences; and Kenneth Nelson, who won for his life science project in sixth- grade competition.

Joe Ash, faculty advisor for the science fair, said that the first, second, and third place winners all went to the regional finals in Birmingham. In addition to the first place winners, those going included Vicki Yarborough, Wade Bolin, Alan Harris, all in the seventh grade; and Terri Lovelady, Kaye Ellison, Jerry Jones, and Mike Buckner, eighth- graders.

Ash said, "The students were really thrilled at being able to go to the contest. They enjoyed showing their projects and competing with students from all around this area."

MHS band gets high ratings

The Montevallo High School band received "excellent" and "superior" ratings last Saturday when it competed in the state band contest held at Tuscaloosa.

The Montevallo band directed by Jim Weese, played three prepared selections and then played one selection by sight reading. Three out-of-state judges rated the band.

MHS was the only school in Shelby County to compete.

Vocational students place in district skills olympics

Students from the Shelby County Area Vocational Center represented Shelby county in the district six Vocational Industrial Clubs of America conference held at N.F. Nunnelley State Vocational Institute.

They competed with vocational students from nine other Alabama Counties. Awards given in each field were a first place gold medallion, a second place silver medallion and a third place bronze medallion.

Of the seven fields entered by Shelby County students, they won two gold medels and five silver medals.

They were as follows: Pat Talton, Drafting-Silver medal; Scott Bailey, Masonry-Gold Medal; Robin McQuire, Industrial Electricity-Silver medal; Eugene Gardern, Air Conditioning and Refrigeration- Silver medal; Craig Smith, Auto Mechanics-Gold medal; Tim Wilson, Auto Body-Silver medal; William Patterson, Welding-Silver medal.

In addition to winning second place in the Drafting Department, Pat Talton was also elected District Six Secretary for the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America.

Scott Bailey and Craig Smith will represent the Shelby County center in the sixth annual VICA leadership conference held at the Kahler Plaza hotel in Birmingham on April 19 and 20.

One day of the conference will be devoted to the Alabama Skills olympics. Bailey of Thompson High will be competing in the masonry contest while Craig Smith of Vincent will participate in auto mechanics.

The theme for the two-day conference is "Skills Build America."

VICA is a youth organization to assist students in establishing realistic vocational goals. It helps to promote high standards in trade ethics, workmanship, and scholarship. It also helps to create among students, faculty members, patrons of the school, and persons in business and labor, a sincere interest in the esteem of trade in industrial, technical, and higher education.

Bicycling is endorsed

A spokesman for the Alabama Heart Association says that, like an "apple-a-day," a "pedal-a-day" helps keep the doctor away. J. Carl Parkman, State Heart Fund Chairman, said that the Heart organization has long recommended bicycling as a healthy form of exertion, especially when biking is part of a regular exercise program.

Parkman made the remark in announcing that the county Heart Association Units will hold Cyclethons next month to raise funds for their research, education and service programs, and to remind the public of the health benefits of cycling. The recently formed Alabama Bicycle Council has endorsed this project and will be cooperating with the Heart Association in areas of the State where there are active Bicycle Clubs. A number of Jaycee Clubs around the State are also participating.

Parkman said that Heart Association volunteers are currently contacting schools in their local areas to recruit riders for the planned Cyclethon. Participants will be given sponsor sheets with which to secure pledges of contributions to the Heart Fund from businesses, friends and relatives. The sponsor will agree to contribute a specific sum for each mile completed by cyclist. The Heart group is also providing assistance with minor bike repairs.

Parkman said that while most participants are being recruited through schools and bike clubs, parents and other adults are encouraged to join the ride. Adults who decide to take part can be their own sponsors by setting an amount they themselves will contribute for each mile they pedal.

Vincent Baptist Church to begin kindergarten

The First Baptist Church of Vincent announces that the pre-enrollment period for the 1974-75 school year of the church kindergarten is April 15 - May 31.

"By enrolling your child during the pre-enrollment period you will be assured of a place for him in the school," according to the church pastor, J. Lamar Griggs. Requests will be honored on a "first come - first serve" basis.

Anyone interested in enrolling a child may contact D.B. Smith, at the First Baptist Church, Vincent.

Ala. Power opens campaign

Alabama Power initiates an advertising campaign in April in an effort to take the confusion out of the energy situation, according to Richard A. Peacock, Alabama Power's public information and advertising manager.

"For the past four months we've been talking to our customers to find out what questions they have about the energy situation, their electric bills or any other questions relating to Alabama Power Company or our service. Using the questions and information that this provided Alabama Power, through our advertising agency, Cargill, Wilson and Acree, we adopted a decidedly public service slant in paid-media communications.

"It's a concept designed to answer in an honest, strightforward manner questions our customers have concerning Alabama's energy situation. With this campaign, we are attempting to open up two-way communications with our customers, something that needs to be done in order to counteract the mounting distrust of big business in general and utilities in particular."

According to Kent Puckett, creative director of CW&A's Birmingham office, "Alabama Power's new advertising campaign is dead-centered on a determination to answer questions on the energy situation and company operations. Educating consumers about energy as it applies directly to them. Bringing it home where they can relate to it and understand it. Understanding their electric water heater, range, how to properly climatize their homes economically and ways to use electricity more efficiently, thereby helping conserve, not waste electricity."

Cantata set for Mt. Signal

Easter cantata "No Greater Love" will be presented by the Sanctuary Choir of Mt. Signal Baptist Church on Hwy. 280 between Westover and Chelsea on Easter, April 14, at 7 o'clock p.m.

The choral group is under the direction of Tony Blackerby and is accompanied by Mrs. James Hatcher, pianist.

Soloists for the event are Mrs. Glenn Kendricks, Mrs. Jack Douglas, Mrs. Harry Dorough, Jr., Don Douglas, Robert Boroughs, and Tony Blackerby.

Pastor Jack Douglas, cordially invites everyone to attend.

Two Boy Scout troops meet in Columbiana

"Brother helping brother" was the idea behind the meeting of two Boy Scout troops in Columbiana on April 1. Members of the newly organized troop 354 of Chelsea were guests of the Columbiana Boy Scout troop 560.

Leaders of the Chelsea troop recently participated in Cornerstone Training conducted by officials from the Birmingham area counsel of the Boy Scouts, and all-out efforts are being made to recruit boys for this worthwhile program.

The Chelsea group now has 13 members under the direction of Scoutmaster Ray Shirley, Assistant Scout Master Phillip Alford and other adult leaders Terry Crumpton, Jimmy Fancher and Buz Browning.

On Friday, March 30, the Chelsea Troop went on its first campout without the Birmingham area training officers. The boys and their scoutmasters cooked and slept on top of Simmsville mountain, and "had a great time in spite of a storm in the middle of the night."

There was a cave near the campsite, but the scouts found that vultures were there ahead of them and nesting inside. During the storm, the boys huddled inside their tents and watched the lightning One scout reported: "It looked like giant tree roots lighted up in the sky. If I'd had a camera I could have taken some great pictures! "

The only casualty on the trip, they say, was a sleeping bag which got ripped open on a barbed wire fence. Some of the scouts are now practicing the making of smaller, tighter bedrolls.

Jamboree ends spring practice

The local football scene should be jam packed with lots of rock 'em, sock 'em action next fall if the Shelby County football jamboree was any indication of the upcoming season.

In the first county- wide jamboree, held last Friday night at Calera stadium, Shelby County edged Thompson 7-6, Chelsea downed Calera 14-12 and Vincent outdistanced Montevallo 13-7.

The paired teams faced each other during two ten minute "halves" with a brief resting period in between.

Vincent and Montevallo were the first teams to take to the field.

Vincent quarterback Robert Riggins scored the first touchdown. On a one yard quarterback sneak and teammate James Riggins broke loose on a 60 yard run to score the Yellowjackets' second TD. Charles Honea missed the first kick for the extra point and made the second.

Ninth grade quarterback Thomas Brown engineered Montevallo's scoring drive with two long passes to move the Bulldogs deep into Vincent territory. Tim Ross scored the six points for Montevallo.

"We're not polished, but we have some people who can play ball," commented Vincent football coach Gary Garrett after the Yellowjackets' win. He continued that he thought the Vincent football program was over the hump and that the team members were working together.

Named as playing an outstanding game were James Riggins, John Rogers, Robert Riggins, Charles Shaw, Anthony McGinnis, Rusty Barrow and Sonny Gibson.

Montevallo coach Richard Gilliam said he was pleasantly pleased with his team's performance. He explained that the team accomplished more in the three weeks of spring practice than they set out to do. He said that the Montevallo team is stronger than it was last fall.

Gilliam went on to say that he felt that he had a good solid quarterback position in Thomas Brown and backup Terry McCary.

Other players singled out by Gilliam were Jimmy Williams, Bryant Cottingham and Bobby Sherrer.

Spring games

The Shelby County spring football jamboree got kicked off early last Friday night. Herethe Montevallo and Vincent High School teams clash during the opening minutes of play (above). The Vincent Yellowjackets won the contest 13-6 after Montevallo had tied the score 6-6.

Schools give support

The Spring football jamboree, held at the Calera football stadium, received wide support from the student bodies and the communities involved. The Montevallo High School cheerleaders (left) boost the spirit of the MHS pep section.

Jamboree

The final game between Chelsea and Calera exhibited some of the highest excitement of the jamboree since the two teams have become traditional 1-A rivalries. Chelsea came out on top of the contest 14-12.

Scoring for Chelsea were David Brasher on a one yarder and Jim Mulvaney on a long run. Mulvaney also scored the two point conversion which put Chelsea ahead.

Tommy Lucas crossed the goal line for Calera's first TD on a 27 yard run. Lucas also scored the second Calera touchdown on a one yard quarterback sneak.

"We just outscored them," said Chelsea coach Richard Conkle. He declared that his players had a long way to go before they can compete this fall.

Conkle said his team looked fair on offense. He singled out Jim Mulvaney and Mark Brasher.

Calera coach Rick Cairns commented that he was pleased with the game. "This is the best Calera has ever looked after the spring practice," he repeated. Calera had a total of 343 yards on offense and 18 first downs.

Back Obie Hundley has 97 yards rushing while Kenny Dale Cost followed close behind with 96 yards.

Cairns also singled out backs Frank Nix and Tommy Lucas as playing a good game.

On offense, Cairns named Dale Palmer, Tony Baker, George Roy, Ricky Taylor, Dale Perry and Sandy Spencer as blocking well.

The Shelby County junior high teams played in the junior jamboree at Calera Tuesday, April 2. The results of the junior games were Montevallo - 0 and Chelsea - 0; Vincent - 14 and Shelby County 0; Calera 14 and Thompson 0.

In the second game, Tony Cole scored the touchdown for Shelby County on a quarterback keeper and Dickie Porter kicked the extra point. Tim Pierce caught a pass from Thompson quarterback Lee Kennebrew for the Warriors only score.

Ralph Bell, Shelby County High School head coach, named his entire offensive line for their blocking effort. Also singled out were backs Frank Head, Tony Cole and Dickie Porter. Bell continued that this is offensively the strongest team he has ever had.

Bell said that the Shelby County team has had a highly sucessful spring training, but that the Wildcats still needed to do some polishing of their defense.

Thompson coach Larry Simmons told the Reporter that he was pleased with the jamboree. Simmons said that he believed that the game gave valuable experience to his younger players.

On offense, Simmons named quarterback Kennebrew whose passes to Tim Pierce penetrated the Shelby County secondary on several occasions. The Thompson coach also singled out running back Tommy Haynes.

In the blocking department, Simmons named Bill Jones and Eddie Harris along with the entire offensive line.

Simmons said, however, that he was not pleased with the defense and that it will receive more concentration before the season opener next fall.

CALERA GAIN - - Calera running back Obie Hundley is tackled after a short gain against Chelsea Friday night. Hundley chalked up 97 yards rushing during the 20 minute jamboree game. Chelsea won the contest 14-12.

Montevallo karate exhibition slated

Anyone interested in Karate?

Eric Stipe, the director of Montevallo's recreation, announced that a karate exhibition will be given this Thursday at 6:30 p.m. in the Montevallo High School gymnasium.

Admission is free.

LEAD WARRIOR SPIRIT - - The Thompson High School cheerleaders huddle on the sidelines during the THS - Shelby County football game. The Warriors lost to Shelby County by a narrow 7-6 margain.

Doctors warn against mini-bikes

The Alabama Department of Public Health reports that the American Academy of Pediatrics' Joint Committee on Physical Fitness, Recreation, and Sports Medicine has urged parents to hold firm in their children the inescapable risk-taking involved in owning and/or operating a minibike.

According to the Joint Committee the trend toward allowing underage children to operate minibikes should be deplored and condemned. This would be indicated even if the minibike were a quasi-safe vehicle, which it most emphatically is not, it further stated.

Minibikes are particularly dangerous because of poor handling due to a short wheelbase and small tires; insufficient acceleration; inadequate brakes; small size, which decreased visibility, and inadequate protection of drivers against collision.

Reportedly, an estimated two million minibikes are in operation in the U.S., most of them driven by children ten to 14 years of age. There were 75,000 minibike injuries during 1973.

In Alabama last year cycle accidents of all types numbered 2,668 - - 54 fatalities, 1,768 injuries, 846 in property damage.

Alabama law forbids the use of minibikes on public streets, highways and sidewalks. Responsibility falls upon the parents and violations can lead to a fine, imprisonment or both.

After difficult start--

UM team now 2-2 in conference play

The University of Montevallo baseball team now holds a 2-2 record in the southern states conference along with conference rivals Spring Hill, St. Bernard and Huntingdon.

Bob Reisner, head UM baseball coach, commented last week that the Falcons are now playing the kind of ball they are capable of. "We had a disasterous start," he continued "that was difficult to overcome.

The Falcons lost their first six contests, but have now upped their overall record to a more respectable 8-13.

David Williams, a Junior from Birmingham, is leading the hitting for the Falcons with a .410 batting average. He has rapped 19 hits and been up to the plate 46 times. The horse-hide-hitting outfielder has four doubles and two homers to his credit. Perry Messener, a Freshman catcher, has also knocked one out of the park and has a .416 batting average.

On the Falcon mound, Steve Wald is setting the pace for the team with a 1.53 ERA. The Senior from Birmingham has started six games and pitched 35 innings. Relief pitcher Richard Graddick, a Freshman from Clanton, has two wins to his credit. He has only pitched seven innings but has a perfect .000 ERA to date.

Upcoming games on the Falcon schedule are April 11, Birmingham Southern; April 13, St. Xavier; and April 16, Huntingdon College. All are at Montevallo and gametime is 1:00 p.m.

Falcons sign two

Two high scoring junior college basketball standouts recently signed athletic scholarship agreements with the University of Montevallo.

Kenny Mack, leading scorer the past season at Marion Institute and a two-year regular for the Cadets will play for Montevallo next year. The other signee is Philip Eubanks of Snead State Junior College.

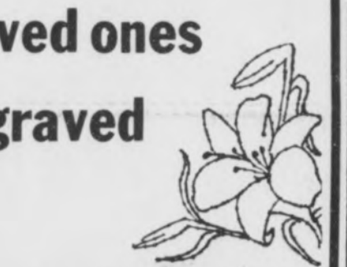
Mack, a 6-5, 190 pound forward who is a graduate of Bibb County High School in Centreville averaged 19.3 points per game for Marion in 1973-74.

Bill JOnes, head coach at Montevallo and a former cage mentor at Marion Institute announced the signing and said, "We are delighted Kenny decided to continue his basketball career at Montevallo. Mack has a real good attitude toward athletics and I am sure he will prove a valuable addition to the basketball program at Montevallo."

Mack follows in the footsteps of another former Marion cage star who signed with Montevallo. Chris Davis, most valuable player at Marion Institute two years ago signed with Montevallo and immediately earned a starting berth with the Falcons.

Eubanks is a 6-9 center and averaged 16.3 points per ball game this past season with the Snead Parsons.

Coach Jones and Assistant Coach Ron Bell were on hand for signing Eubanks at the Eubanks home.



Coach Bell said Eubanks' size, 6-9 and 195 pounds would enable the Boaz High school graduate to be a "true pivot man in the double post offense Montevallo runs."

Dubanks was named to the seven man all- Northern Division team in the Alabama Junior College Conference.

MARYLAND CUP - - Arnold Air Society and Angel Flight of Auburn University were named recently as the most outstanding ROTC unit in the United States and Puerto Rica. The competition, held in Houston last week, was based on service to the university, the community and Air Force ROTC objectives. Participating in the competition were 180 major universities. Members of the unit from the Birmingham area are (seated) Cathy McLeroy of Columbiana, (standing l-r) David Mitchell and Susan Vitalis of Birmingham, Gail Gunter of Mountain Brook and Dick Embry of Vincent.

'Save courthouse' group meets with Columbiana city council

by Willard Harrison

The fate of the old county courthouse may soon be decided. At the regular meeting of the Columbiana city council, a delegation from the Shelby County Historical Society met with city officials to discuss plans to preserve the building.

Following a lengthy wait in the lobby of the city hall, the ten members were ushered into the council room to meet with the mayor and city council. Courthouse committee chairman Elsie Archer Jones spoke for the group, explaining the society's plan to preserve the building rather than to have it torn down when Columbiana builds its new city hall.

According to mayor Bob Bolton, the city had planned to level the city hall and replace it with a fountain in order to solve the dangerous traffic situation around the building. Bolton added that engineers had examined the city hall and said that it was not worth it to try to renovate the building, especially in light of its unstable foundation. He pointed out that the building had no heating or cooling system and only one small rest room.

Mrs. Jones explained the plan to first save the old building, and if the council released it to the historical society, the idea of converting it into a museum and meeting place for the society. She mentioned the tourist-drawing power of museums and historical sights, adding, "We don't want to take it away from the city of Columbiana, but ot give Columbiana something worthwhile." Society president Kenneth Penhale echoed the idea of making the site a tourist attraction to bring sight-seers into the county seat.

Answering questions concerning funding of such a project, Penhale cited several types of federal and state funds which would be available for restoration. He added that if the building is added to the National Register of Historic Places, the federal government will supply much of the funds to save and maintain the building as a national landmark.

Bolton stated, "If the council votes to turn the building over to the society for such a project, they must agree to completely restore it to our specifications. If the society is able to supply all of the funds needed to meet our conditions, then we may consider it." This is essentially what Bolton had previously said concerning the fate of the building. This time the mayor emphasized the conditions that the society would have to meet before they could take charge of the old courthouse.

Mayor Bolton said that before the council could even consider the plan to preserve the building, the historical society would have to have an engineer make an estimate of how much it would cost to save it and return it to A-1 condition. Penhale said that he would arrange for a state engineeer to survey the building from top to bottom in order to determine how much money is needed.

He assured the council that the building would qualify for federal and state funds, and that tax-free donations from the society's four hundred members would help to supply money for upkeep. Penhale emphasized that the city of Columbiana would not be expected to furnish funds for the project, but would instead be receiving money from tourist trade.

MAYOR Bob Bolton indicated that a decision from the council will not be forthcoming for a time. He said that he and the members of the council needed about a month or so to find out how the people of Columbiana feel about keeping the old building. He said that as elected officials, they would hesitate to commit themselves without word from the people of the city. He and other council members indicated that there is widespread feeling in Columbiana that the old courthouse should be destroyed.

Mrs. Elsie Jones countered by saying that there are a large number of people in the county who feel that the building is of historical interest to the whole county. She said that many people questioned whether it was right for a city to destroy a county landmark like the former courthouse.

Mrs. Jones pointed out the advantages of a museum in Columbiana, although she admitted that parking would be a problem.

She mentioned various things that could be exhibited, including Sterrett pottery, samples of Shelby ironwork, Civil War relics, county farm implements, artwork, old photogrpahs, documents, and local family heirlooms.

"The society and the county needs such a place, and the old courthouse seems the perfect place to preserve and house a museum."

Retired people may get refund

Retirees who work occasionally during the tax year and who had federal income tax withheld from their wages in 1973 may be due a tax refund, the Internal Revenue Service says.

"Since much of their total income may come from social security or railroad retirement and is not reportable for tax purposes, it may not be necessary to file a tax return," Dwight Baptist, IRS District Director for Alabama said. "But in order to obtain a refund of the income tax withheld, they must file a return."

Retirees who worked for wages during the year should determine from Form W-2 if income tax was withheld from the wages they were paid in 1973. If so, thev should file a return to get their refund. Form W-2 should be attached to the return.

For Cuban ransom--

Chelsea pays hijack costs

by Shelba Nivens

Some people around Chelsea are helping to repay $1,000 in debts which were made in order to pay "ransom" money to Communist officials in Cuba.

In January, The Reporter ran a story about the building of a church in Guatemala by a group from Alabama (four people from Chelsea were in the group). These volunteer workers from Churches of God across the state flew to Guatemala in a 40 passenger airplane operated by Project Partner of Wichita, Kans. It is this same 240 Convair plane which forced down in Cuba a few weeks ago.

The airplane was filled with church lay people from Ohio and Kansas who had been to a church work camp in Haiti and Jamica similar to the one Shelby County people went to in Guatemala.

About ten minutes after the pilot, Don Shaver, cleared Convair 240's passage over Cuba on the way to Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., two MIG 21's appeared and circled the Church of God airplane. Captain Shaver was commanded by radio to land - - which he did.

After the crew was questioned, the whole group was taken to a motel where a Cuban official assured them that credit would be arranged to pay for their rooms and food. A "credit" of nearly $7,000 had to be paid before the Americans were released to leave the country. Project Partner had to borrow the money and wire it to Cuba. Now, the cost of Project Partner is up to $10,000.

The Americans were held in Cuba from around 10:15 a.m. on Saturday, Feb. 23 until 12:45 p.m. the next day. While there, they held church services as often as possible - - with their windows open - - praying and singing at the top of their voices. While armed guards looked on, the Americans prayed for Castro and sang "God Bless America." They sang as many songs as they could in Spanish. Before they left the motel the guards were standing duty without guns.

Some Cuban guests at the motel became a bit friendly with Americans and were told that God loved them. Now, back home in America, the "temporary missionaries" are very excited over their experience in Cuba because it gave them a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to share their faith with Cuban Communists.

People of the K-Springs Church of God in Chelsea are also excited for they are helping to pay this cost of freedom and witnessing of some of their friends.

"Hey, don't make so much noise, "said John Cronin to a burglar who broke into his house in Watertown, Mass. "I've got sinus trouble." "Well," said the burglar, "what you need is a good massage. Look." And with that he rolled up his sleeves and massaged Cronin's head. Mr. Cronin felt so much better that he told the burglar where to find a few dollars.

McCary to lead revival at Calera Baptist Church

Evangelist Ron McCary will be leading in the revival at Calera Baptist Church, April 15-21.

Services will be at 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

He is a graduate of Samford University and New Orleans Baptist Seminary. He is in fulltime evangelistic work and has preached in revivals in Alabama, Tennessee, Louisiana, Kentucky and Ohio.

Ralph Brown will be leading the singing and has planned several selections for special music each night.

The Nursery will be open.

Everyone is invited to attend this revivial, according to Howard H. Golden, Pastor.

Airman McDade goes to Colo.

Airman Glinda F. McDade, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. McDade of Alabaster, has been assigned to Lowry AFB, Colo., after completing Air Force basic training.

During her six weeks at the Air Training Command's Lackland AFB, Tex., she studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special instruction in human relations.

GLINDA F. McDADE

The airman has been assigned to the Technical Training Center at Lowry for specialized training as a food services specialist.

Airman McDade is a 1973 graduate of Thompson High School.

Cunningham passes training

Airman 1/c Ernest L. Cunningham, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ollie M. Cunnihgham of Helena, has graduated at Sheppard AFB, Tex., from the U.S. Air Force communications specialist course conducted by the Air Training Command.

The airman, who learned to operate teletypewriter equipment used in the world-wide Air Froce communications system, is being assigned to Maxwell AFB.

Airman Cunningham is a 1972 graduate of Thompson High School.

Smith endorsed by UAW group

Calvin Smith has received the endorsement of the Birmingham Steering Committee of the United Auto Workers.

Smith is running for the state legislature in House district 52. He lives in Vincent.

In the letter of endorsement, H.L. Smith, president of the committee said, "We believe you share our views on many of the issues facing the people of Alabama."

The letter was also signed by Charles Mays, recording secretary.

Tax refund due for students

Students who work part time during the school year and those who worked last summer may have a tax refund coming, according to Dwight Baptist, District Director of Internal Revenue for Alabama.

Many working students are not required by law to file a federal income tax return because of low earnings, Baptist said. However, many have had tax withheld from their wages, and although they may owe no tax, they must file a return to get a refund of tax withheld.

Persons who are not sure of their status should check their Form W-2 and, if it shows that income tax was withheld, file an income tax return. Baptist said that those needing answers to tax questions or help with the preparation of their return should contact their local IRS office.

"Many persons who are not required by law to file a return for 1973 but who had to file to get a refund can avoid having tax withheld from 1974 earnings," Baptist said. "If they do not expect to owe any tax for 1974, they can file a Form W-4E with their 1974 employer and no tax will be

Tyson to speak at two retreats

The annual Laity Retreat of the North Alabama Conference of the United Methodist Church will be held in two sessions this year . The laymen's Retreat (for men only) beginning at 9 a.m., Saturday, April 27 and ending with lunch Sunday, and the Lay Persons' Retreat beginning at 9 a.m., Saturday, May 4, ending with lunch Sunday.

The Retreats to be held at Camp Sumatanga, Gallant, Ala. are sponsored by the Committee on Lay Life and Work.

The inspirational speaker for the two 1974 retreats will be Rev. Tommy Tyson of Goldsboro, N.C.

After serving for six years in the pastorate of the North Carolina Conference, Rev. Tyson received the appointment of Conference Evangelist.

REV. TOMMY TYSON

His ministry has led him to travel extensively, throughout the United States and abroad.

The primary interest of his current work is in church renewal, as expressed through many different types of prayer retreats and spiritual life cell groups.

The five areas of concern for Christians suggested by United Methodist lay persons featured in the 1974 retreats are as follows: "The Bible", "How to Communicate My Faith to Other People in the Area of Witness", "A Caring and Concern group for Other People", "Personal Prayer", and "How to Recognize Opportunities for Service and Become Involved in my Own Community".

United Methodist adults of colelge age and over wishing to attend should send their registration to Roy K. Dawson, 5628 Ninth Ave., South, Birmingham, Alabama 35212 (Telephone 591-1245) as soon as possible.

April is named Environmental Quality Month

The month of April has been proclaimed "Alabama Environmental Quality Month" by Governor George C.Wallace. In a proclamation issued on March 27th, Governor Wallace noted, "The people of Alabama have long demonstrated a deep respect for the handiwork of God, and a genuine concern for enhancing the quality of life for our citizens."

He added that through the "participatory democracy" manifested by the Alabama Environmental Quality Council and its local and regional leaders, "Alabama is fast becoming a national leader in the grassroot movement to preserve and protect our rich bounty of natural resources, and attack the root causes of pollution."

Contending that a clean, wholesome environment is the key element in a sound economic expansion of Alabama, Governor Wallace urged "every citizen of our state to make a special effort to banner a better Alabama through a better environment, keeping in mind that the quality we seek for our environment has a direct bearing upon the value we assign to the very body and soul of all mankind."

In response to Alabama Environmental Quality Month, a wide array of environmental projects are being conducted by Boy and Girl Scout groups, the Alabama Federated Garden Clubs, and civic and school organizations.

In our Good News Department we happily include an item that will be of interest to a large number of friends. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Jones and their family of Birmingham spent a few days in Columbiana last week looking over houses for sale available. They plan to move to Columbiana if a home can be found to meet their requirements.

A suggestion from across the miles -- "What this country needs is the income of '66, the prices of '36, the taxes of '26 and the spirit of '76".

Could this be the solution to our problems?

We were delighted last Friday to welcome into our office J.N. Brantley who is retired after serving 54 years as an employee of the Southern Railway Company. Mr. Brantley says he is enjoying spending his less active days among his friends in Shelby County. He moved to Wilsonville from Childersburg which was his last assignment with the railroad. A veteran of World War I, he has many "memories of days gone by" which he shared with us.

Recently organized Shelby County's Historic Society continues to draw interest from various parts of the state where Shelby Countians now reside who remain loyal to their native heath and want to be identified with the movement. Much credit is due Kenneth Penhale of Helena, who has accepted the office of president, and through his tireless efforts to organize and stimulate enthusiasm the organization is fast expanding. Over 400 members are now listed as Charter Members. The next meeting will be held in Columbiana -- the date to be announced.

We have never met the Lt. Governor of Alabama but we had the pleasure of welcoming Mrs. Jere Beasley and her friend Peggy Guthrie in our office during their visit in Columbiana last Wednesday; and we enjoyed every minute of their "political promotion" of their favorite candidate.

We are glad to report that Miss Frances Wilson is improving satisfactorily at Shelby Memorial.

Rev. Bill Riddle, a native of Columbiana, who has served the Dwight Baptist Church in Gadsden for the past 22 years, has resigned and accepted a call to the Baptist Church in Arab. This item will be of keen interest to Bill's many friends here in Shelby County.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Jones, of Dothan, announce the arrival of a son born April 5. He tipped the scales at eight pounds. They have named the "Sweetest li'l fellow" Darrell Clayton.

Grandparents include Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Seale of Calera, who tell me it is their first grandson; and Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Jones of Columbiana.

Friends in Columbiana of Betty and Don DeVos - who have been asking me about them - will be interested to learn that we talked with them Sunday night. They are leaving today for Australia where they will be for two months. In the early fall, they will take another trip around the world in the interest of Dr. John Haggai's crusade abroad.

The wrong date for the birth of Sonya Renee Peeples was given us last week. The new addition to the Peoples home should have been listed as March 26 -- instead of March 27.

Glad to get her birth record straightened out.

MRS. GREGORY W. WOODFIN
. . . formerly Mary Ella Collins

Mary Ella Collins weds Mr. Woodfin

The wedding of Mary Ella Collins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Collins of Thorsby and Gregroy W. Woodfin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther G. Almaroad, was solemnized on April 6 at Thorsby First Baptist Church with Rev. Laney W. McReynolds, the officiating minister.

Nuptial music was furnished by Russell Williams, organist, and Mrs. Wanda Almaroad, soloist.

The bride's attendants were: Mrs. Ceil Snow, matron of honor, of Birmingham; other attendants were Mrs. Rebecca Martin, sister of the bride; Mrs. Sue Wilson of Calera; Mrs. Sue Van Cleave of Louisville, Ky., Mrs. Carmella Cooley, of Birmingham, Miss Renhae Almaroad, sister of the groom, Miss Pam Estes of Sylacauga and Miss Lana Musso of Bessemer. All wore floor length A-line dresses with empire waist of coral silk crepe with a short off-white lace jacket. Each carried a bouquet of spring flowers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father wore a candlelight poie de soie gown featuring lace medallions around the neckline, front of the empire waist and the long sleeves of chiffon. All reembroidered with seed pearls. The train was an overskirt of chiffon and was edged with a wide band of imported lace. The veil of illusion was attached to a lace band. This too was edged in the wide lace and reembroidered with seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of pink and yellow roses.

The bridegroom had as his best man his father, Luther Almaroad. Groomsmen were James William Collins, Zane Martin, Ralph Almaroad of Oxford, Bill Reed and Jerry Ellison of Birmingham, Wilbur Ellison and Kenneth Ellison of Clanton.

A reception in the church parlors followed the ceremony. Mrs. Henrietta Cobb, aunt of the bride, registered the guests. Serving were Mrs. Marlene Smith, Mrs. Maud Hayes, Mrs. Dean Ellison, Mrs. Wanda Almaroad, Mrs. Judy Harkins and Mrs. Linda Guy.

After a honeymoon in Florida the couple will make their home in Decatur, Ala.

Another Easter dawns

by Mildred White Wallace

Easter Sunday will fall this year on April 14. Again we approach the fact of the Resurrection -- Life triumphant over Death! No longer can we speak of a "bourne from which no traveller e'er returns" -- but for centuries, in one long unbroken column of years, the race of mankind had marched hopelessly in the shadows. And of all the millions who had descended into the Valley of the Shadow -- not one returned. Not in the whole world's area lay an empty grave. No human voice declared that there was such a grave. No one acknowledged a Victor more potent than Death -- until on one gloriously bright occasion, the Apostle communicated to the dying race of man these joyous words: "One human form has risen from the dead; one grave on earth is empty; the man Christ Jesus who was dead -- is alive again!"

Thus the Hopeful Dawn of a more resplendent life after death came to bless our pilgrimage. Had He not emerged from the depths of the tomb, all our hopes would be buried with Him -- yes, even unto this day.

The most glorious discovery of Christianity is Immortality! "Tomb, thou shalt not hold Him longer, Death is strong -- but Life is stronger;
Stronger than the dark - the light;
Stronger than the dark - the light;
Stronger than the wrong - the right;
Faith and Hope triumphant say
Christ will rise on Easter-Day!"

May I wish for each of you a gloriously happy Easter - bright with the Hopefulness the Season brings to all who BELIEVE in this historic fact. It stands through ages on an impregnable foundation.

Tennis talk

There is always a standing line at the tennis courts at the Rec Field waiting to play. A petition carrying over 100 names of Columbiana citizens has been presented to the City Fathers requesting that consideration be given for the provision of more courts.

It is reported that the "powers that be" looked with favor on this request and when the material -- asphalt - concrete - or what have you is available -- steps will be taken to grant the obvious need for more courts to enjoy this popular game.

Primary draws near as interest dwindles

By Mildred White Wallace

Over the coffee cups this morning a gentleman remarked that he had never seen a Primary Election so near with so little said about it. He said everything seems so "hush-Hush" -- and quiet that it is hard to predict just what is happening in the political arena. There seems to be a lack of interest, he said. And, he continued -- "this is not good if we are going to keep democracy alive." He then began telling about the fire and enthusiasm generated in the "old days".

Certainly we do not know why there seems so little concern in any of the races. It seems the candidates themselves have dwindled down to a slow walk. There is no evidence of "jogging or running" among them. However, the best definition of a politician we have heard during the past few weeks goes like this: "A politician is one who can get money from the rich and votes from the poor, and make each think he is protecting them from the other".

Reckon that's what they are doing?

"OOH, THAT SMARTS!"

. . . BUT IF THE ROOF IS THAT BAD IT MUST BE FIXED. MAYBE I'LL TALK ABOUT A ROOM ADDITION. I'LL JUST SEE ABOUT A HOME IMPROVEMENT LOAN.

Columbiana couples form new club

A new civic and social club has recently been organized in Columbiana which has drawn favorable comment following its initial banquet held last Friday evening at Joe's Ranch House in Birmingham where members and their guests enjoyed a dinner- dance.

The club consists of 40 couples, and the officers elected to serve and plan further civic and social events include: Roger Traywick, president; Butch Ellis, vice president; Jim Strickland secretary and treasurer.

Willie Robertson who resides near Wilsonville on his farm lands is ready to set the record straight regarding our mention recently of the last big snow here in Columbiana and Mrs. Robertson has pictures to verify the date which we had the pleasure of viewing with her last week when she and Mr. Robertson were in Columbiana for a few hours.

The age-old pictures depict a snow covered Main Street. The old courthouse stands "as is" -- an old wagon with a mule hitched to it stands lonely sentinel on one side of the street - and a Ford of this vintage is parked close by -- No pavement on Main! The date is March 13, 1924.

* * * *

Jimmy and Tommy Rowe, who have successfully made recreation possible on Main Street for men and boys who enjoy playing various games during their "work-breaks", are enlarging their operations by opening the upstairs of their building, renovating and remodeling it so that girls, too, may come in and feel free to enjoy the various games that will be available. New equipment has been ordered and the new Rec Hall will soon be open for all to enjoy.

During the remodeling of this old building, which once housed the Telephone Office, Jimmy found a picture of President Woodrow Wilson. There was also found a picture of Bill Bandy, formerly of Montevallo. Don't know just how this photograph chanced to be in this building. At any rate, Jimmy has framed President Wilson's picture - and prizes it highly.

GIRLS NAMED TO BEAUTY - ELITE AT SHELBY ACADEMY

Academy holds Beauty-Elite Night

Beauties from the kindergarten through the senior class were judged by Mr. Larry Smith, Mr. Chuck King, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Jones, at the Shelby Academy 1974 Beauty-Elite night last Friday.

Elementary beauty queen was Carrie Marie Hilyer with Cindy Bates, first alternate, and Angie Finley, second alternate.

The Junior High Division was reigned by beauty queen D'Andrea Cardone with Ranay Winslett, first alternate, and Elizabeth Lee as second alternate.

Miss Academie of 1974 was Miss Rosemary Roberts. Attending the Senior High Queen's court were Kathy Brown, first alternate, and Reita Jones, second alternate.

Mr. and Miss Jr. Shelby Academy, chosen by the elementary students, were Suzanne Lacey and Clay Cardone. Mr. and Miss Shelby Academy, nominated from the Senior Class and elected by the high school, were Debbie Watson and Tom Reynolds.

The Senior Elite were presented and awarded with certificates honoring them their particular academic fields. Steve Acre, science; Roy Cunninham, history and English; Jeff Robins, foreign language; and Ralph Moore, math.

Three seniors were elected by the faculty as the three senior students they felt would best represent Shelby Academy in the state private school association.

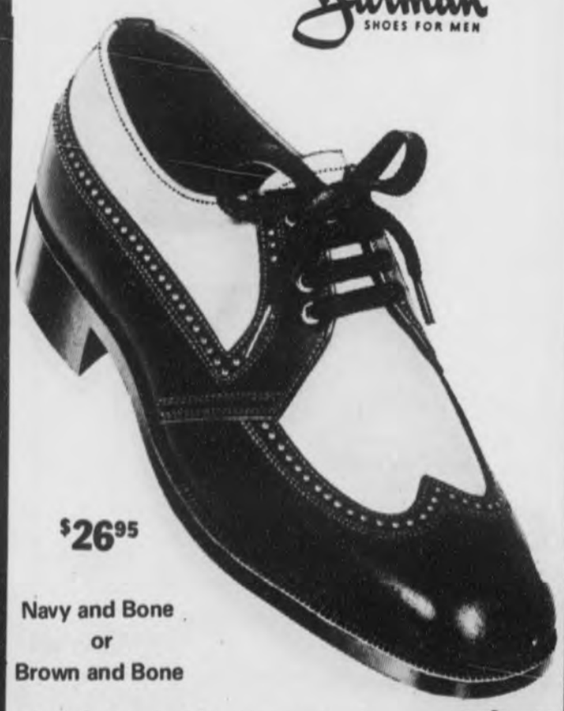
The students were chosen for the area in which the faculty believed that they excelled. The seniors were: Steve Acre, Leadership; Danny Cardone, Best-All Around, and Roy Cunningham, Scholarship. These seniors, along with representatives from all private schools in Alabama, will be honored at the Alabama Private School Association's Outstanding Senior Banquet, to be held May 3 in Montgomery.

The Beauty-Elite Night at Shelby Academy was set to the theme of "Pieces of April".

Trustees of Judson launch gifts campaign

A 1½ million capital gifts campaign was launched Friday in Marion by the Judson College Board of Trustees at a statewide meeting of alumnae and friends.

Birmingham's Sam Booker, campaign general chairman and Alabama Power Co. vice president, announced that $302,000 toward the $750,000 first-phase goal of the drive has already been subscribed.



"I hope the overall goal of $1½ million will be pledged over the next three years by friends and alumnae," he said. "This is the first time in 136 years that the college has conducted such a major capital gifts drive."

A major campus need is for a new structure housing the home economics department and some science areas, he said. A new home management house is scheduled along with classroom and faculty office renovation, completion of the lower floor of the college library, and increased scholarships and endowment funds.

Miss stone wins honors at UA

Karen E. Stone was tapped for membership in Mortar Board at the University of Alabama on April 3. This distinction is awarded for the highest academic and extra curricular achievement among junior womrn.

Miss Stone is a junior pre-med student majoring in chemistry and has been on the dean's list every semester. She is a member of Alpha Lambda Delta, Women's Honors Program, and is a student member of the American Chemical Society. She received an Alumni Honors Scholarship from the University of Alabama.

KAREN E. STONE

She recently wrote a proposal, "The Hydrogenation of Coal", to the National Science Foundation. The proposal has been accepted and the science dept. will receive an $18,000 grant for research in this field. Miss Stone will be the student director for the program this summer.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Stone, Rt. 1, Wilsonville and a 1971 graudate of Shelby County High School.

Insects begin spring invasion on gardens

Alabama gardeners can look forward to a plentiful supply of one thing this summer. Insects. Get set for an usually severe outbreak of insects this spring and summer.

Extension survey entomologist Frank McQueen says that this winter has been one of the mildest on record. Shelby County's many gardeners can expect to run into more insects than they have faced in the last twenty years.

According to the specialist, many garden insects lived through the winter in the adult stage, such as the Mexican bean beetle and the bean leaf beetle. McQueen says that twenty kinds of cutworms which have wintered over in the larva stage have been feeding on winter weed and are eagerly awaiting a better food supply which will come in the form of new cabbage, onions, beans, peas, and especially tomatoes.

Some hundred kinds of aphids, which winter well in hot or cold weather, will also be on hand to take their toll on garden vegetables.

McQuenn advises Shelby County gardeners to visit their county extension office or a local feed and seed dealer to find out how to control the expected increase of garden insects.

In bridge tournament--

Mrs. Carroll makes news

Former Helena resident Doll Griffin Carroll, who now lives in Sherman, Texas, was recently involved in a most unusual duplicate bridge game.

Her partner, Mrs. Lucy Worthley, was dealt 13 spades. According to Dr. Thomas F. Kimes, professor of mathematics at Austin College (Texas), this was a one in 129 million hand. The possibility of 13 cards of one suit being dealt to one hand is highly improbable.

Neither Mrs. Worthley nor her partner was the dealer in this hand. Tom Jefferson, the east position, shuffled the deck several times, rippled and dealt one card at a time. The ladies scored higher than the other tables of seven spade bidders with a total of 2,940 points.

Mrs. Carroll is a National Life Master Player of Duplicate Bridge and is a certified game director. She has been an autorized bridge teacher of all systems of contract bridge since 1926. Miss Carroll has taught bridge in New York City and all over the South, including a six week course at Alabama College during the 1930's.

At present Mrs. Carroll is president and director of the Sherman Duplicate Bridge Club.

Mrs. Carroll is the daughter of the late Thomas H. and Leona Lee Griffin of the Helena area. Her grandfather, Jones Griffin, was reportedly the first Griffin in Shelby County.

Columbiana Baptists rise again

Easter Sunday morning at the eleven o'clock worship hour, Rev. Charles Stroud will conclude a series of sermons he has delivered for the past month titled "Faces ARound the Cross".

The Sanctuary Choir, under the direction of Tom Stoker will present Bob Borroughs brochure entitled: "Ressurection Celebration" which also features congregation participation.

Special arrangements for piano and organ in prelude and offertory will be offered by Louise and Mildred Wallace. They will present "Christ Arose" and "The Holy City".

The public is invited to attend.

Beat 12 voters to attend meeting

Information on zoning will be the subject of a meeting tonight, April 18, in beat 12.

The North Shelby Civic Club is sponsoring the 7:30 meeting at the new United Methodist Church on Caldwell Mill Road.

Everyone who resides in Beat 12 is invited to attend.

Paul Yeager, Jr., Shelby county planning officer and Joe Garity will be on hand to answer questions.

Beat 12 voters will vote on a proposal to allow the county planning commission to institute a zoning system in the May 7 primary election.

Anyone who has not yet registered to vote may do so through Friday, April 19, from 9 to 3, Saturday, April 20, from 9 to 12, and Monday, April 22 from 9 to 3.

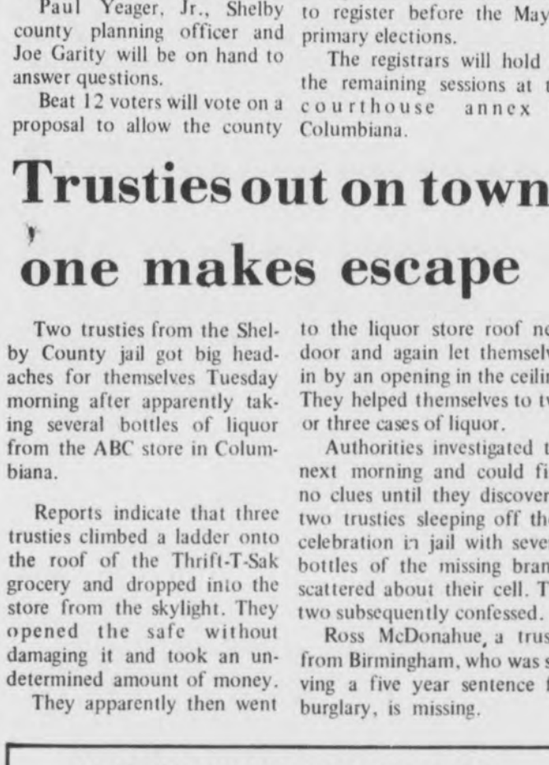
April 30 will be the last day to register before the May 7 primary elections.

The registrars will hold all the remaining sessions at the courthouse annex in Columbiana.

Trusties out on town; one makes escape

Two trusties from the Shelby County jail got big headaches for themselves Tuesday morning after apparently taking several bottles of liquor from the ABC store in Columbiana.

Reports indicate that three trusties climbed a ladder onto the roof of the Thrift-T-Sak grocery and dropped into the store from the skylight. They opened the safe without damaging it and took an undetermined amount of money.



They apparently then went to the liquor store roof next door and again let themselves in by an opening in the ceiling. They helped themselves to two or three cases of liquor.

Authorities investigated the next morning and could find no clues until they discovered two trusties sleeping off their celebration in jail with several bottles of the missing brands scattered about their cell. The two subsequently confessed.

Ross McDonahue, a trusty from Birmingham, who was serving a five year sentence for burglary, is missing.

VALLEY SCHOOL ACCREDITED - - Mrs. Norma Rogers, principal of Valley School, displays the accreditation certificate granted by the State Department of Education after an intensive study of Valley School's teaching programs, faculty training and educational facilities. Valley School becomes the third in Shelby County to win the accreditation after Vincent and Montevallo Elementary. All three schools are also completing final stages for accreditation by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools.

Horse show planners announce committeemen

"We're having more success this year than ever," is the way John E. Jones describes the preparations for the Heart of the Heart of Dixie Horse Show.

The many committees of the Shelby County High School Athletic Boosters have almost completed plans for the big annual event which brings in thousands of dollars for the high school athletic program every year.

George Bentley is over-all chairman of the event, in his capacity as president of the Association.

The show is scheduled for Saturday, April 27, at the high school athletic field in Columbiana.

Horses from throughout the Southeast are again expected to participate in the 40 classes, which include classed for western horses, English pleasure, Arabians, walking horses, ponies and many others.

Serving as chairman of committees for the event are: Ticket and Gate Committee, Richard Harless; Dinner Committee, Elvin Hill; Concession Stand Committee, Mrs. Nena Bentley; Traffic Congrol and police protection, Howell Horn,; Printed program committee; Oliver Head and Mrs. Leon Kelly, co-chairman; Registration and information, Mrs. Wylodine Hill; Grounds committee, Ralph Bell; Grounds Hospitality, Randy McDonald.

M.M. Argo, Jr. is serving as Horse Show coordinator.

Pyisicians for the event will be Dr. Harry L. Phillips and Dr. Harold Hall. Veterinarians who have volunteered to help are Dr. O. Bryant Culpepper and Dr. Charles Thornburg.

Serving as organists are Mrs. Mamie Horn and Mrs. Mary Curtis.

Trophies will be handled by

Wildfire threatens Fungo residents

A grass and woods fire threatened the homes of several Fungo Hollow residents on last Thursday, evening. The wind-driven blaze began at almost 6:00 p.m., making the people of the community apprehensive of the safety of their homes and property.

The high winds drove the blaze toward several houses and mobile homes. Residents promptly summoned help from the Pelham fire department, as they watched the fire eat its way toward their homes. With the wind shifting unpredictably, they never knew which way the flames would advance next.

It soon appeared that no mobile homes or other houses were in danger. With a sudden change of direction, the wind blew the fire back in the direction from which it had already burned. With the help of a trench dug by firefighters, the grass fire was soon under control.

Mrs. Ann Brasher of Pelham said that she and her husband watched the fire burn its way toward the mobile home of her mother-in-law, Mrs. L.S. Brasher. For several minutes they debated whether they should empty the trailer of its furnishings and save something from the rampaging fire. Before long it became apparent that they could safely wait out the dying fire.

FUNGO WILDFIRE - - Crackling flames ate toward a pine grove with several mobile homes last Thursday. The wind-blown blaze was fanned through Fungo Hollow fields until firefighters succeeded in containing the fire.

Air search helps locate robbery suspect

Donald T. Hurd, 47, of Rt. 2, Alabaster was arrested and charged with robbing the City National Bank in Roebuck late Tuesday afternoon.

According to Ralph Miles, special agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Hurd entered the bank about 4:50 p.m. and spoke to the manager about a loan. Then he exhibited a pistol that was tucked in his belt, concealed under his coat.

He robbed the manager of an undetermined sum and took the money out in a large brief case.

Birmingham City police officers immediately ordered a helicopter into the air. They located Hurd's '73 Ford automobile, bearing a Shelby County license tag, a short distance from the bank. An off duty policeman made the arrest.

Calera hosts safety drive

Calera mayor George Roy has proclaimed Saturday, April 20, as bike safety day in Calera. The town of Calera is conducting this service project along with the VFW and the Dairy Queen chain.

On Saturday, anyone may bring a bicycle to either the VFW or the Dairy Queen in Calera to have reflective tape put on their bicycles.

The mayor urges Calera residents to participate in Bicycle Safety Day. Last year over 40,000 people were killed or injured in bicycle accidents.

Oak Mountain Park to attract millions

by Marcia M. Sears

Pick up the children, pack up a lunch, put your billfold in your jeans and get over to Oak Mountain State Park. Petunia Pig is waiting for you and so is Duchess, the duck.

The beautiful Shelby County park opened its new facilities without fanfare on Monday and is expecting to see hundreds of visitors over the weekend.

Entered from U.S. Highway 31 near the Valley School, or at the north end of the Fungo Hollow Road, the visitor is greeted with an impressive entrance and information center.

The long awaited opening of the park proves well worth waiting for. There are animals at the widely heralded demonstration farm area that children can touch and cuddle. Farm Manager Bill Martin sees to it that chicks keep hatching in the incubator, so visitors can view the baby chicks pecking their way into the world.

Pigs, a burro, horses, cows and baby calves are all there to give city children a view of domestic animal life. Martin is giving the animals names that start with the same letter as the animal. Petunia Pig has a sister, Pansy, and another sister, Poppy. Fancy names or not, they all squall and are very hard to catch.

The first kindergarten group is expected Wednesday afternoon to gather in the barn for an animal show that Martin will conduct.

Hayden Montgomery, assistant park manager, told the Reporter on an opening day tour that park personnel hope to see 800,000 to a million people visit Oak Mountain this year.

It will take some getting used to, because the park is so much better than it used to be. All the new developments have been made with a minimum distruption of natural beauty, yet they add far more opportunities to enjoy the great outdoors than people are accustomed to at Oak Mountain.

You can rent a cabin for four people for $24 per night in a lovely wooded area on a lake. The cabins are completely furnished.

You can choose between two restaurants, both located in settings of natural beauty.

You can roller skate around a fountain and go swimming on a sandy beach.

The daring can rent a sail boat and skim over a beautiful lake.

If it should rain while you're in the park, head for the lodge and play billiards or football. Tour the gift shop which will be stocked with handmade items. Mr. Montgomery asked the Reporter to seek out Shelby County craftsmen who might make items they would want to sell through the park gift shop.

Pitch a tent for $3.50 a night, or park your travel trailer for $4.

The golf course and the stables are not open yet, but horses will be available for rent this summer, it is hoped.

Bicyling and tennis are other sports available at the park.

And of course a long hiking trail has been opened up for the hardy.

The Parks Division of the State Department of Conservation will operate all the facilities directly, with the exception that concessionaires will operate the restaurants and the stables.

The public may grumble over the costs at the park. No charge is made for entering and driving through the park, but at most of the areas, a charge of at least 25 cents per person is made.

The Parks Division made the decision to collect the charges in order to assure enough funds for decent upkeep of facilities.

Children who visit the demonstration farm will pay 50 cents each. This will pay for the animal feed and the care of the area.

To enter the picnic area, a charge of 25 cents per person will be made, but swings and slides are available there for children.

Charges will be made for fishing and for rental of all equipment.

Montgomery said that the park now has 45 full and part time workers and may need more as visitor attendance grows. They need a few full time workers now, he said, but

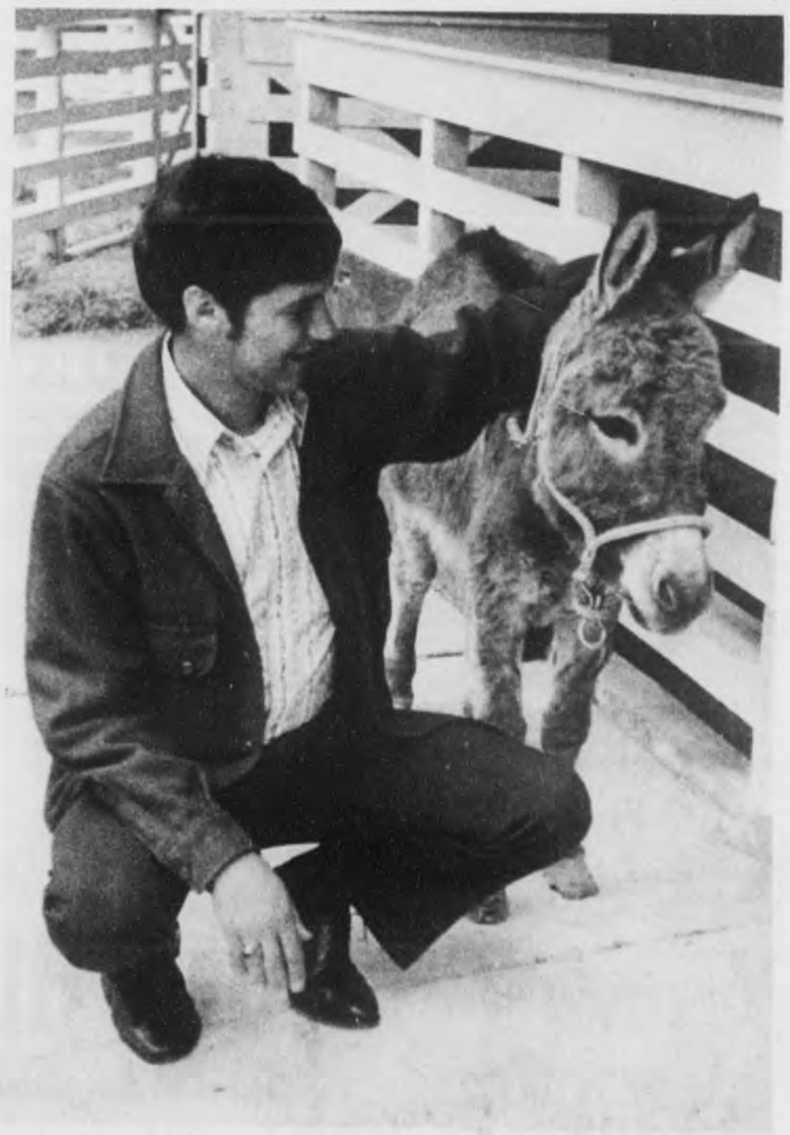
Newspaper prints Walker's checks

Sheriff C.P. "Red" Walker's chances for re-election took a nosedive Sunday following disclosures in The Birmingham News that Walker had written $2,000 in bad checks to a Las Vegas, Nevada gambling casino.



According to the story in the News, Walker had written four checks, each in the amount of $500 to "Cash" which were deposited to the account of the firm that operates "Caesar's Palace", a famous gambling house in the Nevada city.

When the checks were presented for payment at a Calera bank, they were stamped "non-sufficient funds" and returned to the casino. The casino then apparently sent them back to the Calera bank. On the second time, the checks were not only stamped "non-sufficient funds", but were also stamped, "Do not present again. Enter for collection only."

The Birmingham News also printed photos of the checks which showed they were written on January 11, 1974.

I CAME TO THE ANIMAL FAIR - - Hayden Montgomery, assistant manager of Oak Mountain State Park shows how easy it is to get close to the animals in the special farm demonstration area. Children and animals can roam together freely. The park has many different types of farm animals on the demonstration farm. Both Montgomery and the little burro are hoping to welcome many visitors to the newly opened park this weekend.

ALL THIS AND EASTER TOO - - Little Eric Harrell is loaded down with eggs and prizes at Valley School's egghunt. He and other pre-schoolers hunted for colored eggs at the event. ERic is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Harrell. (Photos by Willard Harrison)

WET EGGHUNT - - Valley School schildren were treated to soggy egghunt on Saturday. Despite inclement weather, the Cahaba Valley Jaycees held the event outside on the school grounds, much to the delight of the children. The children gladly exchanged specially- marked eggs for prizes donated by Pelham and Alabaster businesses.

Helena studies trailers

The Helena town council discussed issues concerning the placement of mobile homes on individual lots at its Monday meeting. Problems have arisen in recent weeks on the subject, according to Mrs. Frances Parrish, city clerk.

The town of Helena invites the placement of mobile homes in trailer parks, but zoning ordinance prohibits the placement of mobile homes on individual lots within the town.

In other action the Helena council voted to give a share of revenues for the support of the Shelby County Youth Aid Bureau. Helena's share of the support money will be determined at a later date based on the number of cases at the YAB from Helena and on population.

Another topic of discussion was the need for a new city map.

The Alabaster city council also met on Monday night. Several political candidates were on hand to address the Alabaster council.

At University of Montevallo--

High school drama fest slated

More than a hundred high school actors and technicians will meet at University of Montevallo Saturday, April 27, for the 32nd annual Walter H. Trumbauer Drama Festival One-act Play Competition.

Dr. Charles C. Harbour, president of the Alabama State Speech and Theatre Association, reports that this is the festival's second year under ASTA sponsorship. The festival, which originated and was held annually at Montevallo for thirty years, is now divided into district and state finals held at various colleges and universities each year.

Dr. Harbour, said that eight schools will compete at the Montevallo meeting. They are Vestavia Hills High School, Shades Valley, Jackson-Olin, Corner, Etowah, Sardis, Huffman, and Gaston High of Gadsden.

The productions, to which the public is invited, include "Impromptu," by Tad Mosel, directed by Ms. Marion Bowen of Etowah High School; "Bachelor of the Year" by Joseph Baldwin, directed by Sandra Chance and Roger Porter of Gadsden; "Post Cards" by James Prideaux, directed by Mrs. Dorothy Walker and Chuck Leachman of Shades Valley; "Raisen in the Sun" directed by Mrs. Barbara Patterson of Jackson-Olin High School.

"Overlays," an original script by Leslie Cost, directed by Mrs. Lois Askew, will be presented by Huffman High School. The other productions are "Childhood" by Thornton Wilder, directed by Victor Fichtner and Mats Rooben of Vestavia; "The Valian" by Hall and Middleman, directed by Mrs. Ava Ann Fortner of Corner High School at Warrior; and "Genius Junior" by Le Roma Greth, directed by Charles Brown and Mrs. Jeri Holcomb of Sardis High School in Boaz.

Winners in the Region 4 and 5 meet held at Montevallo will be eligible to pariticpate in the state finals at Troy State University later in the year. Judges for the Montevallo competition will be Dr. Laura F. Wright, Professor Emeritus and former chairman of the speech department at University of Montevallo; Professor John Ross, chairman of the theatre and interpretation division at University of Alabama; and Prof. Charles Hannum, director of theatre at Judson College. Miss Patricia Bailey, speech teacher at Homewood and second Vice President of ASTA will be on hand for the presentation of awards at 5 p.m.

Registration will begin at 8 a.m. on April 27, with the plays beginning at 9:15. Additional information regarding play times will be available through the University of Montevallo Speech and Theatre Department, 665-2521.

the Central State Bank, of Calera told the Shelby County Reporter that the information about the checks did not come from the Central State Bank.

Schroeder said that the newspaper must have gotten the information from some other source, because the bank never gives out information on private transactions between the bank and its customers.

they have enough part time workers.

The park will be open for the public 24 hours a day, seven days a week, but the various facilities will set their own hours, as the needs of the visitors dictate, Montgomery told the Reporter.

Oak Mountain Park is bound to become a great tourist center and a place of great enjoyment for Shelby County residents.

New residents love Alabama home; 'We're here to stay'

Editor's note: One of the rewards of sitting at an editor's desk is that occasionally we find a really beautiful letter when we go through the mail. One such letter arrived this week and we are very happy to share it with all our readers. The writer asked that her full name and address not be used - - and it's just as well - - if everybody knew who she was, there'd likely be 40,000 people lining up to hug her neck - . Suffice it to say she lives in Shelby County and is a subscriber to the Shelby County Reporter.

WE CAME TO STAY

Last September we were living in the Mid-west. My husband would retire October first. We were preparing to make the eighteenth move of our married life. This would be the last one, a statement we had made several times before, only to be refuted.

Moving 650 miles when one is sixty-five years old is no small matter, especially when you want to take everything you have with you. We didn't however. We had private sales and garage sales.

It is surprising how people feel they are getting a bargain if the seller is moving. We sold things we should have junked years ago. One customer said that she had no use for an article but she bought it.

We were looking forward to a warmer winter season, a new home, new friends, a new church. Anticipation rode high in our minds. Our only child lived in the south and there we would have our own family to enjoy.

Moving day arrived, and although the house had been cased and inventoried by an advance man, I thought the movers would have apoplexy when they surveyed the three hundred and fifty boxes we had packed, along with our furniture and hobby paraphernalia. We just stash everything away for future use and there it was.

They loaded until eleven P.M. We slept on the floor that last night. Friends offered us beds, but I guess it was sentiment that kept us there.

Five days later our van arrived about twenty-five miles south of Birmingham. The day was beautiful: our new home was ready to receive all of our treasures. The trees were still in leaf, the breeze was invigorating, the sun was glorious. We were in the South!

We have been here six months. Our life has been filled with joy from the day of our arrival. It has been a glorious winter, the warmest we have ever experienced. If you've ever worn a heavy winter coat, sweater, boots, scarf, gloves, and skidded on a sheer coat of ice or shoveled a five foot snow drift from an underground garage driveway you know what we are talking about when we say, "This is marvelous in Alabama".

Our breakfast room window has been visited all winter long by the birds we've loved and fed: white throated sparrows, doves, purple finches, yellow bellied sapsuckers, blue jays, tufted titmice, cardinals, chestnut crowned chipping sparrows, juncos, red bellied woodpeckers, downeys, and recently the mocking birds.

Now the redbud ahd white dogwood is in full bloom along with the brilliant flowering shrubs. Every tree is bursting forth with its feathery green. Spring has arrived; the awakening!

Children's voices and their presence make our lives an abundant pleasure. We're grandparents and great-grandparents to our whole neighborhood, but our neighbors are exceptional - - they are wonderful. Little Mike next door helps my husband with all of his outdoor chores and the lilt of the grandchildren's voices when they visit is enough to make our heart burst with joy.

We've found the warmest welcome among civic leaders and a church fellowship which leaves nothing to be desired. It seems everyone wants to be a friend and what more could we wish.

Now we are Alabamians. We're here to stay.

Mary

SWIMMING AND DIVING - - Beautiful new sand lines the beach at the swimming area at Oak Mountain Park. Swimming will be discontinued at the older Oak Mountain lake just off Cahaba Valley Road and transferred to this new location. Swimmers can start enjoying the lake the last two weekends in May.

The case of the missing bodies

Remember the story of the missing buried bodies in Shelby County?

In January of 1970 a badly decomposed body was found in north Shelby County after a Columbus, Ga. attorney presented a map to local authorities showing the location of the grave of an alleged murder victim.

The Shelby County mystery was recalled when Georgia authorities last week went on a similar hunt for bodies. According to news reports in the Georgia case, a person already in prison provided information on the location of approximately a dozen graves. One body was found last week and digging continued for others. The FBI said the digging was linked to probes of murders, robberies, explosion and arson.

In the Shelby County case, the body of Harold Dean Zyble was recovered from a grave on the property of Miss Bess Free on the Valleydale Road. The Columbus attorney said that a person already in custody in the Atlanta federal prison had provided him with a map showing the location of Syble's grave.

At the time, it was said that there were other bodies buried in Shelby County. It was also believed that the deaths were connected with a robbery ring of gangland operation.

Sheriff C.P. "Red" Walker reportedly went to Atlanta with FBI officers to talk with the prisoner who had provided the information on the location of Zyble's grave.

Two months later Walker directed a digging operation near Moore's Crossroads for a second body, but this time a body was not found.

And there the mystery deepens. No further searches were made, although the news media was told at the time that the story would be followed up.

As far as is known, no one was ever formally charged with the Zyble death. His body was recovered on January 22, 1970 but identification and other investigation took so long his death certificate was not completed until July 7 of that year. According to the death certificate, the death was caused by a gunshot would in the neck and chest.

As a postscript, the Georgia lawyer who provided the first map is now dead, and the woman on whose property the body of Zyble was found, is also dead.

Are there other bodies in unmarked graves in Shelby County? Who knows, and who would tell?

Reporter endorses Governor Wallace

Many springs and many winters have passed since that day we went to the Calera Park to hear an obscure young judge from Barbour County.

People were saying, "Here's a man to watch. There's something about him . . ."

The year was 1958. When George Wallace started to speak, he caught the crowd's attention and held it to the very end. Everybody knew they had heard from a man to watch. They knew there was . . . something about him.

He talked of wanting to improve the living conditions of all Alabamians. He talked of more jobs and more industries.

He did not win that race, but he won the next, and the next, and the next.

And today, he comes before the voters again, asking for another four years in Montgomery. Now a national figure, he has overwhelming support and there is no doubt that he can win.

Yet he seeks the support of the newspapers of the state. Why? He does not need their written endorsements.

He has asked the Shelby County Reporter in person and by letter to endorse him. It is a soul searching experience for the Reporter. We do not endorse candidates. Shelby County voters are so independent we have never dared risk suggesting any candidate to our readers. Our technique is to present the facts and let them take it from there.

But this is a time when people need to pull together - when differences should be minimized and a strong spirit of unity should prevail to help solve the enormous problems facing the state and nation.

It is conceivable that the governor's hand might be strengthened in dealing with the leaders of the nation if he has wider support from the press of Alabama than he has enjoyed in the past.

The Shelby County Reporter is glad to endorse the cause of strengthening the voice of Alabama in the nation's capital. We extend our support to George Wallace in his campaign for governor of Alabama.

Sino-American relations improve

by Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — Newspapers have reported that the Chinese-American detente is in trouble. As evidence, they have cited the new cultural revolution sweeping through Communist China. This has sparked a campaign against all things foreign. Even Henry Kissinger's friend, Premier Chou En-lai, has spoken out against alleged U.S. "aggression." China also turned back U.S. wheat shipments contaminated with fungus.

Everything I have seen, however, indicates the reports of a deteriorating detente simply are not true. The secret cable traffic and intelligence reports indicate that Chinese-American relations not only remain friendly, but probably will improve.

The confidential cables from American diplomats in Peking, for example, reveal that daily contacts between Chinese and American officials are lengthy, candid and cordial. U.S. businessmen are pleased over their reception in China.

Intelligence reports, furthermore, indicate that the new cultural revolution is completely controlled by the Communist party; this was not true in the last political upheaval. Party officials have issued strict orders, for example, that propaganda posters are to be put up only after working hours.

The "revolution," in short, is not going to be conducted at the expense of production. Chou En-lai's critical comments can be attributed to the fact that he is a wily leader with a survival instinct which rivals Richard Nixon's. And as far as the wheat rot incident is concerned, the simple fact is that the Chinese refuse to pay good money for tainted grain.

The China-watching press tends to put too much emphasis on trivial incidents. They sometimes see a calamity in a simple sneeze. This time, it appears, they are reading the signs wrong.

Rural reader protests fees for garbage collection

Letter to Editor:

I wonder how many rural poor people living in unincorporated towns in Shelby County are aware that forty-five cents of each month's garbage collection fees are turned over to the county commission to operate the county land fill? Not very many have knowledge of this. It all came about and was imposed without any public knowledge. Several articles on county wide garbage collection have appeared in the Shelby County Reporter of late, but not once did any of them mention that forty-five cents of the required monthly fee would be collected by the garbage collectors and in turn given to the county commission to help defray the cost of operating the county landfill which is situated so remotely from the people.

Before March first, the date the County Commission dictated that garbage collectors of their choice would start collecting garbage, we had garbage service and were pleased with it. At that time it cost only $2.50 per month for the same service we are now getting that costs $3.90 a month for on street collection or $4.90 a month for house service. The additional forty-five cents is merely a way for the commission to get extra funds in a hush-hush way so as not to create any great controversy among the people affected.

I say it ain't fair, is unconstitutional and illegal for the County Commission to impose such a fee when only the rural poor are required to pay, especially when we do not get anything or service from the Commission in return for our money. Not until every household in Shelby County is required to pay the forty-five cents will I accept it as a fair deal.

I would suggest that every citizen in unincorporated towns band together and file a class action suit against the Shelby County Commission to stop collection of this unauthorized fee and to return money already collected, unless the same fee is applied to every household in Shelby County.

While I'm on the subject of garbage, may I say that I have noticed a tremendous increase in garbage dumping on the roadsides since this forced program was imposed on the people. We have laws on the books to take care of the offenders and they should be enforced to the letter. I say punish the guilty and protect the innocent.

I reiterate. I'll do all in my power to keep Shelby County as beautiful as possible, but it is not fair that we in less fortunate places should foot the bill to operate the county land fill with an additional forty-five cents per month on our garbage collection fees. If every household is assessed, then I'm for it.

C.W. Lawley
Rt 3 - Box 349
Montevallo, AL 35113

Garbage charge explained

Mr. Lawley's letter raises some very pertinent questions. Because the Reporter did give considerable publicity to the new county-wide garbage pickup system, we looked into some of the questions Mr. Lawley raised and, among other things, found out where the 45 cent charge goes.

Last week we reported that the county health department had employed a new sanitation worker. We found that his salary will be paid by the 45 cent charge. It works like this: The county increases its contributions to the State Health Department to an amount necessary to pay the salary of the new employee. His salary is $275.50 every two weeks, according to Frank Sloan county sanitarian.

State law required the county to put in some kind of garbage collection system and also required the health department to be responsible for enforcing it. However, the state law establishing all this did not make any provision for raising new money to pay the cost. It left the matter to the individual counties, and this is the way the Shelby County Commission finally worked it out. They considered other methods, such as levying a one cent sales tax but gave up on that. All four members of the Commission unanimously passed the final resolution.

The four garbage franchise operators in the county had not settled up their first month's operation with the county last Friday when we made these inquiries, so it was not possible to tell how much money they were turning back to the county in the form of the 45 cent charge. The system went into operation March 1.

The county has operated a landfill at Calera and at Vincent for several years. A new one is being added west of Helena. Use of the landfills has been free to individuals and the two landfills cost the county $35,000 to operate last year.

The last heavy equipment the county purchased for the landfills was a front-end loader that cost $50,381.

Since the new system of collection started, many of the complaints relate to the fact that residents have to take their garbage to the road for the trucks to pick up. Because of dogs, narrow driveways and the time factor the franchise operators cannot go to the back of houses to pick up the garbage.

Deadline is near

There are only three days left in which to become a registered voter and qualify to vote in the May 7 primary.

The Shelby County Board of Registrars will be in session on Friday, Saturday and Monday, April 19, 20 and 22. The Board will register potential voters from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. on Friday and Monday and from 9 a.m. until 12 noon on Saturday. The Board will be in session in the Shelby County Courthouse in Columbiana.

Monte-Sil homecoming

There will be a homecoming observance held Sunday, April 21, at the Monte-Sil Baptist Church on Highway 119 between Montevallo and Alabaster. All members and their friends are invited to bring a basket lunch and enjoy the day long program that has been arranged.

Special guest musicians include the Revelliers from Birmingham.

My name is ANDREW BALLARD. My friends call me "Andy". I am a NATIVE of SHELBY COUNTY.

As you probably know, I want you to vote for my grandfather, DOUG BALLARD, Sr., for the County Commission.

Folks want to know why we call him "HA". Well, my elder brother "Trace" started this. Every time he would see my grandfather, he would shout "AH-HA"! After that he just started calling him "HA", which we all do, but back to politics, if you vote for "HA", I know he will love you like he loves me.

Now that I think about it, he will love you whether you support him or not.

Troopers make war on drunk drivers

"State Troopers 'Find the Drunk' program, aimed at removing druck drivers from Alabama's highways has met with excellent success during its first three months of operation", State Public Safety Director, Colonel E.C. Dothard, said today.

Dothard pointed out that since its beginning on January 1, 1974, Alabama has experienced the lowest accident rate than in any conparable period for over five years.

Patrol records show that for the months of January, February, and March, of 1974, arrests for Driving While Intoxicated increased from 1,931 in 1973 to 2,707 in 1974, or, an increase of 29 per cent.

"We connot be everywhere at once," the 'Director said, "So we are asking all highway users to obey all traffic laws, and if you see a driver you suspect of being drunk, call your nearest Trooper office. With your help, we shall continue to see traffic deaths decrease."

Red Cross aids victims

Hope blossomed like a rose in rubble as relief efforts of thousands of Red Cross volunteers for tornado - shattered North Alabama communities helped heal their wounds Friday.

"Red Cross has expended $200,000 in mass care and immediate assistance to suffering families," said Michael McDougald, chairman of volunteers of the Red Cross Alabama Division. "We expect this assistance to rise to around $500,000.

"Greater than cash help have been the donations of hours of hard work, and of family essentials. Some volunteers went without sleep for two or three days during the critical period after the tornadoes struck Wednesday evening, April 3.

"Red Cross called in scores of trained disaster volunteers as the tornadoes threatened and struck. Then came hundreds of others, asking only, 'What can I do?' They gave blood, drove supply trucks. They cooked, and they made almost 100,000 sandwiches. They manned shelters. They operated emergency radio networks. They comforted those in grief and pain. Young and old brought glory to the Red Cross arm band with their monumental services to others."

Governor George C. Wallace designated Red Cross as Alabama's official disaster relief agency in a proclamation announced Thursday. This was the disaster picture known to Red Cross Thursday, the needs which McDougald said Red Cross is meeting:

Total injured, 894; hospitalized, 291; dwellings and mobile homes destroyed, 1,480; with major damage, 1,246; total families suffering losses, 3,604.

Red Cross has provided mass care including shelter and food for more than 30,000 disaster victims and relief workers, and given direct assistance to 1,658 families beginning alte April 3, McDougald said.

"This relief effort is continuing in every county where anyone suffered losses because of the tornadoes," said the chairman, a Gadsden radio executive. "We urge you to go to your nearest Red Cross disaster center or contact your chapter if you need help because of the tornadoes, and have not yet asked for or received assistance.

"All Red Cross disaster assistance is a gift of the American people, without repayment being asked or, expected."

Red Cross disaster experts listed numerous basic needs of families attempting to resume normal lives in their homes. Priority items include bed linens and towels, pots and pans, tableware, non-perishable food including canned goods, all household cleaning supplies including mops and brooms, furniture including beds and mattresses.

"These families also need hammers, saws, pliers and screw drivers," said Miss Mary Kathleen Neighbors, Red Cross community services director. "A large number live in rural areas, so they need hoes, rakes, shovels and turning forks for gardens. Electrical blenders are needed for persons on special diets, invalids and to prepare baby food. Please make the same contribution you would need if your home were destroyed and your family suffering."

CARD OF THANKS

In thanks to everyone who extended their love, sympathy, and thoughtfullness during the illness and death of our husband and daddy. A special thanks to Rev. Don Graves, Dr. Hall and Dr. Phillips, and the nurses and staff of Shelby Memorial Hospital. We sincerely appreciate each kindness expressed.

Mrs. Carl Sims and children

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our Husband, Father, and Grandfather, who passed away nine years ago June 11, 1965, his birthday April 25.

God took him home, it was His will. But in our heart, we love him still. His memory is as dear today as in the hour he passed away. We often sit and think of him, when we are all alone. For memory is the only friend that grief can call its own.

The Thomas Shirley Wallace Family

Sunny days are here again.

Celebrate the return of spring.
We have a new Bug with a mentality as bright as the rising sun.
It has a sunroof to let in the warm air and the scent of a growing world.
There is a touch of the sun in its leatherette upholstery options.
And a touch of the world in its optional type wheels.
For the touch of your hand, there is a covered steering wheel and special sunburst shift knobs.
The Sun Bug – it's a perfect way to say May morning.
And it doesn't cost you.
We've only made a few of these golden cars. If you don't buy one now, you may never get another chance for a piece of the sun.

Social studies fair stresses history

SIXTH GRADE - - TMS sixth graders Debra Payne, Mike Denard, and Denise Harrison won ribbons for the first three places. Noted with honorable mention are Lori Winford, Suzanne Luker, and Jimmy Cocke.

EGYPT AND ELSEWHERE - - Thompson Middle School's seventh grade students gather around thier projects. During the year, the students studied Egypt and other countries in world history. Prize winners are Butch Poole, first; Todd Semtak, second; and David Ford, third prize. Students winning honorable mention are Tim Culver, Vickie Yarborough, Rebecca Luker, LeAnn Duff, Terilynn Johnson, Robin Burgess, Kim Semtak, and Ricky Carden.

Why have Thompson Middle School students been working for the past weeks on mummy cases, volcanoes, sedan chairs, and historic buildings? About one hundred and forty of the students had been preparing their entries to the school's fourth annual social studies fair.

Sugar cubes, clay, wood, and leather were just some of the materidals used by ingenious sixth, seventh, and eighth graders. Social studies students have been working long and hard on their projects for the fair held April 8, 9, and 10. The students had covered periods of world, American, and Latin American history in their entries. Egyptian paintings, Roman chariots, and American Indian teepees were a few of the many proejcts entered.

J.B. Denham, chairman of TMS's social studies department said that this year's fair "was the best one yet." He added, "There were more high-quality projects entered than ever before. Denham stated that the winners and runners-up would advance to the district fair in Birmingham on April 24 through 26.

Sixth-grade winners were Debra Payne, first place; Mike Denard, second; and Denise Harrison, third. Winnning honorable mention were Lori Winford, Suzanne Luker, and Jimmy Cocke.

Ribbon winners in the seventh grade were Butch Poole, first prize; Todd Semtak, second; and David Ford, third prize. A number of students received honorable mention, including Tim Culver, Vickie Yarborough, Rebecca Luker, LeAnn Duff, Terilynn Johnson, Robin Burgess, Kim Semtak, and Ricky Carden.

Eighth grade winners were first - Brett Winford, second - Darrell Allen, and third - Melody Acker. Both students and faculty members felt the fair was a big success. Principal Mary Roach was pleased with the social studies fair, and like everyone else, is no doubt looking forward to the fifth annual fair next year.

Academic excellence stressed at Indian Springs

INTENT ON LEARNING - - Classes at Indian Springs are small and a free exchange of ideas is encouraged between teachers and students. Gathered around study tables are students Lawrence Williams, Rand Mathews, Tim Doggett, Mike Joiner, Charlie Lorant, Mike Thuss, Robin McRae and John Corey. The instructor is James Brown.

FRENCH WITH EMPHASIS - - Students of French at Indian Springs study with Pierre Morel (seated left,) and with John W. Campbell (seated, right). Morel is a native of France with degrees from French universities. Campbell was formerly with the U.S. diplomatic service and served in posts throughout the world. He has taught French at Indian Springs for a number of years. Students pictured are Owen Bell, Mike Matte and Bart Grooms.

SOCCER LETS OFF STEAM - - The rough sport of soccer is a favorite among ISS students who play the sport in competition in the fall. They compete with other soccer teams in the fall. Tennis, basketball and golf are among the other sports available to ISS students.

Indian Springs School enrolled its first class of students in 1952 and has proved to be a potent educational force in Shelby County ever since.

Located on Cahaba Valley Road, the school has a beautiful campus of 800 acres.

The student body numbers about 200 and a faculty-student ratio of eight to one is maintained. The school is open to high school age boys in grades 9 through 12.

Emphasis on academic subjects is strong at Indian Springs, and all students must pass a nationally administered admissions test to demonstrate that they can handle the school work.

Experimental methods, such as varying the length of each period or combining history and English, are tried with success.

All students must try to learn a foreign language. Latin and French are the two that are offered.

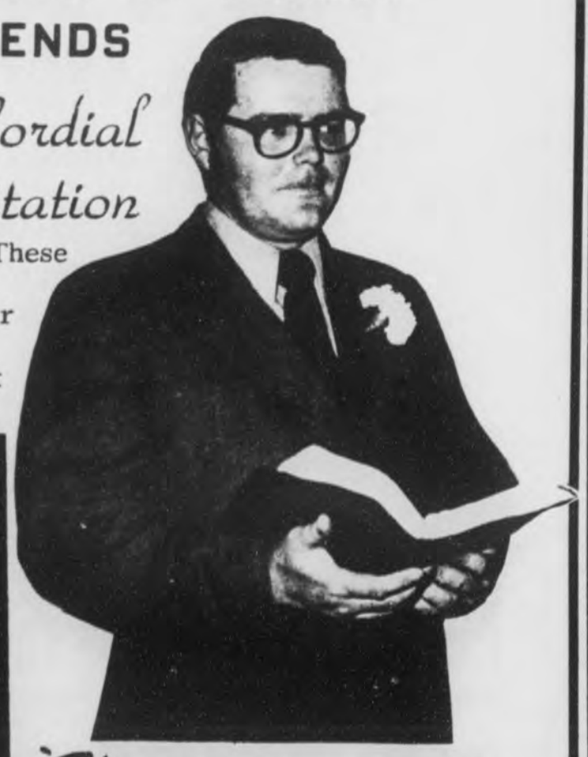
A thorough preparation for college is stressed throughout the educational program. All of the school's graduates have enrolled in colleges.

Students are encouraged to board at the school and attractive one story dormitories are provided. Many students commute by bus however, and attend only day time class sessions. The school bus circulates through the south Birmingham area.

Most of the students are from the immediate Birmingham area, and not many are from Shelby County. But the sports programs are well known throughout the county with frequent games arranged between ISS and county high schools.

Students not only conduct their own governmental affairs, but are active in the formation of school policies. Students make their rules and settle their disputes. Frequent experiences of sharing in the dining hall, dormitories, and classroom reinforce a sense of community.

The Glee Club is a popular activity for many of the students at the school. The Glee Club performs throughout the area and has been to Europe several times in recent years.



Indian Springs School has much to offer youths of high school age. The school is now preparing its enrollment lists for next fall, and will welcome inquiries from Shelby County families who may wish more information about the educational opportunities available there.

SCIENTIFIC STUDIES - - Indian Springs has extensive laboratory equipment and opportunities for students to explore the various sciences. Here a student works in the chemistry lab.

Leonard Wyatt dies

The last verbal tribute was paid honoring Leonard Newton Wyatt, 79, at two o'clock on the afternoon of April 12 from the Harpersville Baptist Church with Rev. Frank Bailey and Rev. E.C. Glenn officiating.

Mr. Wyatt was a retired farmer and a member of one of the most widely known families engaged in agricultural ventures in Shelby County. The Wyatts own extensive farming lands and have played an important role in the development of Shelby County. Mr. Wyatt was a member of the Harpersville Baptist Church and highly respected by his countywide friends and neighbors.

Survivors are: wife, Kathleen E. Wyatt; two sons L.N. Wyatt Jr., and Emmett D. Wyatt; one brother, Clyde M. Wyatt, and one sister, Icie Lee McCranie.

Pallbearers were: J.W. Donahoo, Hubert Sewell, Alton Glaze, Ralph Caddell, Cecil Nummy and Dilford Morris.

GYPSY - - Mother Rose (right), played by Paula Morgan, gives a few backstage pointers to young Gypsy Rose Lee, played by Denise Baldwin, during rehearsals for the musical GYPSY to be presented at the University of Montevallo April 25, 26, and 27. Montevallo's director of theatre, W.T. Chichester, who staged a USO show featuring the famous Gypsy Rose Lee during World War II, will direct the production.

'Gypsy' performed

GYPSY, the fabulous musical about Gypsy Rose Lee, the famous Queen of Burlesque, will open in the University of Montevallo's Palmer Theatre on Thursday, April 25, for a three night run.

The play follows the true story of Gypsy Rose Lee's life. Rose, her mother, considered Louise (Gypsy) the "ugly duckling" of the family and sought to push her sister, June. The two girls, managed by their mother, made several appearances beginning in 1917, when they were but two and three years old, and ending in vaudeville with such performances as "Madame Rose's Dancing Daughters" of 1928.

With her debut in burlesque in 1929 in "Rose Louise and Her Hollywood Blondes," Gypsy Rose went on to become "The Queen of the Strip=tease." Besides writing three books and several articles, she also acted in motion pictures, television, and on the Broadway stage.

During World War II Miss Lee appeared in USO productions and in this connection Montevallo's director of theatre, W.T. Chichester, first met her. He staged a special production for her on New Years Day 1943 at Camp Bunter, N.C., where she did four performances to packed houses.

The Montevallo production will be staged by W.T. Chichester with Benjamin Middaugh as musical director and conductor, and choreography by Susan Brown. Costumes will be by May Harbour and settings by Tom Nowell.

The leading role of Rose, the mother of Gypsy, played by Ethel Merman in the original production, will be played by Paula Morgan, a graduate student at the University of Montevallo. Louise will be played by Denise Baldwin of Birmingham, an undergraduate student at the university majoring in theatre.

Tickets are available by writing the Speech and Theatre Department, University of Montevallo, or by calling 665-2521, Ext. 259 for reservations. All tickets are reserved. Curtain time will be 8:15 p.m. April 25, 26, and 27.

Board members attend convention

Shelby County Board of Education members D.B. Smith and Joe Dean attended the National School Board Association Convention in Houston, Texas on April 6-9. The program was billed as a University of Boardmanship and offered clinics in various areas of interest to board members in order to help them to serve more effectively.

The program was made of prominent national speakers with thousands of delegates from all over the nation attending. Governor Reuben Askew of Florida was the keynote speaker. Alvin Toffler, author of the controversial and thought provoking book, Future Shock, spoke on the concept of education in the future. Dan Rather, CBS Washington news correspondent also spoke.

BSO stages benefit for tornado victims

The Birmingham Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Amerigo Marino, will present a concert for the benefit of Alabama tornado victims, it was announced today by Dr. Leslie S. Wright, President of the Symphony Association. The concert will be held on Sunday afternoon, April 28th, 2:30 p.m., at Municipal Auditorium. The program will be selected from the Orchestra's season repertoire.

The Birmingham Symphony Orchestra is one of the major cultural organizations in the state, and annuallly travels over Alabama and neighboring states to give concerts. It is in response to this regional support that the Association is taking this opportunity to help those who are in such need.

Joining with the Orchestra to make this benefit concert possible is the City of Birmingham, through its mayor, Honorable George Seibels, providing the facilities of Municipal Auditorium for the concert. Members of the Stagehands Union, Local No. 78, are also donating their services for this concert, and Mr. E.A. Jones, manager of the Auditorium, and his staff are donating their services.

The Symphony Association wishes to thank all who have joined to make this an outstanding and profitable event on behalf of Alabama strom victims.

Admission will be a minimum contribution of $2.00, and additional contributions will be gratefully accepted. Tickets will be available at the door. There will be no reserved seats.

Bike week is April 22-27

With the ever increasing number of bikes in town, more accidents are inevitable unless careful attention is paid to the rules governing bicycles, autos and pedestrians. As always sunny days of Spring mean that even more folk are going to be free- wheeling it along the streets and highways. Gas shortage is playing its part in the use of less expensive transportation, too.

So, April 22-27 has been declared Bike Safety Week. It is of unprecedented importance. Cyclists should learn about their responsibilities through programs of bicycle instruction and follow the rules designed to promote safe travelling for all. Observance of the rules of the road and exercising common sense stressed during Bike Safety Week could keep your next Bike Ride from being your last!

Billy Todd featured at Calera revival

Revival services at Calera Bible Baptist church are scheduled for the week of April 22 to 28, with services at 7:30 each evening, in addition to regular Sunday morning services.

BILLY TODD

On Saturday and Sunday Billy Todd will be the guest speaker. Todd is principal at Berean Baptist Christian School and assistant choir director, in Pensacola. Fla.

A native of Sylacauga, he is a noted bass singer.

According to Rev. Jack Strickland, everyone is invited to attend the worship services.

L.C. Taylor (Whistling Taylor of Main Street) came in from a walk through the woodlands around Columbiana this morning and stopped by our office to tell us of an exciting fight he had witnessed between a snake and a turtle.

The turtle won the battle Mr. Taylor said. He also stated he stayed at the scene until the snake gave its last "wiggle" -- and that it beat anything he had ever seen. I told him it beat anything I had ever heard. I asked him what the turtle did after his victory. He said he "waddled on down the road".

Cancer crusade begins

by Linda Hinds Conn

The month of April has been designated as Cancer Crusade Month. In cooperation with this fund raising effort, the Wilsonville P.T.A. is sponsoring a Cancer Drive in the Wilsonville area. Mrs. Ray Simpson is chairman.

Cancer Crusade Sunday will be observed on April 21 with a road block set up in the area. Teenagers of the area will help with the road block while women in different sections of the town will collect money in their respective locations.

Mrs. Simpson asks area residents if they have not already donated, to please do so on this Cancer Crusade Sunday. Special collections will be made in each church.

Students win FFA contests

Shelby County had more than its share of winners in the district FFA contest finals. In the event at Shelby County High School, county students won in four of the major categories on Saturday, April 13.

Chelsea's future Farmers won first prize in land judging and in the quartet singing competition. Shelby County High's string band won honors as best in the nine=county district. First place in dairy judging went to Thompson High School.

Other first place winners were Weogufka for livestock judging; Dadeville for agricultural mechanics; and forestry judging's winner from Coosa County High in Rockford. The winner in public speaking was from Pierce School at Isabella, and the district corn-growing champ was from Frances Marion High in Marion.

All of the first place winners were Weogufka for livestock judging; Dadeville for agricultural mechanics; and forestry judging's winner from Coosa County High in Rockford. The winner in public speaking was from Pierce School at Isabella, and the district corn-growing champ was from Frances Marion High in Marion.

All of the first place winners will go to the state finals to be held in Montgomery in June. There they will be eligible for cash prizes and trophies.

Robert Hughes, vocational agriculture teacher at SCHS, says that the county did exceptionally well in the all-day competition. "We had a good day this year, but hopefully our students will win in even more categories."

Library week

The Community Libraries and the Bookmobile of the Shelby County Library System will join libraries around the nation in observance of National Library Week April 21-27.

The theme for Alabama National Library Week will be sports. The slogan, "With Libraries you Always Score", is the brainchild of Charles Brooks, editorial cartoonist for the Birmingham News, who also designed the poster.

Bookmarks feature photographs of outstanding University of Alabama and University of Auburn athletes. Mrs. Paul (Bear) Bryant of Tuscaloosa and Mrs. Ralph (Shug) Jordan of Auburn are honorary co-chairman.

The purpose of National Library Week is to focus special attention on libraries - to promote community interest in them and to encourage people to use the services available to them.

According to Mrs. Leonard amnesty week will also be observed at this time. Any overdue books or other materials may be returned with no fine charged.

Parents flock to open house

Over three hundred parents were present for Columbiana Middle School's open house on April 9th. Bertha Cosper principal of CMS attributed the large turnout to presentations by the students.

The students put on a number of presentations based on various phases of their subject matter. Big displays were located all around the school gym, with exhibits in the fields of social studies, language arts, hand crafts, art displays, and posters in other areas.

The open house began with a devotional presented by music students, with Mrs. Bob Hume singing "The Lord's Prayer." Several other songs were presented, with a helping hand from students working with art and lighting.

One of the highlights of the open house was video tape film explaining the work of several departments. Under the guidance of teacher Bob Brantley, career education students produced and appeared in a film about their department, and a similar film was presented with mathematics students.

Mrs. Cosper said that the students went all out to present the open house, working in all sections of the school's curriculum. Noting the unexpectedly large number of parents present, she said, "This is one of the best open house meetings we have had yet."

Chism family welcomes son

Mr. and Mrs. Randy Chism (Lana Jones) announce the arrival of a son, Wade Jackson, born April 5. He weighted ten pounds and 13 ounces. His brother Randall Chism, age seven is happy over the fact that he has a "playmate".

Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. E.J. Jones of Columbiana and his paternal grandparents include Mr. and Mrs. Grady Chism of Centreville.

New law requires child-proof bottles

"It's going to be harder to open those containers for prescription drugs from now on", according to Joe Dean, President of the Shelby County Pharmaceutical Association.

"A new law became effective on Tuesday of this week", Dean said, "requiring all oral dosage forms of prescription drugs to be dispensed in child resistant containers".

"An exception to the law", Dean continued, "Is with sublingual forms of nitroglycerin. Nitroglycerin must be dispensed in the original containers from the manufacturer".

Two other ways to avoid getting your medicine in the "hard-to- open bottles", according to Dean, are to: 1. sign a statement for the pharmacist that you don't want the child resistant container; 2. when the doctor writes the prescription have the doctor state that a safety container is not required.

The federal agency given the responsibility for implementing and enforcing the new law is the Consumer Product Safety Commission.

Purpose of the law, according to Dean, is to reduce the number of accidental poisonings which occur when children take medicine from inadequately stored prescriptions around the home.

Approximately a half million such poisonings occur each year, resulting in some 500 deaths.

SHELBY COUNTY HIGH ATHELTIC HONOREES -- These SCHS football players pose after receiving honors at that school's athletic banquet last Friday night. Players and their honors are: (Left to right) Frank Head, most valuable back; Dwayne King, coaches' award; Victor Mooney, captain; and Ross Walker, captain, most valuable lineman, scholarship trophy and sportsmanship trophy. The speaker for the banquet was former all-SEC guard Junior Davis who played at the University of Alabama.

Coaches, players named at banquet

Team members and coaches from county schools attended the Shelby County high school athletic banquet held at Indian Springs School last Wednesday night.

Speaking to the assembled group was Joe Dean, three time All-SEC basketball player at LSU. Dean also played on the first U.S. olympic basketball team and was voted a member of the Louisiana Sports Hall of Fame. Joe Dean is known to other sports fans as the television color commentator on the SEC game of the week. He is also a national promoter for the Converse Company.

The subject of Dean's speech was "Success."

Later on in the program, the all county football players were given patches to wear on their athletic jackets and sweaters.

Coach Richard Conkle of Chelsea School was recognized as the county football coach of the year and Herman Watts, of Thompson High School was named county basketball coach of the year.

Coach Charlie Thompson presented representatives of Thompson High School with the Shelby County football champion trophy.

Also recognized at the banquet were the all-county basketball players. They are: Percy Brown, Ronnie Tyus and Willie Moore of Montevallo High School; Mike Oden, Steve Luker and James Tanniehill of Thompson; Kenneth Fair of Vincent; Dickie Porter of Shelby County; MIke Young of Chelsea; and Gary Morrow of Indian Springs.

COACH OF THE YEAR -- Thompson High School's Herman Watts was named county basketball coach of the year at the Shelby County atheltic banquet last Wednesday night. (right)

Schools participate in championship

Shelby county 2-A high school will be competing in a state championship baseball program this month. Schools in the 2-A division have been divided into sixteen geographical areas throughout the state. Area schools will determine an area winner. Area winners will then play in predetermined brackets until a champion emerges.

The first round games are on the participating schools' regular schedules. Should a school win, its schedule will be altered in order for the team to participate in the championship porgram. If not, the regular schedule will be followed throughout the season.

Area games designated for Shelby County 2-A schools are: Shelby County vs. Alabama Lutheran Academy, April 16; Thorsby vs. Montevallo, April 19; and Vincent vs. Winterboro, April 23.

SAFE AT FIRST - - This was a familiar scene this weekend as the Camp Branch softball league opened its season.

Eight teams in league

The Central Shelby Dixie Youth League will be fielding five major teams this year for boys aged 10-12.

The major league teams will be the Braves and the Cubs from Columbiana, the Cardinals of Wilsonville, the Pirates of Calera and the Tigers of Chelsea.

The Central Shelby league also has four minor league teams, one from the four cities and towns involved. In addition, there are eight shirt and cap teams for the younger boys. Columbiana will host four teams, and Calera will host two teams. Chelsea and Wilsonville each have one shirt and cap team.

Braves TALK

EVANS: A ROSE BY ANY OTHER NAME

ATLANTA -- "He was great last year and he's still improving," Braves manager Eddie Mathews said about his young third baseman Darrell Evans.

Evans, who contributed to three Braves setting the all-time home run record for a trio of teammates last season, was named to the Major League All-Star Team last year in his second full season as a big leaguer with the Braves. He did what seemed to be the impossible. As a lesser known player in the big leagues, he stepped in and took over the All-Star third base spot. In doing so, he was pitted against established stars like Ron Santo, Doug Rader, Bill Melton, Brooks Robinson and Sal Bando, and Evans came out number one.

Just how good is Darrell Evans?

Compare him with the best in the league -- the National League's Most Valuable Player last year, Pete Rose of the Cincinnati Reds.

Rose scored 115 runs last year; Evans scored 114.

Rose drove in 64 runs last year; Evans drove in 104.

Rose walked 65 times last year; Evans walked 124.

Rose had 36 doubles; Evans had 25.

Rose had eight triples; Evans also had eight triples.

Rose was on base 301 times last year; Evans was on base 294 times despite having come to bat nearly 100 fewer times than Rose during the season.

Rose had five home runs; Evans had 41.

Rose had 291 total bases; Evans had 337.

Rose had a slugging percentage of .437; Evans was second in the league at .556.

Rose was first in the league in batting average at .338; Evans hit a respectable .281.

But most important, Rose is 32 years old and Evans is just 26.

Obviously, Evans compares favorably with the man voted best in the league last season, but there is another intangible category that also has a similarity -- hustle.

"I enjoy hustling," Evans said. "It's the way I play baseball, and it makes me feel very proud when other people notice that I hustle."

Evans also took pride in the comparison to Rose.

"He's a guy you look up to when you're a big league ballplayer," Evans noted. "He's put one great year together with a string of others; he has the consistency that every player wants. And being on the pennant winner means a lot. Someone has to be making the biggest contribution towards making the team a winner, and there are more ways to help a club than just statistics."

What are Evans' personal goals for 1974?

"I'm most proud of my 100 RBI, 100 runs scored and 100 walks last season, and I'd like to accomplish those three things again," he answered. "I don't particularly plan to go for home runs, although it would be nice if I hit over 40."

New course--

Inverness links host match

The Inverness golf course in the Fletcher Properties development in northern Shelby County will be the site of a four team collegiate golf tournament this Thursday.

The University of Montevallo, Huntingdon, Troy State and Florence State golf teams will meet at the newly-developed Inverness course for a four-way match.

"We are really excited about playing this course," said UM golf coach Leon Davis. "It's going to be a challenge."

The Montevallo team should be a top contender since it has added five wins to its record in the last two UM outings. The sure- swinging club now has a season record of 11-6-1.

With a low score of 287 in a four-way match, the Falcons defeated Florence (293), Jacksonville State (304), and Samford (306).

George Walker, Sr. from Tuscaloosa, shot a 60; Terry Reynolds, Illinois, a 71; Cal Stanford, Birmingham, a 73; and Robby Tibbs; Hueytown, and Alex Morrow, Wetumpka, both shot a 74 to give UM the winning score.

IN a later three-way match, UM again had the winning score (317) over Huntingdon (318) and Samford (334) under very windy conditions on a rough course.

Walker is holding the low stroke average for the season and leading the team. Last year he competed in the National Tournament of NAIA as a District Low-scorer.

BASEBALL SEASON - - Most area high schools will have opened their baseball seasons by this week. Here, the teams from Shelby County High School and Montevallo High School play a practice game last Thursday.

ORTON WINS - - Richard Orton of Hueytown driving the Kamelot Farms of Columbiana chevelle won the Permatex 200 late model sportsman stock car race in Nashville last weekend. Otrin beat out fellow Hueytown drivers Bobby Allison and Red Farmer to win the event.

Orton wins Permatex 200

Hueytown driver Richard Orton piloted Columbiana's Kamelot Farms red chevelle into the winner's circle at the Permatex 200 last Saturday. The racing event was a championship race in NASCAR's Late Model Sportsman division and was held in Nashville, Tenn.

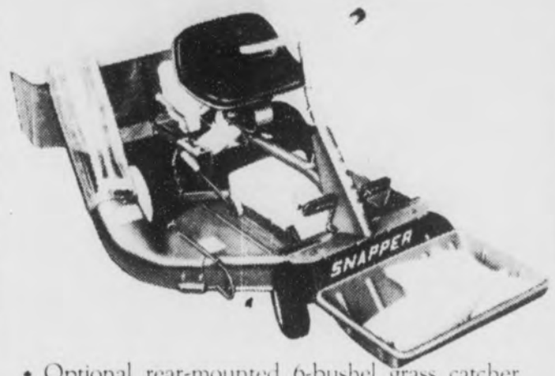
Orton took the lead in the 155th lap of the event when the pack leader Ray Kendrick of Richmond, Va. and the second place contender Darrell Waldrop spun against the walls.

Henderson finished second in the race ahead of two other Hueytown driving "well knowns" Bobby Allison and Red Farmer who finished third and fourth.

Orton, who already has several BIR victories to his credit this season, will be driving the Kamelot Farms chevelle in Huntsville this Thursday night. He is then scheduled to run in Birmingham Friday night and in Montgomery Saturday.

Olympics postponed

The Special Olympics games to be held at University of Montevallo were postponed last Friday because of rain. The games have been re-scheduled for Friday, April 19.



The Special Olympics program is an opportunity for the retarded children of Alabama to receive athletic recognition they would otherwise miss.

Children competing in the Montevallo division of the Special Olympics program will be from Shelby, Coosa, Bibb, St. Clair and Chilton Counties.

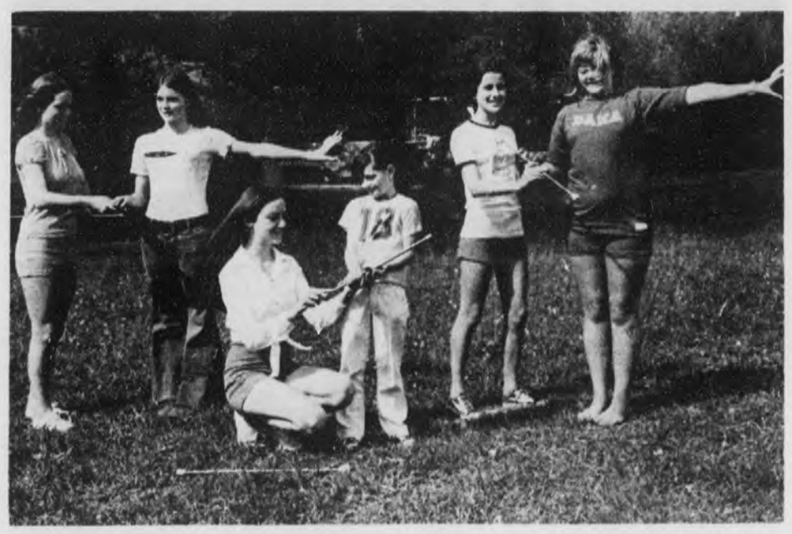
Excitement builds for Winston 500

Excitement is mounting among racing fans as the date of the Winston 500 stock car race draws nearer. The green flag for the race is scheduled to fall at 1 p.m. CDT on Sunday, May 5, at the Alabama International Motor Speedway at Talladega.

Fifty of the fastest qualifiers will start the race. Pole position qualifying is set for Thursday, May 2. The first 20 positions in the starting field will be up for grabs.

Paul "Bear" Bryant, University of Alabama's famed head football coach, will serve as the Grand Marshall of the Winston 500. He will be joining a long list of other distinguished personalities at the fourth annual Winston 500 race.

Country music race fans will have a chance to see singer and composer Tom T. Hall and Bobby "Detroit City" Bare perform in the Winston 500 Grand Ole Oprey Show preceding the race. The show gets underway at 7 p.m., May 4, at the speedway.



Four-time Grand National champion Richard Petty of Randleman, N.C., is among the early entries for the Winston 500. Seeking his first win at the mammoth 2.66-mile speedway, Petty will be behind the wheel of the STP Dodge in the $162,310 Winston Cup classic.

Donnie Allison, a member of the famed Alabama Gang, may be going for his first Grand National victory in more than two years in the Winston 500.

Allison, who will be behind the wheel of the blue and gold DiGard Chevrolet, has not won a Winston Cup event since the 1971 Winston 500.

Defending Grand National champion Benny Parsons of Ellerbe, N.C., will be seeking his first super speedway victory in the fourth annual stock car classic.

The former Detroit cab driver is set to pilot a 1974 Chevrolet sponsored by Kings Row Firefpace Corporation in the $162,310 Winston Cup event.

Swimming offered in YMCA program

Sam Charmichael director of the Shelby County YMCA, announced that organization's progressive swimming program for this summer. Swimming classes for all ages and degrees of swimming ability will be offered. The following is a list of those classes:

Tiny Tots - This class is open to youngsters aged six months to three years. It meets on Monday, Wednesday anf Friday at 12 noon and lasts 30 minutes. Six lessons are included in the course and mothers must accompany their children in the water. It starts June 17.

Beginners - Beginners is for ages four through twelve. The twelve lesson course starts June 10 and is held on Monday Wednesday and Friday. Two classes will be given at 10 a.m. and 11 a.m.

Adult Beginners - This class is open for ages 15 and up. It meets for eight lessons starting June 10 on MOnday and Wednesday evening at 7 p.m.

Diving - Four diving classes are scheduled on Tuesday and Thursday at 11 a.m. starting June 11.

Junior and Senior Lifesaving will be offered to anyone interested. Those persons should contact the YMCA office.

No. 1 team downs UM Falcons, 9-4

The University of Montevallo baseball team dropped a game with the top small college in the nation last Thursday. Number one Birmingham Southern downed Montevallo 9-4 in a game played in the Falcons' home field.

The Falcons had downed Huntingdon earlier in the week by the score of 8-1 after dropping a double header to Springhill College. The Springhill scores were 7-5 and 4-1.

The Huntingdon game, however, was a bright spot in the season. UM head baseball coach Bob Reisner commented, "This was one of the best games we've played all year - - 13 hits and eight runs."

Women list favorite sports

What's the favorite participant sport among American Women today?

It's Swimming.

In second place in the popularity poll is camping, followed by bicycling, bowling, fishing, boating, table tennis, pool and billiards and ice skating.

The A.C. Neilsen Company compiled the list from telephone interviews with two-thousand survey households across the country. The report contains this interesting finding: Women's liberation has not convinced many females to take up guns, although they will shoot pool. Among women, hunting is ahead only of baseball, archery, football, karate, auto racing and ice hockey.

Historical Society to hold next pow-wow in Columbiana

The Shelby County Historical Society has scheduled its next meeting in Columbiana. Guest speaker for the meeting is H. Lindy Martin, a full-blooded Cherokee Indian and Dean of the Division of Student Services at Samford University.

H. LINDY MARTIN

In keeping with the countywide emphasis of the society, the meeting places will rotate from place to place in the county, according to Kenneth Penhale, president. This meeting is to be held in the Columbiana United Methodist Church, with future meets tentatively set in Calera, Montevallo, and other localities.

H. Lindy Martin will discuss the role of the Indian in local history when he addresses the society on Sunday, April 21, at 2:30 p.m. Having lived on an Indian reservation until age 21, Martin is an informative and humorous speaker on Indian affairs and a number of other subjects. He presently serves as executive director of college and university programs and executive director of The American Indian.

Martin received his A.B. degree at Pembroke State College in North Carolina, and his masters in education from Auburn University. He has done graduate work at Auburn and the University of Alabama, and received a certificate in the college of business management at the University of Omaha.

Following the speech by Martin, historical society business will be discussed. On the agenda are progress reports from the various committees, including that of the "save the courthouse" group. Chairman Elsie Archer Jones will bring the members up to date on the latest developments. Reports should also be forthcoming from the cemetery, survey, and town history committees.

The public is invited to attend the meeting and bring their families to hear Dean H. Lindy Martin. The Sunday afternoon meeting is expected to bring a large crowd to the Columbiana church. The new monthly newsletter is also expected to publicize the meeting by direct mailing.

Cemetery group to hold work day in Saginaw

The Nabors Cemetery Association has set aside Saturday, April 20 as Work Day.

All interested parties are urged to come to the Nabors Cemetery in Camp Branch-Saginaw and bring tools to help in cleaning off the cemetery. Activities will get underway at 9 a.m.

Not a problem--

County air okayed by EPA

Shelby County was one of the ten metropolitan counties in the state which were eliminated as air pollution problem areas. The Alabama Air Pollution Control Commission has proposed only four counties for continual study, indicating that they could potentially violate national air quality standards within the next ten years.

The only four counties so designated are Jefferson, Walker, Etowah, and Mobile counties. They are proposed as Air Quality Maintenance Areas (AQMA's), although the air standards in the counties are soon expected to reach those set by the federal government.

This action was taken by the state air pollution control commission in order to meet regulations set by the Environmental Protection Agency in June, 1973. The EPA required each state to designate areas for detailed air quality studies where general growth of population, industrial activity, and mobile sources might cause violation of air quality standards. The EPA issued guidelines in January to help the states to implement the regulations.

Identification of AQMA's is intended to assure that once the national air quality standards are met, they are maintained thereafter, as the Clean Air Act requires, to provide long term protection of public welfare and health.

Shelby County was one of the fourteen Standard Metropolitan Areas selected to be analyzed, according to guidelines issued by the EPA. These fourteen metropolitan areas, or SMSA's, exhibit the highest concentrations of population and industry, accounting for roughly 70 percent of the population, but only approximately ten percent of the total land areas.

The fourteen counties defined as SMSA's for the year 1970 were included in the study of air quality. The Alabama Air Pollution Control Commission conducted analyses for particulate matter, sulfur dioxide, carbon monoxide, photochemical oxidants, and nitrogen dioxide. All but four were eliminated as AQMA's when emissions projections indicated no potential problems. Those counties thus elimiminated are Shelby, Baldwin, Limestone, Madison, Elmore, Russell, Colbert, Lauderdale, Montgomery, and Tuscaloosa.

Designation of AQMA's is only the preliminary step in the Air Quality Maintenance Area concept indicating areas in which a more detailed study and projection of emissions will be performed.

In compliance with the Clean Air Act and the state's implementation plan for air pollution control, a public hearing will be held in Montgomery on May 8 to solicit commets from all interested parties on the proposed AQMA designations.

Dr. and Mrs. Sam Roberts and their family spent the Easter Season in Columbiana as the guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rux Carter and H. Mims Roberts.

* * * *

Regret to learn that Mrs. Stella Roberts and Mrs. Eloise Williams are hospital patients this week.

* * * *

The happiest couple we have found this week is Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gene Edwards. The reason, a son was born on Easter Sunday in Montclair Baptist weighing in at nine pounds and seven ounces. They have named the little newcomer William Thomas, honoring his two grandfathers.

Grandparents sharing in this Eastertide blessing include Mr. and Mrs. T.E. Edwards of Columbiana and Mr. and Mrs. George Roy of Calera.

* * * *

Mr. and Mrs. George Wheeler have returned to their home on Old Man River after an absence of several weeks, due to illness in their families. Regret to learn that Mrs. Wheeler has--since her return to their Shelby County home, had the misfortune to fall over some lumber while her home was being enlarged and was painfully injured. For this reason they have been unable to visit with friends they have made since moving out here several years ago. The writer has certainly missed their "cheerful little earfuls" and those lovely Camelias for which the "Camilia King" is far famed. Hope for a personal visit soon.

* * * *

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Patterson spent the Eastertide in Clarksville, Miss. as the guests of their daughter Mrs. Alan Thornburg and Mr. Thornburg.

* * * *

Glad to learn that Mrs. Charles Stroud is satisfactorily recovering from a recent illness. "Little Joseph", the irrepressible 18 months old exponent of perpetual motion, is also recovering from a recent enforced stay in the Land of Counterpane. Both were sincerely missed last Sunday at their respective positions in the nursery and in the Sanctuary Choir at First Baptist.

* * * *

Since our good friend Fred Phillips sold his interests in the Textile World and retired for a slower tempo, he and Frances have enjoyed travelling here and yonder. It is good to know that distance plays no part in blocking thoughts across the miles. Easter morn we received a message from these treasured friends of ours and they are, this week, cruising on the S.S. Emerald Seas on their way to Nassau.

* * * *

Talking with a minister friend of mine the other day he remarked that his next topic for a sermon just might be: "What Has Become of Sin"? It seems in this modern age -- "anything goes" under the name 'of permissiveness".

Rev. Charles Stroud will fly to Cincinnati April 20 to begin a series of revival services Sunday morning in one of the newest Southern Baptist Churches there. He will return in time to preach in First Baptist Church Sunday April 28.

Rev. Earl Potts, director of the Church Ministries Division for the Alabama Baptist Convention will be the guest speaker in the Baptist Church Sunday, April 21.

Among friends in Shelby Memorial this week are Mrs. Eloise Williams, Mrs. Adele Edmondson, Mrs. Oma Gibson, Mrs. Lorene Pratt and Mrs. Cardin.

Dr. Louis Drummond, an evangelist from Louisville, Ky., has accepted an invitation to deliver a series of services in First Baptist Church in Columbiana beginning May 3 and continuing through the evening of May 5. LINDA GAIL SAMONS
. . . engaged to Joseph William Hannah

Samons, Hannah to wed in Calera

Mrs. Otis C. Samons of Calera announces the engagement and forthcoming wedding of her daughter Linda Gail to Joseph William Hannah, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Hannah of Birmingham.

Grandparents of the bride-elect are: Mrs. Bertha McCartney, Mr. and Mrs. Jack McCartney of Calera; and the late Mr. and Mrs. John A. Samons of Jemison.

The prospective groom's grandparents are: the late Mr. and Mrs. John H. Hannah, Greensboro, Ala.; and the late Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Van Cleve of Menominee, Mich.

The wedding vows will be exchanged on the evening of May 3 in the Calera Baptist Church and all friends and relatives of the couple are invited to attend.

A reception will follow the ceremony and will be held in the Fellowship Hall of the Church.

Pre-Easter Banquet held

The annual pre-Easter banquet was held in the Baptist Educational Building Wednesday evening April 10 with approximately 175 members and their guests in attendance.

Following a brief devotional by Rev. Charles Stroud, the guests were seated at long tables centered with Easter lillies, where the delectable menu prepared by Memory Barrow and her committee was enjoyed.

After the social hour, a film strip featuring the life of Christ was shown under the direction of Tom Stoker, with an appropriate musical background concluding with a solo interpretation of The Lord's Prayer which served as the benediction for the meaningful service.

The recently elected custodians of the church building, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hughes and family, were presented to the large assemblage before the meeting adjourned.

First Baptist buys Falkner property

At a called conference meeting of the members of Frist Baptist Church in Columbiana Sunday evening following the church service, a recommendation by the Finance Committee, Budget Committee, Building Committee and the Deacons, was unanimously approved; and the Falkner property next to the church was purchased for the sun of $35,000.

The property will be used for the expansion of facilities needed due to the rapid growth of the church.

For children--

How much TV is too much?

Since its creation some 20 years ago, the "tube" -- Television -- to be more specific, has been called a lot of things. This morning, over the coffee cups, some young matrons were discussing the impact of television on the lives of their children. The number of hours they watched TV was discussed; and the varied tastes children had. This fact, they stated - often caused "fights" - if conflicts in programs occurred.

An authority on "Action for Children's Television" estimates that by the time a child is 18, he has spent 15,000 hours watching television, and only 11,000 hours in the classroom.

Some people think that television tends to isolate their children from social activities which makes it rather hard for them to cope effectively with people and reality. Still others view television as a vitally important spoke in their educational advantages and advocate broadened TV coverage of current events.

Another authority on the subject says that television has given us new perspective with which to evaluate the ways a youngster learns and to discover new methods of stimulating growing minds leading them to worthwhile goals.

If this be true - then this fact may be the most important affect of television on America today. At any rate, it would be hard to find a home at any hour of the day when you visit that you won't likely find little Johnny or Mary seated or sprawled out on the floor watching television!

However, be the effect what it may on the child, television -- according to one attractive young matron, who has several potential "presidents" in her home, says - that the "Tube" is the cheapest baby sitter she knows anyting about and she is all for it -- day or night!

What do you think? MWW

Curbstone notes

by Mildred White Wallace

While curbstone chatting, some months ago, with a widely travelled gentleman, the town clock began striking the hour making it impossible to be heard above the pendulum's swing. The gentleman told us that he was in a town recently which utilized the face of the courthouse clock as an advertisement for the county.

It might be a good idea for this county. For instance he suggested that we change the figures on the clock to letters. In other words, begin with nine and spell S-H-E-L-B-Y C-O-U-N-T-Y going around the clock. This would, he said - remind us of good old Shelby county every time we looked at the clock and would also be a splendid way of advertising same.

We pass the suggestion on to the Board of Commissioners. It is truly a novel suggestion and whats more it just might be worth investigating if they are looking for something distinctive.

For informed public

Libraries needed today

by Mildred White Wallace

The purpose of Library Week is to encourage everyone to read more and make use of their libraries more frequently. National Library Week has been set this year to begin April 21 and continue through April 27.

Our attention has been called to the fact that in these United States, the President, members of Congress and other major elected officials may debate legislative procedure and national policy but it is the people who will have the last word in deciding the ultimate course that the nation is to follow, and only an informed public can intelligently choose wisely.

A lot of homework may be necessary before Americans reach their final decision. It is reported that 22,000 new books were published last year, along with some 9,000 newspaper and thousands of other publications. Your local newspaper, naturally, is indispensable for information and the library is a reference point in every community where people go to learn to read for pleasure. It has been said that the library is "the symbol and the citadel of knowledge and an informed public". In America -- this is the key that unlocks the door to freedom itself.

Visit your library during this week and be grateful all over again for a free press!

Vote For Bill Shaw

Commissioner for District 4

To my many friends in Shelby County:

If I had to choose a platform or something to talk to you about, this would not be a problem for me because I stay excited about God and Country and especially my community. After much deliberation, I have decided I would like the opportunity to serve my many friends as Commissioner of District 4 in Shelby County. Let me make it plain in the beginning, I am not running against anyone, but I take great pride in running for this office.

If I were required to list my qualifications for this office, I would not try. To me the qualifications of anyone in public office is that he be a servant of the people; therefore, all I can promise or will promise to anyone is honesty, integrity, loyalty and dedication to the office and people of Shelby County.

I am 47 years old, born in the log house adjoining my farm, moved to Birmingham and was in business there for myself for 27 years. Four (4) years ago my wife and I wanted to move home and live in the County we love, so we did this. We have two daughters, Wanda and Anita. Wanda married Dale Layton and they have two children, Dale II and Shawn. Anita married Eddie Scheinert and they have a little girl named Heather. We are members of the Union United Methodist Church and I teach the Young Adult Sunday School Class. I graduated from Vincent High School in 1944 and went into the army and served two years in the Phillipines and Korea. The best years of my life have been spent in singing with my brothers in the Keymasters Quartet. Presently I am singing with the Peacemakers Quartet. Gospel singing has been a big part of my Christian life.

Politics come a little natural for me as my late Grandfather Shaw was Commissioner in this District many years ago. So needless to say, all of my life I have dreamed of serving the people of Shelby County and serve the people of Shelby County, I will, if given this opportunity. If elected to this office, I promise you the complete cooperation and representation of all the districts of Shelby County.

As mentioned above, I have been in business for myself for the past 27 years and have knowledge of heavy equipment and the operations of a big business. I feel that my past experience will enable me to help with the business management of this County and this is what your Commissioners decide. Shelby County is growing and you need experienced business men in the office of the Shelby County Commission.

I suggest you study each candidate and decide for yourself who you wish to represent you as Commissioner for District 4 for the next four years. This position is not to be taken lightly, but entered into with much thought and sincerity and this I have done.

Pension Board adopts memorial resolution

Richard T. McGraw was honored in a memorial resolution adopted by the Shelby County Board of Pensions and Security on March 20.

McGraw was a member of the board from October 1, 1969 until the time of his death in November, 1973. He lived in Vincent.

The resolution praises Mr. McGraw's loyal dedication for the board and his unselfish service to the people of Shelby County.

The resolution notes that Mr. McGraw was vitally concerned about the needs of the people and gave generously of his time to foster programs which have been beneficial to the citizens of this county.

The chairman of the board, Mrs. Oscar S. Graf introduced the resolution and it was adopted unanimously by the members of the board: Frances L. Givhan, Frances Wilson, Emmie Davidson, Florence Jenkins, Charles B. Stroud and Hewitt Conwill.

Pharmaceutical association helps victims

The Shelby County Pharmaceutical Association is among those who helped send supplies to the tornado victims in the Jasper area this week. Association president Joe Dean stated that his organization purchased supplies from the Walker Wholesale Drug Co. in Birmingham who in turn cooperated by sending the supplies directly to the Salvation Army.

The Association was advised that one of the most pressing needs was disposable diapers, so they purchased $200 worth of them for the needs children.

Mr. Dean encourages other organizations and individuals to send any aid possible to the tornado victims.

Alabaster industry sold to Iowa firm

Negotiations are underway by Modern Handling Systems to sell its Transall Division which is located in Alabaster.

Closing is to take place within 30 days at a price of approximately $900,000. Buyer of the industry is R.J. Dick, Inc. of Muscatine, Iowa, according to an announcement made by Modern Handling Systems' president, Frank Kovach, Jr.

Kovach stated that the proceeds of this sale will be used to improve the overall financial condition of his company, as well as to expand its product lines which are manufactured in Pelham under the trade name "Modhan".

Modhan makes conveyors for all segments of industry and has a product line of over 12,000 items which are distributed nationally.

Modhan employs 100 people with sales this year of approximately $3,000.000.

Fred Herlitz, president of R.J. Dick, Inc., said that he plans to continue to expand the penetration of the Transall product in the conveyor industry through product development and extensive marketing efforts.

Calera names Miss CHS

Calera High School chose Miss CHS at a beauty contest last Friday. The winner, Deborah Farris, earned the title "Miss CHS". Susan Mitchell was runner-up. The pageant was sponsored by the school's junior class.

The program preceding the judging featured the music of Thompson High School's stage band.

Debbie Keller was chosen as Miss Congeniality.

Thompson's stage band, under the direction of Elson Hood, played the musical accompainment for the Miss CHS pageant. The stage band is one of Thompson's six performing groups. Calera pageant officials said that the beauty contest was a big success, and they extended a special thanks to the THS band.

THS to pick 'Dream Girl'

Thompson High School will hold its annual junior- senior beauty pageant this weekend on Friday and Saturday nights.

The junior high school girls will compete for the title, "Dream Girl" on Friday evening and the senior high girls will compete on Saturday evening.

The event is sponsored by the band and band boosters and proceeds of ticket sales go to band projects.

Mrs. Fred Powell is serving as chairman of the event this year. "Dream girls" last year were Marcia Joiner, junior winner and Tommie Horton, senior winner.

HELENA WINNERS - - Ribbon winners in Helena School's social studies fair gather around one of the projects at the fair. Students of grades five through eight all entered their projects in the fair last week. The winners were (l. to r.) Arlene Jones (seated), Brenda Sparks, Mary A. Bucknum, Dinah Starkey, Charles Garner, Bart Pierce, Barry Rich, Keith Fulgham, Leroy Howton, Dennis Kendrick, Kathy Hinds and Jo Ellen Lovelady. Photo by Willard Harrison

Social studies fair held in Helena

Helena School students made history this week - - the school's second annual social studies fair featured dozens of historical exhibits. Students in grades five through eight all entered projects in the fair held April 9 through 11.

Projects ranged from replicas of old buildings to pioneer home crafts, and salt maps, calvary forts, and Indian costumes. Roman aqueducts and wigwams from the Plains Indians were seen near antebellum mansions and the Leaning Tower of Pisa.

Social studies teacher Danny Goggins pointed out that a lot of work had gone into the many projects on display. The students were asked to use their imagination to come up with a project relating to the period of history they had studied during the year. The fifth and eighth grades worked on American history projects, while sixth-graders did projects based on Mexico and Canada. The seventh grade focussed on various periods of world history.

Winners in the fair were as follows: fifth grade - Jo Ellen Lovelady, first; Dennis Kendrick, second; and Bart Pierce, third. Sixth grade winners were Arlene Jones, first; Kathy Hinds, second; and Leroy Howton, third. Seventh graders were Brenda Sparks, first; Charles Garner, second, and Dinah Starkey, third. Winners in the eighth grade were Keith Fulgham, first; Barry Rich, second, and Mary Alice Bucknum, third place.

Goggins said that this year's fair was better than the first one held last year, since the students had an idea of what to expect. "The students turned in projects that were quite good, and we had some really well-done projects from our twelve winners." The winning students later explained their projects to the elementary school students who toured the exhibit. "We feel this is educational for these winners and the younger children who view the social studies fair," said Goggins.

Funeral held for Wm. Taylor

A funeral service was conducted at Bolton Brown Service Chapel Friday morning at eleven o'clock for William A. (Buddy) Taylor of Wilsonville who died April 10 in Shelby Memorial following a lengthy illness.

Mr. Taylor was employed by the county for a number of years as a truck driver. He was a graduate of Shelby County High and during his high school days was an outstanding athlete.

Survivors are mother, Mrs. Mollie Taylor of Birmingham; and one sister, Mrs. Virginia Blankenship of Wilsonville.

Interment in Wilsonville Cemetery.

LEGAL NOTICE
Notice of Publication of Bill Filed and Proceeding in Rem to Quiet Title of Real Estate
IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF SHELBY COUNTY, ALABAMA, CASE NO. E-256-74.
Clarice White Luck, Ruth Luck Gordon and Harris M. Gordon, Plaintiffs,
vs.
Certain land and Ruby Zuiderhoek, et als,
Defendants.

TO: The following described land: The N½ of the NE¼ of Section 12, Township 21 Range 3 West, Shelby County, Alabama; Ruby Zuiderhoek, Claude Massey, Bertha Massey, Taft Bishop, Willie Mae Bishop, James Alexander, Lola Alexander, R.E. Bowdon, Jr., Samuel F. Bowdon, Lucy B. Cone, Kate B. Gunn, Robert Edward Lyman, K.E. Fulton, Cheney Lime and Cement Company, a corporation; and the following named persons, or, if deceased, their heirs or devisees, Lee Byers, Charles E. Essman, I.K. Brinkerhoff, W.E. Brinkerhoff, C.B. Brown, W.M. Richards, W.P. Bowdon, T.J. Cross and Mary Frances Carden and all parties who, unknown to plaintiffs, claim an interest in or to the above described property.

Take notice that Clarice White Luck, Ruth Luck Gordon and Harris M. Gordon have this day filed their verified Complaint in said Court against the above named defendants and against any and all persons claiming any title to, interest in, encumbrance upon the above described real estate or any part thereof or interest therein, and against all other persons, and against said lands for the purpose of establishing the title of said lands in the said Clarice White Luck, Ruth Luck Gordon and Harris M. Gordon and to clear up all doubts and disputes concerning the same and that said suit is now pending in said Court.

Plaintiffs allege in said complaint that the title to said lands stands in the name of the plaintiffs on the records in the office of the Judge of probate of Shelby County, Alabama, and said complaint further alleges that plaintiffs claim title to said lands through and by virtue of deeds dated February 28, 1928 recorded in Deed Book 85, Page 558 and Deed Book 85, Page 560, and deed dated May 1, 1951 recorded in Deed Book 144, Page 247, and by deed dated April 29, 1960, recorded in Deed Book 218, Page 199, and by deed dated February 15, 1952, recorded in Deed Book 151, Page 233, all in the Probate Office of Shelby County, Alabama and through the Will of Paul O. Luck, duly probated in the Probate Office of Shelby County, Alabama; that during the time of plaintiffs ownership, they have been in actual, peaceable, adverse possession of said lands claiming to own the same, and that title to said lands has stood in plaintiffs' names on the records in the Office of the Judge of Probate of Shelby County, Alabama, for more than ten years prior to this date. The plaintiffs and their predecessors in title have assessed said real estate in the Office of the Tax Assessor of Shelby County, Alabama, and paid the taxes on said real estate for each year; and that no one else has paid the taxes on said real estate for said period of time except the plaintiffs and their predecessors in title and that no one has been in possession of said lands or any part thereof since 1928, except the plaintiffs and their predecessors in title.

Plaintiffs further allege in said complaint that after making diligent search and inquiry, plaintiffs' only information of the above defendants is:

That the following defendants are over the age of twenty-one years, are of sound mind and are residents of the State of Alabama; said defendants' names and addresses are as follows: Ruby Zuiderhoek, Siluria, Alabama 35144; Claude Massey, Siluria, Alabama; Bertha Massey, Siluria, Alabama; Taft Bishop, Siluria, Alabama; Willie Mae Bishop, Siluria, Alabama; James Alexander, Alabaster, Alabama; Lola Alexander, Alabaster, Alabama; R.E. Bowdon, Jr., P.O. Box 97, Calera, Alabama 35040; Samuel F. Bowdon, 3517 8th Avenue South, Birmingham, Alabama 35222; and K.E. Fulton, Rt. 1, Box 1338, Alabaster, Alabama 35007.

That the following named defendants are over the age of twenty-one years, are of sound mind and are non-residents of the State of Alabama; said defendants' names and addresses are as follows: Lucy B. Cone, 8311 40th Ave. North, St. Petersburg, Florida 33709; Kate B. Gunn, 2940 Huntleigh Drive, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma 73120; and Robert Edward Lyman, 313 Seven Oak Drive, Concord, Tennessee 37720;

That defendant, Cheney Lime and Cement Company is a corporation, its adress being Allgood, Alabama 35013;

That plaintiffs after most reasonable and diligent search and inquiry were unable to locate the following named persons to determine whether or not they are living or dead, and if living, what their ages and addresses are at the present time, and if deceased, the names, ages and addresses of their heirs or devisees, and that the same are unknown to the plaintiffs, said persons being as follows: Lee Byers, Charles E. Essman, I.K. Brinkerhoff, W.E. Brinkerhoff, C.B. Brown, W.M. Richards, W.P. Bowdon, T.J. Cross and Mary Frances Carden, and the names, ages and addresses of any other parties who, unknown to plaintiffs, may claim an interest in or to the above described property, are unknown.

It is, therefore, ordered by the undersigned Register that publication of this notice be made in the Shelby County Reporter, a newspaper published and having a general circulation in Shelby County, Alabama, once a week for four consecutive weeks, and that all those to whom this notice is addressed and any and all persons claiming any title to, interest in, or lien or encumbrance upon, the above described real estate, or any part thereof, or any interest therein, be and they are hereby required to plead, answer or demur to the complaint in this cause within the time required by law, and not later than June 20, 1974.

It is further ordered that a copy of this notice certified by the undersigned Register, as being correct, shall also be recorded as a lis pendens in the Office of the Judge of Probate of Shelby County, Alabama.

Done at office this the 15th day of April, 1974.

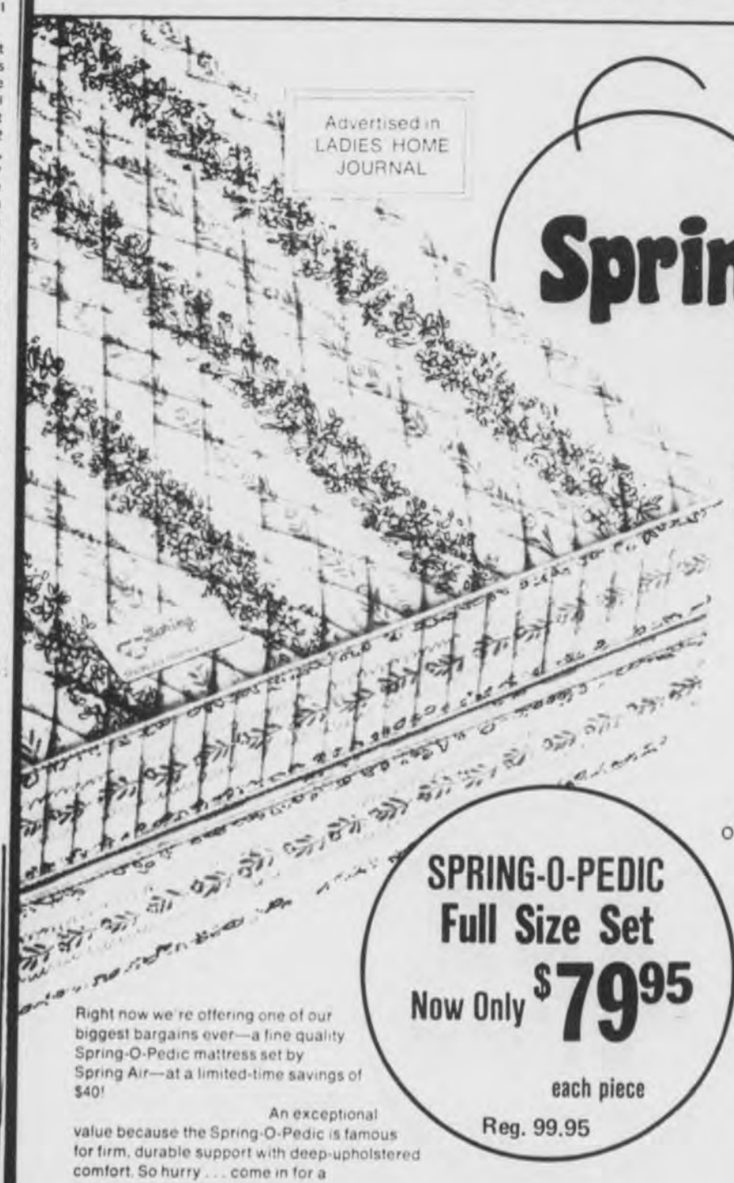
At humanities meetings--

Policy group to hear public views

A new program to promote public understanding of public policy issues has begun work in Alabama. The Alabama Committee for the Humanities and Public Policy announces the location of offices at Birmingham Southern College. The Committee is an independent group of citizens formed at the invitation of the National Endowment of the Humanities. The program will bring together "academic humanists" and the general public to discuss issues of concern to the citizens of the state.

In order to determine what issues are of greatest concern to the people of the State, the Committee will conduct a series of public meetings throughout the State. Tentative dates and locations of these meetings are: Florence, June 7; Huntsville, June 14; Anniston, June 21; Birmingham, June 28; Tuscaloosa, July 3; Selma, July 12; Montgomery, July 19; Dothan, July 26; and Mobile, August 2. The state theme will be based on the information gathered from these meetings.



In the Fall of 1974, the Committee will receive a grant from NEH to begin operating the program. The Committee will then fund locally developed projects which meet the guidelines of the program.

Any non-profit group, agency or organization in the state will be eligible to submit proposals: service clubs, women's clubs, libraries and museums, church related organizations, historical societies, special groups organized for the purpose of doing a project.

Of the 23 members on the statewide committee, two are Shelby Countians: Conrad Fowler, Judge of Probate, and Kermit Johnson, president of the University of Montevallo. Fowler is chairman of the committee and Johnson is the fiscal officer.

Additional information can be obtained from The Alabama Committee for the Humanities and Public Policy - Box 700, Birmingham Southern College, Birmingham, Alabama, 35204.

GIRDERS - - A lone welder sits amid a maze of girders soon to be the back addition to Shelby Memorial. The hospital is undergoing a multi-million dollar expansion phase, which will give it three new floors in front and behind the original building. The construction is well in schedule, with the project expected to be finished near December. The new rooms will give the hospital more space for patients, plus new quarters for the various diagnostic and administrative departments.

New wing well underway at Shelby Memorial

by Willard Harrison

Construction of Shelby Memorial's new wing is about half finished, with the contractors planning to finish by December. Curtis McDowell, hospital comptroller and assistant administrator, told the Reporter that the staff is pleased with the progress, especially the business department, which will move in to its new quarters by August.

Three new floors are being constructed in the new addition in the front and back, changing the hospital from a long, narrow building to one wing with a cross shaped-floor plan. This new phase of construction, which will cost around $4 million, will not be the final addition to the hospital. In the future, two more floors will be built atop the new addition, giving the hospital a five-story vertical wing crossing its original two-story building.

The construction is causing headaches for the hospital staff, despite their excitement over the expansion. During recent months, construction has caused minor damage plus constant annoyances. The pharmacy library lost $174 in books when rain poured in through a hole in the ceiling made by workmen. The nearby computer was luckily undamaged by leaks.

The expansion has also cut down on hospital revenue, which will leave it in debt for the year. The hospital had to give up several patient rooms, thereby losing the money from patients who would have used beds in those rooms. The hospital, originally began with 37 beds. It expanded to 130 beds. At present Shelby Memorial has had to cut back to 99 beds due to construction. When the work is completed they will have 169 beds, but more importantly, the services will be expanded to meet the needs of that many patients.

In the past when more beds were added, the other parts of the hospital saw little or no expansion. Food services, X-ray, the emergency room, pharmacy, and virtually all departments of the hospital were unable to fully cope with the growth of patients. Lacking adequate facilities, people had to wait in the hall before being admitted to the emergency room or X-ray. Food services began to be cramped by their small quarters on the ground floor. Virtually all departments had grown too big for their offices.

McDowell said that this new addition to the building will solve many of these problems with new roomier quarters. Doctors and staff will be given their own private entrance and corridors; this will enable doctors to get to the operating room without being interrupted by people in the public halls.

The lack of revenue accompanying construction does not worry the staff. Hospital administrator Chester Black related to the Reporter that during a building phase, many hospitals get deeply in the red for a year or so, but after completion everything gets back to normal (or better). Although this construction phase is causing a number of temporary problems, he and McDowell foresee a better future as the hospital grows along with Shelby County.

The noise, uproar, and constant distraction caused by the expansion are probably have a worse effect on patients than on the doctors, nurses, and staff of Shelby Memorial. While some employees are on temporary leaves of absence during the building phase, the hospital plans to be back into full scale operation by next year.

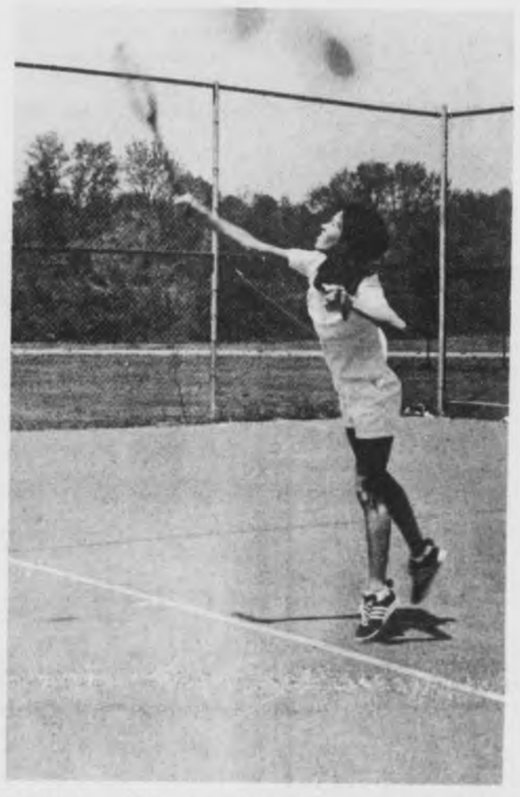
Beat 12 studies zoning

by Willard Harrison

The Thursday night Beat 12 zoning meeting last week drew about 50 fifty people, almost equally divided between those for zoning, those against it, and those new residents just learning about the controversy.

Held in the United Methodist Church on Caldwell Mill Road, the April 18th meeting was sponsored by the North Shelby Civic Club. Answering questions were probate judge Conrad Fowler and Paul Yeager, Jr., head of the county planning commission. Fowler and Yeager faced a barrage of questions about zoning, the formation of beat 23, the functions of the planning commission, and numerous other related topics.

Fowler opened with a short resume of the history of the county's planning group and the three previous Beat 12 zoning elections that met with defeat. Fowler added that in no other part of the county is there such growth potential as in Beat 12. He and Yeager related the projected population of 80,000 for the north part of the county in the 1980's, as compared to the 10,000 living there today. The figure of 80,000 was arrived at by taking the development known to be coming in, and adding 18 percent more, which is the county's average growth rate.



One of the major areas of discussion was the law allowing quarries and mines to start in the beat even if it were zoned otherwise. Fowler stated that state representative Tom Stubbs had planned to introduce legislation to change this state law, but that the status of this legislation was still uncertain. Until the law can be changed, the judge suggested that such mineral operation and processing could be stopped under the state Law of Nuisance, which allows neighbors to bring suit against nuisances and public disturbances.

Fowler pointed out that companies owning mineral rights could not extract them unless they could do so without interfering with structures built by the owners of the surface land. He used the example of iron ore in Red Mountain that could not be extracted without endangering Birmingham homes.

Yeager said that the old Beat 12 proposed zoning plan had been amended to allow all animals, and he said gardens would be permitted under the new plan. He reiterated that the vote will be a yes or no proposition as to whether residents would submit to the authority of the planning commission, and that decisions of the board can be contested in court.

He explained the day-to-day activities of the commission when working with subdivisions and municipalities, and added that the purpose of a planning board is to control population densities and to

Spring Creek System gets special grant

When it came time to open bids for constructing the Spring Creek Water System, the disappointed backers of the project found that they were $107,000 short of having enough money for the job.

They went over the plans and started eliminating everything they could.

Then they went to see Governor George Wallace. He agreed to give the water authority a grant of $95,000 from revenue sharing funds., much to the jubilation of J.V. Jones, chairman of the group getting up the water system.

So the project is on again and construction will begin by about the first of May.

The water system will cover the southeast corner of Shelby County. Included are Bay Springs, Spring Creek, Shelby Shores, Merrell Beach and several fishing camps, including Okomo, Bozo's LaCoosa Marina, Glasscock's, Waxahatchee, White's and Armstrong's.

The Farmers Home Administration had already agreed to a loan of $501,000 to install the water system. The system will eventually serve 605 customers. The FHA loan is to cover construction and administrative costs, including engineering, legal work, etc., according to Roger Traywick, FHA administrator for Shelby County.

On Wednesday, April 24 a delegation from Shelby County was to meet with Governor Wallace in the House chambers of the state capitol to receive the grant.

Among those expected to attend are J.V. Jones, J.W. Carden, Charlie Atkins, Bill Henke, Roger Traywick, and several Shelby County elected officials.

PROS AND CONS - - Beat 12 residents engaged in a lively discussion of the effects of zoning at a Thursday night meeting. In the center Mrs. Elizabeth Daniel and her son discuss the disadvantages with Irving Howell, president of the North Shelby Civic Club. The issue goes before the voters for the fourth time on May 7th, Mrs. Daniels and many other loyal "Possum Hollow" people are anxious to defeat the issue yet anothe time. Yet with the flood of new residents, the pro-zoners get closer to victory each time.

At hospital stakeout--

Police trap narcotics ring

by Willard Harrison

Three people were arrested at Shelby Memorial Hospital on Sunday, April 14, when trying to swindle the hospital out of narcotics. The trio was arrested after they had impersonated a doctor in order to get hard drugs for an imaginary patient in Columbiana.

Arrested for the felony were Tanya Erichson Watts, her husband Cecil Dwight Watts, and James Wayne Gibson, all of Birmingham. The arrest occurred around noon Sunday, following a two-hour stakeout by Alabaster and county policemen.

The hospital received a call that morning from a "Dr. Brock" of Homewood. The caller explained that he had a terminal cancer patient, and that he needed a prescritption of the drug Dilaudid, a strong narcotic used for extreme pain. He asked Dr. Connie Chandler at the hospital if she would write the prescription and let someone pick it up later.

Dr. Chandler had heard of a similar ruse used by a drug ring in Birmingham, and she was immediately suspicious. She replied that she would write the perscription for them, and then notified the Alabaster Police Department, who advised the hospital to go through with the plan.

Lt. Sonny Davenport and Patrolman Larry Roland called the county sheriff's office, bringing Deputy Bill Davenport to the hospital for the stakeout. The officers went to the hospital in unmarked cars and began waiting for developments.

Meanwhile, the hospital had received more calls, this time from a "Dr. Brock" in Walker county, requesting the same drug for a cancer patient who supposedly lived on Route One, Columbiana. The hospital staff told the caller to come by and pick up the prescription.

Within a few hours, the waiting police spotted a car suspiciously circling the hospital area. The car stopped and one of the riders went inside. Lt. Davenport said that Watts went all through the building, apparently casing it for anything suspicious. He returned to the car and his wife came in and walked all through the building before going to pick up the drugs.

Mrs. Watts arrived at the specified place, and Nurse Margaret Ivy played along with the plan. She told Mrs. Watts that the drugs were ready, but that she would have to sign for them. When she signed the receipt, under an assumed name, the police appeared and clamped the handcuffs on her. Meanwhile her two cohorts were arrested by officers outside.

The trio was taken to the county jail and charged with

EMT class graduates

by Willard Harrison

The county's fire, police, and rescue squads are now ofering improved service with the graduation of 36 more EMT's. The new graduates received their certificates in a special ceremony on Sunday, April 21, following the 81 hour course taught at Shelby Memorial Hospital.

Held at the Helena United Methodist Church, the graduation ceremony recognized individuals from all around the county, as well as EMT trainees from outlying counties. EMT instructor Pat Parrish, R.N., told the Reporter that this was one of the best groups yet. She said that the new EMT's are fully qualified to render aid in any emergency or disaster.

Special speaker at the graduation was Dr. Allen Demick, who has worked closely, with Emergency Medical Training courses in the Birmingham area. He has worked with burn therapy and emergency situations in University Hospital and other Birmingham area medical units.

EMT training, which has been taught for about two years at Shelby Memorial, is one step below the status of paramedic. Nurse Parrish added that a new course of training, EMT-2, is currently being planned with a total of 120 hours of training. At present this course has not been approved by state authorities, but is is expected to be instituted in the near future, said the nurse.

LEPA sets $82,500 grants to county

Shelby County was one of several counties to receive grants for purchase of police equipment from the Law Enforcement Planning Agency on April 16.

Announcements of $82,519.21 grants to municipalities and to the county were made by LEPA in Montgomery.

The County Commission will receive the bulk of the amount in two grants totaling $58,087. One grant of $15,968.70 will go for the purchase of two automobiles, a copying machine, a 16 mm sound projector, a mug camera, and executive desk, an executive desk, an executive chair, six side chairs, two sirens and speakers, protective shields and two electric gun locks. The county will trade in two electric gun locks. The county will trade in two automobiles formerly purchased with LEPA funds on the two new ones.

The second grant to the

Calera woman given Girl Scout honor

Mrs. Hugh Youngblood of Calera received the Girl Scout Thanks Badge on Thursday, April 18. This award is given to adult Girl Scouts whose dedication to the program is of the highest degree.

The award was made at the Cahaba Girl Scout Council meeting at Canterbury Methodist church in Birmingham.

A number of Shelby County residents recommended Mrs. Youngblood for the Thanks Badge, Scouting's highest award.

Emily Pendleton, Mrs. Zane Natthews, Sue Wilkinson, Betty Garrett and Rev. Paul M. Gauntt wrote letters praising the Scout and other community activities in which Mrs. Youngblood is involved.

Mr. and Mrs. Youngblood have three children; Hugh, Dale and Jean. Mrs. Youngblood has taught Sunday School at the Montevallo First United Methodist Church for 11 years.

During her term as Neighborhood chairman for Verla Price Neighborhood, she organized the Skill - O -Rama which is now an annual neighborhood event. She also assisted in many district events.

Included in the council meeting program was the election of officers and board members and an address by the out-going president, Mrs. Richard Sharp. Dr. Roberta Long of the UAB faculty was main speaker for the meeting.

THANKS TO A FINE PERSON - - Mrs. Hugh Youngblood, right, receives Girl Scouting's highest award, the Thanks Badge, from Mrs. Richard Sharp, president of the Cahaba Girl Scout Council. Mrs. Youngblood is chairman of the Verla Price Girl Scout Neighborhood of Shelby County.

Horse show set for this weekend

The Eleventh Annual Heart of the Heart of Dixie horse show starts this Saturday at 10 a.m.

Horses are expected to come from all over Alabama and many parts of the Southeast to the Columbiana show, which has become a favorite for horsemen and spectators.

George Bentley, overall chairman of the show, said that events will begin at 10 a.m. with 4-H events.

Classes for western horses, ponies of all types, Tennessee Walkers, American saddlebreds, racking horses and Arabians will perform in 46 different classes throughout the day.

Over $3,000 will be awarded in prize money.

The horse show planners plan a supper break at 5 p.m. when barbecue will be served in the high school cafeteria.

The evening classes will begin at 6:30 p.m. and continue until all classes are finished, about 10 or 11 p.m.

All proceeds from the event will go for the benefit of Shelby County High School athletic programs.

April 22 is deadline

The more times we print the dates for new voters to register, the more opportunities we have to have a typographical error. Last week we reported in two places that the last day to register before the May primary was April 22. However, we wrote an additional explanatory sentence to reinforce that the final date was April 22. In that last sentence, it came out, "April 30"

We hope it will not inconvenience any readers. It is now too late to register for the primary. The last day really was April 22,22,22,22,22,.

Tennis challenge leaves Cooper smug

By Fred Cooper

By golly, it's tennis time again!

I know that it.s time for me to shake off my late winter doldrums, sort out my aches and pains, alert my protesting muscles and grab my racquet, not because the weather is warming up and the breezes are gently wafting around but because Pat Murphree and Bill Wallace keep bugging me.

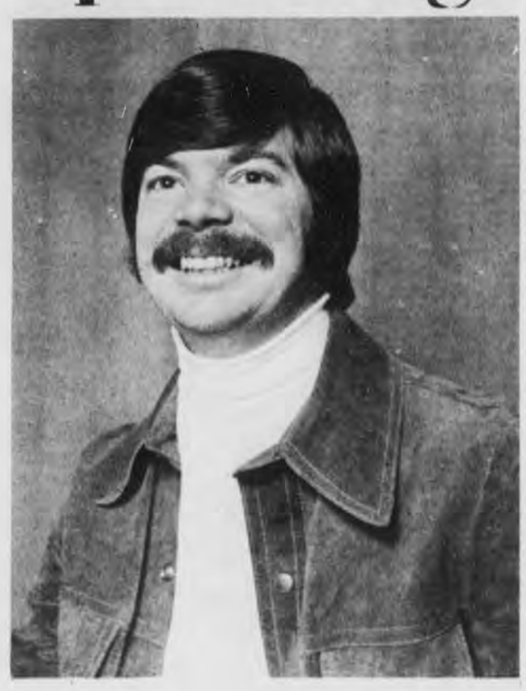
Pat is a senior at the University of Montevallo and Bill is Dr. William Wallace of the UM faculty. Both are pleasant company, entertaining and even occasionally downright witty. They, however, don.t know beans about tennis.

This becomes apparent each spring when they start their hoarse cry that Huffstutler and I must come out on the courts and confront them in a doubles match. It.s become a sort of ritual. The fact that we never do it has led them to assume that we are afraid to accept the challenge.

Nothing could be further from the truth. Actually, being the gentle souls that Huffstutler and I are, loving of mankind and considerate of all, we are saving Pat and Bill from humiliation.

Tennis, if played correctly, is a game of consummate skill where the better player will eventually emerge simply because it depends so much on individual skills. This is precisely why Wallace and Murphree will never defeat the Cooper-Huffstutler tandem.

Steve and I have curious individual skills.



For instance, it doesn't matter how hard I swing at a tennis ball, it will softly drop over the net. This is unnerving to an opponent who has to spend his time running back to the baseline to slam a shot at me, set himself for a hard shot back, recover from the shock of seeing a tremendous forehand swing send a cripple waddling back over the net, run up to the net to hit it, and then run back to the baseline only to have the same procedure repeated. To tell the truth, it used to unnerve me, too, but now I've learned to live with it.

Also, I never know where my serve is going to go... or which way it will curve ... or if it'll curve at all ... or how fast it's going to go . . . and I hit it the same way each time. It does so many things on its own that look planned, I just let it go.

Huffstutler has a unique ability to return any shot off balance. He'll charge for the ball, stumble around, barely get his racquet down, curse, and while his opponent is claiming the point, somehow get the ball back over the net.

Floyd Anderson once told me that I won my matches because my opponents weren't used to playing on such a low level.

So now, if you'll pardon me, I'll go take my phone off the hook to keep Bill and Pat from calling and issuing a fresh challenge. I don't have time to fool with them. I've got a lot of hanging around to catch up on.

$64,800 question: garbage tax legal?

Letter to Editor:

My compliments to Mr. C. W. Lawley on his fine letter to you concerning garbage collection fees. I read the explanation with interest and notice there is no indication as to the person who prepared this answer. Who did prepare this answer?

It is easy to give an explanation about anything and to justify it in one manner or another. However, the real question here is whether this 45 cent a month charge is authorized by the law under which it was instituted. Perhaps it was intended these costs should be paid out of the general funds.

As pointed out in the answer, landfills have been operated by the county at tax payer expense. Why should the citizens be charged for using them?

If this charge is legal, please publish the wording of the law which gives the county authority to make this charge.

Also, I would like to point out that at an estimated 12,000 households in the county that presumably will be using this service, this amounts to an increased tax on these citizens as a group of $64,800 a year. A Pretty Penney!

Very truly yours,
Cecil F Adam

Candidates stump as primary nears

by Don Wasson

There are but 12 days left before the May 7 Democratic primary and to this point, it's has been as about as exciting as a tiddlywinks match.

The governor went through a rigorous week of campaigning last week and it may have been his last. It appears that his campaigning between now and voting day will be exclusively on the tube.

When he came down with a virus, or whatever it was, it firmed up a suspicion many had held--that campaigning, with close contact with a lot of people, a lot of handshaking, getting hot and then cooling off too quickly, would subject the governor to the possibility of colds, viruses and other infections.

He has been, and apparently is still in pretty good physical condition, considering his disabilities. But his resistance is low and there would naturally be some question about his ability to throw off a really bad virus or infection.

This time he seems to have done pretty well but there doesn't seem to be a good reason for subjecting him to a possible recurrence. A campaign might be a good reason if there was a real necessity for it but the best intelligence his people can come up with is that this campaign is already won and that he could have won with out a single appearance on the campaign trail.

People who visit Montgomery from the various counties report that Wallace will carry their county by anywhere from 65 to 85 per cent.

What ever controversy there might be in this campaign will have to be stirred up by the candidates for lieutenant governor and the three major contenders--State Sen. Richard Dominick of Birmingham, Montgomery insurance executive Ron Creel and Dothan millionaire Charles Woods, are all hammering away at the incumbent - - Lt. Gov. Jere Beasley, who is seeking a second term.

During the legislative session of 1973, there was talk of a number of incumbent legislators that Beasley couldn't be beaten and some of those who were eager to run backed down at the last minute. A good ninety per cent of the membership of the legislature were opposed to Beasley and a number of senators chose not to run again rather than face the prospect of serving in another session under his rule.

There is no question that Beasley has the voter identification one must have to win a statewide political race. But Dominick and the others are hoping that the public has identified Beasley as the bad guy in the wrecking of the 1971 and 1973 legislative sessions.

They are working hard to establish the fact that it was Beasley's personal ambitions which led to the havoc that characterized those two legislative terms.

The lieutenant governor has now launched a television advertising campaign in which he takes personal credit for all the good legislation of the past four years. That rankles with the members of the legislature and with Gov. Wallace who, after all, was the sponsor of most of that legislation and who had, on several occasions, to fight through Beasley roadblocks to get it passed.

If Beasley does win, he will rule the legislature even more strongly than he did in this term. Wallace knows this, and while he will not enter the lieutenant govenors campaign personally, some of his prople are quietly campaigning to defeat Beasley, some backing Dominick, some backing Woods and some backing Creel.

Washington worried by guerrillas

by Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — The guerrilla tactics of the Symbionese Liberation Army have Washington officials worried. They have spent the past two decades developing counter-insurgency tactics. American Special Forces are quietly helping governments around the world fight guerrillas, who in the past have always operated in the jungles or the mountains or other remote hideouts.

But the Symbionese Liberation Army is typical of a new breed of guerrillas. They make their hideouts right in the hearts of our great cities. They stage daring assassinations, kidnappings and bank robberies in crowded neighborhoods. Then they disappear, not into the brush, but into the ghettos.

Both the FBI and the Pentagon are studying how to cope with this new menace. Clearly, the urban guerrillas are radicals who are willing to jeopardize innocent lives to achieve their revolutionary aims. The counter-insurgency tactics of the jungles simply won't work in the crowded cities.

Our tacticians, therefore, are devising new means to fight the urban guerrillas and stop the terrorism.

Hughes Connection: Phantom billionaire Howard Hughes may yet be the downfall of President Nixon. The relationship goes back to the 1950s. The late Drew Pearson and I dug out the fact that Hughes had loaned Nixon's brother Don $205,000 with only a $13,000 lot as collateral. The scandal contributed to Richard Nixon's defeat for president in 1960 and for governor of California in 1962.

Despite these bad political burns, the Nixons seemed unable to keep away from Hughes. Don Nixon continued to consort with Hughes aides after his brother moved into the White House in 1969.

On August 6, 1971, we revealed that Hughes had secretly siphoned $100,000 from his Nevada gambling operations for the President. The cash was delivered in two $50,000 bundles to the President's friend, Bebe Rebozo, at Key Biscayne and San Clemente.

I told Senate Watergate investigators all I knew about the payoff. I told them Rebozo had distributed the money to the President's secretary and the Nixon family. I also reported that the President had full knowledge of the whole affair. For proof, I suggested that the President's personal attorney, Herb Kalmbach, be questioned under oath.

The Watergate investigators followed my suggestion and they now have Kalmbach's sworn testimony. I have also given the committee additional corroborative evidence.

This could prove that the $100,000 cash gift was intended, not as a campaign contribution as Rebozo has claimed, but as part of a personal slush fund for the President.

Kissinger Coup Coming? The stage is set for Henry Kissinger to pull off another of his patented miracles. Within a few months, if all goes as planned, he will normalize relations between the United States and India.

The love-hate relationship between the United States and India is one of the enduring ironies of modern times. The two nations are the world's largest democracies. Yet they have usually been at odds. The lowest point came just two years ago during the India-Pakistan conflict.

We published top-secret documents revealing that the Nixon Administration was tilting toward the Pakistan dictatorship. Indo-American affairs hit bottom when President Nixon personally ordered a halt in economic aid to New Delhi.

In recent months, however, relations have slowly improved. American diplomats have hinted that the United States might be willing, if requested, to resume economic aid. The Indians have quietly let Washington know they are interested. Already, over $75 million has been set aside for India, provided that agreements can be worked out. For one thing, American diplomats want to establish an American naval base on the Indian Ocean island of Diego Garcia.

Now the stage is set for Kissinger to fly to New Delhi for face-to-face discussions with Indian leaders. He expects to come home with another diplomatic triumph.

Wasteful Ways: The Federal Energy Office is worried that Americans are returning to their wasteful ways now that the Arab oil embargo has been lifted. Conservation practices are still essential to prevent shortages.

There is also a danger that the Middle East negotiations will break down and that the oil embargo will be reimposed. Intelligence reports claim that the suicide raid on an Israeli village by Arab extremists was deliberately staged to provoke Israel into reprisals that would scuttle the peace talks. They came dangerously close to achieving their goal.

The United States, meanwhile, is drifting into greater dependency on Middle East oil. Strategists have warned that the Nixon Administration isn't doing enough to develop new sources of energy. This could lead to an acute crisis, they claim, by the end of the decade.

The financial crisis may become even worse than the energy crisis. President Nixon's own top economists have warned privately that the United States economy cannot stand the multibillion-dollar financial drain that it will cost to buy enough oil to keep the country going during the 1970s.

One thing is becoming increasingly clear. The days of superabundant oil and gas are gone.

In Gear: The House impeachment inquiry, after a slow start, is moving into gear.

The staff has almost completed its extensive review and evaluation of the work of other investigative bodies. Now the staff has started drafting the bills of particulars, which will outline the case against President Nixon.

This work is being directed by two senior staff lawyers, Richard Cates and Bernard Nussbaum. But already, they have encountered partisan opposition.

Sam Garrison, the No. 2 Republican lawyer on the staff, has complained privately that the GOP staff members have been excluded from the drafting sessions. Furthermore, Garrison has argued that Cates and Nussbaum are preparing too hostile a case against the President.

Their work, of course, has not been made public, and only a few senior congressmen are privy to the drafts. But our sources say the bills of particulars include allegations that the President was involved in the Watergate cover-up and the ITT affair.

Much of the material in the briefs is taken from the public record. But our sources claim the devastating details, presented in an organized fashion, add up to a formidable case.

Work programs needed

An extensive program which will provide jobs and training was proposedfor Shelby County at a recent meeting of the Region III Ancilliary Manpower Planning Board.

The board recommended to the State Department of Industrial Relations the following programs for Fiscal Year 1975, which begins on October 1:

For Shelby County the following programs were recommended. Part-time jobs for youth still in school - 32 jobs totalling $21,280. Part-time jobs for school drop-outs, 25 jobs totalling $69,375.

Part-time summer jobs for youth, 118 jobs totalling $50,150.

Classroom instruction to upgrade LPN's to RN status, three slots totalling $14,382.

Part-time jobs for the chronically unemployed older person, eight jobs totalling $30,080.

Subsidized on-the- job training totalling $13,200.

Specialized training classes, costing $8,800.

Long-haul truck driver class, six slots valued at $3,000.

Emergency Medical Technician training, four slots valued at $400.

Shelby County's representatives on the Planning Board are Ted Lansford, Assistant Superintendent of Education, Oliver Millender with the 11th Area of Alabama Opportunity Action Committee, and Robert Merrill, Administrative Assistant to the Shelby County Commission.

These proposed programs would be financed with federal grants under the new Comprehensive Employment Training Act.

Reader defends Red against 'mudslingers'

Letter to the Editor:

In my opinion, Sheriff C.P. "Red" Walker has been and continues to be a competent, honest law enforcement officer.

I've lived in Shelby County all my life and have known Sheriff Walker all that time and have seen him perform his job in an efficient manner for the several terms he has served as sheriff.

I feel the accusations against Sheriff Walker in the Shelby County Reporter, the Shelby County Advertiser, and the Birmingham News are without foundation and are false!

I am going to vote for Sheriff Red Walker, but if I were not for him, I now would be because of the 'mudslinging against him. He and his family are dedicated Christian people and he will continue to do a good job as sheriff for Shelby County, for in my opinion we have the best law enforcement possible!

Thank you!

Sincerely,
Lillie Fulmer

COURTSHIP, MARRIAGE AND THE FAMILY

By Herbert J. Miles, Ph.D.

"UGLINESS AND COURTSHIP"

Q. Dr. Miles, I read your columns regularly. I am seventeen and a sophomore in high school. To date you have not discussed my problem in your column. My problem is that I am UGLY. I want to associate with girls, I want to date, and eventually want to get married and have a home and some children. But girls avoid me because I'm ugly. I have never had a date. I have no talents. Although I am healthy and make B's in my high school grades, I am not really good at anything. I know I need someone to help me, but do not have the courage to talk to anyone about my problem. I thought maybe you could help me in one of your columns. The name signed to this letter is not my name. The postmark on the outside of the envelope is not my home town. Jeff Sullivan.

A. Let's begin with your good qualities. You are in good health and you must have a good mind, since you make good grades. There are thousands of young people who would give anything for your good health or to make B's in school. Also, the fact that you got up the courage to write this letter indicates that you have more initiative than you admit. To bring your problem out in the open is the first step toward solving it.

The opposite of ugly is beautiful or handsome. Ugliness and beauty are relative terms; that is, no two people agree on what is ugly or beautiful. In our society we tend to exalt, and overrate, physical beauty. So called physical beauty is lavishly and guadily displayed by TV, the movies, and slick magazines with great gusto. Unfortunately, your peer group tends to be trapped by this physical emphasis, and you are caught in the trap.

In your dejection and rejection of yourself you are overlooking several facts: (1) Facial defects such as birthmarks, buckteeth, acne, crossed-eyes, or lop-ears can largely be corrected by doctors, dentists, and plastic surgeons. (2) Most people who think they are ugly have none of these problems. You may be one of them. (3) Some people seem to identify physical ugliness with "evil" and "Hollywood beauty" with goodness. This is false. Beauty is as beauty does. (4) You forget that many so-called ugly people develop the ability to laugh at their physical defects and turn them into an asset rather than a liability. Abraham Lincoln was everything but handsome. During the Lincoln-Douglas debates in Illinois, Senator Douglas accused Lincoln of being "two-faced." Lincoln pointed to his face and said "It's the face my maker gave me and, for better or for worse, the only one I have. Now do you think I would go around holding it up in front of you if I had another one"? The audience applauded his humor. Jimmy Durante laughed about his big "Schnozzola" until it made him into a warm lovable personality. (5) Our creator-God created us like we are. "Everything God created is good and is meant to be gratefully used and not despised." This idea of ugly vs beauty is a selfish human invention. I doubt is our Creator is pleased with the stupid idea that physical beauty is superior. (6) Many people with so-called physical beauty have hideous, ill-tempered, and repulsive personalities. They are self-centered, egotistical, and "camera-ready."

Now, what can you do, Jeff, to solve your problem? Others may help you but YOU must tackle your problem. (1) Our inner attitudes, feelings, and values are more important than external physical appearance. Positive inner attitudes can conquer most external problems. (2) Your self-image is unfair and unrealistic. You must stop underselling yourself to yourself. You are cheating yourself. (3) Come out of your shell. You have been secretly living inside of your self-pity with the door shut and locked. By trying to hide your feelings of inferiority, you are sealing off the approval from others that you so badly want and need. (4) Accept yourself as you are. Begin with your good qualities, (good health, a good mind) and develop others. All of us, including you, have many hidden undeveloped talents. (5) Jeff, I imagine several girls live in your community who feel about themselves just like you do. Some of them have never had a date and would welcome a call from you. (6) Concentrate on other people. Give compliments; be kind, smile. Be cheerful and jolly. To have friends you must be friendly. (7) Jeff, I suggest you ask for a private conference with your high school guidance counselor or with a teacher in whom you have confidence, and take this column with you. They will gladly help you and keep the conference in professional confidence.

(Dr. Miles welcomes questions for this column. When a letter is used in the column, the identity of the person is not revealed. He will answer personal letters as time permits. Write him at Carson-Newman College, Jefferson City, Tn. 37760)

"NOW I'VE SEEN EVERYTHING" -- That's what a smiling fisherman told Allen Wilson when the candidate for sheriff took his campaign to the waters of Lay Lake Saturday. in what may be a campaign first. Wilson said he didn't want to miss seeing anyone in his campaign. Here they stop briefly at a marina before taking off again. In the front row are Wilson's sons Rex and Scott and niece Candy. In the back are Wilson, his wife Cookie, daughter Penny and son, Steve.

Vandals destroy Calera mailboxes

Calera Postmaster, Warren G. Finley, stated that he has received numerous complaints of mailbox vandalism in the area of the Calera postoffice services.

Postal Inspector W.L. Dixon said the problem is widespread all over the district he serves which includes several central Alabama counties. In checking with various post offices around the county all have had reports of vandalism in the past but the current wave of abuse seems to be confined to the Calera area.

The culprits ride by, strike the mailboxes with clubs, pipes or bricks then flee under cover of darkness. In some cases mailboxes have been uprooted carried several yards down the road and ditched.

Inspector Dixon stated that the offenders are usually youths out for kicks but he warned, "Mailbox vandalism is a federal offense considered a felony in the Federal Courts. The penalty is up to three years in prison or $1,000 fine or both."

He cited a case now pending in which two Birmingham youths, one 19 the other 20, were indicted April 3, 1974 on four counts each of mailbox vandalism which occured in the Hoover area. They were arrested in Savannah, Georgia and brought back to Birmingham for arraignment. If convicted they each face a maximum sentence of 12 years in prison or $4,000 fine or both.

Inspector Dixon also stated that anyone who witnesses mailbox vandalism should contact the local law enforcement authorities immediately giving a description of the offenders and the vehicle including tag number if possible. Persons who are the victim of mailbox vandalism should report it to the local Postmaster who in turn will report it to the Postal Inspector.

Martin speaks to society

by Linda Hinds Conn

The Shelby County Historical Society held its monthly meeting on Sunday, April 21 at Columbiana Methodist Church with H. Linday Martin, a full-blooded Cherokee Indian, as guest speaker.

Martin is Dean of the Division of Student Services at Samford University and is also pastor of a Baptist church in Pell City. Martin stated that he feels very close to Shelby County since he pastored a church at Vincent for several years.

Martin emphasized that he is an American and is behind the flag one hundred percent. He humorously commented that he was recently introduced at a meeting as a real FFV - First Family of Virginia!

Martin has studied the origin of the Indian but has not come to a final conclusion as to how the Indian came to North America. He related the plight of some of the Sioux Indians in the West where a family of five may live on as little as $800 per year.

Several points were brought out by Martin as essential to the survival of the 800,000 Indian population in the U.S. He stated that the reservation system should be done away with since it has failed so miserably. He encourages industries to go to the Indian populated areas in order to provide them with means to make a living.

Martin feels that it is important for the Indians to preserve their heritage, especially since the first ecologists were Indians. He points out that the reason the Indians didn't progress for 12,000 years was because they didn't need to. The land was full of the resources needed for survival.

The Columbiana meeting was the 276th time that Dean Martin has spoken about Indians in the last two years. He went to Wounded Knee to study the situation there and explained that the tragic situation there has been building up for decades.

Mrs. Conrad Fowler gave a brief history of the Columbiana Methodist Church, noting that it was originally located by Green's Food Center. It was rolled to the present site on log rollers in the early fifties.

Mrs. John Walters gave a brief report for the cemetary committee and mentioned that there are over 150 cemetaries in Shelby County.

Shady Grove hosts singing

Shady Grove Missionary Baptist Church will hold a song service on Sunday, April 28, beginning at 2 p.m.

Tickets available for train trip

There's a steam locomotive powered train leaving the Wilton depot at 9:45 Saturday morning, headed for stops in Maplesville and Selma.

There are still seats available on a one-way basis, according to a spokesman for the Southern Railway in Washington, D.C., who telephoned the Reporter with the news Monday morning.

Locomotive 4501 will pull out of the Birmingham station at 8 a.m., leave Bessemer at 8:30. Next stop will be Wilton at 9:45. The train will leave Maplesville at 10:30 and will arrive in Selma at 11:30.

Riders who get on in Wilton may get off at Maplesville, or may continue to Selma, according to the Southern. Tickets will be sold on the train at a cost of 7½ cents per mile.

Although the train will return to Birmingham, all the round-trip tickets have been sold. Anyone who gets on at Wilton or Maplesville will have to arrange his or her own return transportation.

Wind ensemble gives concert

The University of Montevallo wind ensemble will present its annual spring concert May 1 at 8:15 p.m. in the Palmer Hall auditorium on campus.

Open to the public free of charge, the concert has been especially popular in past years with high school bandsmen and their directors from Jefferson and Shelby counties.

Scenes from Castle Meadows Mobile Home Park at Plano, Taxas last November 20. The park was in the path of severe winds, if not a tornado. Seven of the eleven homes in the park were properly anchored, and escaped major damage. The four untied homes were destroyed.

All of the untied homes were blown over

The foundation blocks from which this home was blown can be seen at left, directly across the street from the undamaged home in the background.

This home almost rolled into the anchored home at the right which was undamaged.

This destroyed home was immediately adjacent to the untouched home in the background before it was rolled by the storm.

All ot the anchored homes stayed on their foundations

This un-anchored home was lifted off its foundation and rolled over. Its occupants kicked out the hole in the back wall to escape. Note that the home across the street to the right was undamaged.

This anchored home, jostled on its foundation and skirting slightly damaged, is directly across the street from the home pictured at left (in right background of this picture).

Mr. Castle's properly anchored home was undisturbed and only slightly damaged by blowing debris.

Metric system discussed

"What is the metric system and what will it do to me?"

That's what Chelsea Junior High School students were wondering last Wednesday, April 17. Speaking about the metric system were Alabaster pharmacis Dan Gillis and Volkswagen mechanic Rayford Rob inson.

Both speakers explained the use of the metric system in his occupation, and then answered questions from the students pertaining to pharmacy or mechanics. The questions centered around the topic of the effects that U.S. metrication would have on each profession.

The speakers were presented by the mathematics department as an introduction to a career-oriented unit entitled "Understanding the Metric System."

The special unit was written by Chelsea teachers Alton Young and Miss E.M. Jackson. The entire program is under the leadership of career education project coordinator Gerald Garrett.

Registration extended

Persons can continue to apply for the Food Stamp program, even though they did not register during the month of April.

Mrs. Nell Fulton, director of Pensions and Security for Shelby County explains that the special registration during the month of April was for changing over the program from commodities to the stamp program.

It was especially set up to register persons who were already getting commodities, so they would not miss any opportunities for government help in obtaining food.

However, anyone who wants to sign up at a later date, may contact the DPS and their applications will be taken. The DPS telephone number is 669-2111.

DO YOU KNOW?

Your County Commissioners have many responsibilities other than making decisions relating to maintenance and construction of County roads!!

* They determine the allocations of all Federal, State, and county funds available to the commission.
* They manage all county property.
* They make decisions relating to county-wide garbage collection and disposal.
* They manage the computer operation that is being utilized in the county offices.
* They anticipate and plan for the future needs of Shelby County for buildings and lands.
* They are responsible for the contractual agreements for county airport facilities.
* They are responsible for making appointments to the following:
  1. Hospital Board
  2. Planning and Zoning Board
  3. County Welfare Board
  4. County Library Board
  5. Mental Health Board
* They are responsible for the purchasing for all Departments of the county.

Vote for VICTOR SCOTT and elect a qualified man to handle these responsibilities.

IT'S TIME FOR A CHANGE

Bill Thompson is working hard to be elected your Sheriff. He is running against the Sheriff not the Deputies. Under a local law, the people working in the Sheriff's Department can no longer take part in politics and they are given job security. If you elect Thompson, the present deputies will continue to serve you in his administration.

Bill Thompson has been going door to door since January to tell you of changes needed in the Sheriff's Department. Some of these changes are:

COOPERATION: Bill Thompson believes that the prevention and solution of crimes is important enough for state, county, and municipal officers to work together. Cooperation with these officers, the District Attorney, and the Coroner will give Shelby County a more effective Sheriff's Department. Did you know that it has been many years since:

1. A State Investigator has been requested to assist County officers in a criminal investigation in Shelby County;
2. The District Attorney has been invited to the scene of a crime;
3. That in many instances municipal officers have done good work in solving a difficult crime only to see someone in the Sheriff's Department claim the credit.

FEES: Pistol permit fees will be paid to the County General Fund (approximately $7,500.00 per year). Money paid by the State to the State to the Sheriff to employ a cook for the jail will be used for this purpose and not kept by the Sheriff as personal income (approximately $4,500.00 per year). Money paid to Warrant Clerks on duty in the Sheriff's Office during working hours will be paid to the County General Fund (approximately $4,500.00 per year).

GOOD LAW ENFORCEMENT: As Sheriff, Thompson would have no interest in seeking a broad political power base. He would not seek the election of county or municipal officials to become a part of a political group. Thompson does not believe that the authority of the Sheriff's Office should be used for political purposes. The Sheriff should attend to the Sheriff's business.

ALIAS WARRANTS: These warrants should be served by the State Troopers or the Game Wardens who made the first arrest. These warrants should not gather dust in the Sheriff's Office.

SEARCH WARRANTS: In other Alabama counties, State Troopers have the same authority to execute search warrants as Sheriffs. These warrants are used to suppress organized gambling, drug traffic, and other criminal activity. Bill Thompson believes that Shelby County should be as other Alabama counties, let the Troopers and Deputies work together to overcome criminal activity.

LET'S ELECT BILL THOMPSON
SHERIFF OF SHELBY COUNTY

IN THE SWIM - - The Catalina Club at the University of Montevallo is busy rehearsing for their annual spring water show. The club will perform their water ballet on May 2nd, 3rd, and 4th at McCall Pool on the UM campus. The yearly show features swimmers, musicians, and other students.

UM golf team

After a match at the Inverness course in North Shelby County the University of Montevallo Golf team holds a record of 13-8-1.

The Falcon Four grabbed a match with Jacksonville State early last week with a low score of 307 compared with Jax State's 318. Terry Reynolds shot a 75 that made him low man for the Falcons. Other scorers were George Walker, Tuscaloosa, 76; Cal Stanford, Birmingham, 77; and Alex Morrow, Wetumpka, 79.

Randy Masters, a Jax State team member, had a memorable day when he hit a hole-in-one on 17.

In a four-way match at the INverness course UM defeated Huntingdon and ended up in a three-way tie for first with Florence State and Troy at the end of 18 holes. In a one hole play-off for positions Troy took first, Florence got second, and UM was third.

Alexander City and Calhoun are scheduled for a home match here Sat. April 27.

Ball field, tennis courts planned

Pelham hopes to get started right away on building a ball field and a tennis court.

The sports facilities will be located on land behind the city hall. The city is delaying construction until it can complete the purchase of a small additional segment of property that is needed to give the ball field sufficient space, according to city clerk Mrs. Willie Mae Dennis.

It took a man with a hard shell to grade eggs.

Since 1955 no commissioner of agriculture has done more to upgrade the food equality in Alabama. A.W. Todd passed the Todd egg law which called for the grading of eggs. This bill enabled Alabamians to sell eggs out of state and generated $150 million dollars in business last year. Because he has served as commissioner of Agriculture two previous times, Todd will be able to step right in and get the job done. With food prices rising & shortages pending, Alabama needs A.W. Todd back in office.

The conference will be for both the professional and layman with discussions on reformed evangelism, prayer, and the Christian family, according to Dan P. Griswold, publicity chairman.

Wheat bread popular as in pioneer days

Who says history doesn't repeat itself! Whole wheat bread was the only bread available to the pioneers who traveled west, with the Mormons to Utah and the gold diggers to California. Now, in 1974, the bread rage is again the old fashion whole wheat. Today, since more people are interested in good health as well as good flavor this recipe uses whole wheat flour, natural honey, no solid fats, and of course, milk.

See TODAY'S HOME hostess Lee Cannon demonstrate this and other recipes from the Today's Home Idea Book, Thursday at 6:30 p.m. and Friday at 3, on the Alabama Public Television Network.

Old Fashioned Wheat Bread

1 package active dry yeast
1/3 cup warm water
1 tablespoon cooking oil
2 tablespoons honey
3 cups milk, scalded then cooled
6 cups whole wheat flour
1 tablespoon salt

Soften yeast in warm water. Add oil, honey, salt, cooled milk, and blend. Add enough flour to make soft dough that leaves sides of pan (may be a little sticky). Turn onto floured board and knead 5 to 10 minutes or until smooth, using extra flour as needed. Allow dough to rest 10 minutes then shape into two loaves and place in greased loaf pans. Allow to rise not quite double in bulk (1½ to 2 hours) and bake at 375 degrees F for 45 minutes or until done. Makes 2 loaves.

Beat 12

protect against incompatibilities of land use.

Judge Fowler agreed that zoning would not be a vital issue in an area where population and industry stayed rather static. He pointed out that Beat 12 is anything but static, as property constantly changes hands and the turnover of residents is high. He named a number of industries, institutions, utilities, and housing developers who are planning to move into the area. Fowler emphasized that growth is imminent, but that it should be controlled growth.

Some residents of the area questioned the method of formation of the new Beat 23. Judge Fowler explained that due to previous beat shifts, most resident of that area did not know that they were in Beat 12 in the last election. He added that, separated from both valleys by Oak Mountain, the people of that section of the beat had little in common with the rest of the beat. After the January election, residents of the area drew up a petition asking the county commission to form a new beat. The commission interviewed the people in the proposed beat and granted their request, since the majority of the 72 voters in the area wanted a new beat.

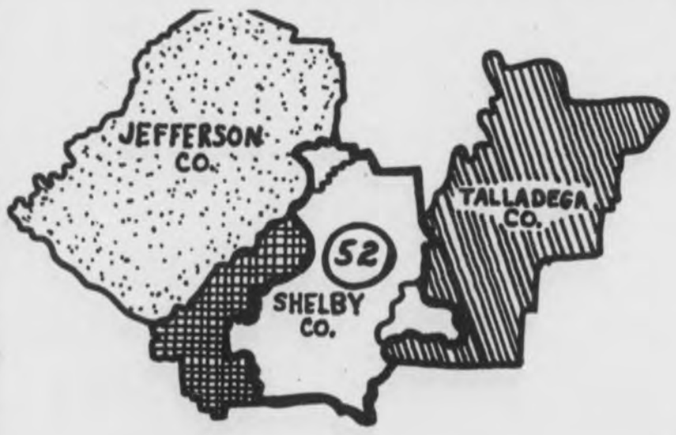
READY TO PAINT?
First, think about what you don't want to paint! Cover floors and furniture with plastic drop cloths; use masking tape on window panes, baseboards and trim.

SURFACE PREPARATION
This is most important! Make sure all walls are clean. Fill all nail holes and cracks before you start. Your finished paint job will only be as good as the surface it covers!



A REAL "TROUBLE-SAVER"!
To avoid unnecessary clean-up problems, line your roller tray with aluminum foil before painting. When you've finished your work, just roll up the foil and throw away the mess!

Humphries Development aims for distinction and style

By Marcia M. Sears

What direction is the style of housing taking in Shelby County?

To answer that question, the Shelby County Reporter interviewed Cordray Parker, design co-ordinator fot the W. M. Humphries Development Company.

Parker is the idea man who coordinates the living concept ideas that go into the many subdivision and mobile home developments put together by the Humphries company.

Chandalar South and Greenpark at Pelham are two of the Humphries planned communities in the county.

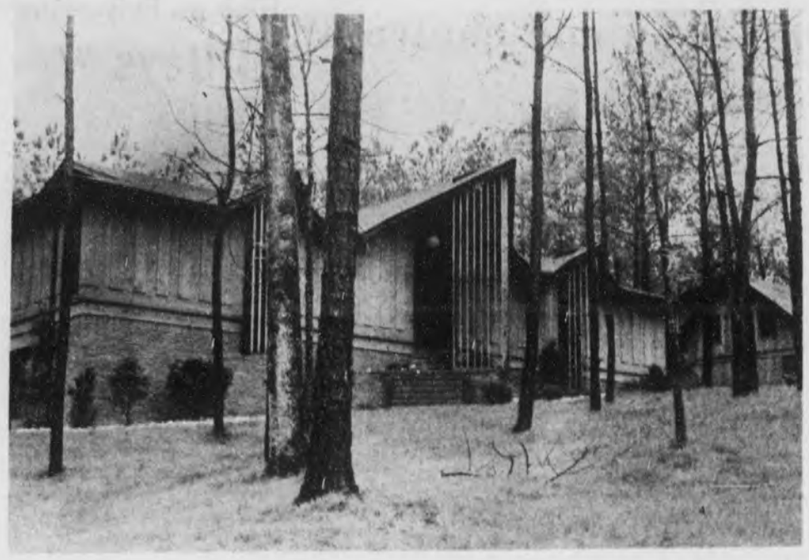
Based on a "total living" concept, they include recreation areas and extensive green open spaces, whether for houses, condominiums or mobile homes. They differ in many ways from other real estate developments and may well be trendsetters for Shelby County.

Rustic contemporary design is Cordray Parker's specialty and he says that the Humphries houses are designed for people who like contemporary design.

Building materials are those that weather well: cedar with stain, stone and brick. In the yards, Parker encourages people to leave the natural ground cover, or if it is necessary to remove some of it, he likes to use bark. Parker is not enthusiastic about the traditional grasses, because of the continuing maintenance.

One of the big changes Parker has noticed is that people like living rooms to be really used. They are getting away from doing their real living in the den and keeping the living room as a 'show room.' He advises furnishing the room in a way that people will enjoy using it.

Dining rooms are still popular, but they are usually not separate rooms. Generally they form an L-shape with the main room.



He believes in closets so much that some of the closets he designs are bigger than the bedrooms they serve. Walk-in closets with shelves, drawers and show storage are a part of most of the house plans in the Humphries' developments.

What's new in bathrooms? One piece fiberglass shower-tubs and a new silent commode unit that's selling for about $300.

Shag carpet is still preferred by most of those who are buying houses or condominiums in the Humphries developments. Most of the units are carpeted wall to wall. Multicolor carpeting is afavorite, beca se it is easier to maintain and it is easier to decorate the rest of the room.

Cordray Parker gives out an enormous amount of information in a five minute interview, even though the telephone never stops ringing and he must make instant judgments on a multitude of problems.

The Humphries organization is caught up in the speed of the growth of Shelby County. To its credit, it is not just rushing 'living quarters' into place. It is proceeding carefully with big designs for neighborhoods that offer pleasant living conditions and inspired architecture.

NEW HOUSES - - Unusual design gives destructiveness to many of the trendsetting Humphries' houses in Shelby County.

NEW CONDOMINIUMS - - There is such demand for condominiums in the Chandalar South that some units still in early construction are already sold.

OFFICES REFLECT DESIGN IDEAS - - Cordray Parker, design coordinator for Humphries Developments, takes a 30 second break at his office. The offices carry through the design concept of making the outdoors an integral part of the building. The offices open onto an open terrace in background.

CHILD DEVELOPMENT CENTER - - Youngsters at the Greenpark South Child Development Center enjoy an indoor Easter egg hunt April 12. Rainy weather forced the usually-outdoor activity inside the center's building. The Greenpark South center is one of the Humphries Development projects in north Shelby County.

CARD OF THANKS

I would like to thank each of my wonderful friends and neighbors for their prayers, cards and donations I received when I was hospitalized due to injury received in a storm. Special thanks to Margaret Horton and Annie Lee Anderson for their generous effort and time in helping me.

Drug arrest

violating the state's Uniform Substance Act. The Watts couple were released on bond, but Gibson was held pending an appearance by his parole officer.

Alabaster police chief C.E. "Bull" Carter said that a similar crime succeeded in Birmingham recently, where a gang made off with narcotics from a hospital. He added that it has not yet been determined whether the two crimes are linked to the same drug ring.

Hospital comptroller Curtis McDowell stated that the drug heist may have succeeded if not for the alertness and cooperation of the doctors and staff of Shelby Memorial. He also extended praise for the effort from the police officers in foiling the plot. "They thought we were an ignorant country hospital that they could easily hoodwink." McDowell added, "But they were wrong."

* * * *

Extension forester Larkin Wade says the first visible sign of fusiform infection is a small elongated swelling either on one side or completely encircling a pine stem or branch.

The rust stunts and deforms but seldom kills pines. It weakens them, making them susceptible to wind breakage.

CARD OF THANKS

Mt. Zion dedicated

OLD CHURCH

NEW CHURCH

Dedication services for the new building of Mt. Zion Church at Westover, will be held on Homecoming Day, May 5, with the Rev. C. C. Sheets bringing the morning message.

Mr. Zion church was organized on December 5, 1946. The building was erected on property donated by Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Green, supervised by W. M. Pair and named by Mrs. Ella Ray. Dedication services were held on April 13, 1947 with the Rev. W. R. Wallace and 25 members present. The Rev. Ira Tidwell was guest speaker.

Charter members were Rev. and Mrs. W. R. Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Green, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Belew, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Pair, Mr. and Mrs. M B. McCollum, Eddie Mae McCollum;

Rev. T. R. Rich, Cecil Gardner, Mrs. Reba Morgan, Mrs. Pauline Smith, Mrs. W. G. Williams, Mrs. Betty Jo Price, Mrs. Mavis Tennyson and Hobart McCollum.

On May 5 the service will begin at 10 o'clock with guest singers and guest speaker. Dinner will be served. The history of the church will be given and former pastors and charter members will be recognized. Everyone is invited to attend.

The family lawyer

Grocer Hawkins put up no resistance as the youthful robber cleaned out his cash register. To Hawkins, the young man's pistol was all too real.

But in fact, the pistol was a toy. When the robber was later caught and brought to trial for "armed robbery," he insisted that the charge would not stand up.

"The simple truth is," he told the court, "that I was not armed at all. That gun I had couldn't hurt a flea."

Nevertheless, the court decided he was guilty as charged. The court said what mattered was not the actual character of the gun but the way it looked to the victim.

Most courts agree. That is, they view the holdup weapon "through the eyes of the beholder." They reason that the essence of the crime is putting the victim in fear, which can be done as effectively with a gun that only looks deadly as with one that really is.

There have even been cases of "armed robbery" in which the robber had no weapon at all. Thus: another holdup man terrified his victim merely by showing a menacing bulge in his coat pocket.

Yet, a court decided this was enough basis for a charge of armed robbery. The court said the fear that the robber had a gun, plus the fear that he might use it, was all that the law required by way of intimidation.

Still, the fear must be at least of physical harm – not of a lesser form of pressure. Suppose A says to B:

"Unless you hand over $500, I'll get you in trouble with the Internal Revenue Service."

If B pays off, A may be guilty of some offense – but not robbery. As one court put it:

"There can be no robbery without violence. The menace must be of a sort to excite reasonable apprehension of danger. Threat of prosecution for a crime is regarded as insufficient (because) a man in the hands of the law is not legally presumed to be in danger of bodily harm.

Sports and Recreation

Edited by Rick Moore

Popularity is rising--

Local enthusiasts enjoy playing tennis

by Rick Moore

As the balmy spring winds blow across the southland, many Shelby County residents are turning toward outdoor recreation and sports. One of the fastest growing of these ourdoor pursuits is tennis.

Public courts are located in Columbiana, Calera and Vincent.

Other courrts which enjoy a general use are located at the Shelby County YMCA in Alabaster and the Camp Branch Community Center. Besides this, there are several other private courts in the county.

The University of Montevallo is adding four new tennis courts and three new handball courts to the four now in use at the college.

Activity at all of these local courts give testimony to the rising popularity of this sport.

The modern game of tennis, also called lawn tennis, has its beginnings in ancient Egypt and Persia some 500 years before the time of Christ. Another rudimentary form of tennis is known to have been played by the Arabs during the time of Charlemagne.

A form of tennis, known as court tennis, became popular in France during the 1300's. Court tennis is played inside an enclosed inside court. A rope five feet high at the ends and three feet high in the center divided the court into two equal sides. The game was played with a different set of rules than lawn tennis.

The game was played extensively by the royalty of France and England during the 16th century.

Tennis as we know it, was invented in Britain in 1974 by a man named Walter C. Wingifeld.

In 1877 the All England Croquet Club located in the London suburb of Wimbleton found itself in bad financial straits. The club constructed several of Wingfield's lawn tennis courts to help boost its membership, and the first Wimbleton Tennis championship was played in that year.

The sport has been a favorite since that time.

Dr. Ward Tishler of the University of Montevallo and coach of that school's Tennis team talked to the Reporter about tennis last week. Tishler explained that tennis is gaining in popularity all the time especially among women.

He continued that women are finding out through tennis that the term "athletic" implies no gender, and that sports can be played and enjoyed by both men and women. Women are finding tennis a sport that they can enjoy with men, he said.

Tishler went on to say that tennis is a sport that doesn't require any special ability to be mastered and enjoyed. All it takes is desire, motivation and the ability to move.

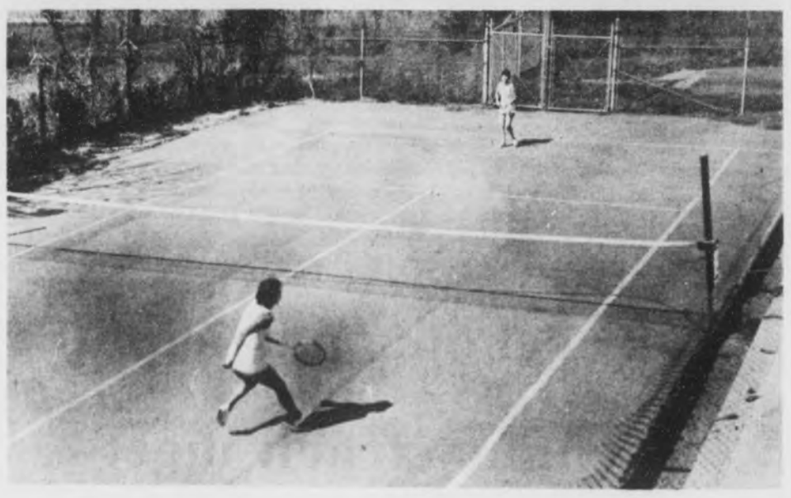
Tishler reminded that exercise is necessary for maintainance good health, and for most people, it is more fun to play games than it is to do exercises. Tennis is a sport that can be played during all ages of life.

He concluded that those who are active can stay active throughout a lifetime. Activity is the best life insurance one can have and most of the time it's free.

Tishler also added that several tennis courses are being taught in the afternoon at the University of Montevallo. These are open to the public who may wish to audit the course and receive tennis instruction twice a week throughout a semester.

Sam Charmichael, the director of the Shelby County YMCA, commented that he has also seen a definite increase in the number of women interested in tennis.

Charmichael said that tennis is especially popular on the weekends and that lights are planned to be installed at the YMCA courts. At the present the courts are unlocked and any member can come and play whenever he wishes.



Tennis is a sport that can be played in this climate almost all year round. It is played widely in schools and colleges, in private clubs and in public parks. Facilities for playing tennis are availabe locally and can be enjoyed by almost anyone.

For a fun, interesting and healthful activity this spring and summer, why not try tennis?

AND THAT'S HOW IT'S DONE -- Frank Lightfoot of University of Montevallo physical education department gives instruction to a group of fledgling tennis players during a class session. Tennis classes at UM are open to the general public. Adults wishing tennis instruction may audit a tennis course and do not need to be working on a degree to take advantage of these classes.

ACTION ON LOCAL COURTS -- Waltrand Balfanz returns a shot to Becky Jones at Shelby County YMCA court (above right). Many women are taking advantage of the YMCA tennis facilities according to director Sam Carmichael. Outdoor lighting is also planned to be added at the 'Y' courts to facilitate night playing. The University of Montevallo courts (lower right) are lighted for nightime play. Here, they are the scene of an inter-collegiate match as the UM tennis team takes on Jefferson State Junior College.

MIXED DOUBLES -- UM student Julie Barcroft follows through with a shot while her partner looks on. Women are playing tennis in increasing numbers because they are finding that they can enjoy the game and play on a competitive basis with men.

REACHING FOR THE HIGH ONE -- Phillip King has to do a little straining to return the ball during a tennis class session at University of Montevallo. The university is expanding its tennis facilities by adding three new courts.

LADIES' DAY - - This foursome putts out on the green at Buxahatchee Country Club during Ladies' Day last Thursday. Left to right are Lois Allen, Pete Cowart, Mary Walker, and Lilly Baker. On Sunday the Buxahatchee club held a Scotch double tournament where the men and women alternate shots. The first place winners of the championship flight were Arthur Davis and Mary Landcaster. Second place winners in the championship flight were Todd Robbins and Pete Cowart.

Teams tie in dogfight

The Indian Valley Country Club held a dogfight golf tournament last Sunday. Twenty two-man teams entered the event. Six teams tied for the top finishing places.

Teams tieing for the first and second places were Houston Brasher-Rudy Parker and Mac Cline-Guy Franks, Jr. Both teams were 13 points over.

Tying for third and fourth places were Guy Franks, Sr. and Jim Acton along with Tommy Luker and Buddy Ogle. Both of these teams were 12 points over.

The two teams tying for fifth and sixth places with scores of ten points over were Kim Gorman-Sumner Nesbit and C.H. Hathcer-L.P. Bradley.

* * * *

With ten minutes of a rugby contest left to go at the Bendigo Training Prison in Melbourne, Australia, the game was called. The two referees, both inmates, jumped over the fence of the local sports stadium and fled up the street.

Four schools participate in county track meet

A preliminary country track meet was held at Indian Springs School last Tues. and Thurs., April 16 and 18. Schools participating in the meet were Thompson High School, Montevallo High School, Calera High School and Indian Springs School.

The participating schools ran a full meet, but scores were not kept. A list event winners and their times or distances follow.

Columbiana to have new league

Preperations for the season in the Columbiana slow pitch softball league are already underway. Sonny Dorough, league organizer, told the Reporter that the starting date for league play is set for May 2.

Six teams will be involved in the league. They are: the Young Men's Club, National Standard, City Recreation Center, Summerhill, Fourmile, and the Elastic Corporation.

Dorough also said that arrangements are being made for the league to play twice a week, but at the present time only the Thursday night sessions are scheduled.

Game times for the softball matches are at 6:30, 7:30 and 8:30. Seven inning games will be played.

A playoff at the end of the season to determine a league champion is also planned.

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK:
Some people are so busy worrying about the rain that might come tomorrow they fail to enjoy the sunshine today.

Fishing stories to be published

Have you heard or told a good fish story lately? Probably so, since the telling such stories has been refined to the point of being a literary form among Shelby County residents.

We, at the Reporter sports desk feel that some of the stories we have heard lately should be right in there with the "greats" of the southern literary scene.

Certainly, one Lay Lake angler related a tale to me about a walking catfish that was so superb in quality that it would rank with a Faulkner novel any day. If it received its due critical renoun, Gone With the Wind wouldn't even come close to "The Great Catfish."

In order to get these mangificent tales into print so that the New York literary world will sit up and take notice of our Shelby County letters, the Reporter will be doing its part during the following weeks.

The Reporter will print the best original fish story received each week by a local entrant. The rules for these stories will not be difficult.

They should be truthful, but not unnecessarily so. Manuscripts should be submitted in legible form and should not exceed 200 words if you can help it.

All stories will be subject to editing, and you may enter as many times as you like. Photographs are not recommended to illustrate the stories since they tend to disprove the facts.

The stories will be judged on humor and originality as well as content. Manuscripts will become the property of the Shelby County Reporter.

Entries should be mailed to: Fish Story, P.O. Box 947, Columbiana, AL, 35051.

Montevallo

Eric Stipe, Montevallo city Recreation Director, announced this week that a meeting will be held Monday, April 29, at 7 p.m. for the purpose of forming the Montevallo softball league for this summer. The place of the meeting will be the Montevallo city hall. Team managers or team sponsors are urged to attend.

UM wins two

The University of Montevallo baseball team is still in the running to be in the running in the Southern States Conference.

When questioned about conference chances UM baseball coach Bob Riesner commented, "WE've got a good shot at second, but Springhill probably has the first place spot wrapped up."

"We may not produce a championship this year but if hard work will produce a winning team, we'll eventually come out on top -- it takes time to produce a winning program," he explained.

The Falcons have won two of their last three games to up their record to 11-19 for the season and 4-5 in the conference.

The Falcons defeated Huntingdon 3-0 and split a doubleheader with St. Xavier 2-8 and 6-2. Baseball Coach Bob Riesener praised pitchers Billy Morrison and Bobby Thomas. "Morrison pitched one of his best games against St. Xavier for the season and Thomas hurled a four-hit shut-out for us," he said last week.

IT'S A HIT -- A Thompson High School player gets a hit as the Warriors defeated the Birmingham University School 7-6 in last Thursday's game.

Y offers Kinder Camp

The Shelby County YMCA will be offering a Kinder Camp this summer for preschool children aged 4-6. The Kinder Camp sessions will be held at the YMCA facilities in Alabaster.

The camp provides children with an experience to develop physically, mentally and socially. Activities daily will be arts and crafts, games, swimming in the kiddie pool, songs, stories, and swimming instruction twice weekly in the large swimming pool.

Refresments will be provided daily. Towel, swim suit and play clothes will also be needed.

Starting dates for the Kinder Camp sessions are June 10, June 17 and June 24. The time for the sessions is from 9 a.m. to 12 noon daily.

Registration information may be obtained from the Shelby County YMCA.

Here's looking at you

Have a picture of a big bass you've caught recently? Maybe you have one of yourself holding a large string of crappie or a monster catfish you've hooked on a troutline.

If so, the Reporter is interested in you. This paper publicizes good, clear black and white pictures of local fishermen and their catches. Color or dark pictures may be used depending on the quality of the photograph.

Your snap shots may be mailed to: Shelby County Reporter, P.O. Box 947, Columbiana, AL 35051, or brought by the Reporter office.

The deadline for the inclusion of pictures in the paper is 12 noon on Mondays of each week.

Specialist gives bicycle pointers

If you are thinking about buying a bicycle, you don't have to purchase an expensive, ten-speed import.

Extension agricultural engineer Charles Ogburn says just make sure the bike you buy meets your needs and complies with Alabama Bicycle safety regulations.

The law requires that for night riding you have a head-light visible from 500 feet away. You also must have a red reflector on the rear of your bike that is visible from 50 to 300 feet to the rear when directly in front of the upper beams of car head-lights.

If you carry packages when cycling, Ogburn says the law required that you keep at least one hand on the handle-bars at all times. For light-weight items, a basket up front is fine. But use a knapsack for heavier things, since a loaded-down basket makes it hard to maneuver the bike.

If you are considering a second-hand bicycle, the specialist suggests that you look closely for damaged parts. Check for missing reflectors and wheel spokes. Inspect the tires -- and insist on a test ride to check out the brakes.

Academy wins two matches

The Shelby Academy golf and tennis teams were victorious last week in a double match with Inglenook Academy. The Raiders won both the matches by a 3-2 margin.

Winning the tennis matches were number one player Richard Moore, Kenny Hall and Kathren Turner.

Winning in the gold department were number one player Jeff Robbins, Tony Acre and Ted Falkner.

Benefit tournament this weekend

The George Lindsey Celebrity Golf Tournament will be held at Arrowhead Country Club in Montgomery Sunday, April 28. Tournament chairman Phil Snow announces that the tournament will be a foursome best ball event with a top name celebrity playing in each group.

A few of the many celebrities participating in the golf tournament include: Ray Perkins, John Hannah, John Niland, Terry Beasely, Charlie Boswell, Bear Brayant, Tim Christian, Jim Goosetree, Scott Hunter, Freddie Hyatt, Anthony Armstrong JOnes, Lee Roy Jordan, Shug Jordan, Archie Manning, Mickey Mantle, Dale Robertson, Jimmy Sidle and Kenny Stabler. The tournament will be proceeded by the Great Stars for Special Alabama Children Show Saturday night, April 27, at Garrett Coliseum.

The show will be emceed by George "Goober" Lindsey and will feature Tammy Wynette, George Jones, Jeanne Pruett, Jimmy Cannon, Freddie Heart and the Heartbeats, Curly Putman and others.

Proceeds from both events will go for physical activity programs for the retarded children of Alabama through the Special Olympics program.

L. Martin tourney set

More than 100 anglers, both young and old, are expected for the Third Annual Still Waters Bass Tournament, which will be held on Lake Martin near Dadeville, April 27 from 6 a.m. until 6 p.m.

The competition, with over $500 in cash prizes, is to be governed by rules of the Bass Angler Sportsman Society. These rules include a bass limit of 10 and no fish weighed in under 12 inches. Tournament officials will make the weight by boat and their decision will be final. Awards will be made on the basis of combined weight in the two-man team event.

Preregistration can be made by picking up forms at area boat and tackle shops.

There is no age limit, but contestants must leave from and return to the Still Waters' marina. No live bait is permitted. Bass must be caught by artificial lure or pork rind.

"Fishing at this time of the year on Lake Martin is excellent," said Perry Caldwell, Still Waters marina manager. "The water should be up for the event and the water clarity very good."

State bands will perform in pre-race festivities

Students from schools across Alabama will be participating in the big pre-race show before the fourth annual Winston 500 stock car race Sunday, May 5, at Alabama International Motor Speedway.

Performing at the event are the Anniston High School Air Force Junior ROTC Drill Team; the Cherokee County High School band, Centre; the Cleburne County High School band; the Cobb Junior High School band, Anniston; The Emma Samson High School band, Gadsden; the Escambia County High School band, Atmore; the Lyman Ward Military Academy "Silver Rifles" Junior ROTC Drill Team, Gadsden; the Piedmont High School band, Piedmont; and the West Point High School band, Cullman.

The Honorable George C. Wallace, Governor of Alabama, will be honored prior to the start of the event.

Paul "Bear" Bryant of University of Alabama, the fourth all-time winningest college football coach with 231 victories, will serve as the Grand Marshal.

The Birmingham Street Road Association will have a parade of vintage automobiles during pre-race ceremonies There also will be a parade for visiting speedway pace cars and accessory cars.

The Winston 500, with 50 cars getting the green flag gets underway at 1:00 p.m. CDT. Pre-race festivities start at 11 a.m.

Personals from up and down Main

by Mildred White Wallace

Mrs. Purdon Murphy, Mrs. Jon Hornbuckle and David Hornbuckle of Gainsville, Fla.; were recent guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J.L. Elliott. Mrs. Elliott's daughter, Mrs. Don Weber, Mr. Weber, Blythe, Don Jr., and Phillip Webber are expected Friday to spend the weekend in Columbiana. The Webers now reside in Tallassee.

* * * *

Mrs. Leon B. Wallace has been called to Athens due to the illness of her daughter Mrs. Joel Glaze. Mrs. Glaze has many friends in Columbiana who are awaiting with keen personal interest news from the Huntsville hospital where she was admitted as a patient last Friday.

Versatile Ann Brasher (Mrs. Jack of Pelham) has recently been added to the secretarial staff and production department personnel of the Reporter. She is not only most efficient in her chosen career, she is good to look at and delightful to know.

Last Friday Ann came to work as usual -- and although her mind remained on the day's assignment -- her "heart interest" centered on the date -- April 19 -- which just happened to mark her 11th wedding anniversary.

A happy surprise, marking the occasion, awaited Mr. Brasher when he returned home after the work-a-day world ended in the form of a burnished gold ring featuring a tiger eye setting. A lovely memento of the "' till-death-do -us-part" occasion which occurred April 19, 1963.

Ann claims Arkansas as her native heath but Alabama has adopted her "for keeps."

Mr. and Mrs. William Rasco, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Rasco and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Blackerby all from Columbiana will leave for a trip to Spain this weekend.

* * * *

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dean and Mrs. Wade have returned from a delightful trip to Paris and European countries.

* * * *

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dean have purchased a home in Pelham and will move at an early date. Richard Dean, we are glad to learn will remain in Columbiana. He has an apartment in the home of Mrs. Agnes Armstrong.

Saturday, April 27, in Columbiana will be a day to remember filled with interesting activities.

The annual Horse Show will be in full production on the High School grounds; and Brenda Holcombe, in charge of the Art Show and sale of local artistic paintings which will be on display on the courthouse grounds Saturday all day cordially invites you to visit this initial Art show in Columbiana.

Independent artists from Talladega and Shelby County are pooling their efforts in this artistic and sizeable collection of beautiful oil paintings that will be shown.

Civitans preparing baseball field

The members of the Columbiana Civitan Club have been working vigorously for the past four weeks preparing the Little League Baseball field for this year's season- filled games. The first game is scheduled for Friday night.

Last year's tornado practically left the field in shambles. The Civitan Club with the help of local carpenters, individual contributions and materials from the City of Columbiana and local commercial firms have made possible the opening of the Little League Baseball Season.

Future Babe Ruths are winding up their willow sticks preparatory to hitting the horsehide pellet Friday night and they want you to be present.

Among some of our out of town friends who attended the meeting of Shelby County's Historic Society Sunday afternoon were Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hill, Mrs. Carolyn Oden Luttrell; Mrs. Sam H. Wallace, Mrs. Erin Harrell, Mrs. Lou Hoynes, Miss Dorothy Parker, Mrs. Dick McGraw and many others.

The topic holding prime interest at the present time centers around whether or not the old courthouse -- now being used as City Hall -- should be torn down or preserved under National funds available for this purpose. The town people are divided on this project. It is rumored that the Mayor and councilmen may put the final say-so up to the people of Columbiana..

Columbiana's business section continues to expand. A new lumber and building supply company with a full ine of hardware will soon be open for business. It will be known as Brown Lumber and Building Supply.

Although the date for the formal opening has not been released, the personnel in charge cordially invite their friends to come by and enjoy a cup of coffee with them. They include John Folmar, manager; Andy Brown, Horace Vansant, Fay Nix, and Jane Scott are his assistants.

BETH ANTHONY
. . . engaged to Marco Bonilla

Miss Beth Anthony to wed in May

The engagement of Miss Beth Anthony to Marco Bonilla, son of Mr. and Mrs. Julio Bonilla of Miami, is announced by her mother, Mrs. Frances Anthony. The bride-elect is a senior at University of Montevallo and employed part time at Vestavia High School.

Mr. Bonilla teaches at Chilton County High School in Clanton, and is doing graduate work at University of Alabama.

Miss Anthony is the granddaughter of Mrs. Glennie Nybeck and the late Mr. and Mrs. A.T. Anthony.

Mr. Bonilla's grandparents are Mrs. Esther Sapayo and the late Mr. Sapayo, Mrs. Esperanza Bonilla and the late Mr. Bonilla, formerly of Cuba.

The wedding will be on May 26 at Montevallo Presbyterian Church.

Farrs solemnize vows at Christian Chapel

The marriage of Mrs. Irma Wood and Emmett D. Farr was solemnized Saturday evening April 13 in the Christian Chapel with Rev. Ferman Richey and Rev. James Merrell officiating.

Mr. Farr is a retired businessman and Mrs. Farr was before her marriage associated as a sales clerk with Columbiana Drug Co.

Following a brief wedding trip they will make their home in the Kingdom Community.

Goodwill Week focuses on skills

by Mildred White Wallace

A handicapped body does not automatically signify a handicapped mind or a lack of will to work. However, for many years most people with physical disabilities were regarded as misfits and in some instances pushed from the Land of Opportunity where they might have proven their ability to hold a job and in this way a tragic waste of human potential has been lost. The Goodwill Industries are seeking to correct this unfortunate situation.

May I call your attention to the fact that National Goodwill Week will be commemorated May 5 through May 11 this year and attention is focused on the network of highly successful job training workshops and rehabilitation workshops that are scattered throughout the country.

This organization seeks donations of repairable clothing, appliances and furniture on which the handicapped can learn not only valuable skills while renovating these objects, but have an outlet through which they can earn money from their sale. National Goodwill Week is a good time and a good way to show -- in a material way -- that we care!

The Goodwill station in Columbiana is located on Green's Food Center parking area.

Scholarship awarded to Miss Ingram

The James I. Harrison Scholarship for 1974-75 Academic Year award of $300 has been given to Theresa Jan Ingram, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W.J. Ingram of Columbiana.

Miss Ingram has received a letter of congratulations from Dr. Kermit Johnson, President of University of Montevallo, informing her of this honor and Miss Ingram's many friends and former classmates at SCHS will want to join the writer in extending best wishes as she accepts this coveted award. Those of us who know Jan can truly verify the fact that the award is a merited recognition of her outstanding acholastic record.

Wilsonville girls win Bible tests

Three Wilsonville girls were winners in the Baptist church training meeting held at First Baptist Church in Center Point.

Janet Armstrong represented the Shelby Baptist Association in the speakers tournament and won first place with her speech entitled, "Love, Past, present, future."

Suzanne Carder won first place in the youth Bible drill and Martha Smith won first place in the explorers Bible drill.

All three will take part in future events to be held at Shocco Springs during the summer. They are members of the Wilsonville Baptist Church.

SHIRLEY ELIZABETH WALLACE
. . . engaged to Robert Lee Thornburg

Wallace-Thornburg wedding planned

Mr. and Mrs. Wales W. Wallace, Jr. of Columbiana announce the engagement of their daughter, Shirley Elizabeth to Robert Lee Thornburg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Thornburg of Shelby.

The bride elect is the granddaughter of Mrs. W.W. Wallace and the late Judge Wales W. Wallace, Sr., and Mrs. W.T. Taylor and the late W.T. Taylor of Birmingham. She is a graduate of University of Montevallo and is currently the physical education teacher at Columbiana Elementary School.

Mr. Thornburg is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. C.L. McDaniel and the late Mr. and Mrs. A.A. Thornburg. He is a graduate of University of Montevallo and is presently a senior in dental school at University of Alabama in Birmingham. He plans to return to Columbiana to practice dentistry with Dr. James G. Alston.

The wedding is planned for July 27 at Columbiana United Methodist Church.

Author ponders: What is a boy?

This morning's mail brings to my desk the following article titled: What Are Boys Made Of?

After a male baby outgrows long dresses and triangles and acquires pants, freckles, and so much dirt that relatives do not dare kiss him; he becomes a boy.

A boy is nature's answer to that false belief that there is no such thing as perpetual motion.

A boy is a grown animal of superlative promise, who can swim like a fish, run like a deer, climb like a squirrel, balk like a mule, bellow like a bull, eat like a pig -- or act like a jackass according to climatic conditons.

A boy -- if not washed too often and kept in a cool, quiet place after each accident, will survive broken bones, hornet stings, measles and nine helpings of pie.

A boy is a piece of skin stretched over an appetite; a noise covered with smudges.

A boy is the problem of our times and the hope of the world.

A boy born is evidence that God is not yet discouraged with man!

Ed Note: (I do not know the author of this article, but it struck me as having been penned by some Dad who evidently has had personal experiences with -- that wonderful creation known as a BOY!)

Medicaid ceiling raised by $48

The personal income ceiling for eligibility allowed nursing home and hospital patients under Medicaid has been increased by $48 a month, retroactive to April 1, according to Dr. Paul I. Robinson, director of the Medical Services Administration of the Alabama Department of Public Health.

The ceiling was raised from $210 a month to $258.

The eligibility of Medicaid patients in medical institutions will not be adversely affected by any increase in Social Security or Railroad Retirement benefits in 1974, even though these payments might raise personal income beyond the $258 ceiling.

The action was approved by Gov. George C. Wallace and the State Board of Health, upon the recommendation of the Medicaid- Welfare Committee.

Dr. Robinson also announced that, effective Oct. 1, Medicaid will pay 100 percent of the portion of nursing home bills for covered services that Medicaid recipients are not able to pay themselves.

Presently, Medicaid pays only 75 percent of that portion.

Masquers perform

The Masquers, a theatrical group from Samford University will appear at Comer School in Sylacauga Friday evening in their interpretation of "The Fantastiks" the far- famed musical which had a long run on Broadway and played for weeks at Dinner Theatre in Birmingham.

The curtain will rise at eight bells and a number of out of town guests are planning to be present. We recommend this attraction if you are looking for somewhere to go for an evening filled with good entertainment.

Samford A Capella Choir sings in Columbiana

The far-famed Samford University A Capella Choir, directed by Dr. L. Gene Black, will appear in concert at First Baptist Church in Columbiana on the evening of May 2, at 6:45.

This collegiate group has been acclaimed by many critics as one of the finest choral groups in America today.

The Samford Choir, has performed extensively throughout the United States. Their reputation was extended internationally some years ago when they made an eight-country European Tour and in the summer of 1970 when the choir was the only North American collegiate choral group represented at the Baptist World Alliance in Tokyo, Japan. A highlight of this tour came with a command performance at Expo 70's Christian Pavillion in Osaka for Prince Mikasa, brother of Japan's Emperor Hirohito. In 1973 their tour of Europe, which covered six countries, was highlighted with a performance on the High Altar of the Notre Dame Cathedral in Paris, France.

The Sanctuary Choir of Frist Baptist Church is sponsoring this outstanding event and extends a cordial invitation to everyone to attend this presentation.

The concert is free.

Garden club plants shrubs at park

The Montevallo Garden Club met on Wednesday morning. April 17, at the home of Mrs. M.L. Orr, Sr.

Due to the resignation of the president, Miss Vinnie Lee Walker, the vice president, Mrs. A.C. Anderson, presided over the business session.

Mrs. J.A. Brown, Jr., chairman of the roadside improvement committee, reported that shrubbery has been planted in the city park and is thriving.

In keeping with the theme for the year, 'Our Earth Heritage', Mrs. M. Thornton, presented a program on controlling plant insects, which evoked many questions and suggestions from the members as to how to maintain pest-free flowers and shrubs in all seasons.

Susan McEwen, Jan Cox elected to Auburn posts

Greens announce daughter's betrothal

The engagement of Melissa Ann Green, Montevallo to Jerry Lynn Lightsey of Bessemer, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Green.

Her grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. James L. Thomas of Cullman, and Mrs. Effie E. Green and the late Mr. Curtis C. Green of Sylacauga.

Mr. Lightsey's parents are Mr. and Mrs. James D. Lightsey of McCalla, and his grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Smitherman of Centreville and Mrs. Roberta Lightsey of Birmingham and the late Van Lightsey.

The wedding will be at the home of the bride elect in Montevallo, on June first.

After a wedding trip to Panama City, they will make their home in Bessemer.

T.E.S. plans sign-up

Thompson Elementary School will hold pre-school registration for children entering the first grade this fall on April 30 from 8:30 to 10:15.

An orientation program will be held for parents while their children visit the classrooms of their prospective teachers. The principal, Henderson Walker, reminds parents to bring the child's birth certificate with them to this registration.

Channells repeat vows at Alabaster

Miss Cheryl Denise Lawson and Ricky Wayne Channell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Channell exchanged marital vows at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, April 20 in First Baptist Church in Alabaster. Rev. Lecil Lawson, brother of the bride officiated.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Goy O. Lawson, was given in marriage by her father. Her empire styled floor length gown was fashioned of organza and chantilly lace. The tucked bodice had a high neckline and long lace sleeves with flaired cuffs. Chantilly lace edged her Chapel Mantilla and she carried a bridal arrangement of pink sweetheart roses and baby's breath centered with a white orchid.

Mrs. James Hyche was her sister's matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Debbie Loveless, Misses Shirley Lawson and Cathy Hutchison. All wore orchid lace gowns over taffeta, empire styled, with long sheer puffed sleeves. Each carried a purple orchid.

Sandy Hyche wore a miniature replica of the attendant's gowns and served as flower girl.

Mr. Channell was his son's best man. Ushers were Randall Channell, Ray Loveless and Joe Davidson.

A reception in the church parlors followed the ceremony. After a wedding trip to New Orleans, the couple will live in Houston, Texas where Mr. Channell is employed.

Popular books again in print

The Geological Survey of Alabama announced this week that it has reprinted two of its three Alabama natural science guidebooks for school-age children.

They are: "Rocks and Minerals of Alabama: A Guidebook for Alabama Rockhounds", "Water in Alabama", and "Curious Creatures in Alabama Rocks: A Guidebook for Amateur Fossil Collectors".

"Alabama's natural resources includes its bountiful water supply, great variety of minerals, and historically significant fossils," notes State Geologist Philip LaMoreaux, "and these resources are amply described in words and pictures in these publications."

A brief description of each of the guidebooks follow:

Water in Alabama by Assistant State Geologist of Alabama G.W. Swindel, Jr.; M.R. Williams; J.W. Geuren; revised by H.L. Baldwin:

The supply of Alabama water both in ground water, and streamflow is described with attention to water quality.

The use of water for farm, city, recreation, industry, and the generation of electrical power is a third of this report.

Final pages concern future demands on water, new sources, water laws, and how to achieve better water management.

Curious Creatures in Alabama Rocks by Charles W. Copeland, Jr., Geological Survey of Alabama:

Fossils lead us today to oil and gas as well as precious minerals. Equally important to all persons interested in earth history, they are a valuable key to animal history believed to have begun more than 600 million years ago on our planet.

This 45-page work includes a discussion of the principles of paleontology; the general character of the major invertebrate fossil groups; drawings of the more common Alabama invertebrates and a county by county list of collection sites.

Rocks and Minerals of Alabama by T.W. Daniel, T.L. Neathery, and T.A. Simpson, of the Geological Survey of Alabama Staff:

This publication is divided as follows -- a brief definition of rocks, minerals, and geologic processes; notes on how to plan a mineral collecting trip and a short summary of the basic field tests used to distinguish rocks and minerals.

The second part contains descriptions and locations of many rocks and minerals found in Alabama.

Single copies of the publications are available at a cost of $1. Address Publication Sales, Geological Survey of Alabama, P.O. Drawer 0, University, Alabama 35486.

Red Cross aids thousands

Red Cross relief efforts on behalf of thousands of North Alabama tornado victims may require expenditure of more than a half million dollars, according to a Red Cross volunteer leader.

Major items of Red Cross assistance now under way are providing food, clothing and maintenance, and medical and nursing care for storm sufferers, said Michael H. McDougald of Gadsden, Alabama Division chairman of volunteers.

"Governor George C. Wallace designated Red Cross the official relief agency for the State of Alabama after the tornadoes struck early this month," he said. "Red Cross will carry out this assignment, and calls on all concerned Alabamians for assistance in seeing that all human needs resulting from this terrible disaster, the worst since 1932, will be met."

Disaster Services Director Bob Arnwine said Red Cross chapters in the affected counties of the northern third of Alabama reported 949 persons injured, of whom 296 were hospitalized. A total of 1,499 dwellings and mobile homes were destroyed and 922 received major damage. Arnwine said 205 small businesses were destroyed or received major damage, and 1,022 farm buildings were destroyed or received major damage.

An estimated 1,678 families already have received assistance, primarily with food, clothing and maintenance, household furnishings and medical and nursing care.

"Red Cross provides medical and nursing care as required for all disaster victims who lack sufficient resources to receive the full treatment needed," emphasized McDouglad. "This is one of the most important services rendered. And all disaster assistance given by Red Cross is a gift of the American people, made without repayment being asked or expected."

Red Cross opened 22 shelters after the tornadoes struck April 3, providing mass care for an estimated 23,295 storm victims and disaster workers.

When he campaigned in 1970 Jere Beasley made a lot of promises to the people of Alabama,

He promised us more money for our schools.
He promised to set up a job-training program so workers could be trained for high-paying industrial jobs — to help attract good new industry to Alabama.
He promised increased benefits and security for working people.
He promised us improved outdoor recreation facilities and new revenues from tourism.
He promised legislation which would improve law enforcement and raise the salaries of law enforcement officers.
He promised us a system to keep public officials honest, so that misused money could be recovered for the people.
He promised us strong anti-pollution laws and the right to vote for 18 year olds.
He promised us no new taxes.

and he kept them all.

WATER PROGRESS IN PELHAM - - Dr. Walter B. Jones, right, retired state geologist, confers with John Hardin of the Pelham water and street committee, on the water potential of the city of Pelham. The concrete blocks in the background are meter covers, to be installed soon around the city.

Famed geologist plans Pelham well

by Marcia M. Sears

It was our good fortune to run into Dr. Walter B. Jones last Thursday when visiting the Pelham City Hall.

Dr. Jones is known throughout the nation, and indeed throughout the world for his work in geology. He retired a few years ago as State Geologist for the state of Alabama.

He was in Pelham studying the underground water supply for a private company, and also to lend assistance to the City of Pelham.

We conducted a brief running interview as he headed for his automobile and found that he can give out more information in five minutes than most people, including politicians, can give out in a half hour.

"Geologists love to talk and love to walk," he said, "and I still do a lot of both."

Jones said that his investigations in the Pelham area indicate that there is plenty of industrial water available there. Water that fills up quarries, and water from springs that is not suitable for general city use, can both be used for industrial purposes, he said.

He predicted that Pelham could draw many industries with the water supply it has.

He wants to be on hand when a new well in Pelham starts pumping, so he can study the water.

We could not resist asking him his opinion on sinkholes, which are a recurring Shelby County problem.

He said, "Wherever there's limestone, there are sinkholes. Let them alone. Don't try to fill them up. Build a bridge across them if you have to."

As a piece of advice to potential builders, he said, "I would not put up a building anywhere (in skinhole country) without first having foundation test drilling done."

He has not seen the giant sinkhole that opened up east of Montevallo a year and a half ago, but he says he knows of some that are bigger.

Dr. Jones still maintians an office at the University of Alabama, where he taught for many, many years. He says his office is in the same building where he had classes when he entered the University in 1914.

He and his wife now live in Huntsville "In a three story house that was built, as far as anyone can tell, in 1815. There's just room enough in that house for my wife and me, and a dog."

(We didn't go into detail with him on that - just presuming that a lifetime career as professor and geologist can fill up a house with books and mementoes - and in his case, awards and trophies.)

He asked if we had ever visited Moundville State Park. We were glad to reply in the affirmative, and glad to tell him the Reporter had featured Moundville recently as an interesting place for families to visit.

He said "Moundville was one of my projects."

He "begged and borrowed" money for years to establish the park and to exhibit the Indian relics in a proper setting, even mortgaging his own home three times to raise money for the project.

Dr. Jones will be back in Pelham when they call him about the new well. We hope to have another opportunity to tap his tremendous fount of knowledge.

Do you remember . . ?

Kidney computer helps save lives

Victims of severe kidney diseases generally have to wait long periods of time for a prospective donor before they can undergo a kidney transplant.

There are many factors to be considered -- kidney tissue of the donor and recipient must match, blood types must be compatible, and the recipient must be physically capable of undergoing the operation.

Surgeons at the Veterans Administration Hospital at the University of Alabama - Birmingham (UAB) Medical Center recently had such a problem, but in reverse -- kidneys were available, but could not be used.

A patient had died at Carraway Methodist Hospital, and his family wanted his life-giving kidneys were available, but could not be used.

A patient had died at Carraway Methodist Hospital, and his family wanted his life-giving kidneys donated to someone who needed them.

But finding suitable recipients in Birmingham for these particular kidneys was not an easy matter. The kidneys of prospective recipients did not match the donor kidneys. Surgeons sought recipients in Alabama, Tennessee, Mississippi, and Georgia.

None were available in Alabama or any of the surrounding states -- either the donated kidneys' tissue match was not good, suitable patients were sick, or an unusual blood type was involved.

Unable to find recipients, surgeons turned to the network of computers of the Southeastern Region Organ Procurement Program in hopes of finding someone who could benefit from a kidney transplant.

Finally, such a recipient was located at the Medical College of Virginia in Richmond.

But still another problem -- the kidneys had been removed at 8 p.m. and had to be in Richmond on a preservation machine within five hours.

No commercial flights were available within the time limitation, and surgeons then turned to the Alabama Air National Guard, which agreed to fly a "mercy mission" to Richmond.

The organs, packed in ice, were flown to Richmond by 10 p.m., where it was learned that the prospective recipient had antibodies against those of the donor and the kidneys could not be used there.

Again, doctors turned to the computers and found another possible recipient in Georgetown University Medical Center in Washington, D.C.

Using a preservation machine, the organs were placed aboard a truck which had special generators to keep the machine operative. They were transported to Washington that evening, and one was successfully transplanted into a patient the following day.

Dr. William A. Sterling, assistant professor of surgery at the UAB Medical Center, and chief of surgery at the VA Hospital, said UAB is one of 17 institutions in eight states which provide data on kidney patients to the metwork of computers.

"While we were able to provide organs for the Washington transplant," he said, "perhaps in the future we will receive donor kidneys that may help someone in Birmingham."

He explained that once a recipient is located, it is "our responsibility to get the ograns to the patient."

150 YEARS AT FOUR MILE -- Gathered in front of the newly rebuilt Four Mile Baptist church are Rev. Don Graves, pastor; Kelley Stone, chairman of furnishings committee; Billy Whitten, chairman of building committee and Irvin Stone, chairman of survey and planning committee.

Four Mile re-dedicates

Members and friends of the Fourmile Baptist Church are looking forward to observing the week of April 26 through May 4 and giving grateful recognition for the completion of their church building. They have set aside April 28 for a dedication service which will be held at 2 p.m. led by Dr. John Duncan, Superintendent of Missions for Shelby Baptists.

An Open House celebration will follow.

Each night during this week of celebration a former pastor of this historic church or a man called to preach, while a member of the Fourmile Church, will be guest speaker. These impressive services will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Sunday, April 28, at both morning and evening hours of worship, Rev. Joe Stone will preach; Monday, Rev. Bob Pruitt; Tuesday, Rev. Harvey Matthews; Wednesday, Rev. Elvin Liveoak; Thursday, Rev. Kelly Johnston; Friday, Rev. Hubert Thomas Stone.

Saturday, May 4, will climax the week of special services with a Homecoming event and the observance of the 150th anniversary of the church beginning at 10:30 a.m. concluding with dinner on the ground. Rev. L.E. Kelley, the oldest living former pastor, will bring the anniversary message.

Rev. Don Graves, pastor of the church expresses his gratitude for the assistance churches and individuals have extended him in rebuilding the church.

Jessie Atchison dies April 15

Funeral services were conducted from Bolton Brown Service Chapel at four o'clock April 18 for Mrs. Jessie Lee Atchison, a former resident of Columbiana who died in Montgomery April 15. Rev. E. Hall of Montgomery officiated.

Mrs. Atchison resided in Columbiana for many years before moving to Montgomery and her many friends here will regret to learn of her death. She is a former member of First Baptist Church.

Survivors include one son, Dr. Ray Atchison of Birmingham; and one daughter, Mrs. Otis Williams of Florida.

Vote For Bill Shaw

Commissioner for District 4

To my many friends in Shelby County:

If I had to choose a platform or something to talk to you about, this would not be a problem for me because I stay excited about God and Country and especially my community. After much deliberation, I have decided I would like the opportunity to serve my many friends as Commissioner of District 4 in Shelby County. Let me make it plain in the beginning, I am not running against anyone, but I take great pride in running for this office.

If I were required to list my qualifications for this office, I would not try. To me the qualifications of anyone in public office is that he be a servant of the people; therefore, all I can promise or will promise to anyone is honesty, integrity, loyalty and dedication to the office and people of Shelby County.

I am 47 years old, born in the log house adjoining my farm, moved to Birmingham and was in business there for myself for 27 years. Four (4) years ago my wife and I wanted to move home and live in the County we love, so we did this. We have two daughters, Wanda and Anita. Wanda married Dale Layton and they have two children, Dale II and Shawn. Anita married Eddie Scheinert and they have a little girl named Heather. We are members of the Union United Methodist Church and I teach the Young Adult Sunday School Class. I graduated from Vincent High School in 1944 and went into the army and served two years in the Phillipines and Korea. The best years of my life have been spent in singing with my brothers in the Keymasters Quartet. Presently I am singing with the Peacemakers Quartet. Gospel singing has been a big part of my Christian life.

Politics come a little natural for me as my late Grandfather Shaw was Commissioner in this District many years ago. So needless to say, all of my life I have dreamed of serving the people of Shelby County and serve the people of Shelby County, I will, if given this opportunity. If elected to this office, I promise you the complete cooperation and representation of all the districts of Shelby County.

As mentioned above, I have been in business for myself for the past 27 years and have knowledge of heavy equipment and the operations of a big business. I feel that my past experience will enable me to help with the business management of this County and this is what your Commissioners decide. Shelby County is growing and you need experienced business men in the office of the Shelby County Commission.

I suggest you study each candidate and decide for yourself who you wish to represent you as Commissioner for District 4 for the next four years. This position is not to be taken lightly, but entered into with much thought and sincerity and this I have done.

Trip to Funny Farm will cure blahs

by Elsie Archer Jones

When the group of men from Union United Methodist Church returned from the retreat to Funny Farm and told me of the wonderful experiences they had there on the previous week-end, I was so impressed that I was on the telephone to find out more details about this place which could inspire these men so much. It was only a few moments later when my call was returned by Mr. Mack Casey, director of the Funny Farm.

Naturally, the first question which I asked him was, "Why is it called 'Funny Farm'"? His answer was that soon after this property was acquired by the present owner, Mr. John R. Saunders, several groups from Mr. Saunder's church, Briarwood Presbyterian, in Birmingham, would visit the area, and all of the children would call it "The Fun Farm". It was surely a place which appealed to all children who had never been accustomed to going to such a beautiful place. Mr. Saunders gradually added all the facilities which would appeal to not only the children, but to entire families.

HONK, HONK - - If the water's fine for the goose, it is for the gander. The duck pond is inhabited by these geese, as well as mallards and other ducks. The pond is separated from the 50-acre lake, which is full stocked with fish.

LOONEY LODGE - - The lodge, with an over night capacity of 62, has a large conference room as well. The rustic exterior is fronted by the lake, where visitors swim, ski, and ride in boats. The lodge is built in such a way as to avoid trees, with steps built around a young pine.

HAPPY HOUSE - - The interior of Happy House is filled with posters, antiques, and bric-a-brac. Wicker chairs, cigar store Indians, and mounted game trophies add to its fun atmosphere .

Photos by Willard Harrison

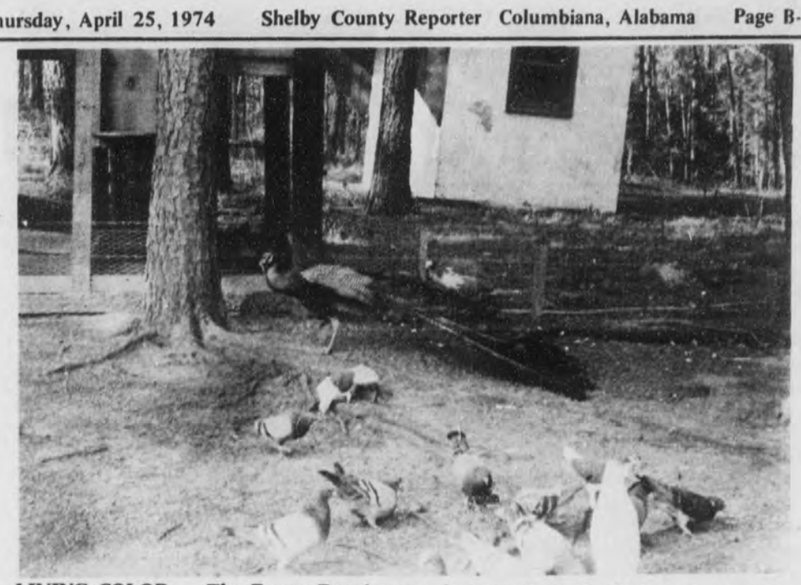
The facilities offer such entertainments as swimiming, boating, fishing, horseback riding through 50 acres of wooded trails, and various sports such as volley ball, soft ball, football, archery, basketball, and table tennis.

The first camp was opened on June 15, 1973, and the next day a new lodge was completed. Now, there is Looney Lodge, which has an overnight capacity of 62, and the Happy House, which can accommodate 16. Both buildings are modernly furnished with central heating and cooling systems, and burning fireplaces. There is a large dining hall which also serves as an auditorium, and several conference rooms.

Three full-time employees take care of the Funny Farm - - Mr. Leonard Winstid, caretaker, Mrs. Nell Winstid, food- service supervisor and hostess, and Mr. Mack Casey, director.

The retreat is non-denominational and non-sectarian, as I understand it. The visitors are not limited to just the immediate surroundings, but groups from aother states visit it, also. The only requirement is that you are seeking a group retreat and wish to surround yourself with the natural beauty which you will find here where every effort is to maintain a place in all its natural beauty. I was told that on one or two occasions some building plans had to be changed to spare a tree or two. Nestled here, at the foot of "Tater Hill", near Sterrett, you will find that you may travel up Mulch Gulch Lane, Ceasin' Leasing Boulevard, I Quit Expressway, Privy Pass, Pill Hill, Bob Cat Row, and City Dump walking paths and trails.

In the Fowl Haven, you will find many birds, such as peacocks, pigeons, chickens, rabbits, guineas, and wild ducks. Mr. Casey says that their plans are to include more birds and animals as the place expands. (You see, Mr. Saunders had made plans for only about 40 acres for a farm, with a 5- or 10-acre lake or lake-sites). When his father-in-law, Mr. Fred Cobb, was instructed to find such a farm, he returned with a 180 acre farm with a 50 acre lake. Their present plans are to extend the facilities to include the entire area.



The facilities are open to church groups, or family membership clubs for individual use. The prices are set so that the particular group which is accommodated can afford to pay.

Building Funny Farm has not been just one great successful adventure for Mr. Saunders, for he was a "city boy" who had gone to the country. He soon found himself obsessed with a series of setbacks such as the lake dam splitting the very first week, the original farm house starting to fall down, and a fire on July 4 during a fireworks display.

With all these and other minor setbacks, Mr. Saunder's friends gibed him that he might end up in a "real" funny farm, but he only let these adventures lead him to the very appropriate name for his place. So that now, a visit to the Funny Farm is just one of the nicest things which a church group or family could retreat to.

To reach Funny Farm, one travels Highway 25 to Sterrett's postoffice where you turn left on the hard-surface road and travel South for about 1.2 miles; turn left onto a dirt road and proceed South about three miles. You will run smack into Funny Farm. There is no way to go around it!

LIVING COLOR - - The Funny Farm's peacock struts about the fowl yard among his neighbors the peigons. Guineas, chickens, and several pigeon breeds join them in Funny Farm Fowl Forum.

LEGAL NOTICE
TOWN OF CALERA
PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS, in order to better control the spread of rabies and to determine which dogs in the Town of Calera and police jurisdiction thereof are stray, homeless, or wild dogs, and,

WHEREAS, in the Code of Ordinances of the Town of Calera as per Chaspter 9, Section 10, I deem it necessary to safeguard the public from the dangers of hydrophabia:

NOW, THEREFORD, I, George W. Roy, Mayor of the Town of Calera, Alabama, do hereby Proclaim the month of May to be "DOG DETENTION PERIOD" in the Town of Calera, and the Police Jurisdiction thereof. During the detention period every person owning or keeping a dog shall confine it securely on his premises, and any dog found running at large shall be seized and impounded, unless noticeably infected with rabies. All dogs so noticeably infected with rabies and displaying vicious propensities shall be killed by the Police Chief without notice to the owner. Dogs impounded during the period of such proclamation, if claimed within six (6) days, may be released to the owner unless infected with rabies, upon payment of the impounding charges provided for in Section 9-6, and meeting the other requirements of Section 9-6. If unclaimed after that period, such dog may be summarily destroyed.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Seal of the Town of Calera to be affixed.

LEGAL NOTICE
Notice of Publication of Bill Filed and Proceeding in Rem to Quiet Title of Real State
IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF SHELBY COUNTY, ALABAMA, CASE NO. 256-74.
Clarice White Luck, Ruth Luck Gordon and Harris M. Gordon, Plaintiffs,
vs.
Certain land and Ruby Zuiderhoek, et als,
Defendants.

TO: The following described land: The N½ of the NE¼ of Section 12, Township 21 Range 3 West, Shelby County, Alabama; Ruby Zuiderhoek, Claude Massey, Bertha Massey, Taft Bishop, Willie Mae Bishop, James Alexander, Lola Alexander, R.E. Bowdon, Jr., Samuel F. Bowdon, Lucy B. Cone, Kate B. Gunn, Robert Edward Lyman, K.E. Fulton, Cheney Lime and Cement Company, a corporation; and the following named persons, or, if deceased, their heirs or devisees; Lee Byers, Charles E. Essman, I.K. Brinkerhoff, W.E. Brinkerhoff, C.B. Brown, W.M. Richards, W.P. Bowdon, T.J. Cross and Mary Frances Carden and all parties who, unknown to plaintiffs, claim an interest in or to the above described property.

Take notice that Clarice White Luck, Ruth Luck Gordon and Harris M. Gordon have this day filed their verified Complaint in said Court against the above named defendants and against any and all persons claiming any title to, interest in, encumbrance upon the above described real estate or any part thereof or interest therein, and against all other persons, and against said lands for the purpose of establishing the title of said lands in the said Clarice White Luck, Ruth Luck Gordon and Harris M. Gordon and to clear up all doubts and disputes concerning the same and that said suit is now pending in said Court.

Plaintiffs allege in said complaint that the title to said lands stands in the name of the plaintiffs on the records in the office of the Judge of probate of Shelby County, Alabama, and said complaint further alleges that plaintiffs claim title to said lands through and by virtue of deeds dated February 28, 1928 recorded in Deed Book 85, Page 558 and Deed Book 85, Page 560, and deed dated May 1, 1951 recorded in Deed Book 144, Page 247, and by deed dated April 29, 1960, recorded in Deed Book 218, Page 199, and by deed dated February 15, 1952, recorded in Deed Book 151, Page 233, all in the Probate Office of Shelby County, Alabama and through the Will of Paul O. Luck, duly probated in the Probate Office of Shelby County, Alabama; that during the time of plaintiffs ownership, they have been in actual, peaceable, adverse possession of said lands claiming to own the same, and that title to said lands has stood in plaintiffs' names on the records in the Office of the Judge of Probate of Shelby County, Alabama, for more than ten years prior to this date. The plaintiffs and their predecessors in title have assessed said real estate in the Office of the Tax Assessor of Shelby County, Alabama, and paid the taxes on said real estate for each year; and that no one else has paid the taxes on said real estate for said period of time except the plaintiffs and their predecessors in title and that no one has been in possession of said lands or any part thereof since 1928, except the plaintiffs and their predecessors in title.

Plaintiffs further allege in said complaint that after making diligent search and inquiry, plaintiffs' only information of the above defendants is:

That the following defendants are over the age of twenty-one years, are of sound mind and are residents of the State of Alabama; said defendants' names and addresses are as follows: Ruby Zuiderhoek, Siluria, Alabama 35144; Claude Massey, Siluria, Alabama; Bertha Massey, Siluria, Alabama; Taft Bishop, Siluria, Alabama; Willie Mae Bishop, Siluria, Alabama; James Alexander, Alabaster, Alabama; Lola Alexander, Alabaster, Alabama; R.E. Bowdon, Jr., P.O. Box 97, Calera, Alabama 35040; Samuel F. Bowdon, 3517 8th Avenue South, Birmingham, Alabama 35222; and K.E. Fulton, Rt. 1, Box 1338, Alabaster, Alabama 35007;

That the following named defendants are over the age of twenty-one years, are of sound mind and are non-residents of the State of Alabama; said defendants' names and addresses are as follows: Lucy B. Cone, 8311 40th Ave. North, St. Petersburg, Florida 33709; Kate B. Gunn, 2940 Huntleigh Drive, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma 73120; and Robert Edward Lyman, 313 Seven Oak Drive, Concord, Tennessee 37720;

That defendant, Cheney Lime and Cement Company is a corporation, its adress being Allgood, Alabama 35013;

That plaintiffs after most reasonable and diligent search and inquiry were unable to locate the following named persons to determine whether or not they are living or dead, and if living, what their ages and addresses are at the present time, and if deceased, the names, ages and addresses of their heirs or devisees, and that the same are unknown to the plaintiffs, said persons being as follows: Lee Byers, Charles E. Essman, I.K. Brinkerhoff, W.E. Brinkerhoff, C.B. Brown, W.M. Richards, W.P. Bowdon, T.J. Cross and Mary Frances Carden, and the names, ages and addresses of any other parties who, unknown to plaintiffs, may claim an interest in or to the above described property, are unknown.

Maylene moving ahead

Kathleen Johnson would like to see a new post office in her favorite town, Maylene. Mrs. Johnson is postmaster at Maylene and gives the definite impression that she is a very efficient postmaster who also has the best interests of her many postal customers at heart.

The Reporter stopped by for a chat with her one day last week. Every Thursday, a great many Reporters go through the Maylene post office to our subscribers and very seldom does one go astray.

We talked about how the number of residents along the Maylene route has grown. The route has always covered an extensive territory; from Ryan's Crossing north along the Helena- Bessemer road to the county line, and every home west of that line.

Now there are many apartment units and new subdivisions that are served by the Maylene route.

Mrs. Johnson is happy with the work area of the post office, saying that she has better facilities than some post offices do, but she would really like to see improvements made to the front of the building and to the customer and boxholder areas. We agree that the gray shingle covered building does not live up to the new Maylene. We hope she is successful in her effort to get postal authorities moving on progress at the Maylene post office.

'Americanism' pushed at Chelsea

To emphasize and bring to points on the way home, the purpose of these, and said that each stopping point was a little better than the one before--because he was getting closer to home and to family. In closing, he told the Chelsea students that he hoped they would never be without their country and go through the experiences that he had as a POW.
